SALT INTRUSION ENDANGERS CITY'S WELLS

Seal Beach Fears Rationing in Water Crisis

Imminence of a possibly disastrous water shortage in Seal Beach was revealed Saturday by Mayor Norma Gibbs.

Engineers have told city officials that salt water intrusion--which has already wiped out one of the city's three wells—could render the other two, and a fourth emergency well now being drilled, worthless.

That would leave the city with no water supply.

Jittery officials have placed a $750,000 bond issue on the ballot for approval in Tuesday's municipal election. "If the bond issue doesn't pass," Mayor Gibbs said, "the city may be in for water rationing."

Money raised by the bonds would provide a link to Metropolitan Water District lines and a two-million-gallon reservoir.

In the past, Seal Beach has relied on Long Beach for emergency water supplies. But, Mayor Gibbs said, increased water needs in Long Beach have forced that city to terminate the agreement effective this June.

That would leave Seal Beach with no emergency supply should the wells fail.

Southern California's 12-year-old drought has lowered water tables below the critical point and has caused creation of Water Replinishment Districts in an effort to pump Colorado River water into the underground to prevent intrusion of salt water along strata normally filled with fresh water.

Wells right along the coast, however, have not been saved by the replenishment program and in several coastal areas the water wells have been ruined by salt water flowing into them.

"We have been informed that salt water intrusion into our wells is right at hand," Mayor Gibbs said. "It could happen tomorrow or next year. The engineers can't pinpoint the exact time."

The bond issues requires a two-thirds majority to pass and that is what admittedly worries city officials. The entire city council, the Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups have endorsed the bond issue.

If the issue is approved, Mayor Gibbs said, the pipeline hookup would be hoped for in a year. Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Westminster are expected to join with Seal Beach in extending the link to the MWD line.

Mayor Gibbs described the installation of the pipeline as "a race against time."

"The bond issue simply must pass this time if we are to avoid serious trouble," she said.

Water rationing, she said, could be in varying degrees. At its easiest—if not all the wells are eliminated—it could mean simple restrictions on the watering of lawns and garden plants.

Should the shortage become more acute, she said, it could mean a prohibition on the use of automatic washers, dishwashers, showers and other major water outlets in the homes.

Rebel Camel Arrives

ROBERTA E. LEE PEERS QUEASILY AT LONG BEACH HARBOR

By ED KENYON

Roberta E. Lee — six feet from hoofs to hump — was getting her land legs again today after a three-week sea voyage en route from Victoria, Australia, to Victoria, Texas.

Roberta, a two-year-old camel, is the gift of the Lord Mayor of Melbourne, Victoria, to the school children of Victoria, Texas.

She'll be the central figure of a Civil War Centennial celebration in the Texas city.

In case the connection of a camel with the Civil War seems remote, the Texans have an explanation.

It seems that Gen. Robert E. Lee (you see the connection?) made use of camels imported from Egypt before the Civil War as supply carriers in some of the warmer areas of the country during the War Between the States.

James T. Carter, publisher of the Victoria Advocate, arranged for the shipment of the camel to this country. Costs already are more than $10,000.

Roberta was shipped by air from Melbourne to Brisbane, where she and her enclosed pen were loaded aboard the freighter SS Sonoma.

The Sonoma and Roberta both arrived Saturday morning at the Matson Terminal in Wilmington.

Roberta never lost her appetite for alfalfa during the ocean trip, according to Henry Porteous, one of the seamen who served as

McNamara Blasts Ike's B70 Effort

Program Called 'Worst Managed' by Defense Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was represented Saturday as feeling the B70 supersonic bomber program under the Eisenhower administration was "one of the worst managed programs he ever saw."

That opinion was relayed to a House appropriations subcommittee by Dr. Harold Brown, research director for the department. Brown's testimony, given last month, was made public Saturday.

BROWN SAID that before McNamara took over there was considerable waste in the program, on which about $1 billion has been spent so far. Brown was asked by the committee why the cost was so high.

"Part of the problem is poor management of the program," he said. "The secretary of defense, a much better management expert than I, said it was one of the worst managed programs he ever saw until last March (1961) when he reoriented it."

The project has been renamed the RS70, under a reconnaissance-strike concept which will require new radar and other equipment.

McNamara resisted pressure from chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., and the House Armed Services Committee to speed up work on the new version. But he promised a new study of its feasibility and of the wisdom of spending extra money authorized by the House and approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee for the project.

County Will Begin Renovating Work at Hospital July 1

Remodeling of the old Seaside Hospital to convert it into a 325-bed chronic-illness facility is expected to begin July 1.

Neil McLaughlin, hospital administrator, said final plans for a $354,000 renovation project are slated to go to the Board of Supervisors for approval within a few weeks.

If plans are approved on schedule, contractors should be able to start work by July 1, McLaughlin said.

The hospital, now known as Long Beach El Cerrito Hospital, has been vacant since Seaside reopened as Memorial Hospital of Long Beach at a new location in June 1960. When it reopens, it will operate under the County Department of Charities.

McLaughlin said the new target date for initial occupancy of the hospital is May 1, 1963.

Contractors will need nine months to complete renovation, he said.

"We'll open the hospital gradually, opening up new wards every few weeks," McLaughlin said.

* * * *

AT LEAST 200 patients will be transferred to El Cerrito from Rancho Los Amigos, the administrator said. Rancho is planning to close down the temporary wards in which these patients now are housed.

To make ready for contractors, county workmen have been removing obsolete equipment and unused utilities from the hospital building at 1401 Chestnut Ave. the past few months.

Also, the exterior of the building has been repainted. The new color is pink.

JFK Calls for Inquiry on Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law Saturday in an effort to end a three-week maritime strike that has caused growing shortages of food and other necessities in Hawaii.

The President stepped in after two days of intensive mediation efforts by a three-man government panel had failed to forge a settlement.

Kennedy signed an executive order creating a board of inquiry to examine the dispute. When the board reports, Kennedy may request Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to seek an injunction, requiring an 80-day cooling-off period.

* * * *

IN HIS executive order the President said the strike is affecting a substantial part of the maritime industry and that if it is permitted to continue the national health and safety will be imperiled.

Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii had made several appeals to the White House for direct intervention. He has declared a food emergency in his island state.

This was the second time since taking office that Kennedy had used Taft-Hartley machinery. Last July an injunction was obtained under the law halting an East Coast maritime strike.

GOP Youth Row Boils Up Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bitter controversy between Nixon and Shell supporters split the California Young Republican College Federation's annual meeting Saturday.

A conservative group of students backing Assemblyman Joseph Shell threatened to leave the convention and hold its own meeting.

* * * *

THE TWO groups, whose melee Friday night brought police out, bickered again Saturday but maintained order.

Shell backers contended the federation's liberal wing supporting former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, had packed the credentials committee and refused to recognize pro-Shell delegates.

Miss Merrily Lamont, 18, of Cal Poly at Pomona, ejected from the meeting Friday night, again was refused recognition Saturday and escorted from the credentials committee meeting.

Plane Falls; 31 on Board

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) —A Colombian air force plane with 31 persons aboard has crashed in mountains on a flight from a remote penal colony, it was announced Saturday. All aboard were feared dead.

Wreckage of the American-built C-47 plane was sighted near the El Nevado peak. There were no signs of life, officials said.

The plane had been missing since Friday, when it left the Araracura penal colony in the jungles of southeastern Colombia for a flight to Bogota.

2 Fliers Killed at Fullerton

FULLERTON (CNS) — A flying instructor and a young student were killed Saturday in a fiery crash of their light plane about 45 minutes after they took off from Fullerton Airport.

Fullerton police said the two-seat Piper Colt crashed and burst into flames behind the Hughes Aircraft Co. plant near Gilbert and Malvern Avenues.

One victim was identified as Robert J. Borger, 26, of 6172 Bellgrave Ave., Garden Grove. The other tentatively was identified as Paul Edward La Plant, 19, of 11401 Gardenaire Lane, Garden Grove.

Bomber Trip Like Real Thing for the L.B. Air Force Unit

By SHERM WILLIAMS

The terse chalked message on the command post blackboard in Long Beach's 8646 Recovery Group command post told the story:

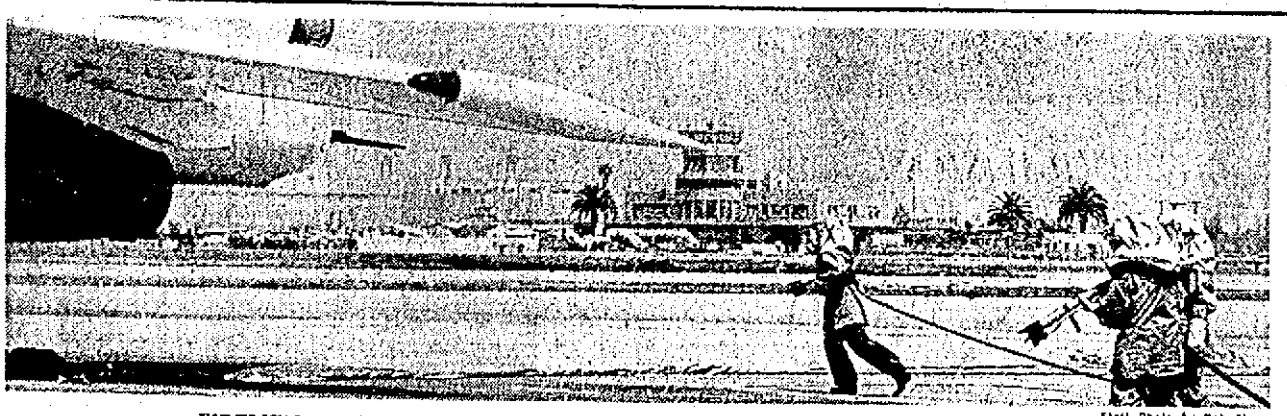

"One B47E expected inbound, dest. L.B.M.A., ETA, 12:30 local. Condition of aircraft and crew unknown. Aircraft slight contamination."

To the men in the Recovery Group, an Air Force Reserve Unit, it was the next thing to war. For the men in the B47 — a silver flash in the sky—the landing in Long Beach during Saturday's lunch hour was a key to survival.

The logic is frighteningly simple:

If the United States and Russia go to war, each nation will try to kill the other as rapidly as possible. Each nation will hurl its arsenal of ballistic missiles and manned

FIREMEN RUSH TO 'DECONTAMINATE' AIR FORCE B47 AT LONG BEACH AIRPORT

L.A.C. Says:
Nixon's Error

Democratic opponents—Republican opponent Joe Shell and Alger Hiss—are all pleased over an error in Nixon's book, "Six Crises." The error was the statement that the FBI had the typewriter which convicted Hiss. Actually, the testimony by the FBI in the 1948 trial was that it had been established that letters written by Mrs. Hiss were typed on the same typewriter as were some of the secret State Department documents which had been turned over to a Communist agent by Hiss.

The error in Nixon's book had nothing to do with the testimony that convicted Hiss. It was an error to say the typewriter was in the hands of the FBI when the evidence was based on comparisons of letters and documents typed on the same typewriter. The correction is being made in the next edition of the book. But we doubt this error in detail justifies the clamour it has caused. Attorney General Robert Kennedy has the past week stated a review of all the evidence fails to support Hiss in his claim of innocence.

If this is the only serious error his opponents can find in the 460-page book, it is quite a record for accuracy. It covers 14 years of the widest public experiences of any man in public life today. It is natural many people disagree with many of Nixon's actions. The Hiss case is one that does great credit to Nixon. But it also brought him implacable enemies who will never forget the part he took in that case.

Esquire magazine tells how Nixon isolated himself for nine days at Apple Valley where he dictated the entire book. It was then turned over to a research team to check it for errors. It was an example of concentration few professional writers could match. It gives a view of government and some of the great crises of the past 14 years which are historical, as well as informative. It is becoming one of the best sellers, if not the best seller, in the nation.

It might be rewarding if the background of his opponents were as frankly told to the nation. But few of them have ever had the experiences to make an interesting book. Also, many of them could not afford to bare their thoughts and experiences to the whole nation.

The attacks on Nixon have been severe throughout his political career. But a man who has taken so vital a part in government must expect such attacks. The remarkable fact is that with all the evidence that has been brought to bear on his career he received only a fraction of a per cent less votes than did his opponent in 1960—and carried his own state, which has a 60 per cent Democratic registration.

So many of the attacks have been made without evidence damaging to Nixon—it is probable the large majority of the people have tired of reading them. Every experienced politician knows there is a point where extremism starts working to the benefit of the person attacked. There is good reason to believe Nixon has reached that point. His opponents will need much more conclusive evidence of his weakness or unfitness for office if they are to accomplish their purposes of eliminating him as a public figure. The attacks on the Hiss case have brought about some strange bedfellows.—L.A.C.

Radioactivity Imperils Four at Hanford

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Four men were hospitalized Saturday after a sudden release of radioactivity in the processing of water-like waste material at the nearby Hanford Atomic Works.

The hospital said the men ate hearty dinners and showed no adverse reaction.

H. W. Lindberg, a personnel officer for General Electric Co., said they probably would be held for observation at least over the weekend.

Milt Cydell, information chief for the Atomic Energy Commission at Hanford, said the men's condition was "nothing to be worried about."

General Electric operates the plant as a contractor for the AEC.

Lindberg described what happened as a "criticality incident." He said this means an overconcentration of fissionable material, resulting in a sudden excessive release of radioactivity.

THE BURST of radioactivity occurred in a facility which was processing aqueous waste from the production of plutonium. The critical mass of fissionable material was confined to one tank.

About 20 men were evacuated as a precautionary measure from the plutonium metallurgical building, in which the accident occurred. There apparently was no damage to equipment.

The hospitalized men were identified as Harold Aardel, F. R. Lohedinck, J. R. Williamson and Glenn Thoenness, all of Richland.

Artery Slashed by Lawn Edger

An Anaheim man was in critical condition Saturday night in Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, after being struck in the neck by the flying blade of a home-made lawn edger he was operating.

Hospital officials said Harry Eugene Billyard, 35, of 1903 W. Cris St., suffered a severed artery. He was given more than 15 pints of blood, they reported.

BUT HOW DID THEY GET THERE?

Jail Has Problem: Minnows on Roof

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Jackson police couldn't explain Saturday how the police station's flat top roof became a home for scores of minnows—some three inches long.

Two inches of rain fell on the city Thursday night and police found the minnows swimming on their rooftop the next day.

Detectives said they didn't know how the minnows got on top the three-story building. Jailer Walter Miller said he was certain no one had been on the roof to put them there.

Bill Turcotte of the State Game and Fish Commission offered a theory.

He noticed that a drainpipe runs from the roof to a sewer. Possibly the pipe became flooded during the heavy rain and the minnows swam up it from the sewer, he said.

"I just don't believe it," Miller said. "That's three stories high."

Berlin Tension Ease Aids Policy Planning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some slight easing of tension over Berlin encouraged U.S. officials Saturday in plans for further probing of Soviet policy on the future of the Berlin dispute.

Top policy makers are extremely guarded in their hope of finding ways to improve U.S. — Soviet relations — because no step taken by the Soviets so far has involved any real concessions or any pledge as to the future.

INDEED, not only are Washington authorities baffled about what course the Communists will follow but there is some belief here that the comrades themselves may not be sure.

This uncertainty has produced a feeling among some well-informed officials that U.S.-Soviet relations may well be destined for dramatic developments in the next few weeks.

President Kennedy surveyed the Berlin situation in a meeting with policy advisers at the White House Saturday. The group reportedly included Ambassador Llewellwn Thompson, Soviet affairs expert Charles E. Bohlen, and McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's staff assistant on foreign policy matters.

'Drum Out' Probe Set by Marines

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The bone-chilling ceremony of "drumming out" disgraced Marines from the corps, revived by a Norfolk commander, has been ordered halted by the Marine Corps commandant.

The commandant, Gen. David M. Shoup, Saturday said he had ordered an inspector general's investigation of the circumstances.

"The local commander neither asked for nor was given authorization for the ceremony," Gen. Shoup said.

The local commander is Col. William C. Capehart, 47-year-old Norfolk native.

A MARINE drummed out of the service officially already has received a bad conduct discharge.

But he is marched by armed guard before a formation of troops to the accompaniment of the "death march"—a slow roll of military drums. His bad conduct discharge orders are read aloud. Then an officer of the guard commands: "Escort this man from the confines of this United States Navy reservation."

The ex-Marine is marched down the line of troops and as he reaches each unit, the commander orders "about face" and the passing Marine is presented with a row of unyielding backs.

This grim ceremony has been conducted at the Marine barracks here at least seven times since Col. Capehart took command in August 1960.

Lakewood Holds Election Tuesday

A light vote is forecast for Lakewood's councilmanic election Tuesday when voters will choose two of eight candidates for four-year terms.

The terms of Councilmen Angelo M. Iacoboni and Gene Nebeker are expiring. Both seek re-election.

Also seeking election to the Council are six challengers, two women and four men. They are Margaret (Meg) deCannis, Nora Mae Guthrie, Charles E. Haynes, Salvatore Occhipinti, David Stricker Jr. and Robert T. Tully.

No other issues are to be decided at the election.

* * * *

BOTH IACOBONI and Nebeker were elected to the council in 1954 when the city was incorporated. They won re-election in 1958.

The other three members of the council—also elected originally in 1954 and re-elected two years ago—are Mayor George Nye Jr., Vice Mayor William Burns and Councilman Robert Baker.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday in 126 precincts. The city has 29,575 eligible voters.

A LIGHT turnout is predicted by City Clerk Jo Bennitt in view of the record of past elections and a comparison of campaign tempos.

Election returns will be tabulated Tuesday night as precinct reports filter into City Hall.

6 L.A. Area Marines Hurt in Explosion

CAMP PENDLETON (CNS) —Six Los Angeles area Marine reservists were injured, one seriously, when a 105mm howitzer misfired and exploded at Camp Pendleton late Saturday.

Marine Corps officials said the reservists, members of the 8th 105mm Howitzer Battalion of Los Angeles, were engaged in gunnery training near the Camp Las Pulgas section of the base when their weapon misfired and shattered into hundreds of pieces.

Pfc. H. R. Nunez, 24, El Monte, suffered a perforated ear drum in the mishap.

* * * *

HE WAS admitted to the Camp Las Pulgas dispensary.

The others were released following treatment at the dispensary.

They were identfied by the Marine Corps only as Lance Cpl. D. L. Woodbury, 23, and Pfcs. J. B. Soper, 22; R. M. Sakoda, 24; P. W. Hughes, 21, and D. J. Gomez, 23.

Officials said a piece of shrapnel was hurled into Woodbury's shoulder. Doctors, however, managed to remove it without surgery.

* * * *

THE OTHERS suffered mild concussions. Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Officials said an investigation was underway to determine whether the malfunction was caused by an error on the part of the crew or by a deficiency in the gun.

The reservists were spending the weekend at Camp Pendleton for gunnery training.

BURTON AND WIFE

Actor Richard Burton and wife, Sybil, leave Paris hotel Saturday night for dinner date at Maxim's. Both were affable and smiling as they departed in auto.

Burton Flies to Wife; Liz Stays in Rome

PARIS (AP) — Richard Burton had a dinner date at Maxim's in Paris with his wife, Sybil, Saturday night while Elizabeth Taylor spent a quiet evening at her villa in Rome.

Affable and smiling, Burton flew in from Rome to do some scenes today for "The Longest Day," a film based on the D-Day landings. The meeting with his wife was in flat contradiction of a statement by a member of his Rome entourage that such a get-together was impossible.

Mrs. Burton has been staying in England while her husband and Miss Taylor have been making "Cleopatra" in Rome.

Miss Taylor announced Tuesday that she intends to divorce singer Eddie Fisher. She has been seeing a lot of Burton and they night-clubbed together in Rome until the early hours Saturday morning.

Arriving in Paris, Burton said "there is no question of Elizabeth Taylor meeting me" here. He then hurried off from Orly Airport to meet his wife.

A table for three was reserved at Maxim's by Darryl Zanuck, producer of "The Longest Day." Burton appears before the cameras Sunday as a RAF pilot and then plans to fly back to Rome.

Big French Yes Vote on Algeria Seen

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) — Centuries of colonial history will be written off today as French voters approve Gen. Charles de Gaulle's accords with the Algerian Nationalists.

The accords provide for Algeria's independence this year. France will furnish large-scale economic aid in return for guarantees to Algeria's European minority plus an equal share of Sahara oil.

President De Gaulle, riding a new crest of public confidence and popularity, has asked for a massive "yes" vote to confirm the agreements.

* * * *

THE ONLY question is what the percentage will be. It may run as much as 80-90 per cent. The average Frenchman seems not much concerned at how the accords will work out. He is not expected to strike a heroic pose at the ballotbox as he turns his back on 130 years, covering Algerian colonization and that area's later incorporation into the French state. He'll be in too much of a hurry to get to the movies or to go for a drive in the country.

Waiting impatiently in line at the polls, he may have time for a sigh of relief at—so he feels—the final settlement of a long and anguishing problem.

De Gaulle's firm hand, he feels, has clamped the lid on activity of the secret organization in France itself. There are still occasional plastic bombings, but far fewer than several months ago. If the word "plastiquer" has joined the French vocabulary it is used these days mostly as a joke.

IN ALGERIA, the deadly earnest leaders of the secret army who oppose letting the Arabs and Berbers have Algeria may cast themselves as shining knights of France. In France itself the average citizen is simply glad for the prospect of peace and glad to get rid of Algeria.

He and his family now are thinking of an Easter outing, and making plans for their summer vacation. Le Figaro carries more than a page of travel advertisements, vaunting the rival claims of Italy, Portugal, Bavaria and Greece.

"In Corsica, it never rains in summer," boasts one.

* * * *

EVERY DAY there is a long line waiting to see the U.S. movie "West Side Story," a hit here. Other crowds are flocking to see the French film, "Le Bateau D'Emile," or Rock Hudson and Doris Day in "Un Pyjama Pour Deux," French title for "Lover Come Back."

The annual "Theater Des Nations" has opened what promises to be a successful season. Betsy Blair is co-starring with Daniel Gelin in a French play, and music-lovers are looking forward to two concerts by the Vienna Philharmonic.

At least two score dimly lit night clubs are jammed every night with well-dressed couples doing the twist to stereo music. This rage has spread to the provinces. Every sizable town has a "Palais De Twist."

* * * *

THE SUNDAY traffic jams are proverbial, and one newspaper complains that France is 40 years behind Germany in roads. Some people feel that with Algeria out of the way, the government will find money for roads, housing, schools and parks.

This being a weekend in the spring, the Autoroute De L'Quest which leads to Deauville or Chartres will be bumper-to-bumper while the referendum votes are being tallied. The major police headache will not be plastic bombs, but how to control traffic and keep the accident toll down.

Boring Burglars Loot Jewelry Shop

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Burglars bored a large hole through the wall of a jewelry shop Saturday and escaped with $7,000 in expensive watches and rings, police reported.

Officers said the burglars broke into an adqacent cleaners and bored into the Ann Sorrell jewelry shop.

her caretaker during the trip.

"She's actually very gentle and easy to get along with," said Porteous, who apparently had better success than Civil War soldiers. They declared that camels were the most stubborn animals in existence.

Roberta's pen was swung from the ship to dockside, where Dr. W. J. Connelly, supervising veterinarian for the U.S. Agriculture Department's Animal Inspection and Quarantine Division, was waiting.

Dr. Connelly gave the 700-pound animal a check and then arranged setting up a larger pen and corral in the dock area for the camel's 30-day quarantine.

Hans K. Flanders, vice president of Arthur J. Fritz and Co., agents for the shipment, said the Texas publisher will come to Wilmington with a trailer to take Roberta to Victoria. Roberta will make several personal appearances along the way.

Keeping Roberta in quarantine will boost the cost of getting the camel to Texas by another $500, W. F. "Frenchy" Grant, an employe of the Jungleland animal farm in Thousand Oaks, will be her caretaker during her stay here.

And the quarantine is cause for consternation in Victoria for another reason.

Roberta was to be the star of a historical pageant opening Saturday in Victoria.

When the pageant opens, the star will be peacefully munching alfalfa and sniffing the sea air of Wilmington instead of the breezes from the nearby Gulf of Mexico in Victoria.

Rare Crane Eggs About to Hatch

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Audubon Park Zoo workers assigned to watch over two rare whooping crane eggs said Saturday they were "just sitting and waiting for something to pop at any time."

The eggs were laid a month ago by Josephine, one of the 37 whooping cranes left in the world. Josephine and her mate, Chip, are being counted on to help preserve the species.

George Douglass, Audubon Park director, said he would not give up on the eggs until they are both 38 days old. One of the eggs is 32 days old and the other 29. They normally hatch in 30 days, but Douglass says the hatching period has varied from 28 to 34 days.

Classes Set on Family Camping

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Free courses in family camping will be offered this month by the Los Angeles County Department of Parks and Recreation. Two of the courses will be at local play areas.

The three-session courses will be offered at Mayfair Park, 5270 Clark Ave., Lakewood, on April 23 and 30 and May 7, and in the Norwalk Pool building, 12203 Sproul St., Norwalk, on April 26 and May 3 and 10.

All sessions will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

* * * *

EASH COURSE will consist of three lectures by Tal Morash, who represents the Camp Bureau of Southern California and the American Camping Association.

Although designed to help families plan and carry out camping trips, the courses also are open to youth group leaders. The classes will cover equipment needs, fires, fuels, setting up a campsite, sanitation, safety and nature.

The Lakewood course will be cosponsored by the Lakewood Recreation Department, and the Norwalk classes will be cosponsored by the Southeast Parks and Recreation District.

Filmland Museum, L.B. Man's 'Baby,' to Premiere May 4

A dozen Academy Award winners, wearing costumes from their memorable screen performances, will be on hand — but not in person—at the opening of the new Movieland Wax Museum May 4 in Buena Park.

The Oscar winners will be in wax.

Brainchild of Long Beach's Allen H. Parkinson the $1,500,000 Museum at 7711 Beach Boulevard will open with an around-the-clock Hollywood-style premiere at 6:30 p.m. on May 4 with an invitational showing for stars, representatives of all branches of the film industry, civic, social and business leaders.

The 30-hour premiere will benefit the Motion Picture Relief Fund. Doors open to the public at 9:30 a.m.

* * * *

They are among the 60 life-size wax figures of Hollywood greats who will occupy the unique museum with a Hollywood sound stage interior.

The wax figures cost an average of $2500 each.

Parkinson plans to feature about 200 of these wax models of film luminaries in his 200,000-square-foot museum.

* * * *

PARKINSON got the idea for the museum while on a visit to Madame Tussaud's wax museum in London in 1958.

A successful businessman, Parkinson moved into the high-income brackets before he was 40. He went into business marketing a non-narcotic sleeping tablet, "Sleep-Eze." Later, he merged his Long Beach firm with a national drug organization and retired from active participation in the business.

Army to Lose 3-Star Officer in Shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army is losing one three-star general because of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's mammoth reorganization eliminating the chiefs of the technical services and consolidating operations under two major commands, it was learned Saturday.

Lt. Gen. John H. Hinrichs, 57, Army chief of ordnance, has applied for retirement, his associates said, rather than serve under a junior officer and see his present functions parceled among several agencies.

Hinrichs earlier this week celebrated his fourth anniversary as ordnance chief. He was presented a testimonial signed by the 90,000 civilians working under him. The signatures filled four books 20 inches thick.

* * * *

THE ORDNANCE chief was scheduled to be supply and maintenance commander in the new Defense Department setup. This would have been one of seven subordinate commands under one of the two major commands—material development and logistics and Army combat developments.

The material development and logistics commander is scheduled to be Maj. Gen. Frank S. Besson Jr., 52, who only recently was nominated by President Kennedy for the third star which will make him a lieutenant general.

In his present post, Hinrichs has 80 bases and 45,000 military personnel in addition to twice that number of civilians working for him in arsenals and other ordnance facilities throughout the country.

* * * *

HIS NEW assignment would have given him supply and maintenance responsibilities going beyond ordnance, but ordnance research, development, procurement and specialized training will be taken over by other commands.

The general is a veteran of 32 years service and is entitled to retire at three-quarters of his base pay unless called back for war duty.

Both he and Bessons are second-generation products of the Army.

Depletion Argument Reopened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long-debated oil and gas depletion allowance has come under attack again in the Senate Finance Committee but there appears to be no prospect that it will be reduced this year.

Senators long convinced that the allowance is overgenerous have seized the hearings now under way on President Kennedy's tax-revision bill as an opportunity to renew their attack.

But a check of the 17-member committee Saturday showed that they could hope for no more than four or five votes to reduce the benefit.

Their prospects might be somewhat better on the floor. But Senate votes in recent years have shown that forces seeking to cut back the allowance are well short of a majority.

* * * *

THE ALLOWANCE permits an oil and gas producer to deduct 27½ per cent of his gross income from this source in figuring his income tax, up to a maximum of 50 per cent of his net income.

Supporters of the provision contend it is proper since oil and gas are a wasting asset used up as consumed. They also argue that it is essential to encourage continued exploration to keep American reserves at a high level.

Advocates of a reduction have been hoping for some backing from the Kennedy administration and received an indication at the Finance Committee hearings last week that they may get it later. Kennedy voted to cut the allowances when he was a senator in 1958 and 1960.

5-STAR GENERALS OVERLOOKED

Are Ike, MacArthur Open to Censorship of Speech?

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Overlooked in the controversy over alleged military muzzling is the fact that three famous five-star generals still are on the active list and technically subject to Pentagon speech regulations.

They are Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur and Omar N. Bradley.

Eisenhower is in a slightly special category because he does not take his $20,000-a-year Army pay. Instead he gets the $25,000 pension and the $50,000 annual office allowance provided for former Presidents.

* * * *

BUT THAT does not affect the question of what would happen if the defense Department should decide to be technical and require Gens. Eisenhower, Bradley and MacArthur to observe military regulations.

For one thing, they would be obliged to submit their speeches and articles for clearance by the Pentagon's security and review section.

They would be under strict injunctions to avoid public discussion of foreign affairs or other matters properly in the province of the State Department and White House.

* * * *

JUDGING by the case of former Maj Gen. Edwin A. Walker, they would influence the votes of men in uniform.

The department's unofficial view is that "active duty" for five-star officers is merely honorary, and usually a means of paying them full salary instead of a pension. They are in other respects treated as retired officers.

But the department declined to make this official in answering questions submitted by United Press International. The exchange went as follows:

* * * *

QUESTION: "Do Generals Eisenhower, MacArthur and Bradley submit their speeches and writings for review?"

ANSWER: "No, except that Bradley occasionally does so voluntarily."

QUESTION: "Is there any thought of requiring them to observe regulations to which they theoretically would be subject as officers on active duty?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Is there a legal position on this, or is it merely considered a technically which should be overlooked?"

ANSWER: "There is no position; no one has looked into the matter."

Airlines Cut Down Hydraulic Troubles

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency Saturday reported a 50 per cent reduction in hydraulic difficulties encountered by jet airliners since last summer.

The improvement resulted from a massive FAA-industry drive to cure numerous malfunctions that were causing frequent precautionary and emergency landings.

One such malfunction led to a fatal accident involving a United Air Lines DC8 at Denver last July 11, killing 17 passengers. The jet was making an unscheduled landing after losing its hydraulic fluid supply when it swerved off the runway into a parked truck.

* * * *

THIS WAS the only accident resulting from hydraulic troubles. But a rash of reported malfunctions, both minor and major, prompted the joint FAA-industry corrective program.

That program, dubbed Project 61 by the FAA, called for:

Nine modifications to the DC8 hydraulic system, including a lock-out device to prevent engines from going into uneven reverse thrust. This was the cause of the fatal swerve at Denver, occuring when the pilot—lacking braking power—attempted to slow down the jet by reversing his engines.

Stricter inspection and maintenance procedures on the hydraulic systems of all jets.

A special check on all flight crews to make sure they are following prescribed procedures for dealing with hydraulic emergencies.

Faster, more frequent and detailed reports by all airlines on every conceivable type of hydraulic malfunction, no matter how minor. This enabled the FAA and carriers to prevent insignificant difficulties from developing into major problems.

AN FAA official told UPI Project 61 has reduced hydraulic incidents from a peak of 10 to 16 per 1,000 hours last summer to as low as five or six per 1,000 hours as of last month.

He added that all 92 DC8's now in scheduled U. S. airline service will have completed modifications by May 1. About 80 per cent of them are fully modified. The remainder have at least some of the improvements already installed.

"The rate of malfunctions now is down to about the level of piston-engine aircraft," the FAA spokesman said. "Considering the far greater complexity of the jet's system, this is a significant achievement."

He emphasized that the incidents being reported by the airlines include slight seepage or leaks as well as complete system failures.

Army Will Try Sergeant for 'Abusing' Reserve GIs

FORT JACKSON, S. C. (UPI)—The Army said Saturday a sergeant has been ordered to stand trial on charges he abused recruits from Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Sgt. Clyde Hinkle Jr., 29, of Columbia, Pa., has been confined at this infantry training center pending investigation of the incident.

The Army said Hinkle will be court martialed under Articles 117 and 128 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Although the Army declined comment on the incident, United Press International learned the complaining witnesses were members of a platoon of six-month reserve trainees, mostly from Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Hinkle was a student at the Third Army noncommissioned officer academy here, temporarily detached from his regular assignment as platoon sergeant in Company D, 7th Battalion, Second Training Regiment.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Cuba to Release 7 U.S. Skindivers

HAVANA (AP)—Seven American treasure hunters shipwrecked off Cuba's coast have been released from technical custody by the Castro government and will return to the United States early next week, the Swiss Embassy said Saturday night.

Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhofer told reporters the seven skindivers were lodged in a residence in Havana placed at their disposal by the Cuban government. They have been asked not to leave the house, but no guards have been placed over them, he said.

The Swiss Embassy was asked by the U.S. government to seek the release of the men after Cuban broadcasts announced that seven "frogmen" had been taken in custody in eastern Cuba.

Palsy Victim Wins Top Award

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emik Avakian, a 39-year-old immigrant who overcame severe cerebral palsy to become a brilliant electronics inventor and engineer, was named Saturday as the Handicapped American of 1961.

EMIK AVAKIAN
Brilliant Inventor

The award was made by the President's Committee on the Employment of the Physically Handicapped. Avakian will receive at a May 10 dinner in Washington the President's plaque presented annually by the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled.

Avakian's arms, hands and fingers are useless and he speaks very slowly and with great physical effort. Unable to walk, he gets around in a wheel chair by pushing himself slowly backward.

Avakian has suffered this severe crippling since before he was brought to the United States from his native Tehran as a boy of 11. He quickly demonstrated his keen intelligence and amazing determination by fulfilling the requirements of the first seven grades of school and learning English as well in his first year in this country.

Injured Boxer Slightly Better

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—Heavyweight Tunny Hunsaker's condition improved very slightly but remained grave Saturday after surgery for a brain injury suffered in what he had said might be his last fight.

Dr. E. Lyle Gage, who performed the midnight surgery on the 30-year-old boxer, gave him a 50-50 chance of recovery. Gage said "in 48 hours we'll know. All signs are favorable."

While Hunsaker lay unconscious in an oxygen tent at Bluefield Sanitarium, former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret was buried Saturday in Miami. Paret died of brain injuries in New York last Tuesday, 10 days after losing his title to Emile Griffith.

Dysentery Hits 27,000 Germans

BERLIN (UPI) — A week-long dysentery epidemic—blamed on infected butter from Communist China has stricken almost 27,000 persons—three of them fatally, the Communist East German government said Saturday.

The East German news service ADN released an announcement by Health Minister Max Sefrin after a meeting of a special dysentery commission.

Ex-President Frondizi Ill

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Ex-President Arturo Frondizi was reported to have fallen ill Saturday at the naval base where he has been held since his overthrow March 28.

Medical sources said doctors at the base on Martin Garcia Island in the Plate River have asked naval headquarters in Buenos Aires to send a heart specialist for an immediate examination of Frondizi. There was no immediate official word on the report.

Try to Avert Teachers' Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for both sides worked Saturday trying to avert a strike among the city's 40,000 public school teachers slated for Tuesday. The threat by the United Federation of Teachers is based on what they contend has been the board of education's refusal to grant its members a $53 million a year pay boost.

200 at Film, 100 in Jail Flee Flames

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Flames destroyed two large frame buildings here Saturday, forcing the evacuation of 100 county jail prisoners, 200 children attending a movie matinee and numerous apartment dwellers.

Firemen termed the blaze under control at 5:30 p.m., with no serious injuries. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

The fire wrecked a dozen stores and the lobby of a movie theater. The children were led in orderly procession from the theater.

State police evacuated the jail inmates. Thirteen maximum risk prisoners were manacled and taken to cells in the County Court House two blocks away. The 87 general prisoners, including several women, were removed to the County Workhouse.

County Slates Hospital Work

General Hospital for storage until El Cerrito opens.

Part of the building already has been converted into county offices.

The Long Beach branch of the Bureau of Adoptions has a suite of offices with a private outside entrance at 453 W. 14th St. The agency employs 35 persons here.

Since December the adoptions staff has been working in the area formerly occupied by Seaside's children's wards.

* * * *

EIGHT EMPLOYES of Medical Aid District now occupy Seaside's old outpatient department. This agency evaluates applications for admission to county hospitals.

And one day and one night a week, two persons with the Bureau of Licenses of Foster Homes operate an office in what formerly was a Seaside business office.

When the contractors move in, here are some of the major projects ahead of them in remodeling the hospital portion of the building:

Installation of two new elevators.

Conversion of private rooms into small wards. Example: walls be knocked out to make two single rooms into one three-bed ward.

Reduction of ground level to first-floor level on the 14th Street side so that patients will be able to emerge onto a patio without climbing stairs.

Here's how the hospital will look when remodeling is completed:

Main floor: Snack bar and day room where gift shop and pharmacy formerly were located. Day room where radiation therapy once was performed. Wards in old dispensary, medical records room, physical therapy department and the Blue Room, Seaside's dining and cnference room. Three fenced-in patios for patients. In-patient specialty clinics in old emergency room area.

Second floor: Patient space. Day room in old laboratory and central supply area. Laboratories, pharmacy and central supply to be located here.

Third floor: Patient space. Day room. Also, occupational therapy and physical therapy in old surgical suite. Shampoo sinks for women patients in occupational therapy section. Meeting rooms for staff in old nursery. Chaplain's office, volunteer offices and doctors' sleeping quarters to be located here.

Fourth and fifth floors: Patient space.

McLaughlin said El Cerrito eventually will have 325 employes and an operating budget of $2 million annually.

McNamara Hits Ike's B70 Plan

special equipment that would be required for actual use.

Brown argued strongly in support of McNamara's decision.

He said the complex radar and missile systems that would have to be added have not yet been proved feasible. To try to fit them all into a single system at this stage, he said, would lead to ultimate delay in reaching an operational aircraft.

Brown said the all-in-one policy was followed in developing the F106 fighter and the B58 bomber and led to delays of several years in getting both planes operational. In each case, he said, actual use of the planes was delayed five years beyond the original target date.

HE COMMENTED also that dropping the RS70 project altogether "would leave only small chinks, if they exist at all, in the line of possibilities which are actually feasible."

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., told a reporter that Brown gave similar testimony last Monday at a closed session of a Senate Appropriations Committee which Robertson heads.

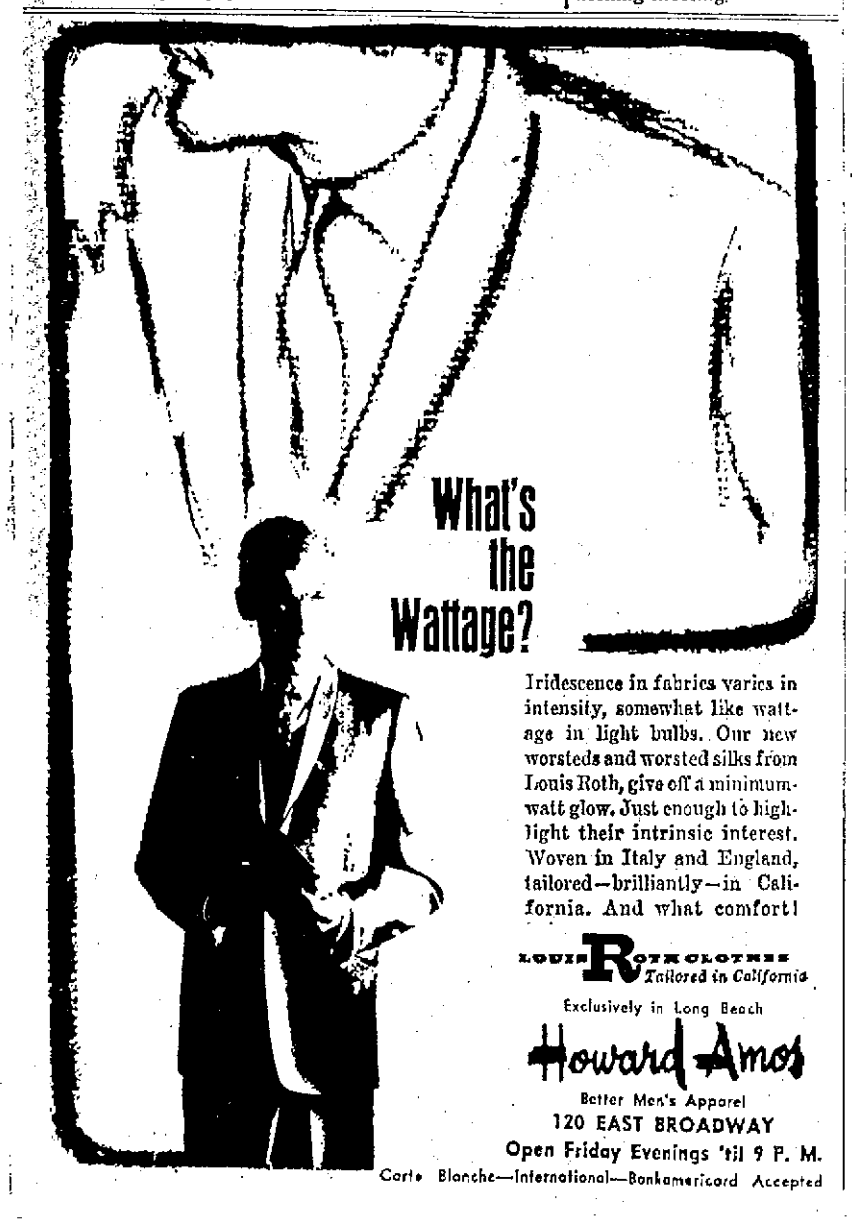

The senator quoted Brown as saying that among features for the RS70 not yet developed are a long-range high-detail radar and special missiles.

Use of Storm Drains for Shelters Sought

By P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Use of storm drains as emergency public fallout shelters presents some legal obstacles, but none that cannot be overcome, County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy reported this week.

Negotiations currently are in progress to make an old storm drain in the City of San Fernando available for shelter purposes, Kennedy said.

The drain, now operated as part of the County Flood Control District, will become unsuitable for drainage purposes as soon as a new drain under construction is completed, the report explained.

* * * *

KENNEDY'S report was made at the request of Supervisor Warren M. Dorn, whose district includes San Fernando.

Commenting on possible conversion of other storm drains for shelter use, Dorn said it appeared "both state and federal legislative action would be required to modify these structures for shelter use."

No substantial legal obstacle stands in the way of building future storm drains so designed as to serve also as shelters, Kennedy's report stated.

More Smog Predicted This Year

By P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Smog will probably be more severe in Los Angeles County this summer, and the Air Pollution Control District will continue to make daily smog forecasts—but not always accurate ones.

Smith Griswold, APCD control officer, said the approach of the smog season "without control of the emissions of our increasing number of automobiles," means heavier pollution this year must be expected.

The APCD will continue its daily smog predictions as a public service, Griswold said, but he cautioned that "it is not always possible to achieve accuracy" in such predictions.

* * * *

"IN THE OPINION of authorities in the field of weather prediction, the accuracy attained by the district's forecasters is excellent," Griswold said.

He admitted however, the forecasts are right only about 75 per cent of the time. A smog forecast is a "statement of probability," he said.

"Ingenious and accurate" instruments have been developed for air monitoring, Griswold pointed out, but he noted that eye irritation, odor and reduction of visibility are not measurable by instruments.

"The only meter for eye irritation is the human eye, and the sensitivity varies with the individual," he said.

"Our reports on eye irritation are based on the responses to exposure to the atmosphere of a panel of observers," Griswold said.

Report Increase in Department Store Volume

NEW YORK (AP) — Department store sales across the nation for the year to date are running 2 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1961 period.

Federal reserve figures released disclosed that volume remained ahead of a year ago despite a drop of 2 per cent in sales for the latest week and for the latest four weeks, compared with a year earlier.

The higher sales for the year to date were recorded despite the fact that Easter last year was three weeks earlier than this year. That meant that Easter shopping has been included in last year's figures for the first three months while Easter shopping has yet to reach its peak this year.

SAVED MONEY

News Vendor's Will Sets Up Aid for Youths

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A man who sold newspapers on downtown streets for some 20 years, and saved most of his income, has set up a scholarship fund for deserving youngsters.

A will by the late John W. (Capt.) Smith estimated his estate at $1,800 cash and some $15,000 to $20,000 in bonds.

Most of the bonds go to his son, daughter and others. The remainder goes to the Eastminster Presbyterian Church for scholarships for "boys and girls whom the church may consider worthy."

Smith died March 16.

It Was Like the Real Thing

bombers at the other. Each nation will arm those missiles and bombers with nuclear warheads.

In the wretched shambles that would be left there would be one key as to which remnant of a nation would be victor. That key: Could American manned bombers return to Russia for a clean-up strike?

The almost certain bet: That Russia, to prevent that second or third counter-punch from the U.S. Air Force, would methodically demolish as many Strategic Air Command bases as possible in the first barrage of missiles. That would mean when U.S. bombers returned from their first strike, they would have no place to land; no chances of rearming with fuel and weapons for a second or third strike.

That is where the recovery groups come in. Their job is to provide homing facilities for returning aircraft on civil airports. The belief: That Russia would be unable to knock out the thousands of civilian airports in the United States.

The question: How well will the recovery program work? It relies entirely on Air Reserve units—weekend fliers and groundlings—and the cooperation they can enlist from civilian sources. It isn't a dramatic job. But to the reservists and the Strategic Air Command it rides on the edge of desperation. War to them is but one command away.

Saturday's test—a simulated mission — was important. The 8646 Recovery Group has gained experience through constant practice and hard work that few other reserve groups can boast.

Watching Saturday's drill were reserve commanders from the entire 2478th Reserve Sector—colonels and majors from Southern California, Southern Nevada and Arizona. All watched closely to see how well the recovery program could work.

The B47 screamed through the skies toward its home base at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base near Tucson, Ariz. Presumably it was returning from Russia. "Davis-Monthan not operational," the radio crackled.

In the plexiglass hump on the sleek fuselage the pilot made quick new calculations and decided on Long Beach. Rapidly the co-pilot and navigator read their seemingly endless list of checks, the staccato ritual of point by point preparing for the seemingly impossible feat of landing a thing that flies like a hurled stone.

On the ground enlisted men walked to an invisible line, spaced themselves apart, then turned, to stand, a bristling barrier of rifles to fight off "saboteurs."

Had it not been so smoothly organized the operation would have appeared jerry-built. An Air Force ambulance glided into position behind the barrier of riflemen. Two Long Beach city fire trucks moved out along the apron. Men in bee-hive headdress—the mark of a decontamination squad—got off the trucks and stood at the ready with hoses.

A cluster of men with geiger counters waited, chattering back and forth with miniature walkie-talkie radio sets. Two commercial fuel trucks edged up a driveway.

The plane broke into sight, lowering over Compton and North Long Beach, dropping steadily to the far end of the runway. Parachutes popped open behind, designed to stop the speeding hunk of metal on short runways.

CHECKING SPECIAL RADIATION protection clothing on Long Beach fireman are Col. Claude J. Norton, (center) commander of of the 8646 Recovery Group and Col. Robert S. Day, commander of the 2478 Air Force Reserve section.

Claude J. Norton, resident engineer with the Orange County Water District, eyed the plane carefully. In tan uniform for the day with a colonel's eagles on his shoulders, Norton listened to the briefings constantly relayed to him and issued a few final orders. They were treated with that bit of extra deference that goes to a combat pilot's combat pilot. Norton holds nearly all major Air Force decorations.

Jets screaming, the plane slowed, then turned from the end of the runway and taxied up behind the barrier of riflemen. Quickly the men with geiger counters moved in. If the plane were "hot,"—radioactive from Soviet nuclear anti-aircraft explosions — the crew, injured or not, would be kept inside.

The firemen moved forward with their hoses. If declared "hot," the firemen would hose down the plane in an attempt to decontaminate it.

"It's all right," the geiger counter men said. "A few hot spots."

The crew climbed down a ladder to the ground and reported to Col. Norton. Hoses were turned on two of the crew men who showed some radiation. The airstrip was washed down.

"How did it go, colonel?" someone asked Norton.

"Fine," he said. "If it ever happens, we are ready."

"Our planes will get a second chance."

Demos Hurl 'Birch' Tag at 21 Party Defectors

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Two local Democratic candidates charged Saturday that members of a Democratic club which defected to the Republican party Friday night were John Birch Society sympathizers who were asked to leave the Democratic party five months ago.

William J. Peake, candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach 39th District (old 70th), and Joseph J. Johovich, candidate for Congress in the 32nd (old 18th), issued separate statements reacting to the reregistration at GOP Headquarters, 3505 Atlantic Ave., of 21 members of the Longwood Constitutional Democratic Club.

* * * *

PEAKE SAW IT as "interesting that as long last the now-defunct club has heeded the advice I gave them some months ago.

"The Longwood club was a splinter from Los Cerritos United Democrats that caused the Los Cerritos club to be disunited indeed. The splinter faction adhered to principles which were in sympathy with the John Birch Society.

"While I was director for the California Democratic Council in the 18th (now 32nd), I invited these dissident elements to withdraw from the Democratic club movement and to seek affiliations with organizations which would more clearly represent their views. They failed to withdraw and I subsequently refused to certify the club to the California Democratic Council until such time that those who espoused the Birch philosophy were removed from the organization.

"They finally saw fit to disavow the Democratic Party and to associate themselves with certain fanatic elements of the Republican Party which do espouse a philosophy similar to theirs.

"I think this move . . . has established a much-needed precedent. In turn, I invite those Republicans of opinions less extreme than that of the John Birch Society to join us. Such a turnover will indeed align the parties as they should be."

* * * *

JOHOVICH characterized the action as a little bit of spring madness akin to baseball, where you find "switch hitters and Dodgers."

He said the switchers "swing from either side of the plate and duck every time a pitch is close and generally strike out. This early in the season it is not uncommon for a few to drop out. These are the ones who simply 'haven't got it' and, frustrated, end up criticizing the manager, the coach and even the playing conditions."

Johovich said it is "laughable" that the club turned Republican "when some of these (members) have been known attenders at Republican dinners over a long period of time and have been recognized by some of their neighbors who waited on tables and who asked the question, 'Were they really Democrats or the last of Gen. Walker's followers who migrated too far west?'

"As a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and a hard-working Democrat loyal to his party and believing in the two-party system, I only wish that the excessive amount of publicity that they received—and upon which they thrive—will react in the public's opinion as did publicity given recently to a certain American film star who has likewise disgraced herself."

* * * *

NEW FRONTIER Democratic Club will feature candidates W. Bud deCannis and William J. Peake at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Wilton Hotel Terrace Room. DeCannis is running for the Democratic nomination for Congress in Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill 32nd District (formerly 18th). Peake is a candidate for Assembly in the 39th District (former 70th) of East Long Beach and Signal Hill.

SEAL BEACH FEDERATED Republican Woman's Club will meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the residence of Miss Charlotte Schuman, 204 Ocean Ave. The club is planning a membership tea for May 19 in the Jerome Brockman residence, 1425 Catalina Ave., and a "coffee" meeting for GOP governor candidate Joseph C. Shell in late April.

JFK Tax Incentive Plan Hit by Business, Labor

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy's tax-incentive plan—aimed at stimulating business by encouraging expansion—ran into opposition last week.

Criticism came from representatives of both business and labor.

The so-called incentive plan has been passed by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate. But the House cut from 8 per cent to 7 per cent the amount which businesses and farms would be permitted to subtract from their income tax for expenditures on equipment and machinery.

The administration let it be known that a fight would be waged in the Senate to restore the cut.

* * * *

SPOKESMEN for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers told the Senate Finance Committee that they opposed the proposed tax credit.

These organizations would prefer to have a larger depreciation allowance.

Walter A. Slowinski, representing the chamber, said of the tax credit:

"It may actually be a windfall to a business which already had fortuitously planned to purchase new facilities later in 1962. On the other hand, it will work against small businesses or large companies which have no current funds for expansion or no taxable income to be offset by the credit."

Stanley H. Ruttenberg, research director for the AFL-CIO, called the tax credit plan "a mountainous giveway."

* * * *

"THE KIND of spur business needs most," he said, "is the durable stimulus of rising family spendable income, which lower income taxes for the middle and lower brackets could help to provide."

President Kennedy sent congress a far-ranging program to aid the ailing transportation industry.

It would provide $500 million for public agencies over the next three years which, along with some matching funds, would be used for "the revitalization and needed expansion of public mass transportation."

Kennedy also proposed that Congress wipe out minimum rates prescribed by federal regulation for travel and for shipment of bulk freight, including grain, coal ore and farm and fishery products.

This, he said, is intended to make carriers "fit, lean and progressive by vigorous competition and innovation."

* * * *

SOME RAYS of encouragement seeped through what has been a darkening economic picture. Economists saw cheerful signs and some statistics bore them out.

"The hesitation is only temporary," said Dr. Marcus Nadler, economic consultant for the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York. "There is no basis for the view that the economy is leveling off or that we are headed for a decline.

Dr. R. H. Waters of the Pennsylvania State University Bureau of Business Research, said his charts indicate the upswing has resumed after a six-week lull in January and February.

The automobile industry is going great guns in both sales and production.

Sales of New American-made passenger cars in March exceeded 600,000, the highest for the month in seven years. General Motors Corps.'s Chevrolet division said its march deliveries were the highest for any month in its history, totaling 197,750. American Motors reported its sales of 45,402 cars were a record for March.

GENERAL MOTORS built its one millionth car of 1962 Monday.

In the first three months of the year the industry turned out 1,766,833 cars, an increase of 47.9 per cent over the 1961 first quarter. Output this week was estimated at 145,000, highest of the year.

Steel production continued to hum along at about 80 per cent of capacity but the industry looked for a slowdown in the wake of agreement on a new labor contract. Output last week totaled 2,417,000 tons, up 1 per cent from the prior week.

Other favorable developments included:

The Federal Reserve Board reported that outstanding consumer installment credit increased by $236 million in February. This meant that people were more willing to go into debt to buy things.

* * * *

THE COMMERCE Department reported that combined sales of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers reached a record level of $64.7 billion in February, up 1 per cent from January.

Surveys indicated that merchants expect an increase in sales of apparel and home furnishings.

Briefly around the business scene: the American collectors association says more people are paying their bills on time than at any time since middle 1958 . . . employment in the iron and steel industry totaled 566,028 in February, highest in 21 months. . . . U. S. smokers paid $3.1 billion in taxes in 1961, the tobacco institute estimates. . . . More than 2.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas is stored in caverns in 21 states. . . . Dividend increases were declared by 103 corporations in March, compared with 79 a year earlier.

Lull in Wall St. and Some Firms Scrimping

NEW YORK (AP) — In marked contrast to the spring of 1961, slow times have fallen on Wall Street and some brokerage houses are scrimping.

Volume of trading is the lifeblood of the brokerage business, and the business of handling other people's investment money has slumped. Commissions lately have been flowing like a dry creek compared with flood of business a year ago.

Several large brokerage houses are in the midst of economy drives. Some have cut loose extra help. Many are keeping a closer tab on long distance telephone calls, postage stamps and other office expenses.

* * * *

SO FAR as could be learned, there have been no reductions of permanent staff members.

One of the firms that says it has been tightening up on outlays is Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., the largest. Merrill Lynch handled 12 per cent of 1961 volume on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Bonuses will probably be smaller this year," a spokesman said.

Bache & Co., the nation's second largest brokerage house, reported no drastic curtailments but said status of part time employes was being reviewed and ways were being sought to reduce overtime.

* * * *

A STRIKING reminder of the situation appeared on newspaper financial pages the other day. "Big Board" turnover for the previous day was listed as 2,790,000 shares. Alongside appeared the year ago volume figure—7,080,000 (for April 4, 1961).

For all of last year, Big Board trading volume totaled just over one billion dollars, barely falling short of the record set in 1929.

So far, 1962 volume is running about 30 per cent behind a year ago. That means commissions for buying and selling, a brokerage firm's main source of income, are running at about the same ratio.

Stock prices have slumped, too.

* * * *

BACHE SAID it viewed the present situation as a lull and expects both volume and prices to rebound.

A spokesman for another brokerage house said "doubtless there are some among the smaller firms that are in the red on a recent short term basis but nobody expects this to last."

The New York Stock Exchange, with a paid staff of 1,540, said it had not reduced staff.

Overall employment in the financial district at the end of 1961 stood at 95,500, up 16 per cent from the 1960 year end level.

Radomes Play Key Missile System Role

By LEE CRAIG
Military-Aviation Editor

Huge bubble-shaped radomes of rubberized nylon, erected at key points in the United States and in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, will play a vital part in the Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system.

The giant radomes, nearly 50 feet in diameter, were made in a manner that eliminates conventional overlapping seams, a design feature that allows the radars within the protective nylon bubble to operate at maximum efficiency.

Capable of withstanding extremely high winds, the radomes require only a half-pound of pressure per square inch for inflation.

CONGRESS has been asked by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for $15 million to build a 210-foot radio antenna capable of receiving "live television from the moon."

Existing equipment—largest in use are 85-footers—is capable of maintaining communications with early unmanned space flights to the moon, Mars and Venus.

But the Apollo manned flights to the moon and the planned unmanned planetary flights of the Voyager program, starting around 1966, demand more sensitive receiving equipment.

Mysterious Gift Cat Baffles Zoo

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A mysterious Borneo cat named Wilfred has San Diego Zoo officials puzzled.

The 5-pound animal arrived as a gift from the governor of North Borneo.

Wilfred has the face of a civet cat, the feet of a mongoose and the body of a genet.

Clyde Hill, assistant curator of mammals, was able to shed some light on the question, however.

After perusing zoo handbooks and inspecting the cat, Hill put forward one conclusion—Wilfred should have been named Wilfreda.

Felony Crime Rate in State Decreases

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk says the felony crime rate in California declined slightly in 1961 compared to 1960.

Mosk said the state's Bureau of Criminal Statistics reported that 257,229 felonies were committed in 1961, a drop of 1.4 per cent from 1960.

Gulf Lends Japan $10 Million; Oil Purchase Pledged

TOKYO (UPI)—The Toa Oil Co. of Japan announced it has reached an agreement to obtain a loan totaling $10 million from the Gulf Oil Co. of the United States.

The loan will be used to construct a new refinery in Kawasaki, near Tokyo, Toa said.

It said the loan will carry interest of 4.5 per cent a year and will be paid back over seven years after a three-year deferment period.

In exchange for the loan, Toa will have to buy up to 30 per cent of its total crude oil imports from the Gulf Oil Co. for the next 10 years, Toa said.

Solons Hear Walker, Reporter 'Eyed' Him

By HARRY SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, storm-center of U. S. anti-Communist troop indoctrination policy and now a candidate for governor of Texas, had his day in court last week.

His last act was to punch an inquiring reporter in the eye.

WALKER

The ousted commander of the 24th Infantry Combat Division in Germany was given free rein to narrate his own case to senators investigating alleged military muzzling.

He charged he had been the scapegoat of a secret government "apparatus, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, which favors a 'no win' policy in the cold war." He said his own indoctrination program in Europe—the reason he lost his command — ran head on into this "conspiracy."

Walker was vague in substantiating his allegations and admitted he could not identify those "in complete control of the apparatus." But he named, in addition to Rusk:

—Special Assistant Defense Secretary Adam Yarmolinsky "who had a close connection with communism"; Arthur Sylvester, in charge of Defense Department public affairs, "who worked" to shear him of his command, and Walt W. Rostow, head of the State Department's policy planning staff, "who has been in control" of the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency's "operating arm" since 1954.

Walker averred that CIA's intelligence estimates are arranged by the State Department to reflect Rusk's no win policy and that he, himself, "was framed in this den of iniquity." Furthermore, he charged, civilian control of the military "has been perverted into a commissar-like system at all major echelons."

Chairman John C. Stennis of the Senate committee issued a brief statement which apparently closed the book on Walker's charges.

Stennis said the testimony was "quite general in nature without revealing anything specific or definite justifying further inquiry."

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara issued a strong defense of his aides. Rusk said the general's accusations were "not worthy of comment." Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., one of the investigators, said Walker had made charges he could not verify. President Kennedy continued to take a no comment attitude.

The general punched a reporter who tried to question him about George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party and Walker supporter.

In less turbulent news spheres, the President sent Congress a proposed package of new laws to end "the chaotic patchwork" of our mass transportation system. Envisioned were lower rail, bus and air fares; reduced freight rates; fewer federal subsidies and less federal regulation; and federal aid to modernize overburdened metropolitan transit systems.

The nation's seven Mercury astronauts turned down a $24,000 free homes offered by a Houston, Tex., homebuilders association after considerable official furor reaching from the White House.

The United States prepared to go ahead with nuclear weapons tests over the Pacific in the absence of an iron-clad treaty ban with Russia. A huge "keep out" area around Christmas Island was marked off. Moscow is expected to match the tests weapon for weapon in the race for nuclear supremacy.

The President set up a new venture in personal diplomacy with plans for a visit later this year to Brazil. Brazilian President Joao Goulart was a recent White House guest.

The Democratic-controlled California state assembly adopted a resolution denouncing former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for calling the President and his attorney general brother, Robert, "carpetbaggers." Nixon is a GOP candidate for governor.

Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, at 79 the oldest jurist on the high bench, was hospitalized after suffering a vascular insufficiency. He was ordered to rest. Frankfurter, named to the tribunal in 1939 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, suffered a mild heart ailment in 1958.

Congressmen and state governors reacted with alarmed protests to President Kennedy's plan to cut National Guard and Army Reserves by 58,000 men. The Army wants to eliminate eight divisions. This would reduce the National Guard to 365,000 men and paid reserves to 277,000. Election-conscious legislators set out to block the move.

The Senate handed the President a major victory when it passed 70 to 22 a compromise bill to give him power to buy $100 million worth of United Nations bonds. House approval is expected. The bonds—half of a $200 million issue—would help meet costs of special U. N. operations in The Congo and the Middle East. The peace agency is short of funds due to assessment delinquencies of some nations, including Russia.

'BIG DUTCH' KINDELBERGER STILL CALLS THE SIGNALS

Fabulous Story of NAA 'Rabbit In The Hat'

North American Aviation, Inc. has always had a rabbit in its hat. Just before World War II it pulled out the P51. On the eve of Korea it was the Sabrejet. And since the space race began, a surprised Washington has been presented with one bunny after another.

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The scene: A luxurious suite in the headquarters of a billion-dollar-a-year defense giant, North American Aviation, Inc.

Two men — one a wise old head, the other a young genuis called "Stormy"— were about to reach a critical decision, one that would affect not only the profit-posture of the company but perhaps the prestige of the nation.

The elder was Lee Atwood, spare-framed president of NAA, at 57 respectfully if not always affectionately known as the Old Man.

With him was Harrison Storms, 46, driving spirit behind NAA's highly successful 4,000-mile-an-hour rocket plane, the X15, and its controversial, yet-to-fly super bomber, the RS70.

There was another presence in the room — intangible but influential:

James H. Kindelberger. Founder and now chairman of the board, Big Dutch was there in the minds of both. Each knew he'd have to account to Dutch if their decision turned sour.

* * * *

FOR WEEKS STORMY had been badgering the men between him and Atwood. Now he had taken his case to the old man himself. He got the OK.

Thus simply was NAA bound to its biggest gamble: bidding for the contract to build this country's first moon ship, Apollo.

NAA won the contract, worth two to three billion dollars, and stands a good chance of providing the giant booster rocket that will loft Apollo into space. Its F1 engine, with 1.5 million pounds of thrust, is by far the most powerful under development in the free world.

MOON-BEAMED

Just what is North American Aviation, Inc.?

Obscure outside the industry, NAA has quietly become in the past few years the second largest harvester of defense dollars.

* * * *

WITH NET SALES last year of $1.2 billion, NAA was topped only by General Dynamics' $1.9 billion. Even before the Apollo contract was let, North American was the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's largest supplier.

* * * *

NORTH AMERICAN, started in 1928 as a holding corporation, went into manufacturing in 1934 with Kindelberger, lured from his job as chief engineer at Douglas Aircraft, as president.

Big Dutch, with his bluff personality and wisecracks, became Mr. North American, the man who sold NAA.

Wisecracks play a part in salesmanship. Here are some that have become known as Kindelbergerisms:

"An airplane is like an egg. It has to be sold when it's fresh."

"You can't pull a rabbit out of a hat unless you carefully put the rabbit in the hat beforehand."

Company officials say that the last quip explains Dutch's successful gambles, that in fact he wasn't gambling at all.

A certain element of risk seems apparent, however, in almost every decision made by NAA.

* * * *

SHORTLY AFTER Kindelberger took over as president, he junked a passenger plane, already partially built, and concentrated on plans for a trainer. The trainer, the old BT9, beat out big competitors for a 17-million contract.

Early in 1940 the British asked North American to build them some P40s. Kindelberger refused. He said he could design and produce a better plane quicker. In 127 days North American turned out the soon-to-be-famed P51 Mustang.

After World War II orders for military planes were canceled wholesale.

Other companies, notably Douglas, Lockheed, Convair (General Dynamics) and Boeing went in for commercial airliners, with some eventually taking heavy losses on their jet transports. North American decided this was a gamble it didn't want to take. There was one customer better than the big airline companies: the federal government. Whatever the government might want in the future, North American would try to build it.

STILL BASICALLY A plane builder, North American took a characteristic chance. It went into production with the F86 Sabrejet without waiting for wind tunnel tests. This shoved aircraft design ahead several years, gave the United States air superiority in the Korean War.

The 4,000-mile-an-hour X15 rocket plane (largely Storms' baby and a factor in winning the Apollo contract) was undertaken before anyone was sure such a plane could be built.

No longer is the "corporate image" of North American that of a huge aircraft factory. Today it's a giant technological laboratory, turning out products not by the thousands but by the handful.

Cadillac

Where the long way home is sweetest!

If he's a few minutes late tonight—well, who could blame him?

For there's an open road—and a spring evening—and a new Cadillac car. And that's a combination to bring out the wanderlust in any young man.

In fact, let's take a few minutes out ourselves—and ride with him as he takes the sweep of the boulevard.

What's it like, sitting there in the driver's seat of a beautiful new Cadillac car?

Well, first of all it's quiet. The car is so soundly built—and so precisely engineered—that only the rushing wind breaks the silence.

Driving seems the automatic response to wishing. The wheel turns with the weight of your hand—and the gentlest pressure of your foot sends the car instantly ahead or brings it to a smooth, silken stop.

And how comfortable and how inspiring it is to have command of the "car of cars"! Certainly, it should be no surprise that the miles ahead are so tempting—when the miles behind have been so wonderful.

Someday soon, when there's a touch of spring in the air—and a touch of adventure in your spirit—visit your Cadillac dealer and take the wheel of the "car of cars" for yourself.

You'll quickly discover that this is the perfect season to drive home in a Cadillac of your own.

BARRAGE AT KENNEDY

House GOP to Stage 15-Hour Talkfest

-By WILLIAM BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Republicans in the House of Representatives next week will lay down a grass-roots barrage at the Kennedy administration's image.

Fifteen congressmen who met in the office of Rep. James B. Utt, R., Calif., Friday contend the administration is trying to sell programs that the grass roots doesn't want. They were brought together by a common feeling that the party's regular spokesmen haven't made the point sufficiently clear.

The 15 have secured special orders to speak for an hour each in the House of Representatives Wednesday. Any other congressman who wants to speak will be welcomed to the lineup.

In effect, the 15 have planned a talkathon to replace the Ev and Charlie show, of which many rank and file congressmen disapprove. The Ev and Charlie show is a weekly statement of GOP position by the party's two congressional leaders, Sen. Everett Dirksen, Ill., and Rep. Charles Halleck, Ind.

The 15-hour talkfest is the brainstorm of Rep. Craig Hosmer, Rep., Calif. He and Rep. Utt are co-chairmen in lining up speakers for the day.

Hosmer said the speechmaking "is not a party deal." He said the congressmen plan to speak about "what's on the mind of the folks back home."

Despite public opinion polls showing President Kennedy's popularity extremely high, the congressmen at the Utt meeting believe that his policies receive relatively little backing at the grass roots.

The speakers will cover a wide range of topics from national defense policies to the farm program.

"We'll be talking about national issues and local issues that pertain to them," said Hosmer.

The special orders under which the program is to be conducted can be interrupted any time by the House's Democratic leadership. A speaker can be interrupted if anyone complains of the absence of a quorum and demands a roll call.

What happens if the Democrats decide to shut off the criticism?

"We're trusting the leadership's sense of fair play," said Hosmer. "Obviously we can't muster a quorum if we're cut off. But we think the public reaction to muzzling us would be bad."

Doctor Called, Dead Boy Is Son

But the youth was pronounced dead on arrival.

It was his son Daniel, 13.

Tangle of Lies Traps Hoodlum

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI)—Reputed Chicago hoodlum Gerald Covelli had some trouble testifying for the government in the whisky hijacking trial of four of his onetime friends.

"I told the FBI so many lies about this case I don't remember now what I told them," Covelli, star prosecution witness, said.

Navy Ships Take Gifts to Orient

Five Navy minesweepers left Long Beach Harbor Saturday carrying two tons of clothing to be distributed to needy persons in the Far East.

The clothing was collected by Girl Scouts of the Los Angeles area.

The cargo is aboard the Engage, Fortify, Impervious, Inflict and Loyalty which are en route to join the 7th Fleet in the Orient.

U.S. Tax Returns Due Next Week

The Internal Revenue Service issued a cheerless reminder Saturday for persons who are still struggling over the 1961 income-tax returns. Deadline for filing the returns is a week from Monday.

"The taxpayer who keeps good records will find it easier to justify his 1961 Federal income-tax return when we question it," John R. McArdle, head of the local tax office said.

"All individual records should be retained for at least three preceding tax years after the return is filed.

"Do not mail your records with your 1961 return," McArdle said. "Keep them available to substantiate any items which may be questioned on your return."

'Mikado' Benefit Performance Today

The Lakewood Philharmonic Association is staging Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado" today and next Friday and Saturday at Millikan High School as a benefit for the physically handicapped.

The school is at 2800 Snowden Ave. Tickets are available at Jack's Corsican Room in Naples and at Rose's Hardware and Wallichs Music City in Lakewood.

Ingalls Underbids Todd on Six Ships

The Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. of Pascagoula, Miss., underbid Todd Shipyards, San Pedro, by more than $2 million on each of six U.S.-flag cargo ships to be constructed for Moore-McCormack Lines, Maritime Commission officials said Saturday.

Ingalls bid $10,375,000 for construction of each of the ships. The Todd bid was $12,460,239.

The bids are subject to review and analysis before the contracts are awarded, officials said.

New Hospital to Open in Bellflower

A 28-bed hospital will be opened at 9264 E. Alondra Blvd. in Bellflower about mid-May, Dr. Clarence Y. Ching said Saturday.

The hospital, to be called the "Alondra Community Hospital" has been given state approval as a general hospital.

Dr. Ching, president of the board, said the facility is starting with only 28 beds "because we want to determine how practical our theory is of providing intensive nursing care at economy rates.

"If proved, as we think it will be, then we plan to expand our facility," he said.

The hospital will provide medical, surgical and maternity care and will have a 24-hour laboratory and X-ray department, Dr. Ching said.

'Mellerdramer' Star LBSC Coed

By ROBERT WILCOX

Don't whistle at Judi. The comely blonde hearkens only to boos, hisses and wild applause.

Born to the role, the 19-year-old actress has attracted vocal sympathy for three years as the winsome heroine of "mellerdramers" in the Bird Cage Theater at Knott's Berry Farm.

She spends afternoons and nights dodging swords in the fearful climax of "The Mad Magician of the Midway."

In the mornings, Miss Rader turns into Betty Coed for 9½ units of study at Long Beach State College where she is a sophomore.

Co-owned by her stepfather, Woody Wilson who plays the villain, the theater stages four and five 40-minute shows a day with a capacity audience of 350 persons.

The current production features Judi as a member of a broadwalk show troupe which the villain is trying to take over.

The climax comes two costume changes later when Judi, in an abbreviated leotard, is forced into a locked sword cabinet. Twelve swords are thrust through the cabinet, but Judi emerges unscathed amid riotous cheers.

Throughout the "drama" Judi just does what comes naturally. Her mother, Elinor Wilson, starred as "Mad Agnes" in "The Drunkard" in Los Angeles for 10 years of its 27-year run.

"I was born in the 'mellerdramer' business," says Judi, who spent as much time at the theater in Los Angeles as she could when she was a child.

The family came to the berry farm eight years ago and Judi started taking tickets when she was 13. They live at 2270 Coronet St., Anaheim.

Besides ushering during the 20-minute "pitch time" which precedes each show and uttering memorable lines in the production, Judi's a quick-change artist.

She wears an old-fashioned bathing suit with bloomers under her "pitch-time" outfit. She sheds to the bathing suit in the first number, then whisks on a skirt for the second scene. She jumps into the leotard for the frantic finals.

The attractive drama major, who gets $3 a show, has taken a week off to assist with the college production, "Beauty and the Beast."

She calls her "mellerdramatics" a "fun job" which she can do while going to school, prefers serious acting but doesn't like the high odds against success. Judi thinks she'll change her major to speech therapy next year.

Concerning the sword-cabinet episode, the actress somewhat reluctantly revealed a secret unknown to the villain, who asks with vigorous gestures at the play's conclusion: "How in blazes did you get out of there?"

Judi said she sits in a cramped position in a depression in the floor protected by a V-shaped shield. (Once she opened the shield too soon and received a cut hand.)

Her "fun job" presents other problems but at least once it provided its own solution.

Judi was standing with her back to the audience when the curtain slowly lifted, rolling up her dress at the same time.

The audience enjoyed the bit of comedy and Judi remained calm. As usual, she had her bloomers on in anticipation of the next number.

Russ Say U.S. Can Keep Twist

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow said Saturday night the U.S. dance known as the twist has spread around the world "like an epidemic of flu"—and America is welcome to it.

A commentator said American propagandists apparently intended the twist and twist music to be "a monument to U.S. culture."

"To speak honestly, we do not envy them," he added.

Papuan Police Nab 'Subversive' Group

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP) — Papuan police reported the arrest Saturday of a score of "subversives," including some women, who had been hiding in woods near Hollandia. Police said an Indonesian flag and a portable radio were found.

It is assumed the group was led by Indonesians and was preparing for "coming events," a policeman spokesman said.

6, 7, 8, 9, ETCETERA, ETCETERA, ETCETERA, NOT SHOWN HERE

PINE AT BROADWAY. HE 6-9841. STORE HOURS: MONDAY, FRIDAY, 9:30 A.M. TO 9 P.M. OTHER DAYS, 9:30 A. M. TO 5:30 P.M.

FOR pretty obvious reasons, certain public offices should be open on Saturday, when working people have about their only chance of the week to make use of their services.

That surely applies to the offices of the Motor Vehicle Dept., where drivers must go for license examinations and other business. It is ridiculous that this office is closed on Saturday, and the MVD director who will change the schedule will get a big hand from a lot of people. If the office can be kept open only five days a week, let the MVD staffers take Monday off.

There's something else that seems wrong about the local office setup at Broadway and Lime. At the point on Broadway, where drivers must take their cars preparatory to the driving test, there's a sign that reads: NO PARKING AT ANY TIME. The curbing in this area is painted red—the no-parking color.

So the license-seeker, coming up for his examination, finds it necessary right off the bat to park in violation of a police dept. sign and a red-colored curb.

They could have a sign on this curb reading something like this: PARK HERE FOR DRIVING TEST.

Or is that making things too clear and simple?

FATE played a nightmarish trick on a parking lot robber at a nearby store the other day.

The story begins with the death of a cat, a long-time pet of a Long Beach family. The cat's mistress, feeling that a decent burial was in order, placed the little body in a box and set off for a pet cemetery.

En route, she stopped at a store to buy some colored paper to line the box. She left the box in the car in the store parking lot when she went in for the purchase.

Returning, she found the box gone.

The store detective was notified. He remarked that usually thieves took such items to the rest room where they remove the merchandise for hiding under their clothing.

In the women's rest room, the thief was discovered. She had just opened the box and was staring in dismay at the carcass of a dead cat.

The cat was taken to the pet cemetery, and the thief was hauled off to the pokey.

APPARENTLY, everybody and his brother is itching to get out for a little motoring. Item here the other day about wild flowers on Ortega Grade sparked up a flurry of 'phone inquiries about the location of this stretch.

It lies on Hwy. 74, which can be reached via San Juan Capistrano, down the coast. Ortega Grade lets you down into the Elsinore country and is worth a trip some time, with or without wildflowers. Great view.

Also suggested for possible short weekend motoring ventures: A drive through Brea canyon or a run over to the Irvine Park country. If unfamiliar with routes, take a look at any good map.

ANOTHER report of auto glass-breaking on Los Coyotes Blvd. comes from Tom Gentry of Lakewood. He says that he lost some glass while driving there. It's not rock throwing, but marble-shooting with power guns, that is doing the damage, according to Gentry. He thinks some kids hide behind walls and shoot into the traffic-filled streets. Looks like a place for a little police activity.

RECORD REQUEST INCLUDES OPERATING COSTS AT NEW ARENA

L. B. to Ask $1.3 Million From Oil Fund

Long Beach city officials will apply this week to the State Lands Commission for approval of $1,378,454 maintenance costs under the Tideland Oil Fund for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

The amount is the largest ever sought from the offshore oil money for upkeep of beaches, buildings and other improvements on the tidelands. Last year the city asked for and was granted $761,400.

Most of the increase results from the scheduled opening of the new Long Beach Arena shortly after the start of the fiscal year July 1, 1962. Estimated arena maintenance and operating costs are $408,650.

* * * *

IN A CHANGE of policy, the city also is asking the state to approve operation of the Municipal Auditorium as a Tideland Oil Fund facility. Previously appropriations for this purpose have come from the General Purpose Fund, which also has received the Auditorium revenues.

City-state conferences now indicate that the line separating tidelands from uplands will be drawn to place most of the old building on the tidelands.

On the basis of current bookings, the Arena is expected to operate at a profit next year of $5,950, according to Samuel M. Roberts, head of the Department of Administrative Management. The Arena revenues, like those from the Auditorium, will be deposited in the Tideland Oil Fund for city use subject to terms of the trust.

* * * *

EXPENDITURES for the Auditorium are estimated at $233,417, or $39,542 more than the projected operating revenues.

The net cost of all the tideland maintenance operations, after deductions of revenues, is figured at $768,387 next year. This is only $6,987 more than was allowed for the current year.

Among the estimated outlays are $301,350 for lifeguard service and administration; $308,750 in Public Service Department charges for beach cleaning, maintenance and related services; $56,600 in Park Department services; $53,475 for Police Department patrols of tideland areas; and smaller amounts for other department patrols of tideland areas; and smaller amounts for other departments.

The current tideland authorization approved by the state included $78,500 for Arena maintenance. Originally the big new building was expected to be opened before the end of June. Completion of all the facilities is now expected to be delayed until August, although a few events will be held there in July.

Labor-Managing Conference Set

"Leadership in Labor and Management" will be topic of the fifth annual Industrial Relations Conference at the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division Wednesday afternoon and evening.

JOHN F. HENNING

C. HOWARD WATTS

The conference cosponsored by the technology division and the college industrial relations advisory committee, is expected to draw 150 delegates from business and industrial firms and labor organizations in the Long Beach area.

After registration at 4:30 p.m. in the Horseshoe Theater, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., the dinner program will be held in the college cafeteria.

* * * *

SPEAKERS WILL be C. Howard Watts of the consulting firm of Watts and Associates and John F. Henning, director of the California Department of Industrial Relations and administrator of the California Employment Relations Agency. Their topics will be "Management's Responsibility in Labor-Management Relations" and "Training for Leadership in Labor-Management Relations."

Peter C. Marcus, vice president of Anthony Pools and member of the college industrial relations advisory committee, will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Esther C. Caldwell of the business and technology staff is in charge of program arrangements.

CD Report Due at Class on Survival

Members of a Long Beach class in individual and family survival will hear a report Wednesday from the City Department of Civil Defense.

R. C. Major of the civil defense staff will review recent developments in local, state and national preparedness planning. He will also summarize results of the national fallout shelter survey.

The meeting is set for 10 a. m. in the Monroe School, 4400 Ladoga Ave. Although the report is directed to those graduating from the 12-hour course, the public is invited.

Long Beach Unified School District offers the course through the General Adult Division of City College. The California Department of Education administers the program. Graduates will receive certificates of completion.

Beautifiers Seek Design

The Woman's Division of the Chamber of Commerce Saturday announced a contest beginning today for the best emblem to typify the object of a city beautification campaign scheduled for May.

The winning entry will become the official emblem for Long Beach beautification projects, a Woman's Division news release said.

Entries will be accepted through April 29. The drawing must be in pen and ink on white paper about 9x12 inches, sponsors said.

Entries, the release said, should be of a stencil type drawing that clearly would signify the clean-up, fix-up, paint-up nature of the campaign.

L.B. Microwaves to Hear George Tillitson

George Tillitson of General Dynamics, Pomona, past president of the San Bernardino Microwave Society, will address the meeting of the Long Beach Microwave Society at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Bayshore branch library, Second Street and Bayshore Avenue.

WEEK-LONG OPEN HOUSE

Library System Plans Behind-Scenes Tours

Long Beach's main public library, busier than ever, will offer behind-the-scenes tours this week in celebration of National Library Week.

Staff members will conduct visitors through areas in the building normally closed to the public, Miss Blanche Collins, city librarian, announces.

Patrons will see books for the entire system being ordered and received, prepared for the shelves and shipped to the branches.

They also may observe the inspection and cleaning of phonograph records, preparation of special indexes and information on files, mending of books, the tab room controlling overdue-book procedures and the security measures taken to insure inventory control.

Hours of the open house cover the normal main library schedule—from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Groups interested in guided tours are asked to telephone the library in advance.

Flood-Curb Report Given by Engineer

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The 180 storm drains, built under the 1952 and 1958 bond-issue programs, did an "excellent job" during the recent rain storms, according to M. E. Salsbury, chief engineer of the County Flood Control District.

Salsbury will report Tuesday to the Board of Supervisors on progress of the $179-million 1952 program and the $225-million 1958 program.

* * * *

ONLY 10 OF THE 140 projects included in the 1952 program remain to be completed, Salsbury said. Of these, seven are under construction now and the remaining three will get under way this summer.

The 1958 program called for 184 storm-drain projects. Fifty of these already have been completed. Another 54 either are under construction or are awaiting award of contract, Salsbury said.

By next winter, he reported, seven more 1952 projects and 27 of the 1958 storm drains will be ready to handle storm waters.

* * * *

WHILE considerable progress has been achieved in meeting county drainage problems by the two bond issues, Salsbury pointed out there still are many areas in need of facilities.

A 1958 survey by the Flood Control District, in cooperation with all cities in the county and the county engineer's office, revealed that nearly 2,000 storm drain deficiencies existed at that time.

I, P-T Group Hosts State Credit Meeting

Members of the Independent, Press-Telegram Employes Federal Credit Union will be hosts and will provide entertainment at a meeting of the Long Beach Chapter, California Credit Union League, 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Lakewood Country Club. Ray Gise is president of the newspaper credit union.

Harold Hines, assistant to the publisher of the newspaper, will give a short talk. The program will include Murray McDonald as master of ceremonies; Anne Barrows, concert contralto, and Don Nunez, all members of the newspaper staff; Julien Musafia, head of Long Beach State College piano department and assistant music critic of the newspaper; Vernon Overmeyer, piano soloist and accompanist for Miss Barrows; the 4 Bits of Harmony, barbershop quartet of Dick Montgomery, baritone; Nunez, bass; George Tait, tenor, and Murray Black, lead; and Syd Buszer, dinner hour strolling troubadour.

Parks Set Easter Play Programs

Park playgrounds will carry out an active Easter vacation week program, Duane George, associate director of recreation, said Saturday.

All park playgrounds will hold an Easter egg hunt at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Dancing, crafts and various Easter-connected activities are planned for pre-school aged youngsters.

Elementary school youngsters' program includes games, crafts, square and folk dancing.

For teenagers, games crafts, contests, social dancing and other events are scheduled.

Events also are planned for adults.

Events differ at various playgrounds, George said, advising that for particulars the park playground offices be contacted.

DEADLINE

Only Four Days to Register for June 5 Primary

Only four days remain for unregistered voters to sign up for the June 5 primary.

On the last day, Thursday, deputy registrars will remain on duty at City Hall through the evening hours as long as the expected late rush continues, City Clerk Margaret Heartwell announced Saturday.

Registrars also are stationed at numerous other places in Long Beach business districts.

Name Schools Week Officials

Orlo R. Peugh has been named chairman of the Long Beach Citizens Public Schools Week Committee, it was announced today.

Murray T. Courson has been appointed secretary for the group which will assist in the planning for the event in the Long Beach Unified School District.

Theme for the observance from April 30 through May 4 is "The Public School—America's Heritage and Strength." Visitations to schools and special displays will be featured.

OTHER MEMBERS of the citizens' committee are Perry H. Barrett, Melvin R. Berbower, Douglas J. Blair, Kenneth B. Conklin, William T. Corbusier, Herbert M. Cronquist, James S. Ellis, Arthur R. Erskine, John H. Ferguson, Henry A. Field, John L. Holbrook, Glen A. Houpt, William P. Kachmarik, Joseph M. Kennick.

Also, Benjamin C. Lewis, Harry R. Marland, Floyd O. Mason, Victor I. McCarty, Britton Miller, Kenneth R. Niles, W. Vernon Richardson, Kirby C. Serles, Emil M. Simich, G. Wesley Small, Earl A. Swenson, Sherwin W. Tubbs, Charles L. Vickers and Charles J. Wentz.

Factory Pay Average Sets L.B. Record

State officials have announced that the average Long Beach industrial worker earned $108.53 a week in February. The announcement said this was a high for the month.

John F. Henning, California Director of Industrial Relations, said the figure was a drop of $2.04 from January but topped February 1961 by $4.64 per week or 4.5 per cent.

The buying power resulting from these earnings was 3.6 per cent above the February 1961 figure, Henning said.

* * * *

HE ADDED that the major cause of February's drop from January earnings was contraction of the working week from 40.5 hours to 39.9 hours. He cited reduced overtime in auto, petroleum and aircraft industries, as well as poor weather.

The February workweek was four-tenths of an hour longer than that of 1961, said Henning. He said average hourly earnings dropped from January by 1 cent to $2.72, but were above 1961 by 9 cents.

Boys' Club Week to Be Observed

National Boys' Club Week will be marked this week with the four Long Beach Boys' Clubs holding events to be climaxed with a track and field meet Saturday at Long Beach City College.

The program, announced by Ray Stricklin, president, follows:

Downtown Branch, 1585 Chestnut Ave.: Doll carriage parade for little sisters of members, 7 p.m. Thursday.

East Branch, 1205 Freeman: ice-cream social, Dixieland band, Model T car display and movie, 6 p.m. Tuesday.

West Branch, 1858 Willard: William Adler, top billiard play, 7 p.m. Wednesday.

North Branch, 711 Via Wanda: Father-son comedy basketball game, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"National Boys' Club Week," said Stricklin, "highlights the year-round Boys' Club program which is designed to fight delinquency by promoting juvenile decency."

Ruling on Heiress' Case Due

Superior Court Judge Robert P. Kneeland in Santa Ana has promised an early ruling on a demurrer filed to toss out heiress Joan Irvine Burt's writ of mandate against the Irvine Co.

Mrs. Burt is seeking to force the Irvine Co. to allow her to have private legal counsel at board meetings. At a lengthy hearing Friday, Irvine Co. attorneys argued it would be chaos if each board member had a private attorney at board meetings.

Judge Kneeland took the case under submission late Friday to review written briefs submitted by both Mrs. Burt's attorney and the Irvine Co. counsel.

The case originally was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court in February, 1960, but Irvine Co. officials won a change of venue to Orange County Superior Court.

Big Gift Phase of Y Building Drive Opens

The big gifts phase of the Long Beach YMCA's $1.196 million "Buildings for Youth" campaign to expand YMCA facilities here opened last week under the charmanship of Earl A. Fast.

Fast has 50 prominent citizen-volunteers on his team including Norbert Dean, Robert A. Wenke, Harry J. Moore, Herman Parker, Weckford Morgan and Dr. John Morgan, vice chairmen.

Public phase of the campaign will be held the latter part of May.

Harry Buffum is chairman of the Citizens Committee sponsoring the "Building for Youth" campaign.

Norbert Dean, president of the Long Beach YMCA, says there is a critical need to fill the campaign quota to provide:

1. A community YMCA family-type center for the booming Los Altos — East Long Beach area.

2. An all-purpose type gymnasium for the Lakewood branch Y.

3. Complete the expansion and renovation of both the North Long Beach and Downtown YMCA branches.

Directing the citywide campaign is Bruce E. Gates of the national council of YMCAs. Dr. John Morgan heads a special committee in the Los Altos area, proposed locale of the community center YMCA building.

Going-Away Party for a Young Man

THE ARMED SERVICES have never held very closely to constitutional principles in either the trial or punishment of accused persons.

Through the years, however, public pressure has produced closer adherence to democratic and humane procedures.

Down in Norfolk, Va., the Marine Corps turned the clock back this week and imposed what clearly was cruel and unusual punishment on a youngster scarcely old enough to shave.

The youngster, age 20, had already served two years in a military prison for larceny and unauthorized leave. Technically, he had already been discharged from the service. But the Marines gave him a little farewell party.

The prisoner was escorted from his quarters by three drummers playing a death march. He was marched to a position front and center in a Marine formation. An order of discharge was read aloud. Then the prisoner was escorted between long rows of Marines who turned their backs on him as he approached. He was escorted to the gate, handed a paper bag containing his belongings, and released to resume his life as a private citizen.

All this was not quite as bad, of course, as the Civil War ceremony in which the prisoner, with head shaven and with the letter of his crime burned into his cheek by a hot iron, was escorted through the camp by drummers. The scar of that treatment was visible for the remainder of the man's life.

In the case of the young Marine, his experience has left no scar—except the hidden one within which will haunt him, and perhaps society, for the rest of his days.

It's the Season, the Reason . . .

HE WAS A MIDDLE-AGED man with a sag in the middle and an ingrained grumpiness. He smoked too many cigars, drank too much beer, and complained disproportionately about Elizabeth Taylor and public transportation.

Some had given him up as a hopeless case of irascibility and orneriness, a man jaded and sour. And then one Sunday morning, at an hour when he usually lay snoring like a moose, his wife saw him standing in the doorway with a light in his eye.

He had on a short-sleeved shirt, a billed cap, and the old army pants she had let out for him five times. She sat up in bed. He bent forward, rubbed his hands together, straightened up, and came down overhand in a movement that remided her at once of a dancing bear and, strangely, Sandy Koufax. Suddenly in her heart she knew that everything would be all right—until September at least.

"George," she exclaimed happily. "It's the baseball season again, isn't it?"

He pulled out a cigar, cocked one eye at her, and said in almost civil tones:

"You bet, kid. How did you guess?"

Armed Forces Go Jet First-Class

By the I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Defense Department air travel on commercial airlines in the United States cost $72.7 million last year, the bulk of it going for first-class flights.

Comptroller General Jacob Campbell indicated that the armed forces are too considerate of their various travelers.

Of the $72.7 million spent, he said, $49.3 million of it went for first-class tickets in spite of the fact that on the same plane—in the instances of jet travel—the fare would be 20 per cent less tourist.

He cited the case of an Army colonel who flew from Washington to Denver last fall to help plan an American Legion convention.

The officer went first class on an all-jet flight, the Army explaining that this was necessary because his mission "could not be satisfied with regular fare aircraft."

Campbell points out, however, that tourist accommodations were available on the same plane.

The Army went first class 65.5 per cent of the time last year, the Navy 79.9 per cent of the time, but the Air Force had the real big time spenders, going tourist but 4.3 per cent of the time.

DEVOTED FANS of the Congressional Record probably have the impression that members of the House and Senate are unusually polite to their political enemies and they are to them, as they do during debate, as "honorable" gentlemen or "able" or any number of courtly phrases.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R., Ia.) is noted for plain talk, however, with a tongue to match a sharp mind. In a brief exchange with Rep. L. Wayne Hayes (D., O.) this past week (during debate on the Peace Corps bill) Gross needled:

"The gentleman from Ohio has all the answers to all the questions asked anytime, any place."

"I thank you," Hays said.

Gross continued:

"I want to nominate him for the Five-H Club—Hell, How He Hates Himself."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Opponents of Brown's Big Spending Make Their Point

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Once again, Gov. Edmund G. Brown's lieutenants in the state legislature will try to force through a $2.9 billion budget submitted by the administration.

The dismal failure of the Brown administration to get its budget in the budget session of the Legislature proclaims the fact that the opponents of unbridled spending of taxpayer money may stand a slightly better chance of getting more reductions.

MacARTHUR

The fact that the Republicans were unsuccessful once in beating down the $2.9 billion dollar figure, indicates they can do it again, if they choose. Thus, in this second special session of the Legislature, it is anticipated more attention will be paid to the desires of the minority.

It does not mean this special session will adjourn without a budget. In 1958, former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight was faced with a similar problem. His problem, however, was not one of party politics, but rather the battle four years ago between northern and southern legislators.

Knight was ready one minute after adjournment of the special session with another call, and kept the legislators in virtual continuous session until they finally came up with a budget.

Gov. Brown, however, apparently believed up to the last minute that the Republicans would break ranks, as they have done in the past, and that he would get a budget.

Now, however, the Legislature can start all over again with the procedures necessary to passage of the budget bill. It should take about three days if differences are settled, and again, it could take three weeks.

Patently, someone has to give. And the giving probably will be on both the Republican and Democratic sides of the fence, for even with the bitter controversy, the art of compromise has not been lost.

The Republicans have made their point, which was that Gov. Brown's budget could be stopped.

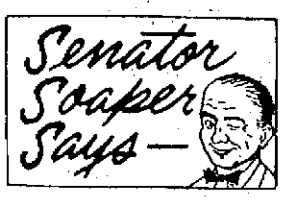

It is a peculiar fact that reducing the budget is not of as great concern to a lot of legislators as is the political implication contained in the budget fight. Past history indicates that budget reduction campaigns save but little money for the people who pay the bills.

If California legislators looked far enough ahead to save taxpayers money in the future, they would authorize a real business study of state operations by private consultants experienced in the administration of big enterprises.

* * * *

SUCH A STUDY would tell the people just how much value they are getting for their tax dollar. Following which, if they were not getting enough value, the people could elect representatives to the Legislature who would insist that changes in administration and the application of modern business principles be initiated.

But as long as politics control economy, this is probably a hopeless cause, but at least, it's a good one to think about, as the day is not too far distant when the tax burden could break the back of the taxpayers.

DREW PEARSON

Meeting Between De Gaulle, Fanfani Historic Occasion

WASHINGTON—When President De Gaulle flew to Turin last week to confer with Premier Fanfani, it didn't make any big headlines in the U.S.A. But that meeting marked an important milestone in the fight against communism for which the United States can take some credit.

The specific reason for the De Gaulle-Fanfani meeting was the degree of cooperation to be worked out between Western European nations for a possible United States of Europe. But what is important is not the details of the differences, but the fact that these two leaders discussed the question of European unity at all.

PEARSON

The man who deserves initial credit for pushing a United States of Europe is Count Carlo Sforza, long in exile in the U.S.A. during Mussolini's day. He made a modest living lecturing to American universities and women's clubs, writing articles for American newspapers, meanwhile learning firsthand the advantages of American unity.

After the war when Sforza became foreign minister of the first Italian republic, he began preaching the doctrine of European unity. He told his colleagues how the industrial North in the United States had the great advantage of markets in the agricultural South and West; and he urged France, Italy, Belgium and Holland to get the same advantage by uniting.

I well remember the restless old Count Sforza in Rome at Christmas 1947. He was with us during part of the journey of the Friendship Train, which arrived with food from the American people just as Italy was suffering one of its worst winters. The Italian Communist party, biggest outside Russia, was blasting the train. But the middle-of-the-road Italian government was enthusiastic in its welcome.

It was cold in Rome that winter. And old Count Sforza, clad in a thin coat, his scholarly beard keeping the wind from his loose collar, paced up and down the station platform alongside the Friendship Train, talking about his great goal — a United States of Europe.

Count Sforza is dead now. Were he alive he could hardly believe the progress Europe has made toward unity. And part of it results from the wise statesmanship of two men — George Marshall and Dean Acheson — who have been excoriated by the right wing as pro-Communists.

* * * *

HOWEVER, their foresight in pioneering of the Marshall Plan paved the way first for European reconstruction, second for European unity. They achieved far more than the right-wing extremists who use name-calling as their chief weapon against communism.

* * * *

NOTE — To illustrate the remarkable change in French-Italian relations as evidenced by the De Gaulle-Fanfani talks, take a speech made by Mussolini in October, 1934. Standing before 500,000 Fascists in Milan, Mussolini announced: "Relations with France have improved." He meant what he said. But he had been blasting the French for so many months that the crowd didn't believe him. It jeered with laughter.

BOB HOUSER

Anti-Red Petitioners Deny Any Abridgement of Rights

PROOF THAT it isn't difficult to find anti-Communists in California is the apparent success of petition carriers now getting signatures on Assemblyman Louis Francis' initiative measure to "outlaw subversive activities in California."

However, some good citizens who agree with the intent of the proposed amendment to the California Constitution but who have carefully read the entire proposition, have honest misgivings about the amendment's Section 3.

HOUSER

On intent, the amendment denies political party status or property tax exemption to Communists or advocates of subversive doctrine, prohibits their use of public buildings and requires teachers and other employes of public institutions to answer congressional and legislative committee inquiries concerning Communist affiliation and subversion.

How do you decide who are Communists and subversive advocates? Section 3 says the finding would be made:

". . . by an appellate or superior court, or by the grand jury of any county in this state, or by the attorney general of the state of California, or by any court, officer, board, commission, agency or other body of the government of the United States making such a finding pursuant to law. . . ."

THOSE ALARMED by this say it appears that accusation by this wide range of potential accusers would amount to conviction as a Communist; that the accused would have no recourse; that the Section 3 method should be rewritten to provide for jury trial.

Attorney John W. Doran of Long Beach, circulating the petitions locally, disagrees with this appraisal and feels that apprehension over Section 3 is unwarranted. Doran maintains there IS provision for judicial review and that the accused have recourse to sue for slander or for malicious prosecution.

Doran also denied that such persons as a federal marshal or a collector of customs could, through accusation, nail somebody as a Communist. He said the language of Section 3 noting that the finding must be made "pursuant to the law." This reservation, he says, eliminates capricious abuse of the amendment and restricts this accusation power to persons and agencies already approved by the federal government, except for the state authority which the amendment adds.

DESPITE MR. DORAN'S explanation, and despite an opinion by the state legislative counsel that the amendment probably would be upheld as constitutional by the state supreme court, the controversy persists.

Some candidates for statewide office, including former Vice President Nixon have expressed doubt over the measure's constitutionality. On the other hand, some have endorsed itendorsed it without qualification. Endorsers include GOP attorney general candidate Richard J. Dolwig and local GOP assembly candidate George Deukmjian.

A major attack, but only against the Section 3 part, was made last week by the Los Angeles Times editorially, charging that the section would confer "new and incredibly dangerous authority on grand juries" and a host of others. Doran takes specific exception to the charge on grounds already cited above.

Assemblyman Francis, San Mateo Republican, has been almost exclusively preoccupied with Communist hunting and, almost literally, with flag waving, for which he does not apologize. But his activities have earned him the right-wing brand and a gerrymandered district which would make his reelection difficult.

Apparently, for both these reasons, Francis has announced he will not seek reelection but will devote his time to direct the statewide campaign for his initiative amendment. The petition requires some 420,000 valid signatures. It is estimated that more than 300,000 already are on the dotted line.

PUBLIC FORUM

Health Plan Pushed on Taxpayer Time

EDITOR:

In view of the much discussed medical care for the aged and advocates of other type compulsory health insurance, it would do well to recall the findings of a Congressional Subcommittee of some years ago where it was found that government employes were behind a campaign to pressure Congress into passing a national compulsory health insurance law. This campaign was planned inside the government, on government time, supported by the government's publicity and propaganda machine and paid for by the taxpayers.

Investigation revealed that headquarters for the drive for this scheme was in the Federal Security Agency in Washington. The staff and resources of the Bureau of Research and Statistics in the Social Security Administration were found to be devoted freely to the preparation of phamphlets and propaganda literature for the CIO, AFL and Physicians Forum.

The members of this Subcommittee, of both parties, unanimously agreed that the efforts of certain federal bureaucrats to organize pressure against Congress to advance their ideas and increase their authority were a threat to our representative institutions and it was agreed that, with democracy almost every where under attack, that these efforts must be exposed and fought.

Maritime Strike 'Deplorable'

EDITOR:

The present maritime strike of Pacific Coast unions is now in its third week with no agreement reached nor is there any sign that negotiations will end in a forthcoming settlement.

My letter is directed at your readers, you and your staff, in asking your help to bring this deplorable situation to an immediate termination. It has resulted in the fact that American Flag ships are tied up in ports with many thousands of tons of freight on board that cannot be discharged or released to the cargo owners, who are desperately in need of their materials.

Nation by Doctors and for Doctors?

EDITOR:

Often of late I have begun to wonder, and the question is this: 'Are we becoming a nation by the doctors, of the doctors, and for the doctors?"

There have been many rumblings in the past few years to indicate that this may be so, but the latest to call this to my mind is the Long Beach Naval Hospital incident.

* * * *

IT WOULD seem that a committee, presumably representing an association of doctors of all Long Beach, has taken it upon themselves to advise our Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Armed Services Committee regarding the need for a Navy Hospital in this area, not only by letter, but also by personal representation. All this despite the fact that it has been known for some time that the Congress of the United States has been devoting considerable time to an investigation of these very facts, and no doubt has a great deal more information on the subject than the Long Beach Medical Assn. could ever hope to obtain.

The Committee for Defense of the Long Beach Medical Association has overstepped its bounds, and has in fact entered the field of lobbying, for which it is required by law to be registered in Washington as such.

This is a matter which affects the welfare of thousands of persons, and should not be made a football for the benefit of a few local doctors who stand to lose a few dollars because such a hospital would make Medicare and some other programs unnecessary in this locality.

Visitors To Park Nursery Will Discover Tour of Facilities Is Real Botanical Treat

Long recognized as one of the finest, most complete supplier of nursery products in Southern California, Park Nursery, 3842 E. 10th St., is completing another major expansion.

Adding more than an acre to the big facility, and several attractive new buildings, the nursery thus is keeping pace with the growth of the Long Beach area.

From the vast stock Park Nursery will continue to provide quality merchandise at competitive prices, the policy adopted when the firm was founded many years ago.

NOT JUST A NURSERY

Park is more than a nursery in the modern concept.

Under the guidance of Fred Wiesenhutter and crews of well trained specialists, Park Nursery has grown into a virtual botanical garden paradise where home owners can find the most complete, healthy growth of plants, trees, shrubs and garden supplies possible.

Visitors are welcome to browse around the 5½ acres and view the exotic tropical garden settings, the exquisite Fuchsia growths and see the huge beds of plants ready for transfer to home and gardens. No finer offerings of Azaleas and Camellias can be found anywhere.

Rose lovers will find more than 7,000 Rose bushes from which selections can be made. Shade (trees of varied sizes and fruit trees occupy another big section.

MUCH MORE

But beyond these offerings, Park Nursery provides customers with much, much more.

It has a high-style gift shop that is second to none.

Park Nursery's complete landscaping department, directed by William Abate, landscape architect is providing services to hundreds of homes and business firms in the Long Beach area.

The garden shop not only provides the finest of plants for exquisite settings but has a complete selection of garden benches, statutes, waterfalls, tables, potted plants and bedding plants. The garden shop also carries full lines of insecticides, fertilizers, tools and supplies to meet the needs of not only the home gardener but professional landscapers as well.

PLANTS GIFT WRAPPED

No larger selection of potted plants will be found anywhere. These will be gift wrapped with imported ribbons and papers and delivered anywhere in the area.

Complete lawn service is available at Park's, providing full renovation if needed or cleanup and pruning services.

The landscaping department welcomes conferences with anyone whether they have a small terrace or a large estate. Abate and his experts will discuss plantings, prepare drawings and the licensed landscape contractor will complete the work, no matter the size of the job.

The department also provides similar services for planters inside homes or buildings and offices.

OVER 50 YEARS OLD

The nursery was started by E. C. Wiesenhutter, father of the present owner, at 19th and Long Beach Blvd., more than 50 years ago. It then moved to Junipero and Broadway in 1914 and then to the site now occupied by Harriman-Jones Clinic on Cherry Ave., across from Bixby Park. This location gave the nursery the name Park, which it still retains.

In 1923 the elder Mr. Wiesenhutter moved to the present address where a brother had been operating a half-acre hot house development growing Maidenhair (fernery) for Los Angeles florists to use in bouquets.

The East 10th Street address was "out in the sticks at that time," explained Frederick Wiesenhutter. "They kept two cows in a shed behind the green houses." Mr. Wiesenhutter later bought out his brother's interests and began development of today's big nursery.

FINEST OF FUCHSIAS

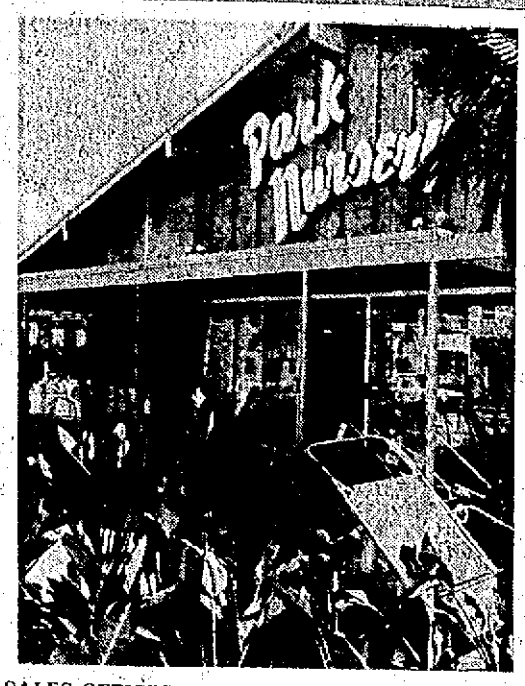

For years Park has been known for the outstanding selection of Fuchsias. These all are produced right in the Park Nursery facilities. While some plants are obtained from wholesale producers, Park Fuchsias are their own product.

Under the new concept at Park Nursery, visitors will find it a treat to visit the grounds any day of the year. While many nurseries are rather dormant except in the spring and summer season, Park has blooming potted plants available the year 'round.

FINE GIFT SELECTIONS

The gift shop, stocked with fine imports and exceptional American giftware was started largely as a Christmas shopping venture but now is a big part of the nursery with complete lines and beautiful gift wrapping available at all times.

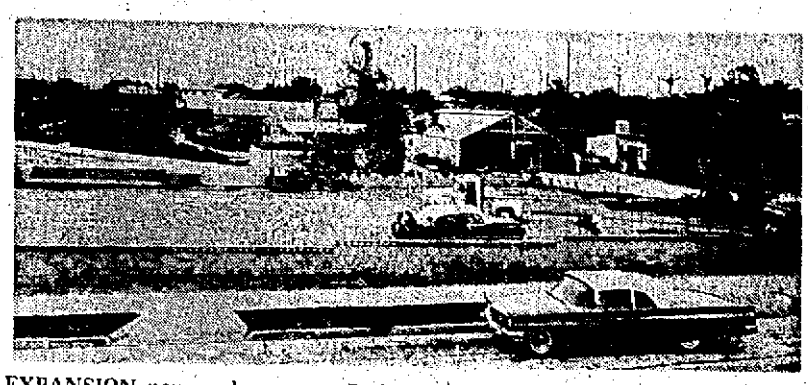

With the new expansion, in which Park took over more than an acre that had been school horticulture land, another half acre of free parking was provided in addition to providing room for additional buildings and floral beds.

SALES OFFICES and the Gift Shop are located in this building near the center of Park Nursery.

EXPANSION now under way at Park Nursery includes installation of the parking area in foreground and some new buildings in the rear.

EXOTIC TREES, shrubs and plants will be found by the hundreds in the lath-shaded areas at Park Nursery. Visitors are always welcome.

EXQUISITE GIFTS are found in Park's big Gift Shop. William Abate, landscape architect and buyer for the Gift Shop, is pictured with some of the gift items, many of them imported. The nursery also gift wraps and delivers potted blooming plants all year.

CAMP FIRE COOKOUT

Twins Jean and Joan Ybarrola, 9, of 4237 Boyar Ave., display their camping gear during Saturday's all-city camp rally for Long Beach Council of Camp Fire Girls. More than 700 girls took part in the affair, held at Camp Suanga, 459 E. 67th St.

Shell HQ Helps Voters Register

Long Beach headquarters for GOP gubernatorial candidate Joseph C. Shell will be open for voter registration Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Joe Kessler, Shell's local cochairman, said Saturday.

Thursday is the deadline for registration or reregistration for the June 5 primary election. Registrars in Shell's local office at 455 Long Beach Blvd. took more than 70 signatures Saturday.

Kessler said Shell had cancelled all speaking engagements this week because of the special Assembly session.

'RUN IN REVERSE'

L.B. Federal S&L's Deposits Pour In

There was a "run" on the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association last week—but it was a run in reverse.

This time customers weren't lined up to take out deposits. They were lined up to put money in. They deposited $30 million in the firm in one week.

The deluge of customers brought beams to Tom Gregory, admittedly a bit bewildered at this inundation of depositors. Gregory had just rewon control of the association from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

* * * *

AFTER 23 months of government operation, during which deposits dwindled from a high of $96 million to $28 million, the association was returned to Gregory and the FHLBB wiped out all charges against the association and its management, a spokesman for the association said.

Gregory was returned to control of the firm April 2, marching into the offices with $5 million in new savings and 60 employes, many of whom had been discharged when the board seized the firm April 22, 1960.

Before the first day was over former customers had brought in a record of $24,278,658.28 for deposit. By the week's end the association had more than doubled the low mark of $28 million reached in the FHLBB operation, said a spokesman for the firm.

* * * *

"MORE THAN half a million dollars was lost to shareholders when they withdrew their funds as a result of the federal seizure and attendant publicity," said Gregory. "This amount we have set aside to repay these people and they can have it merely by coming in and asking for it." More than $100,000 was repaid to shareholders in the first week.

Gregory said he bears no ill feelings toward the present member of the FHLBB. "They deserve a lot of credit," he said, "in helping to work out this long and vexing controversy."

PLAN PROGRAM

Charles Savitz (left), Long Beach restaurateur and Jewish Community Federation president, and Charles Payne, Municipal Band director, have helped prepare a special assembly to be held tonight. The program, at Wilson High School auditorium at 8 p.m., features author Leon Uris and Israeli consul Yaakov Nash in a dramatic presentation of the 1962 Jewish Welfare Fund campaign.

$318,566 Award Made for Land for Freeway.

SANTA ANA—A superior court jury has awarded an Orange woman $318,566 for 18½ acres of property to be used for the Orange Freeway. The jury decided the award for Mrs. Lillian A. Hinrichs for her property at the southwest corner of Katella and Collins Avenues. A condemnation suit for the property was filed by the State Division of Highways.

Kuchel Seeks to Free Funds for Smog Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., urged the government Saturday to release impounded funds for air pollution research so planned smog control studies in California can be launched.

In a letter to Secretary Abraham Ribicoff of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, Kuchel said California authorities were distressed by the fact that $425,000 which had been appropriated for the studies has been impounded by executive order.

This action, he added, has forced suspension of proposed contracts with the University of California at Riverside for exposing animals to air contaminated by automobile exhaust.

IT COST HIM

Just Got Into Bad Tax Habit

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Internal Revnue agents agree with Ralph A. Padgett, who says he has a habit of putting things off.

Padgett, 64-year-old jeweler, said in court that he always thought about figuring his income tax, but the deadlines came and went without his doing anything about it. Then, he said, he didn't file at all because he was afraid they'd find out about the other year.

Federal agents said a check back to 1929 showed Padgett never filed a federal return.

Padgett was found guilty specifically of evading taxes for 1955, 1956, and 1958. Judge William Warlick fined him $15,000.

Revenue agents said Padgett still owes an additional $13,000 in taxes, interest and penalties.

TROUBLE WITH FILMS . . .

Director Tells Movies' Errors

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everybody's got views on what's wrong with the movies. And some of the views make sense—such as those of director Edward Dmytryk.

"Screenwriting is poor," says Dmytryk, who has spent 40 of his 53 years in the business, "because too many first rate writers prefer to be third-rate directors."

Dmytryk maintains that a writer can't direct his own script objectively—he's too much in love with his own words. Said Dmytryk:

In recent years, there has been a big trend to make directors out of writers.

"How does a writer know anything about making a movie? For years, his job was finished the day the picture started shooting.

"Good writers, by nature, are introverted. Writing is really a form of escape."

* * * *

DIRECTORS, on the other hand, are the take-charge boys of the business—extroverts all.

"Studios are too timid about changing successful casting of stars," said Dmytryk.

He was the director who cast Dick Powell in tough melodramas such as "Murder, My Sweet."

"No one could see Powell as anything but Ruby Keeler's song-and-dance partner before this," Dmytryk recalls. Powell has since become a multi-millionaire, Dmytryk added:

* * * *

"STUDIOS always give the argument that the public will only pay to see their favorites in a certain type of role—for instance, since 'Room at the Top,' every script offered Laurence Harvey had him playing a heel. In 'Walk on the Wild Side,' I fought and fought to cast him as the warm, heroic Texas farm boy. And look what the picture is doing at the boxoffice. It's Columbia's top grosser at the moment."

OLD ORDER APPEARS TO BE CHANGING

New Generation May Dominate Oscar Race

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The old order changes, and the 33rd Academy Awards on Monday night will signal the arrival of a new generation in Hollywood.

No one knows the winners—only a foolish few would try to predict them. But those who collect the gilded Oscars are likely to represent a distinct break with the fading glitter of Hollywood's past.

Only two of the nominated stars — Spencer Tracy and Charles Boyer—date back to the movies' golden decade of the 30s. Nearly all of the acting nominees, star and supporting, are postwar products.

MONDAY NIGHT at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, the 2,500 voters of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences may well bestow instant stardom on a new crop of performers.

Here is how the major races appear to this fearless reporter:

Best actress — Audrey Hepburn was charming but miscast in "Breakfast at Tiffany's." Piper Laurie made an impressive comeback in "The Hustler," and Geraldine Page showed her vast skill in "Summer and Smoke."

But the race seems to narrow down to Sophia Loren ("Two Women") and Natalie Wood ("Splendor in the Grass"). If feeling against "Runaway" filming runs high, Miss Wood is likely to win.

Choice: Natalie Wood.

* * * *

BEST ACTOR—Boyer "Fanny" and Tracy "Judgment at Nuremberg" seem out of the running with the accent on youth. Stuart Whitman "The Mark" is a dark horse.

It's neck-and-neck between Paul Newman "The Hustler" and Maximilian Schell "Nuremberg." The latter had the advantage of originaling his role on television.

Choice: Maximilian Schell.

Best picture—"The Guns of Navrone" was the most enjoyed film of the year and could win on that basis. "Fanny" was a charmer, while "Hustler," "Nuremberg" and "West Side Story" stressed artistic values.

Choice: "West Side Story."

* * * *

BEST SUPPORTING actress—Rita Moreno "West Side" has a good chance, Una Merkel "Summer and Smoke" and Lotte Lenya "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" less so.

This is one race that narrows down to two veterans. Fay Bainter was the great strength of the otherwise unsuccessful "Children's Hour." Judy Garland was less impressive in "Nuremberg," but the drama of her comeback to films is perhaps too tempting for voters to pass up.

Choice: Judy Garland.

* * * *

BEST SUPPORTING actor—George C. Scott might have been a winner for "The Hustler," but his much-publicized request to be dropped from the race struck a sour note in Hollywood.

That leaves Jackie Gleason of the same film, Peter Falk "Pocketful of Miracles," Montgomery Clift "Nuremberg" and George Chakiris "West Side Story." The latter film seems likely to dominate the awards, hence—

Choice: George Chakiris.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Sid Chaplin's Wife She 'Act a Leetle'

By EARL WILSON

Charlie Chaplin's daughter-in-law, Noelle Adam, is just about the shapeliest most vivacious, most charming actress on Broadway—but she tells it much more colorfully.

"I sink I'm a stagehand who act a lettle," she says.

The "Beautiful Wife" of handsome Sydney Chaplin explained the other day, sitting in their Central Pk. W. apartment with an ear cocked for messages from their 19-month-old son Stephen a couple of rooms way, that she had many "problems" in Richard Rogers' hit, "No Strings," "shonjay" (change) the scenery.

* * * *

IN THIS SHOW, the actors frequently lug or push the scenery around; learning the lines was for Noelle not so hard as learning where to move the furniture.

"I fell a 'undred times because I couldn't find the marks to put," she told me. "In Cleveland, I push a screen too much. It all come down. I theenk 'Wot have I done?' "

But the only complaint against Noelle now is that she isn't seen often enough. Bravo to the genius who thought that a photographer's assistant (that's what she plays) should mostly wear black tights and run around with her chest thrust forward.

* * * *

SYDNEY WAS just rushing out to pick up the latest new Jaguar the other day when I was there. Noelle was kind enough to ask "Would you like a lettle port?"—I would—and, as she sipped hers, she spoke fondly about the car.

"But eet's a bachelor car," she protested. "We can't even put de baby in!"

The baby Stephen "lewk like" his grandfather—"he has zat curly hair . . . blue eyes . . ." and Grandfather Charlie has seen him several times, though new babies of course are no novelty to Grandfather Charlie.

"YES, 'ee's going to be a father again . . . eight times already . . . 10 with Sydney and Charlie! They say he's in great shape. I guess so!"

Noelle and her husband first met in Sardi's about four years ago, when she was "wiz a ballet, 'Broken Date.' " Gene Kelly introduced them. And now Sydney sees her mostly at home or after the theater—thus far he hasn't even been able to see her in "No Strings."

" 'Eez working in 'eez show," she explains.

THE WEEK-END WINDUP . . . Herb Shriner turned down a $225,000 offer to become TV spokesman for a toothpaste company . . . Flamenco dancer Jose Greco's son Jose Luis, 9, joined the cast of "A Gift of Time" . . . Jerry Lester shucked his shoes and Twisted barefoot at The Roundtable . . . Screenwriter Evan Hunter says he'll take the first draft of the "Marnie" script to Monaco to show to Princess Grace.

The Lance Reventlows (Jill St. John) are celebrating their second ann'y with a skiing trip to Colorado . . . Inger Stevens may nab the Julia Harris role in the touring company of "Shot in the Dark" . . . Now there's a novelty baseball tune (by Greg Brand) called "I Love Maris in the Springtime" . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: An air raid shelter, it has been noted is a Krush-proof box.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Some girls never grow up. They think every man they meet is Santa Claus.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's almost income tax time, which recalls Goodman Ace's line: "Who says you can't be wounded by a blank?"

ALAN KING SAYS at the Waldorf that many women who are dieting sneak a few candies while watching TV: "They figure that if it's dark, and nobody is watching them, they won't gain any weight." That's earl, brother.

SIDEWALK SENATE

DO YOU FAVOR COMPULSORY RETIREMENT AT AGE 65?

(Asked at Broadway and Pine Avenue.)

JOSEPHINE CHANCE, 1535 Golden Ave., secretary: "That's too young. We're living longer; our health is better. I hear lots of people gripe because they have come to retirement age. They'd rather be independent, make their own way, instead of Social Security or any lesser income.

CHANCE ROSE

PHILIP ROSE, 5840 Conant St., psychologist: I'm not in favor. It depends on the individual—his health, his intellectual ability, etc.

MARILYN BRADY, 121 Santa Ana Ave., bookkeeper: I don't think it's right. A person at 65 has as much intelligence and ability as younger people—and look at all that experience!

BRADY PADIGO

LILLIAN PEDIGO, 338 W. Poplar St., Compton, homemaker: Any number of people at that age are quite capable of working on.

FLORENCE GENDRON, Villa Riviera, artist: No, there shouldn't be compulsory retirement at 65 or any other age. I'm going to work until I drop in my tracks.

GENDRON SYLVESTER

PAT SYLVESTER, 4050 Pine Ave., homemaker: A person of 65 has experience and training—and that experience is valuable.

FRANDO PAICH

BILL FRANDO, 1958 Magnolia Ave., rug cleaner: Not everyone, No. It should be up to the person whether he wants to retire or not.

SALLY PAICH, 937 Magnolia Ave., homemaker: If they feel they want to retire at 65, or if they want to work longer, it should be up to them.

$3-Million Newporter Inn Opens

A plush resort hotel, dubbed the Newporter Inn and heralded as the Southland's finest such hostelry, starts a four-day grand opening today.

Built at cost of $3 million, the Newport Beach hotel is a three-story structure of 115 deluxe rooms, including several suites; a restaurant, shops, nine-hole golf course and two swimming pools.

Studding the property are four villas, each of three bedrooms and with its own swimming pool.

Owner-builder George D. Buccola of Newport Beach imported an electrically controlled fountain from Austria to grace the grounds.

* * * *

HE OPENED the hostelry to the Orange County Press Club, city and county officials, and civic leaders as a preview showing.

William Munce, vice president of the Newporter Hotel Corp., said that German-born Oscar 'Zink will be chef d'cuisine, coming from a swank Phoenix hotel. Arthur V. Allen will be general manager and Ray Schmitz will be resident manager.

Decor of the hotel is modern, but with a nostalgic touch of yesteryear. It has a "Regency Room" and one in New Orleans style.

The hotel, on Jamboree Road near Coast Highway, is on 20 acres of land. It overlooks Newport Harbor and Newport Dunes on one side and Irvine Coast Country Club on the other.

U.A.R. Releases Frenchmen Held as Israel Spies

CAIRO (UPI) — The State Security Court Saturday ordered the release of four Frenchmen and seven Egyptians charged with spying for Israel and with plotting to assassinate President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The surprise move cleared the way for possible resumption of Franco-U.A.R. relations broken at the time of the Suez invasion in 1956.

Informed sources said the U.A.R. action resulted from the French decision to grant independence to Algeria and Nassar's efforts to improve Arab-French relations since the Algerian cease-fire was signed.

Baby Suffocates

COMMERCE (UPI) — Six-week-old Tamora Ann Wagner suffocated in her crib Saturday. Her mother, Mrs. William Wagner, said she found Tamora dead when she got up to feed the infant.

MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER MAKES PLEDGE

Vows to Restore Slain Dad's Reputation

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (UP)—A 20-year-old college coed Saturday pledged to use the millions in her murdered father's estate to offset damage she feels his reputation suffered in death.

"Daddy was our whole family and after this is all over, we will devote his estate to reestablishing his good name," said Valerie Brenhouse.

The Pembroke College coed spoke on behalf of her mother, two sisters and a brother in making the pledge at a news conference in a home next door to the one in which wealthy financier Maitland Brenhouse was found shot to death Thursday.

As the girl was expressing sorrow for whoever shot her father to death, police continued questioning a 34-year-old commission sales merchant who was being held on $150,000 bail as a material witness in the slaying.

"Daddy, if he was alive, would tell you that whoever killed him was not in his right mind or else they got the wrong person," the girl said in a steady voice.

Soon after the murder was discovered in the fashionable home where Brenhouse lived after having become estranged from his wife, Nora, 47, police noted that his free-wheeling financial dealings "may have hurt some people."

Authorities also disclosed that the 50-year-old college economics professor turned wizard financier was something of a man with the ladies.

"My father had made enough money and he planned to resume teaching," the daughter told the news conference

After questioning more than 60 persons, some of them residents of this exclusive Westchester County area, William Degna, 34, of White Plains, was held as the material witness.

Dist. Atty. Leonard Rubenfeld explained his holding Degna by saying "we feel he has information he is withholding that is vital to this investigation."

Dodgers, Braves Tangle Today

By GEORGE LEDERER

Don Drysdale and Lew Burdette, two of the National League's best and also most controversial pitchers, are rivals at Blair Field this afternoon in the final exhibition game of the spring.

The occasion is Long Beach's second annual junior baseball benefit game, the innovation of Dodgers general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi and co-sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram. It matches the Dodgers and Braves in the first all-major league game at Long Beach in 15 years. Game time is 1:30.

Both clubs are donating net receipts to Long Beach's growing junior baseball program. Thirteen leagues, ranging from Little League to American Legion junior teams, will receive equal shares of the gate to purchase uniforms and other equipment.

The Dodgers defeated Dallas-Ft. Worth, 5-3, in last year's inaugural and distributed $3,769 among 11 junior leagues. Receipts from today's game may be nearly doubled. Dallas-Ft. Worth received 30 per cent of the gross gate, but the Braves, through the courtesy of president John McHale, are asking reimbursement only for expenses.

Another capacity crowd of 4,500 is expected to be on hand when Mayor Edwin Wade throws out the first ball to City Manager John Mansell. All box and reserved seats have been sold, but 2,000 general admission tickets, priced at $1.50, will go on sale at 10 a.m.

Each club will display at least three opening day line-up members. The Dodgers, under the direction of coaches Leo Durocher and Greg Mulleavy, are bringing Ron Fairly, Wally Moon and Tommy Davis. The Braves, coached by Jimmy Dykes and Whitlow Wyatt, will show Eddie Mathews, Roy McMillan, Del Crandall and Lee Maye.

Crandall, the probable opening day catcher for Warren Spahn, will play first base today. Probable lineups:

BRAVES	DODGERS
Roy McMillan, ss	Dick Tracewski, ss
Del Crandall, 1b	Larry Burright, 2b
Tommie Aaron, rf	Ron Fairly, cf
Eddie Mathews, 3b	Wally Moon, lf
Lee Maye, cf	Tommy Davis, rf
Lou Klimschock, 2b	Jim Harkness, 1b
Mike Krsnich, lf	Ken McMullen, 3b
Bob Uecker, c	Norm Sherry, c
Lew Burdette, p	Don Drysdale, p

Drysdale and Burdette will be tuning up for starting assignments later in the week. Drysdale (13-10 last year) is scheduled to face Cincinnati Thursday night at Dodger Stadium. Burdette (18-11) draws the Giants at Candlestick Park Wednesday.

Strangely, Drysdale and Burdette did not meet last year. They have dueled, however, in many pitching classics, topped by the memorable 1959 playoff game at the Coliseum. Neither figured in the 12-inning decision that catapulted the Dodgers into the World Series.

Their last meeting was a classic, too. Drysdale tossed a two-hitter and emerged with a 2-0 victory over Burdette, who allowed five hits at County Stadium, Sept. 11, 1960.

Controversy surrounds both righthanders. Burdette is accused of throwing a spitter. Drysdale has been accused of throwing at the hitters. There is never a dull moment when these two are on the mound. There shouldn't be today, even for an exhibition game.

Drysdale will be followed by rookie lefthanders Pete Richert and Nick Willhite and, if necessary, by righthanded rookies Thad Tillotsen and Jack Smith. Burdette's successors will be Bob Shaw, Tony Cloninger and Don McMahon, all regulators or top reliefers in the Braves' rotation.

Larry Sherry and Ed Roebuck are other Dodger pitchers who will appear, but only on the sidelines. Roebuck will test his left knee, bruised severly by Giant Ernie Bowman's line drive at Phoenix Friday.

Drysdale's length of service today will depend mainly on Roebuck's condition. If Roebuck shows no ill effects, Drysdale may try for six innings. But if Roebuck cannot throw properly, Drysdale will work only two innings today and be saved for possible relief appearances in the first two games against the Reds.

In Saturday night's exhibition game at San Diego, Duke Snider's fourth-inning homer produced the only runs as the Dodgers scored their first shutout of the season, defeating Milwaukee 2-0.

Lefthanders Sandy Koufax and Ron Perranoski and rookie righthander Joe

Artful Arnie Nears 3rd Masters Title

Shoots 69 to Lead by Two

By MILTON RICHMAN

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, aiming to atone for last year's memorable blowup, maintained his two-stroke lead through the third round of the Masters Golf Tournament Saturday with a three-under-par 69.

A gallery of more than 40,000, largest ever in the history of this event, saw the solemn-looking 32-year-old Palmer start slowly on the first two holes and then shoot a 37-32 for a 54-hole total of 205 that gave him a two stroke lead over onrushing Dow Finsterwald, who fired a seven-under-par 65 to take over second place with 207.

Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa, who began Saturday's third round in second place, two strokes behind Palmer, carded a one-under-par 35-36—71 that dropped him to third place with 209, one stroke ahead of U. S. Open champion Gene Littler, who played in the same twosome with Palmer and had a 36-35—71.

* * * *

PALMER, reminded everywhere he goes of that horrendous double bogey six on the final hole that enabled Player to beat him for the Masters' title a year ago, has virtually dedicated himself to eradicating that blemish from his golfing background.

"I've won the Masters twice," he said, following Saturday's third straight sub-par round, "but it seems the only thing everyone remembers is how I lost it on the 18th hole last year.

"Well, I'm in front now and I hope I stay there."

With only a two-stroke lead over the determined 26-year-old Player before the start of play Saturday, Palmer got off on the wrong foot under overcast skies when he pushed his very first tee shot into a clump of trees on the right.

His second shot was no bargain, either, winding up to the right of the green, and to compound the damage he chipped poorly and had to settle for a bogey five on the 400-yard opening hole.

* * * *

THAT TURNED out to be his only bogey of the day, however, and before he was finished, Palmer, who won this event in 1958 and again in 1960, picked up four birdies.

As it turned out, Palmer needed every one of them because the curly-haired 32-year-old Finsterwald, often scorned as "too conservative," fired seven birdies and had 12 one-putt greens as he came

Pender Rips Britisher

BOSTON (UPI) — Challenger Paul Pender regained his share of the middleweight championship Saturday night with a decisive unanimous decision over British titlist Terry Downes, the Cockney bookmaker who became champion when Pender retired in their last fight.

Downes, blood gushing from his nose and a deep gash over his left eye, was on the short end of all three scoring cards. There was no suggestion of a close "Boston decision" wherein the local fighter is favored.

Pender won the cards of the two judges, 145-143, and 146-141, and that of the referee, 144-143. He was a 147-142 winner of the UPI card.

Downes won only two rounds in the fight — the first and the fifth—and it was Pender on a landslide thereafter before an 11,500 Boston Garden crowd.

Downes, who lost a TKO to Pender here more than a year ago before winning the title on Pender's surrender in London last July, suffered the cut beside his nose in the sixth round. The deep gash over the left eye opened in the 12th round.

The victory gave Pender a title recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe for an expected title-clearing bout with Gene Fullmer, the middleweight king recognized by the National Boxing Association.

It was Downes' nose—which needed 14 stitches after his first fight with Pender here in July 1961—that was Pender's pet target. Pender, fighting in angry free-swinging flourishes particularly after being driven against the ropes, first drew blood from a small cut near Downes' eye in the fourth round.

While Pender was aiming a steady series of left jabs and an occasional short right at Downes' bleeding targets, the British boxer continued to concentrate on the body attack which had forced Pender's retirement after nine rounds in London last July.

Massachusetts' boxing officials, concentrating heavily on rules protecting the boxers as a result of the Benny (Kid) Paret death in New York, did not interrupt the bout though the referee paid close attention to Downes' wounds.

There were no knockdowns in the bout though Pender accidentally pushed Downes between the upper strands of the ring ropes in the eighth round and again in the fifth. Neither was ruled a knockdown by referee Jimmy McCarron.

"The next guy I want is Fullmer," said Pender later in his dressing room.

Crowd Lines Fairway to Watch Arnold Palmer Hit From Rough Saturday

CELTS ROMP

Can Lakers Rebound?

BOSTON (AP)—Neither the winning Boston Celtics nor vanquished Los Angeles was thinking in terms of a short series following Saturday's National Basketball Association playoff finals opener.

The Celtics, after a slow start, rallied to whip the Lakers 122-108, but in the dressing rooms afterward there weren't many thoughts of 1959 when Boston swept the same foe in four straight.

"I'm afraid the Lakers can bounce back big tomorrow," Celtics' coach Red Auerbach said. "They've been doing it all year. And their coach, Fred Schaus, has a great knack along those lines."

"If we can take one tomorrow we're right in the thick of it again," Schaus said in the Lakers' room. "I think we'll do it."

Trailing 24-15 in the opening period, Boston got a three-point play from crippled Frank Ramsey, then saw old pro Bob Cousy either score or assist on the Celtics' next 11 points.

"I've long ago stopped trying to figure it out," Cousy said, "but I felt great today. I wasn't exhausted from Thursday night's final with Philadelphia as I felt I might.

We got off to slow start today but were more tired mentally than physically.

"In that state it was good we fell behind at the start. It woke us up."

* * * *

THE GAME remained tight until late in the second quarter when Cousy fed Ramsey a sleight-of-hand pass and scored two long set shots to begin the drive toward victory.

In that same second stanza, pesky K. C. Jones scored six points, intercepted several passes and assisted two more buckets while Bill Russell and Jim Loscutoff contributed seven points each to the Celts to a 60-52 halftime lead.

Channel 9, 11:30 a.m.

K. C. Jones continued to play although he suffered a broken nose in a collision with a Jim Krebs elbow in the second quarter.

* * * *

LOS ANGELES star Elgin Baylor, the highly publicized Army private who continues to play on passes and furloughs, topped the Lakers with 35 points while Jerry West had 21 and Rudy LaRusso 18.

In addition to the national television audience, a Boston Garden crowd of 7,467 watched the opener. The second game will be played here today before the two teams shift to Los Angeles for games No. 3 and 4 on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

L.B. STATE SHOCKS CAL CREW

OAKLAND (Special)—Long Beach State College stunned California's Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. defeating champions Saturday by 3½ lengths in the feature race of a four-event regatta on the Oakland Estuary.

Cal's coach Jim Lemon might have underestimated the opposition because he did not use his three lettermen off last year's IRA champion crew. But he

Dodgers, Yanks—Who Else?

Elsewhere in this section you'll note that our staff members made their predictions on the forthcoming major league races. Like the rest of the "experts" throughout the nation, our gang went along with the Yankees and Dodgers to triumph in their respective circuits.

It's impossible to pick against the Yankees unless—as Don Hardin claims—one allows sentiment to stand in the way of better judgment.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

The Dodgers — as even boss Walter O'Malley declares in Jerry Wynn's Man-to-Man column today—have the best team in their circuit. They also have ingredients to be the most erratic.

I feel sorry for Walter Alston, the field pilot. He is squarely on the spot. Anything short of a pennant for the Dodgers possibly means his job.

"Everybody says the Dodgers should have won easily last year," sighed the quiet man after a troublesome game in Florida a few weeks ago.

"But look here. We led the league in strikeouts, as we always do AND we also led in hit batsmen and home runs given up. We also were a very bad sixth in earned-run-averages and runs allowed.

"Nobody thinks about that. All they remember is that the Dodgers led the league in strikeouts, so they should have won the pennant.

"Another thing. We made more errors last season than any Dodger team in recent history. We were fifth in defense last year, while we're usually the best in the National League.

"I hope the boys got all their wild pitches, gopher balls and fielding blunders out of their system last year because if they haven't they may star in Spokane when June rolls around."

SURPRISINGLY, the defending champion Reds are given little chance anywhere of repeating. I thought Cincinnati was a lucky team last year and I can see them (on paper) as being no better than fourth.

The club I like as most capable of toppling the Dodgers is St. Louis. I'm not alone in that respect, either.

The name of Johnny Keane will never send autograph seekers into a frenzy because the Cardinal pilot is an unknown. Yet, he's one of the most impressive baseball strategists I've ever seen.

He's got a solid team—the Cards LED the N.L. in pitching last season, if you didn't realize it, and were SECOND in hitting—and you can't forget that after Keane took over as pilot in midseason, St. Louis posted the BEST won-lost record in the league.

SAN FRANCISCO also is solid, but does any team in San Francisco ever win a pennant? No. The Giants and 49ers annually fold like $4.95 pup tents when the real racing commences. I will never pick a San Francisco team until one of them shows me it can win a pennant.

Milwaukee could collapse horribly this year, even though the Braves have a crackerjack infield. Ponder what might happen if Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette run out of gas . . . and don't be surprised if this is the year the tank springs a leak.

Pittsburgh is no better than its fifth place team of '61, while everybody knows Chicago, Philadelphia, Houston and the Mets are around just for the exercise . . . or laughs.

WHO WILL FINISH SECOND to the Yankees? While everybody seems to favor Detroit, I don't. The Tigers made a magnificent run last term, but I think they shot their best bolts in so doing.

Al Lopez' Chicago White Sox intrigue me. They look like the old Chisox go-go outfits of a few seasons back.

"We're going to revolutionize baseball with singles and running like hell," Lopez told us in Florida. "I've got Jim Landis, Luis Aparicio, Charlie Smith and Mike Hershberger (.310 in '61 at San Diego) as guys who can run."

The Chisox also have Joe Cunningham at first base, Sherm Lollar catching and a solid mound department in Juan Pizarro, Early Wynn, Frank Baumann, Ray Herbert and Turk Lown. If Herb Score finally comes back, look out for the Chisox.

THE REST OF THE A.L. seems to drop drastically after the three already-mentioned squads. I give Cleveland some chance for a part of the purse because young manager Mel McGaha impresses me in the same manner as Keane.

I don't think Billy Hitchcock will be able to handle a prima donna Baltimore club. A few examples, which can't be printed here, were shown when California writers were in Miami last month.

Obviously, nobody imagines Boston, Kansas City, the Angels, Senators or Twins will scare anybody, except their poor managers.

Well, that's our summation. Please destroy it immediately after reading.

Moeller allowed the Braves only four hits and struck out 15. Moeller, who came on in the sixth, accounted for seven of the strikeouts.

Los Angeles got only three hits. Carl Willey retired the first 11 Dodgers in order. Then, with two out in the fourth, Wally Moon singled and Snider followed with his home run.

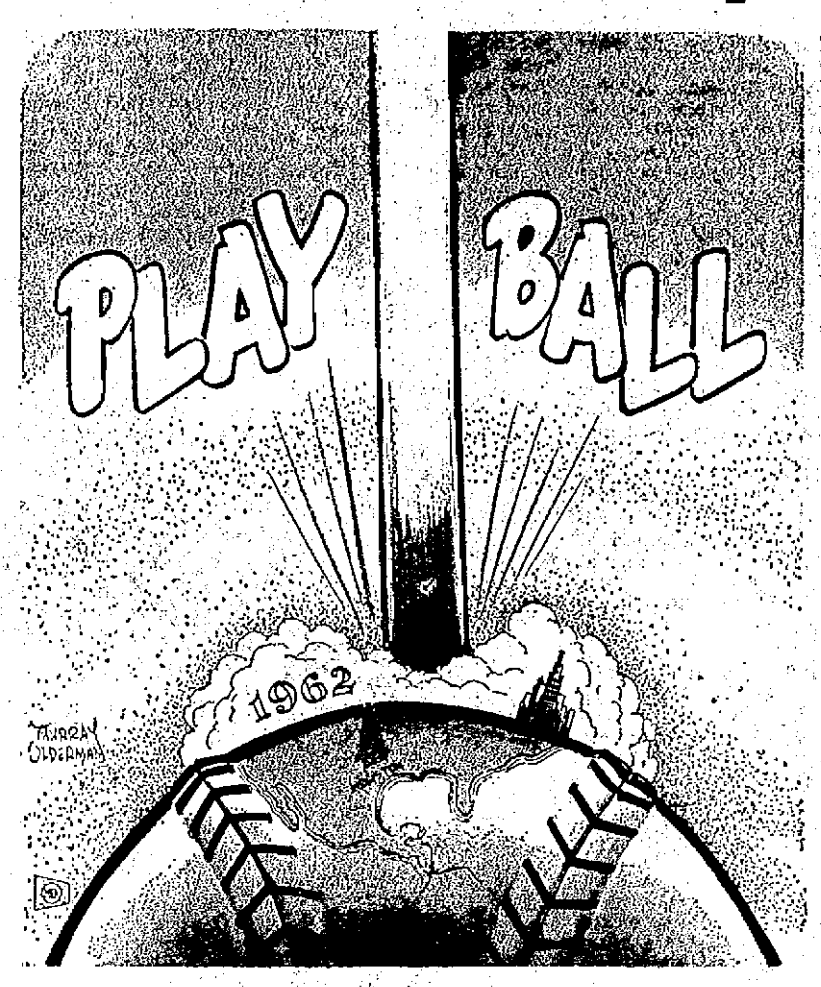

The game drew a crowd of 10,232, a record for an exhibition at Westgate Park.

DIS AND DATA—Bill Feishner, game committee chairman and Long Beach's No. 1 baseball booster, will be honored in pre-game ceremonies . . . Chuck Stevens, head of the Baseball Players' Assn. will present the Helms Foundation trophy to Feishner for his long and meritorious service to youth . . . Umpires for today are Mel Steiner and Doug Harvey of the National League and Cece Carlucci of the Pacific Coast League. . . . Eddie Mathews will be making his first local appearance since 1948, when he starred for Santa Barbara High in a CIF playoff victory over Wilson . . . Mathews hit two home runs and a triple off Frank Fothergill in the playoff game . . . L.B. fans also will be getting their first look at Dodger rookie sensation Larry Burright, still a possible starter at second base . . . Another rookie to watch is the Braves' Tommie Aaron, younger brother of Hank . . . Tommie has a good chance to remain with the Braves as their No. 1 utility outfielder and first baseman.

Dodgers, Angels to Start Tuesday in Full Schedule

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Kennedy's opening day pitch Monday will signal the start of the 1962 baseball season with the New York Yankees heavily favored to repeat as American League champions and a jolly old free-for-all to oust the defending champion Cincinnati Reds forecast in the National.

It's a season in which there'll be 10-team races in both leagues for the first time in history, in which the men with the long tapered bats will take aim at Roger Maris' mark of 61 homers and in which N. L. "expansion" into Houston, Tex., and New York is expected to help set new all-time attendance records.

Commissioner Ford Frick and league presidents Warren Giles and Joe Cronin are predicting attendance will reach the 20-million mark and that both pennant races will be spirited but the only thing really certain is that it will be the longest season ever for long-suffering pitchers.

The Yankees are odds-on —from 1 to 2 to 2 to 7 depending upon whether you're on Broadway or in Las Vegas—while the Los Angeles Dodgers are about a 7-5 favorite to edge out the San Francisco Giants in a tight N.L. race. The St. Louis Cardinals and Milwaukee Braves are also rated prime N. L. contenders with the Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates placed in the role of longshots.

The Reds begin the defense of their N. L. title in a traditional "advance opener" against the Philadelphia Phillies in Cincinnati, Monday, while President Kennedy will head a host of celebrities on hand at the new District of Columbia Stadium when the Detroit Tigers and Senators open the A. L. season in Washington, D.C.

The races begin in earnest on Tuesday with Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, New York at St. Louis, Chicago at Houston, Cincinnati at Los Angeles and Milwaukee at San Francisco in the N. L., and Minnesota at Kansas City, Los Angeles at Chicago, Baltimore at New York and Cleveland at Boston in the A. L.

A crowd of 45,000, largest in Washington, D.C., history, is expected at the presidential opener and a near-capacity turnout of 30,000 is anticipated for the Reds' opener in Cincinnati.

CALLED BEST PITCHING PRESIDENT

Pressure Is on JFK in Monday Opener

By WALTER T. RIDDER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Weather permitting at 1 p.m. (EST) Monday, president John F. Kennedy will uncork the first pitch of the 1962 major league baseball season.

As presidents go, Kennedy is probably the best hurler in presidential history. Last year, his first turn on the presidential mound, he loosed a couple of beauties which drew admiration from players and spectators alike.

William Howard Taft is generally credited with being the first president to toss out the opening pitch. What with his girth and poundage, he was far from a lean and hungry athlete. His pitch therefore did more for baseball and presidential tradition than for athletic records.

* * * *

TAFT ANYWAY preferred golf, and eye-witnesses to his throw recorded that his motion resembled that of a golf swing, not a baseball pitcher.

Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover all had their stints on the presidential rubber, but none hurled with any distinction. Like Taft, Wilson was primarily a golfer, although this might be question in light of the fact that he wooed and won Edith Galt Bolling on Washington's Rock Creek golf course.

This took some doing because Wilson had to whisper his sweet nothings between slashes at the Gutta Percha ball and in the presence of the omniscient secret service men.

Both Cal Coolidge and Herbert Hoover preferred fishing to the national pastime, although Grace Coolidge, the president's wife, was an ardent baseball fan.

Franklin D. Roosevelt gave off great gobs of personality when he threw out the opening ball. The famous grin, the cigarette holder, the jaunty hat were all there and if the president's peg wasn't much more than little league stuff, at least the patrons of Griffith Stadium got a great show for their money.

Peppery Harry S. Truman put lots of stuff on the ball, but it flew erratically and neither very fast nor very far. Truman enjoyed politicing at the game, however, and gave the impression that he was enjoying himself immensely.

Exactly the opposite was true of the golfer-fisherman president, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Eisenhower didn't even show up for one opening game, a breach of tradition which produced a minor political crises.

* * * *

EISENHOWER was saved by rain. The opening day's game was postponed and the president rushed to Washington from the Masters golf tournament at Augusta to be on hand for the expected presidential performance. Ike never did look comfortable along the third base line and one always had a feeling he couldn't wait for the game to end.

Monday, Kennedy will open not only a new season but also a new baseball stadium. The new Washington Municipal Stadium has supplanted venerable old Griffith Stadium and when the Senators take on the Tigers it will be first game ever played in the 50,000 seat arena. It is perhaps fitting that the best presidential pitcher in history should dedicate the brand new playing field.

Batter up! Play ball!

TELL 'SECRET' OF KOUFAX

"Sandy Koufax—The Secret That Made Him a Whiz" is the title of an article featured in the June issue of Mickey Mantle's Baseball Magazine, on sale now at news stands.

Written by I. P-T baseball writer George Lederer, the profile of the Dodger strikeout king relates the turning point of Sandy's career, the day he became a pitcher.

RIG NAMES LINEUP

Grba Opens Against Sox

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.P-T Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO—Manager Bill Rigney made it official Saturday, naming Eli Grba to face the Chicago White Sox in the American League lid-lifter on Tuesday.

The Serbian prince will be seeking his first victory in the city where he was born 27 years ago. Grba lost two heart-breakers in the Windy City last year with teammates' errors deciding both issues.

It will be the second opening-game assignment for the muscular righthander, Grba having defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2, when this all began in April of last year.

"It's always a great honor to pitch the opening-day game," said Grba after learning of the assignment. "This is a double honor for me since Chicago is my hometown and I have many relatives and friends there. I would like to show them I can win there."

* * * *

IN SUPPORT of Grba, Rigney named the following lineup:

Eddie Yost, 3b; Billy Moran, 2b; Albie Pearson, rf; Lee Thomas, cf; Leon Wagner, lf; Bobby Rodgers, c; Frank Leja, 1b; Joe Koppe, ss; Grba, p.

Only Yost, Pearson and Grba were in the lineup at Baltimore a year ago with Rodgers the only other man in the organization. Moran, Leja and Koppe were acquired by cash purchase and Thomas and Wagner by trade during the season.

Rigney said this lineup will open no matter if righthander Early Wynn or southpaw Juan Pizarro starts for Chicago. The manager thinks it will be Pizarro (14-7). Normally, Rigney would go with righthand hitters Steve Bilko and Ken Hunt, but both are sidelined with injuries.

* * * *

IMPROVING but not expected to be 100 per cent battle-ready, Bilko's injury (a pulled leg muscle) leaves the Angels with a surplus of left-handed hitters and no right-hand-hitting first baseman. In an effort to gain two-way punch at the initial sack, Rigney has been working Yost there during infield practice.

"It certainly wouldn't be a steady thing for Eddie," said Rigney, "but it would be a

WYNN

Man to Man

O'MALLEY

By JERRY WYNN

He won't be in the starting lineup, he may not even make an appearance on the field, but there will be one person at the opening of Dodger Stadium Tuesday whose presence will transcend all others.

He is Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers and the general who fought and won the battle of Chavez Ravine.

Would he call the opening of Dodger Stadium a dream come true?

"Yes," O'Malley replied with a twinkle in his Irish eyes. "For 10 years we had planned to build the stadium in Brooklyn. Now, after four years, a referendum, lawsuits and political haggling, we have it in Los Angeles."

Compared to all others, is it the best ballpark ever built?

"I hope so. Comparisons are not always fair. We like ours."

What features does Dodger Stadium have that others do not?

"Dugout seats, no posts or columns, level parking and parking for 16,000 cars, best field lighting, light and frothy in appearance."

Are there any features that are personal whims of yours?

"Big elevators, big aisles, big seats, good concessions, huge scoreboards, good public address system."

Looking back at the years the Dodgers played at the Coliseum, do you think baseball suffered there?

"Not really. But financially we did because of the unusually high rental."

What are some of your fondest memories of games at the Coliseum?

"Campanella Night, the playoff against the Braves for the pennant in 1959, the World Series and the last game of last season when we beat the Cubs in extra innings."

Eastern writers have been harsh with you and the Dodgers since the team left Brooklyn. Does the criticism bother you?

"Yes, but you and I understand. At the opener Tuesday we will have writers from New York who understand—Joe Williams and Jack Butler among them. Also there will be Mrs. John Cashmore, widow of the late Brooklyn borough president, and Frank Schroth, publisher of Brooklyn's only newspaper when the Dodgers were there. They know the score."

Compare the Southern California and New York baseball fan.

"Here there is more family attendance. In Brooklyn we had many devoted individuals. Here the fans are loyal, win or lose. In Brooklyn, the attitude was win or we'll give you just one more chance. Both groups know baseball and are wonderful, warm supporters."

Are there any plans for the Dodgers to leave Vero Beach and train in the West?

"It depends on politics. We will stay in Florida if possible but must be prepared for any eventuality."

Who do you feel can be called the greatest Dodger of them all?

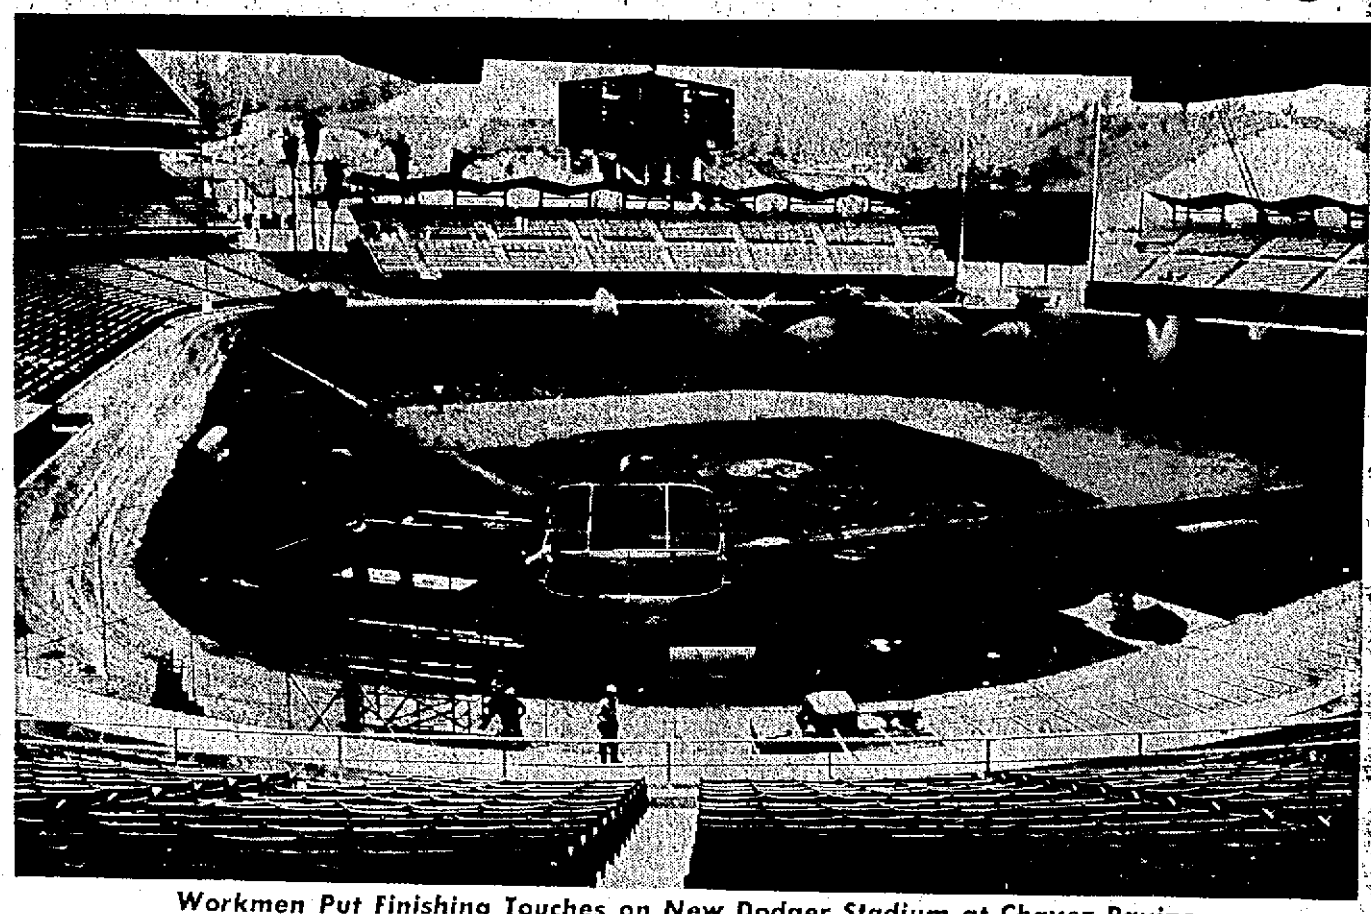

"Roy Campanella . . . for heart, religious convictions, desire to win. A team player, a great person and the best catcher in the National League for more than a decade."

Are the Dodgers going to win the pennant this season?

"It's like last year. We have the best team. Injuries will decide."

To Walter O'Malley, the man who brought major league baseball to Southern California and built a splendid new home for it, baseball fans owe a debt of gratitude.

NL Has Sleepers, But Dodgers Pick

By GEORGE LEDERER

"Cincinnati will provide a few headaches for other clubs, but manager Fred Hutchinson will wind up taking most of the aspirin."

The foregoing passage appeared on these pages and under this by-line one year ago. That it appeared 14 paragraphs deep and referred to a sixth-place prediction does not discourage me from trying again.

Actually, it was an astute analysis. The Reds did provide a few headaches, for the Dodgers specifically. I also recall Hutch gulping a few aspirin tablets — the morning after the final World Series game.

* * * *

THE PROGNOSIS for 1962 also may appear in the 14th paragraph, depending, of course, on the whim of the Sunday editor and his fiendish friends in the composing room. They have been known to whack opening paragraphs, not to mention the 14th.

Based on events of the past three seasons, the Pirates and Cubs may rate serious consideration. After all, the Dodgers rose from seventh to the top in 1959, the Pirates from fourth to first in 1960 and the Reds from sixth to first last year.

But that's part of the trouble in this world. People are forever taking things too seriously.

* * * *

THE CUBS are, at best, the National League's sleeper team. As such, tab them for an upper berth—in the second division.

Pittsburgh is in the same position, but could be crowded out if the Cubs bring their coaching staff. It may be best to assign the Bucs to a lower.

A more legitimate darkhorse team is St. Louis. From the moment Solly Hemus was relieved in July, owner Augie Busch was, too. With Johnny Keane in command, the Cardinals played at a .588 clip the rest of the season, the best second-half record in the league. Cincinnati's winning percentage was .604.

So much for the darkhorses.

* * * *

AS FOR the three most logical contenders, toss the Dodgers, Giants and Reds into a hat. Shake well, reach in and your chances of picking the winner are excellent, provided that your team was in the hat to begin with.

It will be that kind of a race.

Ingredients of a National League pennant winner are: 1) an injury-free season, 2) peak years from key personnel and 3) a lot of luck. The Dodgers of 1959, the Pirates of 1960 and the Reds of last year had all three.

Cincinnati already has lost Gene Freese because of a fractured ankle. Even with Freese, odds against the Reds would be high. Only four clubs have won consecutive pennants in the last 20 years.

So much for statistics.

Congratulations or condolences again are in order for Walter Alston because I am picking the Dodgers to win the pennant. Some reasons can be found in the fine print below, which should give Alston a head start in the headache department.

FOLLOWING is our sizeup of key personnel, clubs listed in order of preference and last year's player records in parenthesis:

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

NL RUNDOWN

1. DODGERS

Manager—Walter Alston, starting ninth season (senior manager, uninterrupted service in majors); previous record: 2-1-1-3-7-1-4-2 (won two world series); succeeded Charlie Dressen after 1953 season.

Pitching—Johnny Podres (18-5), Sandy Koufax (18-13), Don Drysdale (13-10), Stan Williams (15-12) as starters. Larry Sherry (4-4), Ron Perranoski (7-5), Ed Roebuck (2-0) in relief. Joe Moeller (20-9, class C, A and AAA totals), Pete Richert (5-10, Spokane) and Phil Ortega (8-4, Spokane) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching — John Roseboro (.251) and Norm Sherry (.256).

Outfield—lf, Wally Moon (.328) and Tommy Davis (.278); cf, Willie Davis (.251); rf, Duke Snider (.295) and Frank Howard (.296). Utility—Lee Walls (.280, Phils).

Strength—Pitching staff that should finally reach its peak; added experience of youngsters Fairly, Howard, W. Davis and T. Davis; league's most versatile personnel; best speed in league; advantage of new park, physically and mentally.

Weaknesses—Lack of consistent power hitting; defensive shortcomings when best fielders are in lineup; vulnerable to left-handed pitching.

1961 finish—Second, 4 games behind Reds.

2. GIANTS

Manager—Alvin Dark, starting second season; last year's finish, 3rd; succeeded Tom Sheehan at end of 1960 season.

Pitching—Juan Marichal (13-10), Mike McCormick (13-16), Jack Sanford (13-9), Billy O'Dell (7-5) and Gaylord Perry (16-10, Tacoma) as starters. Stu Miller (14-5), Bob Bolin (2-2) and Don Larsen (8-2, A's-Chisox) in relief. Billy Pierce (10-9, Chisox) and Jim Duffalo (5-1) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Ed Bailey (.245), Joe Pignatano (.243, A's) and Tom Haller (.205, Tacoma).

Infield—1b, Orlando Cepeda (.311); 2b, Chuck Hiller (.324, Tacoma); 3b, Jim Davenport (.278); ss, Jose Pagan (.253). Utility—Ernie Bowman (.289, Tacoma).

Outfield—lf, Harvey Kuen (.265); cf, Willie Mays (.308); rf, Felipe Alou (.289). Utility—Matty Alou (.310) and Willie McCovey (.271).

Strength—Top run-producing team in league; 80 homers a virtual guarantee from Mays and Cepeda; strong defense; good speed.

Weaknesses—Davenport's health; question of fourth starter and second line pitching.

1961 finish—Third, 8 games behind.

3. REDS

Manager — Fred Hutchinson, starting third full season; previous record: 6-3; succeeded Mayo Smith in mid-season, 1959.

Pitching—Joey Jay (21-10), Jim O'Toole (19-9), Bob Purkey (16-12) and Sammy Ellis (13-3, Columbia). Jim Brosnan (10-4), Henry (2-1) and Johnny Klippstein (2-2, Senators) in relief. Dave Sisler (2-8, Senators), Dave Hillman (3-7, Red Sox) and Moe Drabowsky (9-6, Louisville) in spot starts and long relief. Carlton Willey, Edwards (.188) and Darrell Johnson (.270).

Outfield—lf, Wally Post (.294); cf, Vada Pinson (.343); rf, Frank Robinson (.323). Utility—Marty Keough (.249, Senators) and Don Lenhardt (.315).

Strength—Long-ball hitting of Robinson, Pinson, Coleman and Post; top pitching from three starters and Brosnan in short relief.

Weaknesses—Loss of Gene Freese (.277, 26 homers) for indefinite period; lost some bench strength in expansion draft; question of second line pitching and Edwards' ability to hold regular catching job.

1961 finish—First, 4 games ahead of Dodgers.

4. CARDINALS

Manager—Johnny Keane, starting first full season; succeeded Solly Hemus in mid-season, 1961.

Pitching—Larry Jackson (14-11), Ernie Broglio (6-11), Bob Gibson (13-12), Ray Sadecki (14-10) and Ray Washburn (16-9, Charleston). Lindy McDaniel (10-6), Bob Duliba (7-7, Charleston) and Ed Bauta (2-6) in relief. Curt Simmons (9-10), Johnny Kucks (10-14, Rochester) and John Anderson (14-9, Rochester) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Gene Oliver (.302, Portland) and Carl Sawatski (.299).

Infield—1b, Bill White (.286); 2b, Julian Javier (.279); 3b, Ken Boyer (.329); ss, Julio Gotay (.307, Charleston). Utility—Alex Grammas (.212).

Outfield—lf, Minnie Minoso (.260, Chisox); cf, Curt Flood (.322); rf, Stan Musial (.288). Utility—Carl Warwick (.239) and Charlie James (.255).

Strength—Pitchers led NL in earned run average (3.74) and could improve; Washburn called in Joe Moeller class as rookie; consistent hitting from Boyer, White, Musial and Minoso; second in team batting last year.

Weakness—Aging Musial and Minoso will make fixed a busy center fielder; Gotay's fielding questionable at short; Grammas only experienced infield reserve.

1961 finish—Fifth, 13 games behind.

5. BRAVES

Manager—Birdie Tebbetts, starting first full season; succeeded Charlie Dressen late in 1961 season.

Pitching—Warren Spahn (21-13), Lew Burdette (18-11), Bob Buhl (9-10), Don Nottebart (6-7) and Bob Hendley (5-3). Don McMahon (6-4), Ron Piche (14-7, Vancouver) and Carl Willey (6-12) in relief; Cecil Butler (9-13, Louisville), Tony Cloninger (7-2) and Bob Shaw (12-14, A's-Chisox) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Joe Torre (.278) and Del Crandall (on disabled list last year).

Infield—1b, Joe Adcock (.283); 2b, Frank Bolling (.262); 3b, Eddie Mathews (.304); ss, Roy McMillan (.220). Utility—Denis Menke (.293, Vancouver) and Orlando Samuel (.255, Louisville).

Outfield—lf, Howie Bedell (.327, Louisville) and Len Gabrielson (.278, Louisville); cf, Hank Aaron, (.327); rf, Lee Maye (.271) and Mack Jones (.326, Louisville).

Strength—1-2-3 punch of Mathews, Aaron and Adcock; Spahn and Burdette keep winning while young pitchers approach regular status.

Weakness—Must depend on rookie outfielders on either side of Aaron, who prefers right field to center; relief pitching, especially a late man, needed.

1961 finish—Fourth, 10 games behind.

6. CUBS

Manager—None; El Tappe heads 10-man coaching staff for second season; previous finish, 7th.

Pitching—Dave Ellsworth (10-11), Don Cardwell (15-14), Glenn Hobbie (7-13) and Jack Curtis (10-13). Don Elston (6-7), Barney Schultz (7-6) and Bob Locke (4-4, Indians) in relief. Bob Anderson (1-10) and Jim Brewer (1-7) in spot starts and relief.

Catching—Moe Thacker (.247, Houston); Cuno Barragan (.214) and Sammy Taylor (.238).

Infield—1b, Ernie Banks (.278); 2b, Ken Hubbs (.286, Wenatchee); 3b, Ron Santo (.284); ss, Andre Rodgers (.266). Utility—Elder White (.260, San Antonio).

Outfield—lf, Billy Williams (.278); cf, Lou Brock (.301, St. Cloud); rf, George Altman (.303). Utility—Bob Will (.257).

Strength—Good front line pitching; outstanding youngsters in Santo and Williams; Banks recovered from injuries.

Weakness—Second line pitching can expect little hitting from catchers; must depend on rookies Hubbs and Brock to make big jump to majors.

1961 finish—Seventh, 29 games behind.

7. PHILLIES

Manager — Danny Murtaugh, starting fifth full season; previous record, 244-1-6; succeeded Bobby Bragan in mid-season, 1957.

Pitching—Bob Friend (14-19), Joe Gibbon (13-10), Tom Sturdivant (5-2), Wilmer Mizell (7-10) and Vern Law (3-4, on disabled list from July on). Roy Face (6-13) and Harvey Haddix (10-6) in relief. Earl Francis (2-8), Al McBean (3-2) and Diomedes Olivo (11-7, Columbus) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Smoky Burgess (.303) and Don Demeter (.267).

Outfield—lf, Bob Skinner (.268); cf, Bill Virdon (.260); rf, Roberto Clemente (.351). Utility—Rex Johnston (.283, Asheville) and Walver Stargell (.289, Asheville).

Strength—Clemente NL batting champion with league's best outfield arm; Gibbons developing into one of NL's best left-handers; veterans at every position.

Weakness—Law's arm still big question mark; club beginning to show signs of age. Little help from bench.

1961 finish—Sixth, 17 games behind.

8. METS

Manager—Casey Stengel, returning to NL first time since 1943; winner of 10 pennants, seven world titles with Yankees.

Pitching—Roger Craig (5-6, Dodgers), Al Jackson (6-13), Bob Miller (3-11), Ray Daviault (1-3), Jay Hook (2-6), Clem Labine (2-3), Dallas Green (1-3), Ken MacKenzie (0-1), Craig Anderson (0-1), Cal Koonce (0-1), Tracy Stallard (0-1), Sherman Jones (0-1), Billy Loes (0-2), Tom Parsons (0-2), Jack Fisher (0-3), Roger Craig (5-6, Dodgers), Lindy McDaniel (10-6, Cardinals), Don Rudolph (0-1, Houston), Ken Walters (0-1, Houston), Bob Moorhead (0-1, Houston), Hal Woodeshick (0-1, Houston), Turk Lown (0-1, Houston), Ken Johnson (0-1, Houston), Bob Bruce (0-1, Houston), Dick Drott (0-1, Houston), Don Cardwell (15-14, Cubs), Glenn Hobbie (7-13, Cubs), Jack Curtis (10-13, Cubs), Don Elston (6-7, Cubs), Barney Schultz (7-6, Cubs), Bob Locke (4-4, Indians), Bob Anderson (1-10, Cubs), Jim Brewer (1-7, Cubs), Ed Roebuck (2-0, Dodgers), Stan Williams (15-12, Dodgers), Larry Sherry (4-4, Dodgers), Ron Perranoski (7-5, Dodgers), Ed Roebuck (2-0, Dodgers), Joe Moeller (20-9, class C, A and AAA totals, Dodgers), Pete Richert (5-10, Spokane, Dodgers), Phil Ortega (8-4, Spokane, Dodgers), Joe Pignatano (.243, A's, Dodgers), Tom Haller (.205, Tacoma, Giants), Gaylord Perry (16-10, Tacoma, Giants), Stu Miller (14-5, Giants), Bob Bolin (2-2, Giants), Don Larsen (8-2, A's-Chisox, Giants), Billy Pierce (10-9, Chisox, Giants), Jim Duffalo (5-1, Giants), Andy Carey (.256, A's-Chisox, Giants), Wally Moon (.328, Dodgers), Tommy Davis (.278, Dodgers), Willie Davis (.251, Dodgers), Duke Snider (.295, Dodgers), Frank Howard (.296, Dodgers), Utility—Lee Walls (.280, Phils).

Strength—Pitching staff that should finally reach its peak; added experience of youngsters Fairly, Howard, W. Davis and T. Davis; league's most versatile personnel; best speed in league; advantage of new park, physically and mentally.

Weaknesses—Lack of consistent power hitting; defensive shortcomings when best fielders are in lineup; vulnerable to left-handed pitching.

1961 finish—Second, 4 games behind Reds.

2. GIANTS

Manager—Alvin Dark, starting second season; last year's finish, 3rd; succeeded Tom Sheehan at end of 1960 season.

Pitching—Juan Marichal (13-10), Mike McCormick (13-16), Jack Sanford (13-9), Billy O'Dell (7-5) and Gaylord Perry (16-10, Tacoma) as starters. Stu Miller (14-5), Bob Bolin (2-2) and Don Larsen (8-2, A's-Chisox) in relief. Billy Pierce (10-9, Chisox) and Jim Duffalo (5-1) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Ed Bailey (.245), Joe Pignatano (.243, A's) and Tom Haller (.205, Tacoma).

Infield—1b, Orlando Cepeda (.311); 2b, Chuck Hiller (.324, Tacoma); 3b, Jim Davenport (.278); ss, Jose Pagan (.253). Utility—Ernie Bowman (.289, Tacoma).

Outfield—lf, Harvey Kuen (.265); cf, Willie Mays (.308); rf, Felipe Alou (.289). Utility—Matty Alou (.310) and Willie McCovey (.271).

Strength—Top run-producing team in league; 80 homers a virtual guarantee from Mays and Cepeda; strong defense; good speed.

Weaknesses—Davenport's health; question of fourth starter and second line pitching.

1961 finish—Third, 8 games behind.

3. REDS

Manager — Fred Hutchinson, starting third full season; previous record: 6-3; succeeded Mayo Smith in mid-season, 1959.

Pitching—Joey Jay (21-10), Jim O'Toole (19-9), Bob Purkey (16-12) and Sammy Ellis (13-3, Columbia). Jim Brosnan (10-4), Henry (2-1) and Johnny Klippstein (2-2, Senators) in relief. Dave Sisler (2-8, Senators), Dave Hillman (3-7, Red Sox) and Moe Drabowsky (9-6, Louisville) in spot starts and long relief. Carlton Willey, Edwards (.188) and Darrell Johnson (.270).

Outfield—lf, Wally Post (.294); cf, Vada Pinson (.343); rf, Frank Robinson (.323). Utility—Marty Keough (.249, Senators) and Don Lenhardt (.315).

Strength—Long-ball hitting of Robinson, Pinson, Coleman and Post; top pitching from three starters and Brosnan in short relief.

Weaknesses—Loss of Gene Freese (.277, 26 homers) for indefinite period; lost some bench strength in expansion draft; question of second line pitching and Edwards' ability to hold regular catching job.

1961 finish—First, 4 games ahead of Dodgers.

4. CARDINALS

Manager—Johnny Keane, starting first full season; succeeded Solly Hemus in mid-season, 1961.

Pitching—Larry Jackson (14-11), Ernie Broglio (6-11), Bob Gibson (13-12), Ray Sadecki (14-10) and Ray Washburn (16-9, Charleston). Lindy McDaniel (10-6), Bob Duliba (7-7, Charleston) and Ed Bauta (2-6) in relief. Curt Simmons (9-10), Johnny Kucks (10-14, Rochester) and John Anderson (14-9, Rochester) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Gene Oliver (.302, Portland) and Carl Sawatski (.299).

Outfield—lf, Minnie Minoso (.260, Chisox); cf, Curt Flood (.322); rf, Stan Musial (.288). Utility—Carl Warwick (.239) and Charlie James (.255).

Strength—Pitchers led NL in earned run average (3.74) and could improve; Washburn called in Joe Moeller class as rookie; consistent hitting from Boyer, White, Musial and Minoso; second in team batting last year.

Weakness—Aging Musial and Minoso will make fixed a busy center fielder; Gotay's fielding questionable at short; Grammas only experienced infield reserve.

1961 finish—Fifth, 13 games behind.

5. BRAVES

Manager—Birdie Tebbetts, starting first full season; succeeded Charlie Dressen late in 1961 season.

Pitching—Warren Spahn (21-13), Lew Burdette (18-11), Bob Buhl (9-10), Don Nottebart (6-7) and Bob Hendley (5-3). Don McMahon (6-4), Ron Piche (14-7, Vancouver) and Carl Willey (6-12) in relief; Cecil Butler (9-13, Louisville), Tony Cloninger (7-2) and Bob Shaw (12-14, A's-Chisox) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Joe Torre (.278) and Del Crandall (on disabled list last year).

Infield—1b, Joe Adcock (.283); 2b, Frank Bolling (.262); 3b, Eddie Mathews (.304); ss, Roy McMillan (.220). Utility—Denis Menke (.293, Vancouver) and Orlando Samuel (.255, Louisville).

Outfield—lf, Howie Bedell (.327, Louisville) and Len Gabrielson (.278, Louisville); cf, Hank Aaron, (.327); rf, Lee Maye (.271) and Mack Jones (.326, Louisville).

Strength—1-2-3 punch of Mathews, Aaron and Adcock; Spahn and Burdette keep winning while young pitchers approach regular status.

Weakness—Must depend on rookie outfielders on either side of Aaron, who prefers right field to center; relief pitching, especially a late man, needed.

1961 finish—Fourth, 10 games behind.

6. CUBS

Manager—None; El Tappe heads 10-man coaching staff for second season; previous finish, 7th.

Pitching—Dave Ellsworth (10-11), Don Cardwell (15-14), Glenn Hobbie (7-13) and Jack Curtis (10-13). Don Elston (6-7), Barney Schultz (7-6) and Bob Locke (4-4, Indians) in relief. Bob Anderson (1-10) and Jim Brewer (1-7) in spot starts and relief.

Catching—Moe Thacker (.247, Houston); Cuno Barragan (.214) and Sammy Taylor (.238).

Infield—1b, Ernie Banks (.278); 2b, Ken Hubbs (.286, Wenatchee); 3b, Ron Santo (.284); ss, Andre Rodgers (.266). Utility—Elder White (.260, San Antonio).

Outfield—lf, Billy Williams (.278); cf, Lou Brock (.301, St. Cloud); rf, George Altman (.303). Utility—Bob Will (.257).

Strength—Good front line pitching; outstanding youngsters in Santo and Williams; Banks recovered from injuries.

Weakness—Second line pitching can expect little hitting from catchers; must depend on rookies Hubbs and Brock to make big jump to majors.

1961 finish—Seventh, 29 games behind.

7. PHILLIES

Manager — Danny Murtaugh, starting fifth full season; previous record, 244-1-6; succeeded Bobby Bragan in mid-season, 1957.

Pitching—Bob Friend (14-19), Joe Gibbon (13-10), Tom Sturdivant (5-2), Wilmer Mizell (7-10) and Vern Law (3-4, on disabled list from July on). Roy Face (6-13) and Harvey Haddix (10-6) in relief. Earl Francis (2-8), Al McBean (3-2) and Diomedes Olivo (11-7, Columbus) in spot starts and long relief.

Catching—Smoky Burgess (.303) and Don Demeter (.267).

Outfield—lf, Bob Skinner (.268); cf, Bill Virdon (.260); rf, Roberto Clemente (.351). Utility—Rex Johnston (.283, Asheville) and Walver Stargell (.289, Asheville).

Strength—Clemente NL batting champion with league's best outfield arm; Gibbons developing into one of NL's best left-handers; veterans at every position.

Weakness—Law's arm still big question mark; club beginning to show signs of age. Little help from bench.

1961 finish—Sixth, 17 games behind.

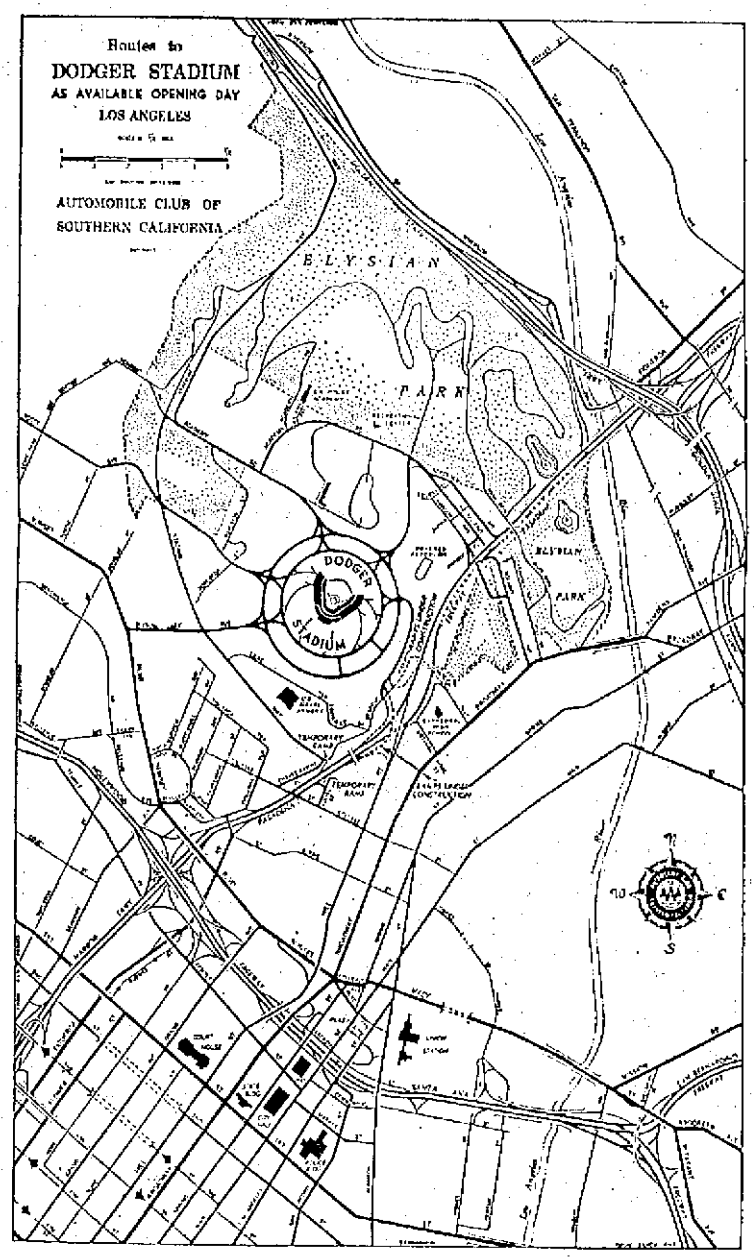

8. METS

Manager—Casey Stengel, returning to NL first time since 1943; winner of 10 pennants, seven world titles with Yankees.

Pitching—Roger Craig (5-6, Dodgers),

HOW TO GET THERE

LIST ROUTES TO DODGER STADIUM

Don't Worry, You Can Get There (Says Here)

Dodger Stadium, baseball's newest and most glamorous park, will be unveiled to the public at grand opening ceremonies Monday morning, and on Tuesday afternoon becomes the permanent home of the erstwhile Brooklyn Bums.

The location of Chavez Ravine still is a profound mystery to many. As comedian Danny Thomas commented at the Baseball Writers' Dinner last week: "Anywhere you are in the metropolitan area, you can jump in your car and in 25 minutes you're lost."

To avoid such an event, the Independent, Press-Telegram offers some facts, figures and suggestions:

WHERE — Dodger Stadium is located approximately one mile north of Los Angeles City Hall, bordered by the Hollywood Freeway to the south, the Pasadena Freeway to the east, the Golden State Freeway to the north and Sunset Blvd. to the west.

HOW TO GET THERE—From Long Beach and the harbor area, there are three suggested routes: 1) Long Beach Freeway north to Santa Ana Freeway; Santa Ana Freeway to Golden State Freeway; turn north on Golden State Freeway and exit at Stadium Way off-ramp, turn left on Riverside Drive and follow signs to stadium. 2) Harbor Freeway north through 4-level interchange, to Pasadena Freeway and exit at either Adobe St. or Solano Ave., then follow signs to stadium. 3) Harbor Freeway through 4-level interchange, to Hollywood Freeway, exit at Glendale Blvd. and follow signs to stadium.

(Note: Route No. 1 is recommended, especially to later traffic. Adobe St. and Solano off-ramps on Pasadena Freeway are narrow and may be congested for later traffic. For Orange County motorists, route No. 1 also is suggested from Santa Ana Freeway).

* * * *

MONDAY EVENTS—Grand opening ceremonies begin at 10 a.m. in front of Los Angeles City Hall. Motorcade of players and officials to stadium begin at 11:13 a.m. Arrival at stadium is scheduled at noon. Dodger workout at stadium begins at 2 p.m., following brief remarks by baseball and city officials.

(Note: Only persons with tickets will be admitted to stadium for grand opening ceremonies. Tickets are priced at $5, include a box lunch, parking fee and souvenir).

TUESDAY—NATIONAL LEAGUE OPENER—Dodgers open season against champion Cincinnati Reds. Game time, 1 p.m. All tickets have been sold. Probable pitchers: Johnny Podres (18-5) for Dodgers and Jim O'Toole (19-9) for Reds.

REST OF WEEK—Dodgers play night games against Cincinnati Wednesday and Thursday. Night games against Milwaukee Friday and Saturday and Sunday day game complete Dodger home stand. Tickets for these games still are available.

TICKETS—Box seats are priced at $3.50, reserved seats $2.50, general admission $1.50 and children (general admission) 75 cents. General admission tickets are sold on day of game only. Tickets may be purchased at stadium ticket office, at downtown L.A. office in Statler-Hilton Hotel, at all Mutual Ticket Agencies and at Wallichs' Music City, Lakewood. Tickets by mail can be obtained by sending checks or money orders to: Ticket manager, L.A. Dodgers, P.O. Box 108, Los Angeles, 54.

TIME OF GAMES—Day games (except Tuesday's opener) begin at 2 p.m. Night games begin at 8. Twi-night doubleheaders begin at 6.

PARKING—Terraced lots can accommodate 16,000 cars. Parking fee is $1. Parking areas are multi-colored, corresponding with seat and ticket colors.

See Yanks in AL Romp, Angels 6th

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO—As usual, in 1962 you do not ask who will win the American League pennant, but how many games the New York Yankees will repeat.

As sure as death and taxes New York will win its ninth championship in the last 11 years, and the margin should be greater than the eight-game spread which separated the Bombers and Detroit Tigers last year.

The Tigers will finish second again, but behind the Bengals anything could happen.

It is this writer's opinion that the international crisis which called many young ballplayers to active military duty will have a direct bearing on the first division.

* * * *

LAST SEASON Baltimore finished third, Chicago fourth and Cleveland fifth. We are predicting that the White Sox will repeat their finish with Baltimore and Cleveland changing seats.

The Orioles lost Steve Barber, an 18-game winner, Ron Hansen, an all-star shortstop, and Barry Shetrone, a reserve outfielder, to the military and did nothing to replace them.

The Indians lost Jim (Mudcat) Grant, a 15-game winner, Wynn Hawkins, a 7-game winner, and Walter Bond, a reserve outfielder, to the military—however, through two shrewd trades Cleveland not only replaced the departed, but bettered itself (more on this later).

* * * *

BECAUSE optimism does the spirit good, we are predicting the Angels will head the second division. Behind the Seraphs will come Boston, Minnesota, Kansas City and Washington.

Here is a capsule look at each team with last year's record in parenthesis:

AL RUNDOWN

New York (109-53)—Early last year Angel pitcher Eli Grba named Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle "thunder and lightning." As M & M stormed through the league for 115 home runs and 275 RBI, Maris, of course, should not hit 61 homers again, but there is no reason to believe his or Mantle's RBI total will be any less. Then there's Elston Howard, Bill Skowron, Yogi Berra, John Blanchard and a cast of thousands.

Tony Kubek is in the service, but you should have such problems. Ralph Houk has more than adequate replacements.

Yankee pitching was supposed to lack depth last year but aides Ford won his 25 and Arroyo his 15, Ralph Terry won 16, Bill Stafford 14, Jim Coates 11 and Roland Sheldon 11. Now Bud Daley will be on hand for the full year and Bob Turley is once again sound.

* * * *

DETROIT (101-61)—Perhaps only the Dodgers can match Detroit's big three of Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Don Mossi. But the Tigers' bullpen was weak last year and unless Jerry Casile shows he's a new man and Long Beach's Gordon Seyfried proves he's ready, things will be the same.

Detroit's hitting is outstanding, its fielding the same. Its outfield superb, its infield young and talented, its bench questionable, and that's why its questionable the Tigers will be a challenge after August, after the summer heat has taken its toll.

* * * *

Cleveland (78-83)—The Indians have merely replaced Grant and Hawkins with two of the best pitchers in the American League—Pedro Ramos and Dick Donovan. They should easily better the 22 wins posted by the departed duo.

In acquiring Ramos and Donovan Cleveland parted with two of the league's defensive greats—Jimmy Piersall and Vic Powers. But in doing so the Indians rid themselves of a multitude of mental worries on the field, off the field and in the clubhouse. Under Mel McGaha Cleveland will be a much happier team.

* * * *

Chicago (86-76)—The White Sox won a pennant in 1959 playing for the one-run inning. In 1960 and '61 they gave up that principal in the rush for power. Al Lopez has now decreed that the Sox will again be a scrambling, hit-and-run team.

Chicago is counting heavily on rookies Joel Horlen, a pitcher, and Mike Hershberger, an outfielder. But lack of power, a weak bench, and another year on the aging legs of Early Wynn, Nellie Fox and Sherm Lollar and Al Smith will prevent Chicago from climbing any higher.

* * * *

Baltimore (95-67)—Even without Barber, the Orioles present a strong pitching staff. Al ball, however, they don't scare you—although new manager Billy Hitchcock may be frightened once or twice.

Hansen may be available on weekends, but Diamond Jim Gentile remains the lone offensive gem. Jackie Brandt heads a light-hitting outfield.

* * * *

Angels (70-91)—The office tells me I have already written too much about the Angels, so I will only say that if you think it's impossible for the club to finish this high then just compare the Seraphs' opening day lineup with the clubs ranked below. Don't be surprised if you give the Angels a considerable edge.

* * * *

Boston (76-86)—The Red Sox are in desperate need of a power-hitter. They have attempted to make several trades this spring, but all have fallen through.

Boston will count heavily on sophomores Carl Yastrzemski, Chuck Schilling and Don Schwall. Schwall was rookie of the year, but the young righthander had a miserable spring.

The Hose should break even at Fenway Park, but have a tough time in the big parks on the road.

* * * *

Minnesota (70-90)—With the acquisition of Power, the Twins will move Harmon Killebrew back to third base and make the "Deers" much happier man.

But the Twins lost a lot of pitcher in Ramos and it's doubtful publicized rookie Georges Maranda will pick up the entire slack. A weak bench and a spotty defensive outfield when Killebrew leaves the stands will prevent Minnesota from making much noise.

* * * *

Kansas City (61-100)—Hank Bauer, a real pro, deserves better fate. There are some good youngsters on this club and a dandy double play combo in Dick Howser and Jerry Lumpe. Pitching, however, is thinner than a Lili St. Cyr gown. So is the bench.

* * * *

Washington (61-100)—The incomparable Piersall should prove the most popular thing to hit Washington since Jacqueline. But not even Piersall's wonderous talents will be enough to lift the Senators out of the cellar.

A weak bench and lack of pitching depth will start some gray hairs growing on Mickey Vernon's scalp. He, too, deserves better fate.

DODGERS, N.Y. CALCULATED CHAMPIONS

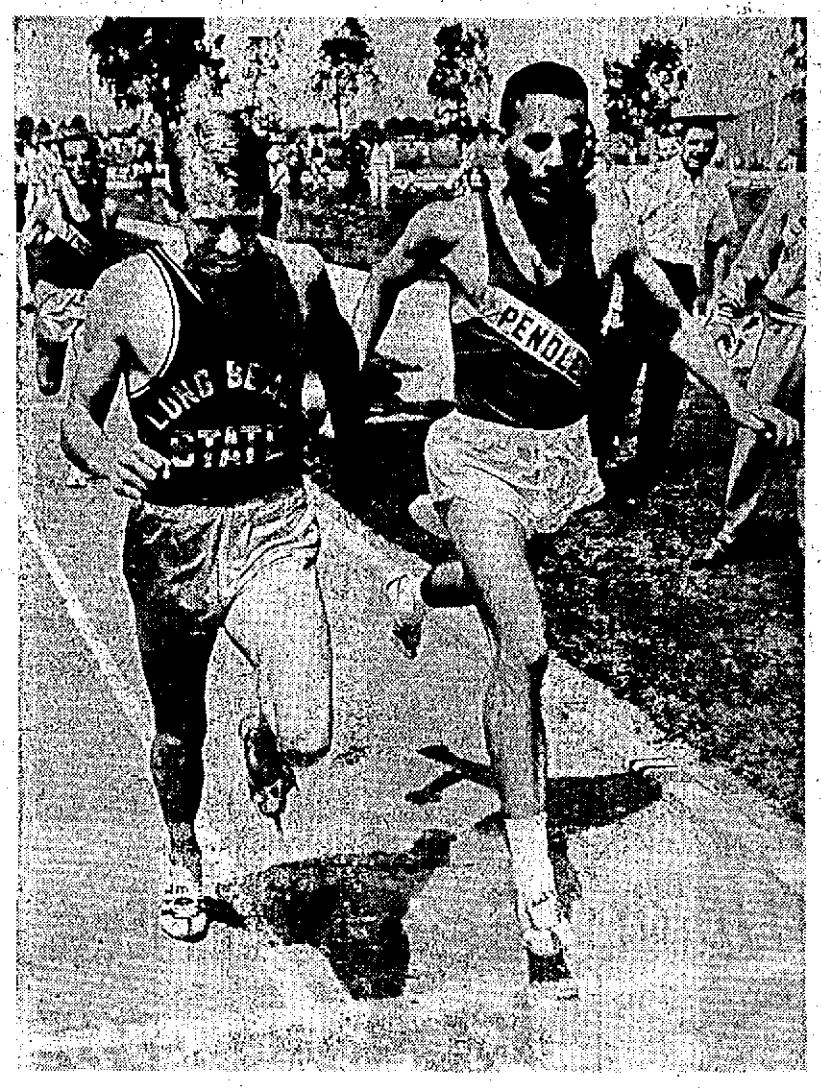

By United Press International

Universal Data Processing Corp.'s electronic computer has picked the New York Yankees and Dodgers to meet in the World Series this fall, the firm announced Saturday.

Fed statistics of every team in the major leagues for the past 11 years, the computer came up with the Yankees as American League champions — not a particularly difficult choice —and the Dodgers as National League champs.

The machine tabbed the Chicago White Sox to finish second in the American, followed by the Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians to round out the first division. Washington was figured to end the year in 10th place.

Tork Soars 15-6; Dazzling Dashes in L.B. State Meet

By JOHN DIXON

Perfect weather and a highly-competitive field added up to a host of high-velocity marks Saturday in an all-star all-comers track and field carnival at Long Beach State College.

Full teams from the L.A. Track Club, Pasadena Olympians, Southern California Striders, Long Beach State and Camp Pendleton Marines ran and jumped in June form. Their form was so good that six field records were broken.

The biggest performance Saturday came from the smallest man.

Lt. Dave Tork of the Marines set a field pole vault record of 15 feet, 6 inches. More important, he showed the packed gallery who the next world record holder will be.

* * * *

TORK, a 6-foot, 150-pound, 27-year-old from West Virginia, passed each height until the cross bar reached 14 feet. Without a hint of a miss he conquered 14-0, 14-6, 15-1 and 15-6.

The bar was raised to 16-1, a quarter-inch above John Uelses' new record. Tork was over with inches to spare, but a trailing arm cast the bar into the sawdust.

Tork's best vault came at 15-6. "He cleared it by at least 10 inches," Joe Korzen, head judge of the event, declared. The other vaulters agreed.

"I'm just a little disappointed because I anticipated 16 feet," Tork said, "I would have made it if the runway had been asphalt. Dirt is bumpy and slow (asphalt will be installed this summer).

"I wanted to run harder because I'm holding the pole higher than anyone else ever has. You've got to have a high grip to go high. My timing was a little off at 16-1 because I'm not accustomed to the high hold yet.

* * * *

"WHEN Uelses went over 16¾ he held at 13-6. I held at 14-8 to clear 15-6 and at 15 feet to try 16. But I'm not thinking about 16 feet," explained Tork with smiling surety, "I'm anticipating 17 feet — at any time!"

Best race of the day was the 100, in which Strider Doug Smith held off the last-second surge of Long Beach State's Jim Richardson. Both were timed in 9.5. Strider Ralph Turner edged 49er Gary Gaudet by the same inch-or-two margin for third, both in 9.6.

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S Darryl Taylor won a mile thriller from Marine Dave Kemp in record time. Taylor took the lead rounding the final bend and gritted to the tape an eyelash in front. His time of 4:16.7 broke his own school record by 2½ seconds. Taylor's lap clockings awere 63.0, 2:11.0 and 3:18.0.

Best time was the 20.3 by Turner and Smith in the 220, just three clicks off the world record, but a seven mile per hour wind gust would have nullified it anyway. Turner, who also ran a 20.3 sprint medley relay leg, was judged the 220 winner.

Other State records set were Richardson's 9.5 100, John Kosarich's 15:22.9 three-mile and the 3:27.9 sprint medley.

100—Smith (Strid) 9.5, Richardson (L.B.) 9.5, Turner (Strid) 9.6, Gaudet (L.B.) 9.6.
100 (consolation)—McKernan (Pas) 9.9, Wade (Strid) 10.0, Mambero (Strid) 10.1, Taylor (Strid) 10.2.
220—Turner (Strid) 20.3 / mph wind, Smith (Strid) 20.3, Fitzgerald (Strid) 20.9.
880—Kirkwood (Marines) 1:54.7, Crossley (Marines) 1:56.4, Tilney (L.B.) 1:58.6.
Mile—Taylor (L.B.) 4:16.7, Kemp (Marines 4:16.8, Melliday (Marines) 4:17.5.
Three-mile—McGee (L.A. Track Club) 14:03.5, Ashmore (LATC) 14:13.3, Robertson (LATC) 14:19.6.
120 high hurdles—Andrews (L.B.) 14.4, Emberger (Marines) 14.6, Calhoun (Strid) 15.3.
440 hurdles—Randall (Strid) 57.0, Leonard (LaVerne) 58.0, Smith (Marines) 58.1.
Mile relay—Camp Pendleton 3:17.0, Striders 3:17.5, Pasadena Olympians 3:19.3.
Sprint medley relay—Striders (Karlsrud 47.5, Smith, Turner 20.3, Williams) 3:24.7.
L.A. Track Club (Atterberry 47.5, Pfeil 23.7, Myers 22.0, Ohtander 1:53.4) 3:26.4.
L.B. State (Richardson 49.2, Patterson 21.5, Gaudet 21.6, Hall 1:55.3) 3:27.9.

THEY'RE RIGHT IN STRIDE
Doug Smith of Striders (left) and Jim Richardson of Long Beach State were caught in same rhythm but it's clear Smith nipped the 49er ace at the tape to win 100-yard dash in 9.5 Saturday. Richardson also was timed in 9.5 for a school record. LBSC coach Jack Rose (arrow) is shown with stopwatch.

Haas Hero but Trojan Spikers Win--As Usual

Steve Haas of Occidental was the star of the meet but USC won the meet, 78-53, Saturday at Eagle Rock. It was the 103rd successive dual meet without a defeat for the Trojan tracksters.

Haas defeated Trojan captain Bruce Munn by 12 inches in a 9.5 100 and by eight inches in a 21.0 220 around a curve. Haas capped his day of speedy runs by anchoring Oxy's mile relay team with a 46.7 440.

Haas' 100 clocking broke the meet record of 9.6 established by Frank Wykoff of USC in 1932.

Occidental, dominating the flat races, also got a record 880 from Ron Whitney. His 1:51.1 broke the mark of 1:51.4 by Trojan Murray Cockburn in 1956.

USC had a wide edge in the field events.

Jan Sikorsky won the javelin with a throw of 250-5½, best in the nation this season.

Trojan Dallas Long won the shotput competition with a toss of 63-4, his best of the year. He surpassed 60 feet on each of his six throws.

Dave Servis of Occidental cleared 15 feet for the first time in the pole vault, winning at 15-½.

100—Haas (Oxy) 9.5, Munn (USC) 9.5, Cortese (USC) 9.6 (new meet record; old record 9.6 by Wykoff, USC, 1932 and Munn, 1961.
220—Haas (Oxy) 21.0, Munn (USC) 21.0, Talsky (USC) 22.1.
440—Cawley (USC) 48.1, Hogan (USC) 48.4, Farmer (Oxy) 49.1.
880—Whitney (Oxy) 1:51.1, Lile (USC) 1:51.4, Warren Farlow (USC) 1:52.6 (new meet record; old record 1:51.4 by Cockburn, USC, 1956).
Mile—Neal (Oxy) 4:11.1, Marin (USC) 4:13.7, Neighbor (Oxy) 4:17.8.
Two mile—Marin (USC) 9:23.9, Jones (Oxy) 9:36.9, Neighbor (Oxy) 9:50.4.

49ER OARSMEN STUN MIGHTY BEARS

readily called the losing crew his No. 1 boat and lauded Long Beach.

Lemon said LBSC's coach Bill Lockyer had done a fine job and termed the winning time of 9:56.8 for the two-mile race as "excellent."

Long Beach handed Cal its first dual meet defeat since 1960, when the Bears lost to the University of Washington here.

Cal's varsity time was 10:10.

The 49ers' varsity crew was headed by Phil Bryson, bow, No. 2 Don Truitt, No. 3 Chris Smith, No. 4 Austin Pruitt, No. 5 Tom McKibben, No. 6 Dick Neel, No. 7 Bill Totten, Ed Graham, stroke, and Riley Neel, coxswain.

Lockyer said his crew got away just as planned and grabbed an early lead with a stroke of 38 per minute. Long Beach led by a half boat length after the first quarter mile. The 49ers stretched their lead to a full boat length at the halfway mark at a 36 stroke opposed to Cal's 33.

At the three-quarter mark LBSC opened the gap even more with a 33 stroke. When the 49ers streaked under the finish line their stroke was steady 34 to Cal's 31 per minute.

In other events, Cal won both the junior varsity and freshmen races, both by four lengths. Cal's JV was timed in 6:34, Long Beach 6:50. The Bears' frosh was clocked in 6:31, LBSC 6:49.2.

The final race saw Lake Merritt's four defeat Long Beach Rowing Assn.'s crew by a boat length in the time of 4:44 (over a short course). Long Beach's time was 4:49.

3rd Mark Smashed by Saari

BARTLESVILLE, Okla (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Roy Saari of El Segundo smashed a third straight swimming barrier—in the 440-yard freestyle—and Chet Jastremski set new American marks in the breaststroke and 200-yard individual medley Saturday at the AAU swimming and diving meet.

Saari edged defending champion Murray Rose and 15-year-old Don Schollander in stroking the distance in 4:14.6, beating Rose's American record of 4:17.9 and his meet record of 4:18.2. Rose was awarded second place although both he and Schollander were timed in 4:15.0. Saari was voted outstanding swimmer because of his record sweep.

JASTREMSKI swam the 100-yard breaststroke in 59.1 to break the record of 59.6 which he set last year and tied in the preliminaries. He came back an hour later to win the 200-yard individual medley in 1:59.4, breaking the 2:01.1 mark set last year by Ted Stickles.

In the 100-yard freestyle, defending champion and American record holder Steve Clark of Santa Clara, Calif., finished second to NCAA champion Steve Jackman of Minneapolis whose time was 48.3.

Bob Bennett, a USC freshman, captured the 100-yard backstroke on a judge's decision over Jed Graef of Princeton. Both men were clocked in 54.1.

HEFTY EX-YALE STAR AIDS CAMBRIDGE WIN

LONDON (UPI)—Cambridge University's eight-oared shell, weighted down in the choppy water by a pair of hefty North American oarsmen, breezed to a five-length victory over Oxford Saturday in the 108th renewal of their classic.

Harold Royce Budd, a 6-foot-3, 211-pound former Yale rower from Convent Station, N.J., preserved America's "charm" in this famed English regatta. Seven Yanks have participated in this race since World War II and all were on winning crews.

Budd, who pulled the No. 6 oar, was the heaviest sweep-swinger ever to row in this classic. He and John Lecky, a 6-foot-4, 201-pound Canadian from Vancouver, B.C., formed what Cambridge rowing fans admiringly called the "engine room" of the light blue crew, Lecky rowed at No. 5 oar.

SPORTS BEAT

Paul Pettit, a $100,000 bonus pitcher with Pittsburgh a little over 10 years ago, apparently reached the end of the baseball road Saturday when he was released by Hawaii of the PCL.

The Islanders dropped Pettit, who turned to playing first base and outfield after his arm went dead, after a game in Anaheim which it won over Dallas-Ft. Worth, 13-11.

Strangely, Pettit, who has traveled and played for teams all over the country, was released in a city just a few short miles from his home town of Lomita where he was signed for what at the time was the largest bonus ever given.

GLENN JONES CHEVROLET
Says
"Meet One of Our Chevrolet Service Technicians"
CHUCK FORST

Chuck has been a resident of Lakewood since March, 1953, and like lots of people in the Long Beach area, he is a native of Iowa. Chuck was raised in Indianola, Iowa, where he worked for the Chevrolet Dealer for five years. He has been a service technician at Glenn Jones Chevrolet since 1953 and like the rest of our technicians takes the annual Chevrolet Mechanical Examination to test his product knowledge.

Chuck is always anxious to improve his skill. This is proven by the fact that he voluntarily attends every course offered by the General Motors Training Center where he has received instruction in transmissions, engines and general maintenance on Chevrolets, Corvairs and trucks.

Chuck's wife, Nita, joins him several nights a week in square dancing activities. As a matter of fact, he is the Junior Past President of the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs. In this capacity, he supervised the activities of clubs having about six thousand members in South Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange County. Next year, this association is the Host for the State Convention of Square Dance Clubs to be held in Long Beach. Chuck's job at this convention is General Chairman of the Grand Parade, an undertaking of no small stature, for this is the first parade in eleven years since it was founded.

As you can see, Chuck Forst is quite a guy! He tackles every job he does with the same quiet, confident attitude that a job can and should be done right — the first time. Chuck is confident of his ability and proud of his craft and I am proud of the fact that — "He's on my team!"

Dodgers, Yankees to Win Pennants

Baseball men agree that the best team in the National League last year was the Dodgers, who finished second . . . four games behind the champion Cincinnati Reds.

And they blew the flag in the one way in which the baseball people said was impossible . . . by falling into a disastrous 10-game losing streak in August.

They say no other team in the league was better equipped to ward off a prolonged losing streak. Yet, it happened.

There are still some trouble spots that could hurt the Dodgers. They still lack consistent hitting. And in order to get more punch in the lineup, they must sacrifice defense.

In the end, the Dodgers will have to win the pennant on speed, defense and pitching.

DAVE LEWIS

And they can do it with those skills despite the lack of hitting. For instance, Walt Alston says that by moving out of the Coliseum into the spacious new park in Chavez Ravine, the Dodgers "can now start playing baseball again."

He points out that the new park is shaped much like County Stadium in Milwaukee "where we have always played good ball. We've won 65 and lost 44 games for a percentage of .560 in the last nine years there and that's a tremendous percentage against a club as strong as the Braves in their own park.

"Chavez Ravine," Alston explains, "should open up our offense. Our team has been built on speed. We don't have too many long-ball hitters. But now our men will be able to take the extra base, something we couldn't do in the Coliseum. This hurt us more than the other teams because speed is our strong suit whereas a team with power could just take dead aim at the screen in left field."

YOU CAN PRESENT A GOOD pennant argument for five other teams. It would be no great surprise if Milwaukee, San Francisco, St. Louis, Pittsburgh or Cincinnati beat out the Dodgers. All have the potential if everything goes right.

But which one should be singled out to give the Dodgers a run for it? Our pick, Milwaukee.

We feel the Braves have the best potential of accomplishing the "break-through."

Milwaukee has defense and power, leading the league in fielding and in home runs last year. The Braves have the best infield in the senior circuit and the best catching.

Top needs are (1) a set outfield; (2) better overall pitching, especially in relief, and (3) more consistent hitting after Mathews, Aaron and Adcock.

Howie Bedell and Mack Jones not only could solve the long-standing outfield problem, but could supply the extra suck. The pitching is bolstered by Bob Shaw, and the young hurlers may develop enough to supply the vital late-inning pitching.

THE GIANTS STILL HAVE defensive problems; the pitching is a bit questionable, and Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda again will have to carry the club. If they don't hit, the Giants don't win.

The Cardinals have fair pitching and good power, but spotty defense could again prove the downfall of the club. They are geared for a fast getaway, which should help. They play the tailend clubs in 15 of their first 19 contests.

The Pirates could again be strong contenders if the leaders in their '60 pennant drive had big years again. But Vern Law is a question mark . . . as is the rest of the pitching staff. Bucs led the league in hitting last year, but their arms suddenly turned to "glass."

Cincinnati was picked for sixth last season and won the pennant. This time they are again being picked for fifth or sixth by most observers. They still pack a wallop at the plate, but their finish will depend on their pitching. And most everyone expects it to flatten out.

ANY TALK OF BEATING THE Yankees in the American League appears to be nothing more than wishful thinking.

How close it will be depends greatly on what happens before July 1. If the Yankees are leading or are close to first place on that date, they'll win in a breeze . . . perhaps by the largest margin in history.

Detroit is tabbed for second again because of the Tigers' impressive front-line pitching. However, we don't look for the Tigers to do quite as well as they did a year ago.

Baltimore has good front-line pitching and good defense and are picked ahead of the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland should make a much better run of it this time and the Indians could be the season's biggest surprise!

within one stroke of tying the course record of 64 set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1940.

Player, the first round leader with a 67, duplicated his 71 of Friday. He birdied the first hole, then matched the card until the par five 475-yard 13th when he took his only bogey of the round. He got that stroke back, however, by birdying the par five 520-yard 15th.

Palmer was more than satisfied with his round.

"I played good," he said, "missing only one green—the first one."

Finsterwald, when told he had 12 one-putt greens, smiled wearily and said, "I guess I must have putted pretty well."

That was putting it mildly.

big help if we could use him there on a spot basis."

"I played it a couple times when I was with Washington," said Yost. "I've got a lot of things to learn about the position but I don't mind giving it a try."

Yost gave it a try Saturday night and played flawlessly as the Angels rallied in the ninth for a 2-1 victory over the Houston Colts, their third straight and the third straight time this spring they have rolled a trio of consecutive wins.

Angel Angles: Yost has played every position in his major league career except pitcher, catcher and center. . . . Marlan Coughlin opened at shortstop and has now played every infield position for the Angels except first base. . . . San Pedro's Joe Amalfitano, accidentally hit in the head by a bat swung by Ramon Mejias on Tuesday, says he's had no ill effects. "It just made me a little goofier than I was," said the Houston second baseman. . . . Heading into Saturday night's tilt, the Angels had seven batters above .300 . . . Leila leads the list followed by Tom Burgess .400, Billy Moran .333, Albie Pearson .307, Lee Thomas .303, Leon Wagner .302 and Ed Sadowski .300 . . . Wagner leads in RBIs with 16 and in hits with 23. . . . Rigney was extremely impressed with George Will's fine performance at Dallas Friday night . . . "his fast ball and curve were better than they've been all spring," said Rigney, "but we're going to work on his slider. It resembles his curve. It breaks too much. A slider should not have the big break of a curve—it should be a quick, little one. Will throws so hard he should have a terrific slider."

OUT . . . BUT NOT FOR LONG

USC's Mike Gillespie has Long Beach State's Don Anderson nailed at second on force out in first inning of first game, but moment after picture was shot Gillespie dropped ball for error.

Wins Nightcap With 5-Run Sixth Inning

Long Beach State College earned a split in its doubleheader with powerful Southern California University Saturday, losing the Blair Field opener, 3-2, and winning the nightcap, 7-3.

In the scheduled seven-inning afternoon opener, USC needed eight innings to whip the 49ers. Larry Sandel's infield hit off Bob Lancaster decided the outcome.

The second game was a different story as State erupted for five runs in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie. The 49ers cashed in on six consecutive hits and faulty SC fielding.

Bob Bernstein, Willie Oyama, John Bogan and winning pitcher Jack Foley, who allowed only three hits and fanned 10 in 6⅓ innings, drove in runs in the big sixth.

* * * *

LANCASTER relieved Foley in the seventh and shut the door on the Trojans, who suffered only their second loss in 17 games against college competition this year.

Willie Brown, former Poly flash, scored USC's first run and drove in the second marker. He collected two hits in the two games.

PUBLINX PLAY BEGINS

Putter Gone, Griggs Gone in First Round

Defending champion Larry Griggs Jr. of Lakewood was ousted in the first round of the Southern California Public Links Golf Championship at Skylinks Saturday.

Putting with a 2-iron instead of a putter after he broke his blade on the second hole, Griggs was beaten by Dick Campbell of Montebello, 1 up. Griggs rallied after being four down after 7 holes, but never could catch Campbell.

In a major upset, Kemp Richardson of the host club, 16-year-old son of State Amateur champion John Richardson, beat veteran star Steve Shaw of Montebello, 1 up.

Another upset saw Lakewood's Bob Clark go to the sidelines, a 1 up victim of Western's Steve Hallberg.

The second round will be played at Griffith Park today. Saturday's results:

UPPER BRACKET

Jerry Preuss, Sepulveda, def. Ed Korylak, Rancho, 1 up; Al Duhon, Griffith, def. Bill O'Conner, Brookside, 2-1; Henry Ballela, Brookside, def. Al Wells, Willowick, 20th hole; Leiah Dugmore, Recreation, def. E. Slebke, Willowick, default.

Kemp Richardson, Skylinks, def. Steve Shaw, Montebello, 1 up; Terry Hartshorn, Lakewood, def. Earl Swenningsen, Skylinks, 4-3; Tom Gosnell, Griffith, def. Leo Swedo, Los Serranos, 4-3; Vic Hovek, Brookside, def. Bob Miller, Los Serranos, 2 up.

LOWER BRACKET

Dick Campbell, Montebello, def. Larry Griggs Jr., Lakewood, 1 up; Steve Hallberg, Western, def. Bob Clark, Lakewood, 1 up; Ralph Rubenstein, Rancho, def. Al Dean, Western, 4-3; Claude Waymire, Meadowlark, def. George Sidlow, 3-2.

CROSBY GOLF FROM PEBBLE TO 'VEGAS?

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) —A possible switch in the location of the annual Bing Crosby invitational golf tournament from Pebble Beach, Calif., to Las Vegas was hinted Saturday.

Larry Crosby, Bing's brother, who handles arrangements for the tournament, said he was conferring with Howard Capps, sports director for the Desert Inn and Stardust Hotels.

Crosby said poor weather conditions and the lack of adequate accommodations for players and guests at Pebble Beach had prompted the proposed move.

How About Some Salt-Water Catfish?

Next Saturday marks the beginning of a good-will exchange of fish between Brazil and California and the net result in years to come may be some bagre marine catfish in our bays and sloughs where now all we catch are skates, rays and sharks.

This particular type of salt-water catfish is a native of Brazilian waters but biologists in California feel that the species will grow well in our own bays and harbors.

William Ripley is flying down to Rio de Janeiro Saturday on a VARIG airliner to take 100,000 California rainbow trout eggs to a hatchery in Brazil. Ripley is assistant chief of the marine resources operations of the Department of Fish and Game.

Later California will send salmon eggs to another hatchery in Brazil and that Latin nation hopes to start both rainbow and salmon fisheries in a couple of years.

In exchange for all that, California gets a start of the famous bagre catfish, which reach a weight of 70 pounds. Wow, if we ever get 'em growing like that, it's going to be hard for Pop to leave Long Beach and give as his reason, "I want to go to the Colorado River and get some catfish." Friend wife can tell him to go to the back bays here and catch some of those big bagres.

SPEAKING OF CATFISH, the Colorado River and salt-water, we are getting so mixed up that we are wondering just what is happening to all kinds of fishes. For instances, three anglers went to the Colorado River below the Palo Verde Diversion Dam and tried for catfish. They caught striped bass instead!

Bob Metcalf got two stripers (11-4 and 7). Harold Smith, Bell Gardens, caught one weighing 8-4, and his brother, Jerry, got one weighing 8-2.

Although biologists haven't determined how those stripers are propagating in the Colorado since they were planted about a year ago, they are optimistic enough to feel that further plantings should be made in that area.

The Colorado River Wildlife Management Committee met at Las Vegas a few days ago and discussed numbers of projects that should help the Colorado. One plan was unanimously approved. It would make stripers available for introduction into Havasu Lake.

There's nothing final about the proposal, all fish and game commissioners of the states involved must approve the idea.

For those readers who are not acquainted with striped bass, they are like steelhead trout—living both in the ocean and in fresh water. However, stripers have been found to live very happily in fresh water without ever going to sea.

ON THE FRESH-WATER FRONT — Irvine Lake's weekly summary showed that Donald Degman, San Bernardino, topped all anglers with an eight-pound bass. Spawning crappie were beginning to hit Vee Bee flies and Go-Getters . . . Crappie and bluegill are giving anglers plenty of excitement at Railroad Canyon Lake near Elsinore . . . John Reginato writes from Redding that F. W. Cadwallader hooked a 14-pound, 1-ounce brown trout on a yellow and black Bomber while plugging for bass near the Pit River Bridge on Shasta Lake.

There was such a terrific rush of anglers to Wohlford Lake last weekend that the resort ran out of licenses. More than 3,000 fishing permits were issued for a three-day period. In addition, hundreds of sightseers were milling around the lakefront. Limits were plentiful, with bass to 4½ pounds, catfish to 6½, bullheads to 2½ and trout to 17½ inches. Wohlford is open seven days a week.

Bill Bucknam writes from Klamath River that steelhead fishing along the Klamath, Scott River and Horse Creek has never been better. Happy Camp, Seiad Valley, Bigfoot Ranch Lodge, and the mouth of Beaver Creek are some of the resorts where fishermen are loading up with steelies mostly in the 4- and 5-pound categories.

THERE'S STILL A CHANCE to shoot flighted mallards at Tommy Williams' Green Head Hunting Club in Santa Ynez. Because heavy rains practically knocked his operation into a mud flat, Tommy applied for and received permission from the federal government to extend Green Head's season through April.

Tommy hopes to clean out all his birds—and they are in perfect condition—by the end of April, at which time he intends to abandon his Santa Ynez lease and establish a new hunting club within an hour's drive of the Los Angeles Basin.

Tommy pioneered the flighted-mallard club in California and, like all beginners, almost lost his shirt in the first year's venture in 1959. He feels now that a club such as his should be closer to the metropolitan areas.

However, if you haven't seen Green Head at Santa Ynez, you have missed a beautiful part of California. It's a good place to go this month. Birds are going at bargain rates to all comers. Just make your reservations through Tommy Williams, Green Head, P.O. Box 80, Santa Ynez, or call Santa Ynez 8-4855. Tommy says that he has hundreds of birds that must be shot.

Arfons Shatters Drag Mark at 187

Art Arfons of Akron, Ohio, electrified a record crowd of 11,921 fans with a ground-shaking run of 187 mph in his jet dragster Saturday night at Lions Drag Strip.

Arfons had fuel injection trouble and only had about 70 per cent power. However, he still broke the strip record.

In the regular drag racing program, Lefty Mudersbach of Pico-Rivera won fuel eliminator, while national champion Jack Chrisman of Compton took gas eliminator honors.

JET DECK AND CUTE KITTY

J. B. Chambers' Jet Deck, posing with Kitty Eckblad of Garden Grove, was clocked in sizzling 18.2 qualifying drill for the 25-day meeting at Los Alamitos opening Monday.

Los Alamitos Launches 25-Day Meet Monday

A couple of youngsters threaten to steal the opening-day show from the older stars Monday when Los Alamitos Race Course begins its 25-day spring racing season.

The two youngsters are Bunny's Bar Maid, essaying a comeback in the $2,000 Inaugural Stakes for 3-year-olds, and Alamitos Bar, another 3-year-old who will make his first start against the veteran campaigners in the $5,000 Shue Fly Stakes.

And complementing the brilliant opening-day card is the double-barrelled threat to the 350-yard world record of 17.5 seconds held by Vandy's Flash.

Sensational qualifying works and the lightning quick condition of the running strip, called the best ever by most trainers, make Bunny's Bar Maid and Miss Jet Deck solid threats to Vandy's record, set in 1960.

Both Bunny's Bar Maid and Miss Jet Deck qualified in 18 seconds flat for 350 yards, a time which wins most races and a time which matches the drill Vandy's Flash turned in just a week prior to setting the record in the 1960 running of the Shue Fly Stakes.

Alamitos Bar, the Calbred champion, is in tough against such older stars as Miss Jet Deck, Pap, Saul Lasher and quarter horse champion of 1961, No Butt, who enjoyed her greatest campaign last fall and won her only start this year, Cocktail Susie, Fly Straw and Canales Black.

Bunny's Bar Maid drew the outside post position and will have standing in the way of her comeback, Magnolia Bar, Miss Brownie Gal, Rockin' Bar, Connie Reba, Straw Flight and On I Win.

The racing career of Bunny's Bar Maid appeared at an end last fall when a chronic ankle injury wouldn't heal properly at the race track. She had won six in a row, then been third three times and finally dropped to fourth. She was sent back to the Fresno ranch for a rest. Her sizzling 18-second drill indicated that was what she had needed.

The sprinters running on opening day will be taking an early shot at the $350,000 offered in stakes and purses during the meeting, the second richest purse program in the history of the track.

First race each day will be 1:15 p.m., Monday through Saturday, with nine races daily.

The daily double wagering will once again be a feature of the meeting, with daily double wagering closing five minutes before first post.

The 3-year-olds going on opening day will be tuning up for the Derby trials next Saturday, when they try to qualify for the $15,000 added Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Assn. Derby held Saturday, April 21.

JAIPUR SERVES WARNING

Sir Ribot Breezes in Tanforan Derby

Compiled from Wire Services

SAN BRUNO—Favored Sir Ribot handily won the $16,800 California Derby Trial at Tanforan Saturday to enhance his chances for the California and Kentucky Derbies in the coming month.

The tempermental 3-year-old never was worse than fifth in the nine-horse field. He took the lead with a furlong to run and completed the mile and 70-yard race in 1:42 2/5.

Blue Serenade, a longshot, held on for second a length and one quarter behind, and Doc Jocoy was third.

NEW YORK — Jaipur, making his first start of the year, easily went to the front in the stretch at Aqueduct Saturday to win the $56,500 Gotham Stakes and served warning on whoever wins the Kentucky Derby that a sweep of the Triple Crown classics may be tough.

With Willie Shoemaker aboard, Jaipur scored by a length and a half over Sunrise County with Sidluck another two and a half lengths farther back.

LEXINGTON — Crimson Satan, the horse whose health had been in doubt all winter, showed no signs of a drawback when he won the Whitney by five lengths at Keeneland.

HALLANDALE, Fla.—Cactus Tom, regaining the lead he lost early in the race, defeated Aerofiint by a length in the $15,000 Ft. Lauderdale Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Cal Pace to Caduceus Length Winner in Finale

By MAC McGUIRE

Hard-hitting Caduceus, the 11-year-old New Zealand veteran, took advantage of the terrific pace duel between Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream to score a length victory in capturing the ninth edition of the $20,000 Californian Pace at Santa Anita Saturday.

A closing-day crowd of 16,845 spectators watched Jim Dennis, the season's leading driver, settle back into third place throughout most of the race, with Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream staging a vicious battle in exchanging the lead for three-quarters of the race.

CADUCEUS' winning time of 1:57 2/5 equalled the race record which was set in 1959 by Widower Creed. Caduceus' effort was even more amazing as the Santa Anita strip hasn't been as fast as previous years. It was the fastest clocking of the meeting.

Caduceus had played second fiddle to Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream in two previous races at the meeting, with Irvin Paul winning the $7,500 Elks Pace on March 17 and Stormy Dream garnering the $7,500 Alpha Delta Pi Pace on March 31. Caduceus was second and third, respectively, in the two races, but Saturday it was a different story.

Irvin Paul, the 3-5 choice, was second and was followed by Mr. Budlong, Right Time, Merrie Adios and Stormy Dream. Although there were six horses in the race, there were two entries to make four betting interests. Thus, only win and place betting was allowed.

FOR BIG FIGHT AT ARENA

Next Champion (?) Clay in L.A. Tuesday

By FRANK HARVEY

Colorful Cassius Clay, who brashly predicts he will be heavyweight champion of the world before he is 21, arrives in Los Angeles from Miami Tuesday to complete drills for his 10-round engagement against George Logan on United World Enterprises initial card at the Sports Arena April 23.

Clay will be accompanied by trainer Angelo Dundee, and the No. 1 welterweight contender Ralph Dupas, who is slated to meet Frankie Ramirez in a 10-round bout on the same card.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, matchmaker for the new boxing organization, also has lined up an additional two 10-round fights with plenty of box office appeal.

Bib Eddie Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender, is slated to go against Bert Whitehurst, and Eddie Garcia, classy Denver lightweight, will open the four-ply promotion in a 10-rounder against Tony Perez of Mexico.

Due to the approaching baseball season, the Olympic Auditorium has announced that it will drop the regular Friday night programs and will operate on various week-day nights during the summer.

The Grand Avenue arena will be dark this week but has a couple of top attractions signed for future shows . . . Sugar Ramos, the No. 1 featherweight contender, will meet Baby Vasquez of Mexico, Thursday, April 19 . . . the sleek Cuban originally was signed to meet Danny Valdez, but a dispute in weight caused a change in opponents.

Another top bout signed for the Olympic is the Mario Vasquez-Battling Torres 10-round welterweight brawl set for May 3.

Without Challenge... one of the BIGGEST LAND BARGAINS IN THE NATION!

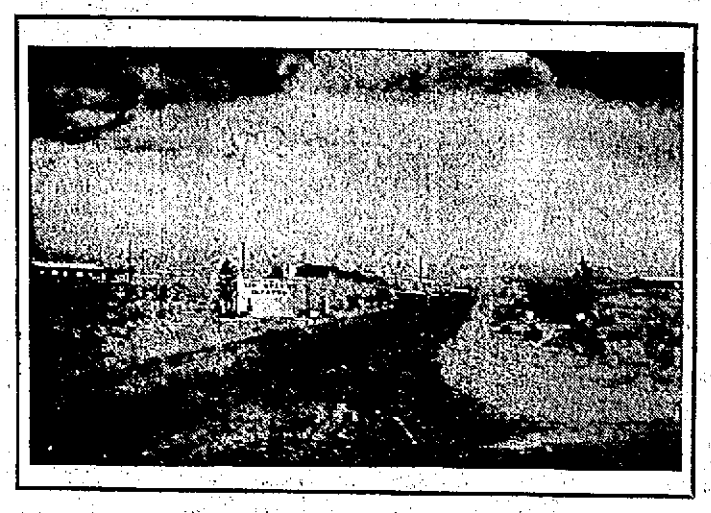

"MOST BEAUTIFUL SPOT IN THE WORLD . . ." The late beloved war correspondent, Ernie Pyle, stated: "Of all the places in the world that I have visited, Albuquerque and the Rio Grande Valley are the most beautiful spots of them all, and it is here that I will make my home." Mr. Pyle's home is now a famous landmark in New Mexico . . . as thousands of ex-G.I.s and their families still pay silent tribute to this wonderful man.

BIG WESTERN-SIZE HOMESITES
ONE FULL ACRE

Rio Grande Estates, Belen, New Mexico

32 MILES SOUTH OF BOOMING ALBUQUERQUE!!

$395 TOTAL PRICE $10 down $10 monthly — NO interest or carrying charges!

Homes in Rio Grande Estates stand before an inspiring backdrop . . . magnificent vista of the majestic Manzano Mountains.

BUILD NOW OR HOLD FOR POSSIBLE PROFITABLE FUTURE

Each spacious full acre in Rio Grande Estates is deeded to you already sub-divided into TWO half-acre lots. This is a big advantage . . . since you may plan, in the future, to live on one lot and sell the other . . . or sell both HALF-ACRE lots . . . or plan to live on the entire acre! Whichever method you choose to use on your property . . . you can feel secure that your land is platted and recorded in the county records as TWO HALF-ACRE LOTS!

Outdoor living at its best under the ever-smiling sun of the Land of Enchantment

BOOMING NEW MEXICO . . . THE FASCINATING HEALTHFUL LAND OF ENCHANTMENT

Big things are happening in this sun-drenched state, and you see signs of great progress in all directions! The city of Albuquerque . . . just 32 miles from beautiful Rio Grande Estates . . . is growing at a rate 6 times that of the nation as a whole! Dynamic brain-center of the electronic industry . . . booming trade center for over 600,000 people . . . Albuquerque is surging, increasing both in population and in size. And in this path of growth . . . in the heart of the Rio Grande Valley . . . lies fabulous Rio Grande Estates . . . which has enjoyed greater public response than any other Southwestern subdivision.

Surrounded by beauty . . . in the path of future growth . . . Rio Grande Estates offers an unequalled opportunity!

CLIMATE . . . BIGGEST REASON WHY THE SOUTHWEST IS BOOMING!

250 days a year of bright, healthful sunshine . . . warm, sunny days . . . cool, comfortable nights . . . all these await you at Rio Grande Estates! Nearly 85% of the people living in this southwest area give climate as the deciding factor in their moving here! No harsh, cold winters . . . no endless days of dreary grey skies . . . no miserable dampness underfoot . . . just day after beaming day of warm sunshine in the beautiful Rio Grande Valley! For your retirement home now . . . or as your stake in the golden future of this sunny land . . . Rio Grande Estates offers you this incomparable opportunity . . . a full acre of land . . . two lots, already subdivided for you . . . at the amazingly low price of $395 . . . at terms of $10 down, $10 a month!

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT RIO GRANDE ESTATES

TYPE OF SOIL: Holds moisture very well, and is most suitable for a wide variety of garden crops, good lawn grasses, and most other decorative plantings.

ELEVATION: 4500 feet above sea level; no possibility of flood, bog, swamp, hurricanes, etc.

STREETS: Access ranch roads to all lots completed.

WATER: Abundant underground sources of water available for domestic use.

ELECTRIC POWER: Available to each home built in Rio Grande Estates.

DEED: A Warranty Deed is issued upon completion of payments, and permanently recorded in the County Records in your name — we pay all such costs.

ASSESSMENTS: None.

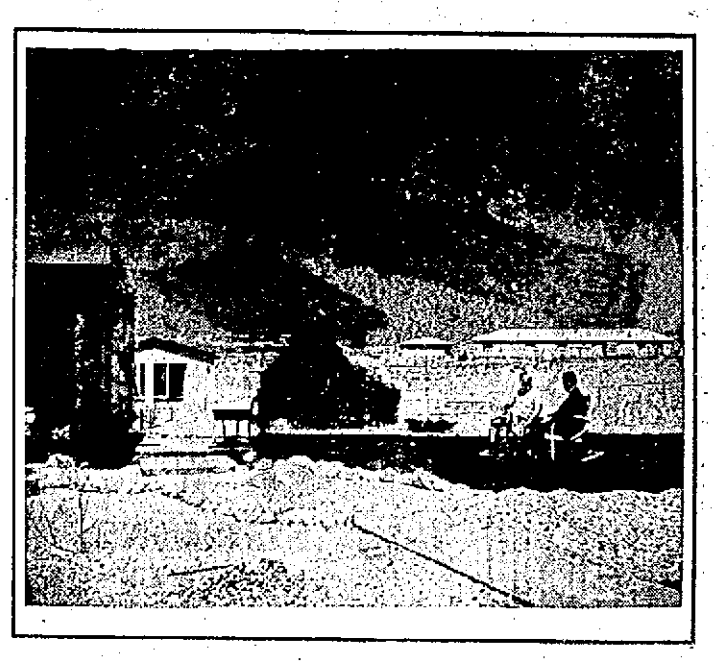

TOPOGRAPHY: The land slopes gently upward to the East . . . affording a fine view of the City of Belen, and the Rio Grande River and Valley. Your land is easy to build on.

CLIMATE: Average daily maximum: Summer—83.74 degrees; Average daily maximum: Winter—52.46 degrees.

SIZE OF LOTS: 200x217.8 (HALF ACRE 100x217.8).

RECREATION: Fishing, boating and hunting, along with skiing, swimming and camping, available within a 1-hour drive from Rio Grande Estates.

TAXES: Current rates are approximately $3 per year.

Raw land only a year ago . . . today a growing community of beautiful homes and contented people

One of the wealthiest men this country has ever known . . . Andrew Carnegie . . . once said, "Ninety percent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined!"

George Washington wrote to his stepson in 1778, saying: "Lands are of permanent value; there is scarcely a possibility of their falling in price, but almost a moral certainty of their rising exceedingly in value."

Here at Rio Grande Estates . . . just 32 miles from booming, surging, dynamic Albuquerque . . . land prices today are still extremely low. In the years ahead . . . as Albuquerque stretches its metropolitan tentacles down the Rio Grande Valley . . . who knows what this land may be worth? One thing is certain . . . when land values rise . . . only those who own land can reap the benefit!

Algerian Secret Army Fills Its Coffers by Holding Up Banks

By PAUL CHWAT

ALGIERS (UPI)—Bank robbery has become big business for the outlawed European Secret Army Organization in Algeria. Secret Army gunmen have grabbed an estimated $8 million since the beginning of the year.

Despite government security measures, the toll of bank robberies, designed to replenish the Secret Army's coffers, continues.

To protect themselves, the banks keep only a minimum of ready cash on hand. But the outlaws know that, too.

* * * *

THE SAME gunmen Monday robbed the same counter at the same bank twice within 10 minutes. The first time their haul was 13,500 new francs ($2,700). When the bandits returned, the cashier's reserves had been replaced, and the second haul netted 22,480 new francs ($4,496).

The robbery set-up usually is more or less the same.

Squads of four to seven men, often wearing hoods or stockings over their faces, march into a bank, produce submachine guns from under their coats and order the cashiers to "hand it over."

The cashiers never refuse. Life is cheap to the killer squads.

Before leaving, the gunmen always give the same parting warning: "Don't hurry about informing the police." A glance at their guns underlines the threat.

* * * *

THE BIGGEST robbery ever staged in this country and the second largest in history was when Secret Army gunmen on March 23, took from the Oran branch of the Bank of Algeria 23.5 million new francs ($3.47 million) in French and Algerian bank notes.

The coup was carried out by a squad of 15 gunmen who entered the bank shortly after it was closed to the public and carried off a truckload of bills.

The majority of the stolen notes were bills issued by the Bank of Algeria.

The finance ministry in Paris hastily announced that the Bank of Algeria notes no longer would be legal tender in France and could not be changed at banks there. But that failed to put an appreciable crimp in the bank robberies.

* * * *

IT HAS been suggested the government might even change the territory's currency. But officials believe this would be difficult at a time when major political changes are in store.

Bank robberies became the chief means used by the Secret Army for fund-gathering after blackmail, threats, use of the protection racket and straight demands for "contributions" failed to get sufficient funds from businessment.

Ruling Favors Policyholders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Holders of fire-insurance policies in California can, without penalty, take advantage of rate reductions which occur in the interim before their policies run out, the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau ruled Saturday.

The bureau, which develops rates for many companies doing business in California, said the new endorsement could be applied on the first anniversary date of the policy after a rate change becomes effective.

Previously, a policyholder had to pay a penalty to have the policy rewritten.

"A MILLION DOLLAR PRODUCER"

JOSEPH A. BARNES

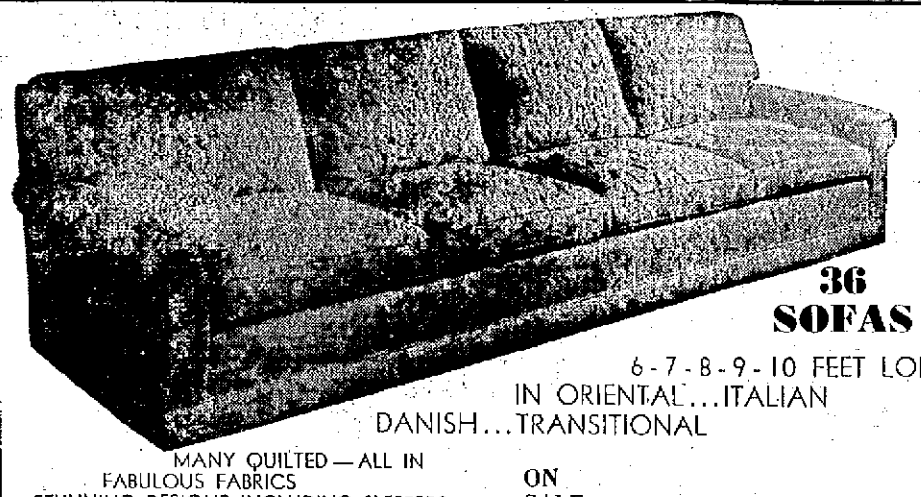

During 1961, Joseph A. Barnes ranked fourth among Western Life's national field force in total volume produced and sixth in the number of cases sold. Last year, he assisted one hundred and eleven California citizens and businesses in the establishment of more than $1,000,000 of new life insurance security.

Since joining Western Life in 1953, Mr. Barnes consistently has been among the Company leaders.

We, his business associates, have long recognized the professional nature of the services he has rendered and it is gratifying to note the great acceptance of his abilities and skills by his clients whom he serves so well.

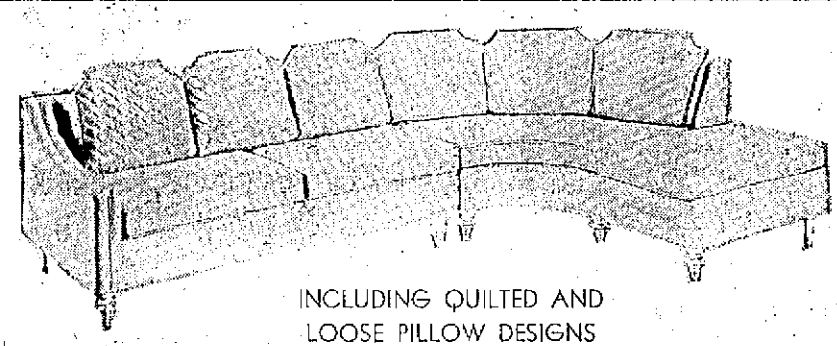

We, therefore, take pride in his achievements and in calling them to the attention of his community.

HEY KIDS . . . Easter-time is time for . . .

ADS FREE

• DECIDE WHAT YOU WANT TO ADVERTISE
• FOLLOW THE RULES . . . AND WRITE YOUR AD ON THE ORDER APPEARING BELOW!

This is your big chance to have a spring cleanup just like Mom and Dad. You can with an Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ad . . . and it won't cost you a single penny. Decide what you want to advertise and start preparing your ad in your own words. Bring or mail your ad to this newspaper. Please use the special order blank appearing below. Watch for your "very own" advertisement which will be seen in over 167,000 homes. Read the other KIDS' ADS . . . there may be something advertised you'd like.

REMEMBER WRITE YOUR NAME — ADDRESS OR TELEPHONE NUMBER IN YOUR AD!

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES

1. School children from 6 to 16 years of age may advertise in the "Kids' Classified Ad" column free of charge.
2. Bring or mail your ad to the Classified Ad Counter in The Independent, Press-Telegram Building. Please DO NOT phone your ad, as phone orders can not be accepted.
3. Classified Ads may offer to buy, sell or exchange children's merchandise only, such as dolls, doll carriages, bicycles, children's books, clothing, electric trains, coaster wagons, marbles, athletic equipment—in fact, any article of value that you may think some other boy or girl will want.
4. These ads must not be over 18 words.
5. All ads will be run for three days. Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, April 15, 13, 20 only.
6. The name, address or phone number and age of each boy or girl advertiser must appear in the Classified Ad.
7. Classified Ads must be written plainly on the free ad coupon appearing below.
8. Have your parents sign your free ad coupon or have them accompany you or send a note with you sanctioning your Classified Ad if you bring it to the office.
9. This offer will be effective from dates listed above. No ads accepted after April 12.
10. The Independent, Press-Telegram reserves the right to limit or refuse Classified Ads that do not conform with the above rules.

Big Luxury Apartment Building Started at 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

By KEN CHILCOTE
I. P-T Business Editor

Construction has been started on a 15-story, $2,500,000 luxury apartment building at 600 E. Ocean Blvd., near the foot of Atlantic Ave.

Henry Sassoon, former Canadian builder and developer, is the owner of the high-rise structure which will be known as "600 Ocean," the same as its address.

The ocean-front rental apartments will be luxurious in design and size with many unique features usually found only in the most costly custom homes.

Workmen have erected a fence barricade on the site and have already started on the development. There will be three floors underground on the Ocean Boulevard frontage but open to the beach side for garages.

Sassoon said the ground floor will be occupied by a high-class restaurant, a coffee shop, cocktail bar and a shop.

* * * *

THE NEXT 10 FLOORS each will have eight units, four one-bedroom and four two-bedroom apartments. There will be two huge penthouse apartments on the top floor.

The one-bedroom units will contain 1,250 square foot of living space including two baths. The two-bedroom units will have 1,550 square feet and two baths. The penthouses will have 2,700 square feet.

Not included in the space for each will be a balcony 20 feet by 11 feet for each apartment. These will be recessed eight feet into the building with a three-foot ledge extending outward.

* * * *

ALL-ELECTRIC, each apartment will carry the Gold Medallion for excellence in construction. There will be electrical baseboard heating in all rooms. Each will have a built-in electric stove and oven and big refrigerator. Each apartment will have its own electrically heated hot water tank and each will have facilities for washer-dryers.

Sassoon came to Southern California a few months ago and selected a site on Sixth Place and built a seven-story luxury apartment.

"With the wonderful weather and climate Long Beach offers and the fine ocean-front sites available, I decided to make this my home and do some more developing," he declared.

Construction has started at 600 E. Ocean Blvd. on this high-rise luxury rental apartment building. Henry Sassoon, who came here from Canada, is building the apartments at a cost of $2,500,000.

Pancake House to Open Here

A long-term lease has been signed by The International House of Pancakes Inc., for a site at 1101 East Pacific Coast Hwy. (the corner of Lemon Ave.) in Long Beach for the construction of an International House of Pancakes restaurant, Al Lapin, Jr., company president, announced.

Owners of the property are Willard G. DeGroot and William Cline, both of Long Beach. Agents in the transaction were Coldwell, Banker and Co.

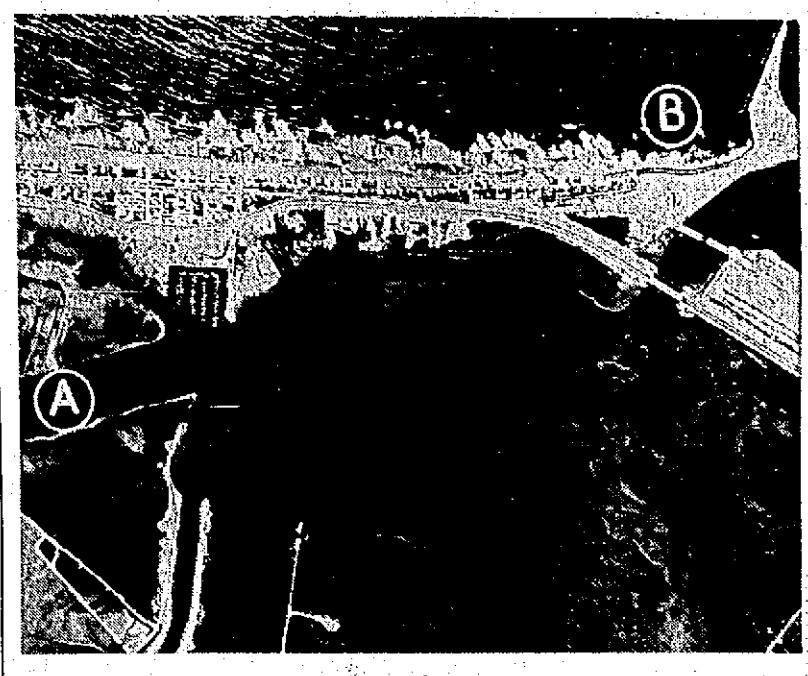

* * * *

LAPIN SAID construction of the high-pitched, blue-roofed restaurant will get underway at once, with completion scheduled for early July. Actual operation of the restaurant will be by a franchised operation. Construction will be carried out by Panco Corp., an IHP subsidiary.

The new Long Beach pancake house will be the chain's 30th unit. The first was in Toluca Lake, Burbank, opened in July 1958. The company is now publicly owned, following a successful stock underwriting in November.

Huntington Harbour Proposes Trading Sand for Channel Use

HAS SAND, NEEDS CHANNEL
Huntington Harbour, the big development where islands are being dredged for luxurious homes (foreground), will dredge 150,000 cubic yards of sand and earth from point A and rebuild the beach at Surfside, point B, if the Navy will grant a permit for a small boat channel to the development. The boats would enter the Seal Beach Ammunition and Net Depot property at the right in this aerial photo.

The new Huntington Harbour project will give Surfside Colony—Sunset Beach 150,000 cubic yards of sand for filling its beach—if the Navy will allow a small boat channel into Anaheim Bay.

President Lewis W. Douglas Jr. of Huntington Harbour Corp., developing an 800-acre series of islands for luxury homes and a small boat haven in Sunset sloughs, said the fill material will be delivered to the Surfside-Sunset strand by his company at once.

* * * *

HE SAID the material can halt erosion of the beach-front which has been battered by waves for months. Erosion is undermining some of the beach-front houses, Douglas said.

For months, Douglas has sought a permit from the U.S. Navy to use the Seal Beach Naval Ammunition and Net Depot's Anaheim Bay for the small boat entrance into his channel.

The Board of Supervisors of Orange County did not accept the Douglas offer, referring it to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Bank Building Open in Cerritos Square

The new United California Bank Building in North Long Beach's Cerritos Square office building development is now open. This is the fifth and largest building to be erected in this unusual office building complex by the C. J. Bonner Co., owners and developers of Cerritos Square which is located on Long Beach Blvd. at San Antonio Ave. The ground floor of 9,500 square feet will be occupied by the Cerritos Square branch of the United California Bank.

* * * *

GROSS BUILDING area of the three-story structure is 30,000 square feet. The upper levels are serviced by Hi-speed hydraulic elevators and fine acoustics have been achieved through the use of light-weight aggregate in the structure's concrete floor slabs.

Coldwell, Banker & Co., leasing agents for the new building said the building is 75 per cent leased, confirming the current market demand which has made the Cerritos square project successful.

Wall panels incorporating the use of a new process of mosaic stone work form the exterior facade of the building. High intensity lighting and refrigerated, multi-zone air-conditioning are additional design features specified by project architects Jones & Poper, A.I.A.

United California Bank is in temporary quarters but will move to the new building shortly.

Budget Terms for Large Beach Home

CARPETING INCLUDED
Wall-to-wall carpet is one of the quality features offered at Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes by builders, S. V. Hunsaker & Sons.

For home buyers looking for a home large enough for a growing family, with payments small enough to fit their budget, Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are the ones to see, says S. V. Hunsaker, builder and developer of homes in Southern California since 1932.

Immediate occupancy is available in Unit 1, with no down payment. Unit 2 may be purchased with a low down payment of $95 and easy financing terms are available at both units.

Offering the buyer unusually convenient floor plans and distinctive exterior elevations, these homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage.

POPULAR FEATURES in these homes are wall-to-wall carpet, floor-to-ceiling wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing and plenty of built-ins. The compact modern kitchens feature built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, disposal, vinyl tile, Formica counter tops, and natural finish cabinets.

Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are located in the finest section of Orange County close to beaches, recreational areas, schools, churches, and shopping centers. Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at both units.

Unit 1, located adjacent to a park site, may be seen on Heil Ave. just off Golden West St.

Unit 2 furnished model homes may be inspected on Golden West and Smeltzer in Huntington Beach.

DOUGLAS BUILDING RISING
Framework for the new nine-story $7 million administrative building at the Long Beach Douglas Aircraft Co. plant begins towering over other structures. Under the contract with the Bechtel Corp. the building is to be completed in October. This new building has a 70-foot frontage on Lakewood Boulevard, and extends 145 feet west. It will house units moved here, and now occupying temporary quarters when Douglas consolidated all aircraft operations at the Long Beach plant.

Will Open Big Studio

Opening soon will be the $100,000 studio of desert decorator, Vee Nisley, NSID, on Hwy. 111 just east of Palm Springs in Rancho Mirage.

The 7,000 square foot studio brings to the Palm Springs area the largest and most complete furnishing and decorating selection of its kind in the desert.

FORMER aviatrix Vee Nisley has been active in desert area decorating circles since 1945.

Over $50,000 worth of Western, Eastern and imported furnishings and decorator items will be available.

Vee Nisley has created a score of interiors for some of the desert's most famous homes and personalities.

Design Originality Featured in All of Sol Vista New Homes

PROVIDES GRACIOUS LIVING

This large living room symbolizes the designing in Sol Vista Homes where gracious living is the theme. Prices on the big homes start at $18,300.

Sol Vista, popular community development in the Huntington Beach Santa Ana area of mushrooming Orange County, has many unique features.

Of prime importance, in addition to the originality and quality of the homes itself, is Sol Vista's location. It is only a few minutes drive from the ocean with its beaches, parks and fishing facilities. Sol Vista is in the vicinity of several golf courses. "It is, consequently, very conducive to true indoor-outdoor California living" states Irving Solomon, executive vice president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., the builder.

There are 23 exteriors with five floor plans from which the buyer can choose. These homes have three or four bedrooms with two baths. Price is from $18,300 with low FHA down payment.

* * * *

A MASSIVE brick or stone fireplace — of floor-to-ceiling design—is standard with every model. Kitchens have all-electric Frigidaire built-ins, natural grained ash hardwood cabinets and are color-coordinated. A Frigidaire dishwasher is also included.

Sol Vista homes have hardwood floors throughout and have forced-air heat. Other important but less visible features include rock wool insulation, accoustical ceilings, and American Standard plumbing fixtures.

Sol Vista is near established schools and churches, close to thoroughfares and existing and proposed freeways. It is only a few minutes from shopping areas.

Model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and until 6 p.m. on Saturdays. C. LaFaye Co., Inc. are sales agents.

From Long Beach go out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) or Carson St. to Hwy. 39 and turn right to models. Model homes are 3 miles south of Garden Grove Blvd.

New Sunshine Home Unit Opening Today

NOW ON DISPLAY

S. V. Hunsaker, president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers, announced the grand opening this weekend of Lakewood East Sunshine homes located on Del Amo Blvd. just west of Pioneer Blvd. close to the metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to Southland's major resort and recreational spots.

Offering the home buyer the most popular of architectural planning, built-ins, and modern materials designed for lifetime satisfaction, these homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, family room, large two-car garage and may be purchased with a down payment of $195.

* * * *

THE HOMES offer the home buyer many quality features such as wall-to-wall carpet, silent forced-air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, and ample closet space. The ultra-modern kitchens are equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, disposal, Formica counter tops, plastic invyl tile, and natural finish cabinets.

Home buyers who are seeking high quality homes centrally located may inspect furnished model homes daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Norwalk College Park Offers Fine Homes

Announcement that a limited number of quality-built residences have just been made available at Norwalk College Park is expected to draw an immediate response from value-conscious home shoppers, officials of this community in Norwalk, report.

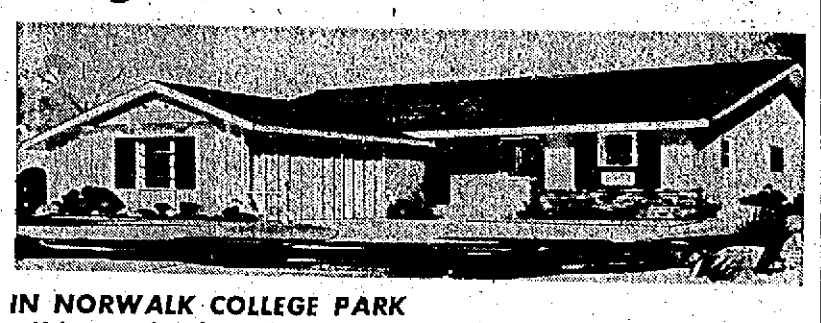

Situated in close-in Norwalk, adjacent to Los Cerritos Junior College, Norwalk College Park's present selection is distinctively diverse in exterior design, and the large-family plans have three and four bedrooms and two attractive baths. All plans have a service porch and a two-car garage, and in most, there is a separate dining area.

* * * *

"THREE-WAY" financing, officials explained, includes VA insured loans at 5¼ per cent interest with terms of nothing down except costs and impounds, excellent conventional loans and FHA financing. Full prices are from just $17,950.

One of the most popular features is the kitchen with its built-in gas wall oven and tabletop range, range hood with light and exhaust fan to remove cooking aromas and steam, sink-installed disposer and double compartment sink, natural ash cabinets and superamic (ceramic) tile countertops. Convenient separate service porches are designed to keep "wash day" out of the kitchen.

From Long Beach, Norwalk College Park is reached by driving north on Lakewood Boulevard to Alondra Boulevard, then right to the model homes at Maidstone Avenue.

Firm Moves to Fullerton

Movement of American Electronics, Inc., Instrument Division from Culver City to the company's new facilities in Fullerton is being completed in early April, according to Robert C. Loomis, president.

The move to the headquarters plant will provide the Instrument Division with a completely integrated and fully air-conditioned manufacturing facility with an output capacity of approximately 50 per cent more than at their original Culver City plant.

Electro-Mechanical and Precision Power Divisions of the firm moved to the Fullerton faculty when it was completed a year ago. Adjoining the 100,000 square foot plant is American Laboratories, a complete environmental test facility, in a separate building.

"We compared them all... THEN CHOSE A TROPHY HOME!"

...say Mr. & Mrs. JAMES CARR 868 Darciel Avenue

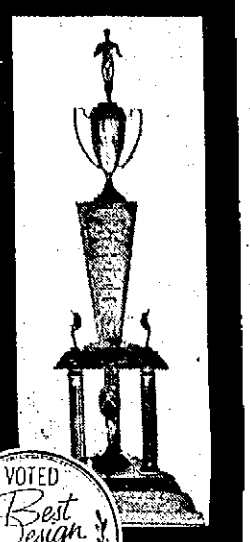

Read Why Mr. & Mrs. Carr Decided on a Trophy Home:

"After considering and deciding against over fifty different types of subdivision houses, one Sunday we visited Trophy Homes. That evening, for the first time in weeks, we knew we had solved our home-buying problem.

There were many reasons why we selected our Trophy Home. First, we felt the construction quality was far superior to anything we had seen in our price range. Moreover, it was a complete home — ready to move into. Wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, patio and hundreds of dollars worth of other "extras" and "built-ins" were included in the purchase price, so we didn't have to spend any extra money for these things we knew we'd need. The living area and storage space were large enough for our whole family — much more than offered by most subdivisions. And, the overall price and monthly payments were very reasonable.

After having "lived" in our new Trophy Home for a while now, we feel — now more than ever — that it is the best home value in all of Southern California."

$3000 IN "EXTRAS" DECIDED HIM

"We were absolutely amazed that any home could offer as many 'extras' and 'built-ins' as we got in our new Trophy Home. I estimated the cost of them one day before we decided — wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, landscaping, even a range, just to name a few — and stopped counting at $3000. That's when we made our decision!"

"We bought our Trophy Home because we liked the quality of the construction. We looked for almost a year before we bought — being an engineer, I'm pretty particular about such things. Since I don't have time to do much work around the house, my wife really appreciates all the conveniences that were built into our Trophy Home before we moved in."

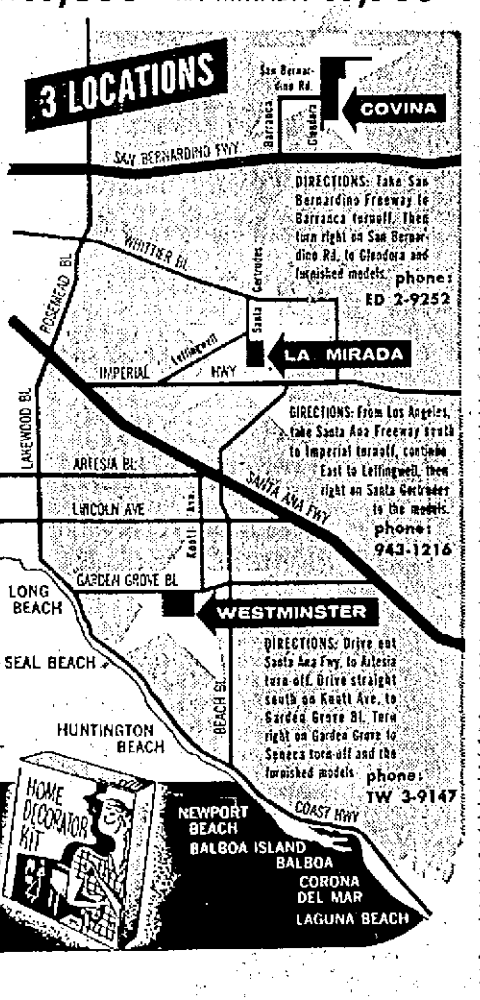

HOUSEWIVES LOVE NEW KITCHEN

"The kitchen in my Trophy Home is just wonderful to work in. The built-ins are real work savers. The cupboards are big and spacious. And the snack bar saves me many steps at breakfast and lunch time. But, best of all, my kitchen is really light, airy and cheerful... it almost makes housework a joy!"

Cabana Club in Pacific Sands Will Be Just for Residents

Announcement of the summer opening of the Pacific Sands Cabana Club, with swimming pool, tennis, playground, and clubhouse, has stimulated the largest crowds of home buyers ever to visit Pacific Sands, according to Jim Deane of the Deane Brothers, co-developers of the private beach community with M. J. Brock and Sons, Inc.

Buyers at Pacific Sands, one minute from Huntington Beach State Park, benefit by a full range of organized community activities, Paul Rowland, sales manager for Walker & Lee, sales agency, said that among the varied activities are landscaping and fashion classes. Residents may join the fishing or bicycling club. For young baseball fans, a complete Little League will offer healthful recreation close to home. Teen-agers can enjoy a constant round of activities in their own club.

* * * * *

NEIGHBORHOOD functions are constantly being planned. Pat Yeiser, who acts as community co-ordinator for the many activities said that a special hit was scored by the recent "food and fashion" party where homeowners were treated to new ideas in menu planning and fashionable attire.

Included in the club will be a community-size pool, a cabana clubhouse for community meetings, tennis courts, shuffleboard facilities, and a children's playground. The recreational area is for the use of Pacific Sands homeowners and their guests.

* * * *

CUSTOM-DESIGNED for beach-close living, Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor showers. Some models include a special garage boat door to permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance work. The homes are offered in one and two-story models, and with two, three or four bedrooms, family room, and two baths.

The homes are priced well below the market, the sales manager said, ranging from $13,500 to $19,950. Terms include $390 total move-in costs.

The Pacific Sands development is located on Hwy. 39 (Beach Blvd.), one block from Coast Hwy. (101).

'Sea View' Huntington Hills Homes Luxuriously Appointed

Urban conveniences combine with the charm of a five-minute location from the beach at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. pointed out.

Schools are excellent, McCaffrey said, and the system is still expanding. Shopping too, is excellent with modern shopping centers at strategic points. There are churches of many denominations and the recreational facilities offer endless amusement for the whole family.

Luxuriously appointed and quality built, Huntington Hills homes are available on favorable financing for both veterans and non-veterans.

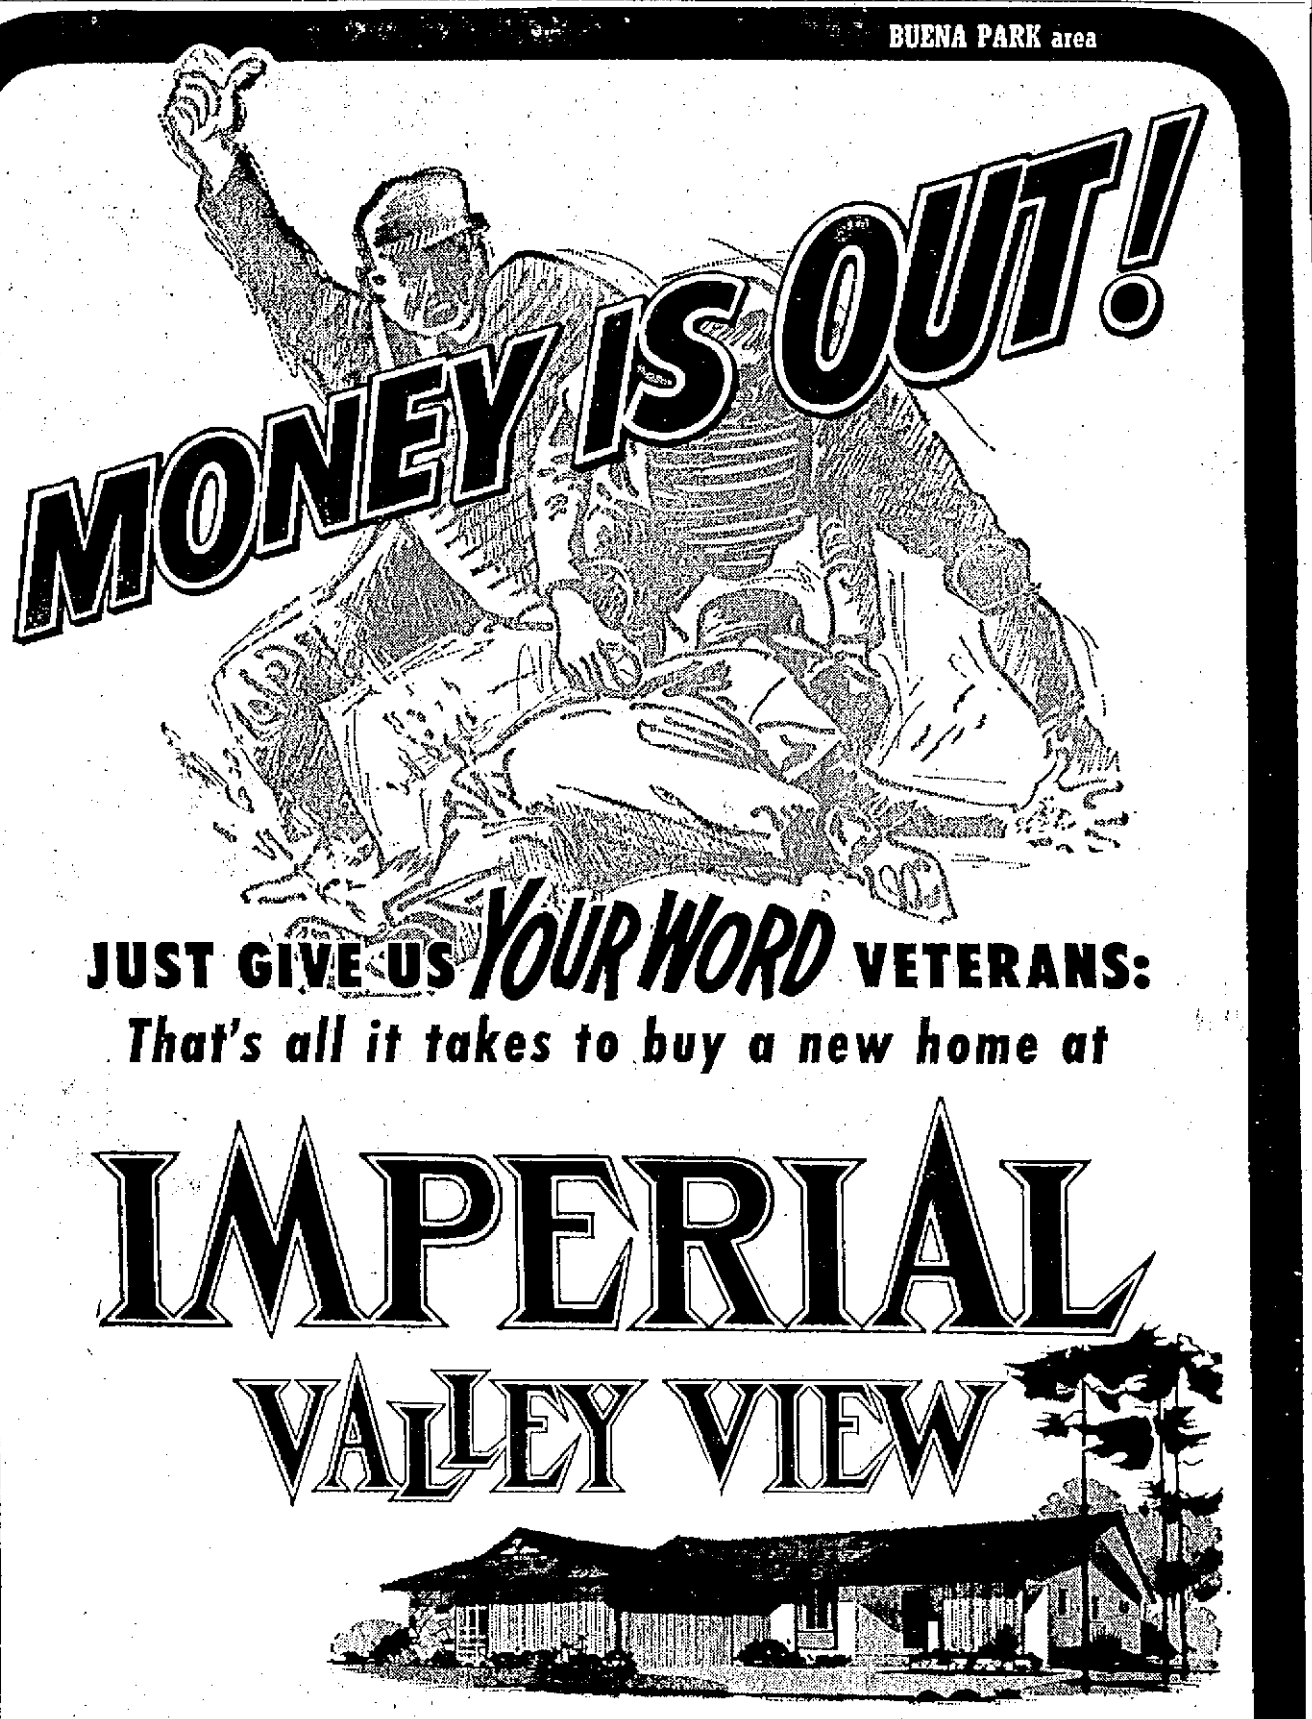

VETERANS HAVE a total "move-in" of $88, and in addition to the excellent conventional terms, non-veterans have the new, low 35-year loans. Full prices, which include the many fine home features, are from $17,500, and there are homes ready for immediate occupancy.

Among these, are two "special offer" residences. Furnished models are reached by driving south (from Long Beach) on Pacific Coast Hwy. (US 101) to Huntington Beach, turn left at Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) and drive two miles north to Huntington Hills.

Another Development By S. V. HUNSAKER & SONS, Builders

Solid Construction in Bolsa Park Home

BIG LIVING ROOM

Luxury in a Balsa Park Home is shown here. The large living room has floor-to-ceiling fireplace and a wall of glass.

Ceilings and walls of lath and plaster, plus an extensive use of gleaming ceramic tile throughout, are among featured highlights at the Bolsa Park development in Huntington Beach, said sales director Ernie Merrill. "Bolsa Park is the only new subdivision in its area which makes both of these features available to buyers," he added.

The Bolsa Park homes include a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar, a full ceramic tile bath with shower over tub, and a separate ceramic tile shower with special decorator tiles.

AVAILABLE are extra-large "boat lots" with room for boat storage plus swimming pool.

"Though prices from $19,250 still prevail in the present unit, rising costs are expected to force higher prices in future units," Merrill stated. "Bolsa Park homes may now be purchased with VA no-down-payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼% interest, and 6% conventional financing."

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh St., east to Bolsa Chica, right tow miles.

Wilmington Homes Offer Many Extras

Offering three-bedroom and a family room, two-bath homes in the heart of the harbor area, Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington is attracting many buyers.

Included in the cost, which starts from $18,900, the homes provide wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and many built-ins including a range and oven. The buyer has a choice of Hotpoint electric or O'Keefe & Merritt gas appliances in the kitchen.

FROM Long Beach visitors to Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington may drive west on Pacific Coast Highway to Avalon. Turn right to "Q" St. Then right to models.

Among other features available are oak parquet floors in family room, natural wood cabinets, hood with fan and light over the built-in range; vinyl tile in kitchen, baths and on service porch, American Standard plumbing fixtures, forced-air gas heating, ceiling insulation, sliding aluminum windows, and sliding glass doors.

The homes are equipped with gutters and downspouts and the front yards are landscaped.

Veterans need only $195 to move in.

New, Low Terms Now Offered on Imperial Valley View Home

IMPERIAL VALLEY VIEW HOMES

Peak sales at Imperial Valley View are credited to the combination of handsome, attractively appointed homes that are quality built, to their prime location in the Buena Park area, the one modest full price and to the fact that they are offered on the lowest available veteran and non-veteran terms, officials said.

Imperial valley View's combination of attractively appointed, quality-built residences in a prime Buena Park area, each with a full price of just $17,150 and available on the lowest veteran and non-veteran financing available, has sent sales soaring, Koblentz & DeLancy, sales agents, report.

The sales agents explained that the new financing offers lower veteran qualification requirements that enable those who meet them to move in with no down payments of any kind, just the regular monthly payments. For non-veterans, there are convenient 35-year FHA loans.

FURNISHED MODELS highlight Imperial Valley View's homes which are presented in a selection of 21 diverse elevations. Plans are designed with three spacious bedrooms, a family room and well appointed baths with pullman lavatories and sunken Roman-style tubs. Plans also offer choice of front or rear living rooms and of attached or detached two-car garages.

Home shoppers, Koblentz pointed out, needn't take Imperial Valley View homes construction features just by being told that it is of high quality. "Showcase Room," an exhibit room, displays cutaways, of plumbing fixtures, heating units, kitchen appliances, and cross-sections of actual construction detail that are of the utmost importance to the prospective buyer.

From Long Beach, the model homes, open daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., are reached by driving east on Carson to Valley View Ave., then right to Orange Ave., and the homes.

Low Price for Top Home

A recent survey taken by sales agents McFarland & Mattocks revealed that the superior construction, extra features and below market price are major factors in the mass movement to Parliament Homes. It has been noted that this residential development in Westminster has enjoyed an unprecedented sales success.

The ideal location in the heart of Orange County provides all the established city conveniences: schools, churches, shopping, employment centers, recreational facilities and major thoroughfares leading to all the Southland.

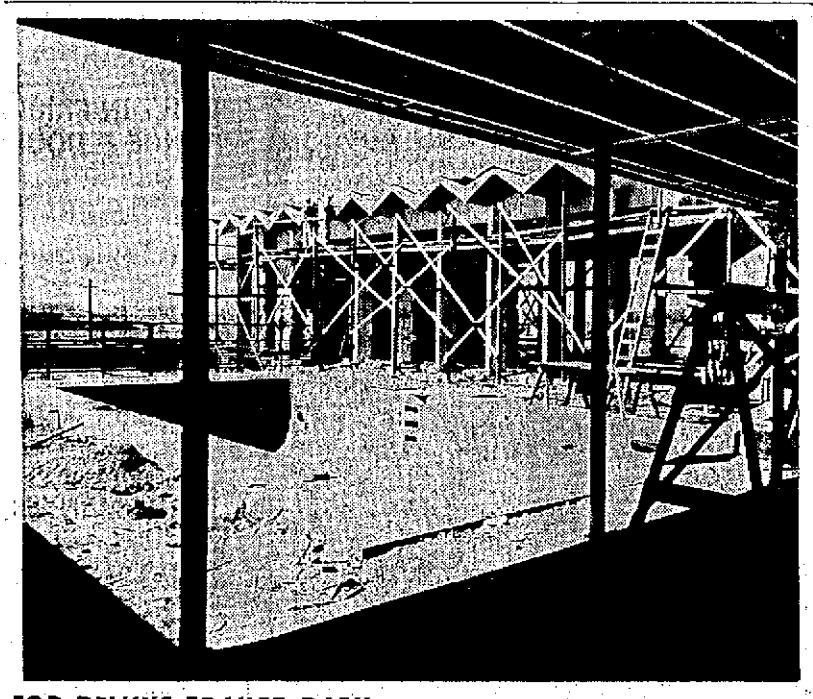

Families may choose from five floor plans with three bedrooms and den or four bedrooms, two baths, family room and a deluxe all-electric built-in kitchen with range and oven, dishwasher and disposal with a choice of 12 highly diversified exterior stylings.

• • • •

ADDED features include a floor-to-ceiling fireplace, pullman lavatories and ceramic tile in baths, all-aluminum sliding windows and sliding glass door to the patio, ample closet and storage space and a forced-air heating unit with summer ventilation fan. The floors are of select hardwood laid over wood subflooring. The attached double garage provides the complete laundry facilities and features direct entry to the kitchen.

Full price for the custom quality homes is $18,450 and officials report veterans may move in with no down payment other than a $90 closing cost. FHA financing, Cal-Vet or conventional financing is available with only $925 down including all costs.

To visit the furnished models, drive south on Brookhurst St. from Westminster Blvd., turn west on Hazard to the tract.

SUN RAY ESTATES WILMINGTON

380 New Lakewood Homes Ready Soon

POINTS TO DEVELOPMENT

Builder-developer Ray Cherry (right) points to possible park and recreation area in his Lakewood Manor to Lakewood City Administrator Marshall Julian (center) and his assistant, Donald Singer.

Lakewood Manor, a 380-home residential community, is under construction in Lakewood by Hadley-Cherry, Inc. Reservations are being taken by Walker & Lee, sales agents, and three furnished and decorated model homes will be open for inspection early in May. Lakewood Manor is located just north of Candlewood on Palo Verde.

L. C. Major and Associates, the nation's largest designer of homes, designed and color coordinated the homes which will sell from $18,750 to $19,250 with monthly payments from $97.

There will be three and four bedroom homes some with family rooms.

* * * *

UNDERGROUND wiring for street lights will be a feature. A special park and playground area is proposed within the community for the use of its residents. Every effort is being made to preserve the natural beauty of the area.

Ray K. Cherry, president of Hadley-Cherry, is past president of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties and a member of the board of the National Association of Home Builders. Says Cherry, "We are building Lakewood Manor homes for families who want a good comfortable home in a convenient location which is near churches, shopping, schools and transportation and which preserves a quiet residential asmosphere while being within easy travel distance from industry and commerce."

IN BUSINESS CIRCLES

SIGNAL OIL & GAS CO., will construct a steel drilling platform to be erected one and a half miles offshore from Huntington Beach and this should enable recovery of additional crude oil from existing leases, Samuel B. Mosher, chairman of the board, announced at the annual meeting.

Record high levels in sales were established for Signal in 1961. Net earnings, however, were less than anticipated because of the severity of the long gasoline price war that prevailed in California and other parts of the country throughout much of the year, stockholders were told. "The significant improvement in product prices during the fourth quarter of 1961, if continued, should make for a more satisfactory profit picture for the year 1962," Mosher stated.

As a highlight of the meeting stockholders were informed of the recent Federal Land Sales which were conducted in New Orleans, Louisiana, wherein Signal, as operator for itself and three other companies, was the successful bidder on 11 blocks of offshore Louisiana oil leases.

These offshore lease bids were based upon extensive geophysical work which has been conducted over a period of time. All of these properties are considered to have excellent prospects for oil, gas, and gas distillate.

A NEW CEMENT for manufacturing concrete blocks has been developed by California Portland Cement Co., announced by Ed. R. House, vice president, marketing.

Marketed under the name of Colton Block Cement, the new product has been successfully used in the manufacture of concrete blocks with truer color tones, sharper edges and corners, and more uniform surfaces.

The cement was effectively used in the masonry work at the new Dodger Stadium.

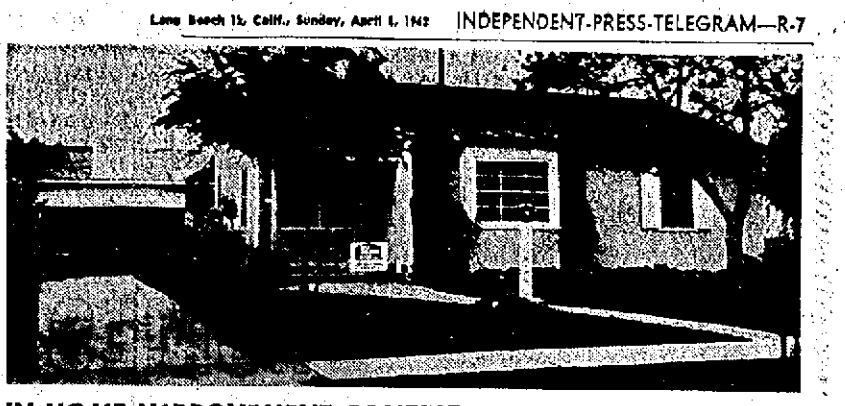

Oregon Farm Land Selling

On 72,000 acres of Oregon heartland, at Christmas Valley, M. Penn Phillips is creating "a self-sufficient community of model farms."

Located on the leeward eastern watershed of the Cascades, the new development was "90 per cent sold out within 12 weeks," explained Carlo Giuntini, president of the developing firm.

An all-electric (one-bedroom, expandable to 3-bedroom) ranch home on 20 acres sells for $5880, on terms of $56 a month. Farm and ranch acreage without buildings is available in parcels of 20 and 40 acres at $95 an acre.

Map and picture story describing opportunities are available free by writing: M. Penn Phillips Co., 742 N. Loren, Azusa, Calif.

IN HOME IMPROVEMENT CONTEST

Among entries in the Build Better Long Beach Contest sponsored by the Board of Realtors and the City Beautification Committee of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce is this home at 3628 Charlemagne. Mr. and Mrs. David B. Williams installed cinder block walls, patio and swim pool, installed used brick porch and walk and remodeled the interior.

Subsidy of Low-Rent Housing Has Cost U.S. Over $1 Billion

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's program of subsidizing low-rent housing for low-income families has boomed above the one billion dollar mark.

Since the program began in 1937 the government has spent roughly $1 billion to pay the interest and principal on loans on low-rent projects.

Last month the 500,000th dwelling unit to be built under the federal-local program was opened in New York City. Nearly all the units have been apartments and flats. A few are houses.

OVER THE YEARS about seven million people have lived in low-rent dwellings. These now house about two million persons. More than half are children. About 124,000 tenants are 62 years old and older.

These figures were compiled by the Public Housing Administration (PHA), the agency which approves and signs the subsidy contracts with local housing authorities, keeps an eye on the way projects are managed, and pays out the money.

The program has come in for its share of criticism. Critics object that it replaces old slums with new ones. This is said with particular reference to "high rise" buildings—10 and 20-story brick-and-mortar cliffs to be seen chiefly in New York and Chicago.

To this, the program's supporters reply that most public housing is not "high rise" and that it includes private houses and garden-type apartments. Moreover, they say, nobody ever claimed that providing the poorest element of society with better shelter would automatically wipe out juvenile delinquency, wife-beating and bathtub booze.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM is soundly supported by the Kennedy administration (former President Dwight D. Eisenhower limited activity in the field). PHA will spend about $166 million in subsidy payments in fiscal 1962 and $185 million in 1963. With about three-fourths of the 1962 money already disbursed, the cumlative total since 1937 has crossed the $1 billion mark. It was $890 million last June 30, the end of fiscal 1961.

The 500,000 dwelling units have cost an average of $8,000 each. This includes planning, land purchase, site improvement and construction. With costs much higher than they were even 10 years ago, present costs are far above $8,000. In some cases they approach $20,000 a unit.

Of families admitted to low-rent housing last year, half had a family income of $2,333 or less. Among elderly persons—including single-person families—the median income was $1,433.

About half of all new tenants last year paid rents of $40 a month or more. For elderly persons, the median rent was $32 a month.

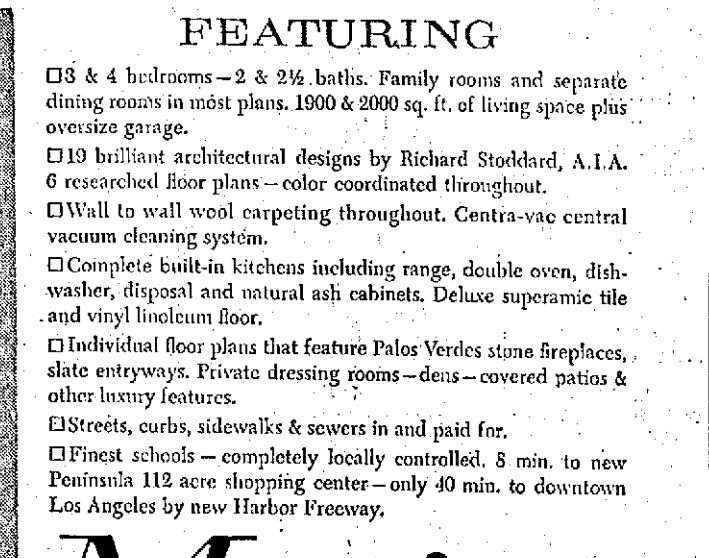

Oldest Seminary Sets Celebration

PRINCETON, N. J. (UPI)—Princeton Theological Seminary, oldest and largest Presbyterian seminary in the United States, formally begins celebration of its 150th anniversary on April 23.

The observance will last until the June, 1963, commencement. It will feature lectures, convocations, scholarly conferences, musical and dramatic programs and the publication of books and monographs.

Series Homers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Duke Snider of the Los Angeles Dodgers is the only player ever to hit four home runs in two different World Series, reaching this plateau in both the 1952 and 1955 series.

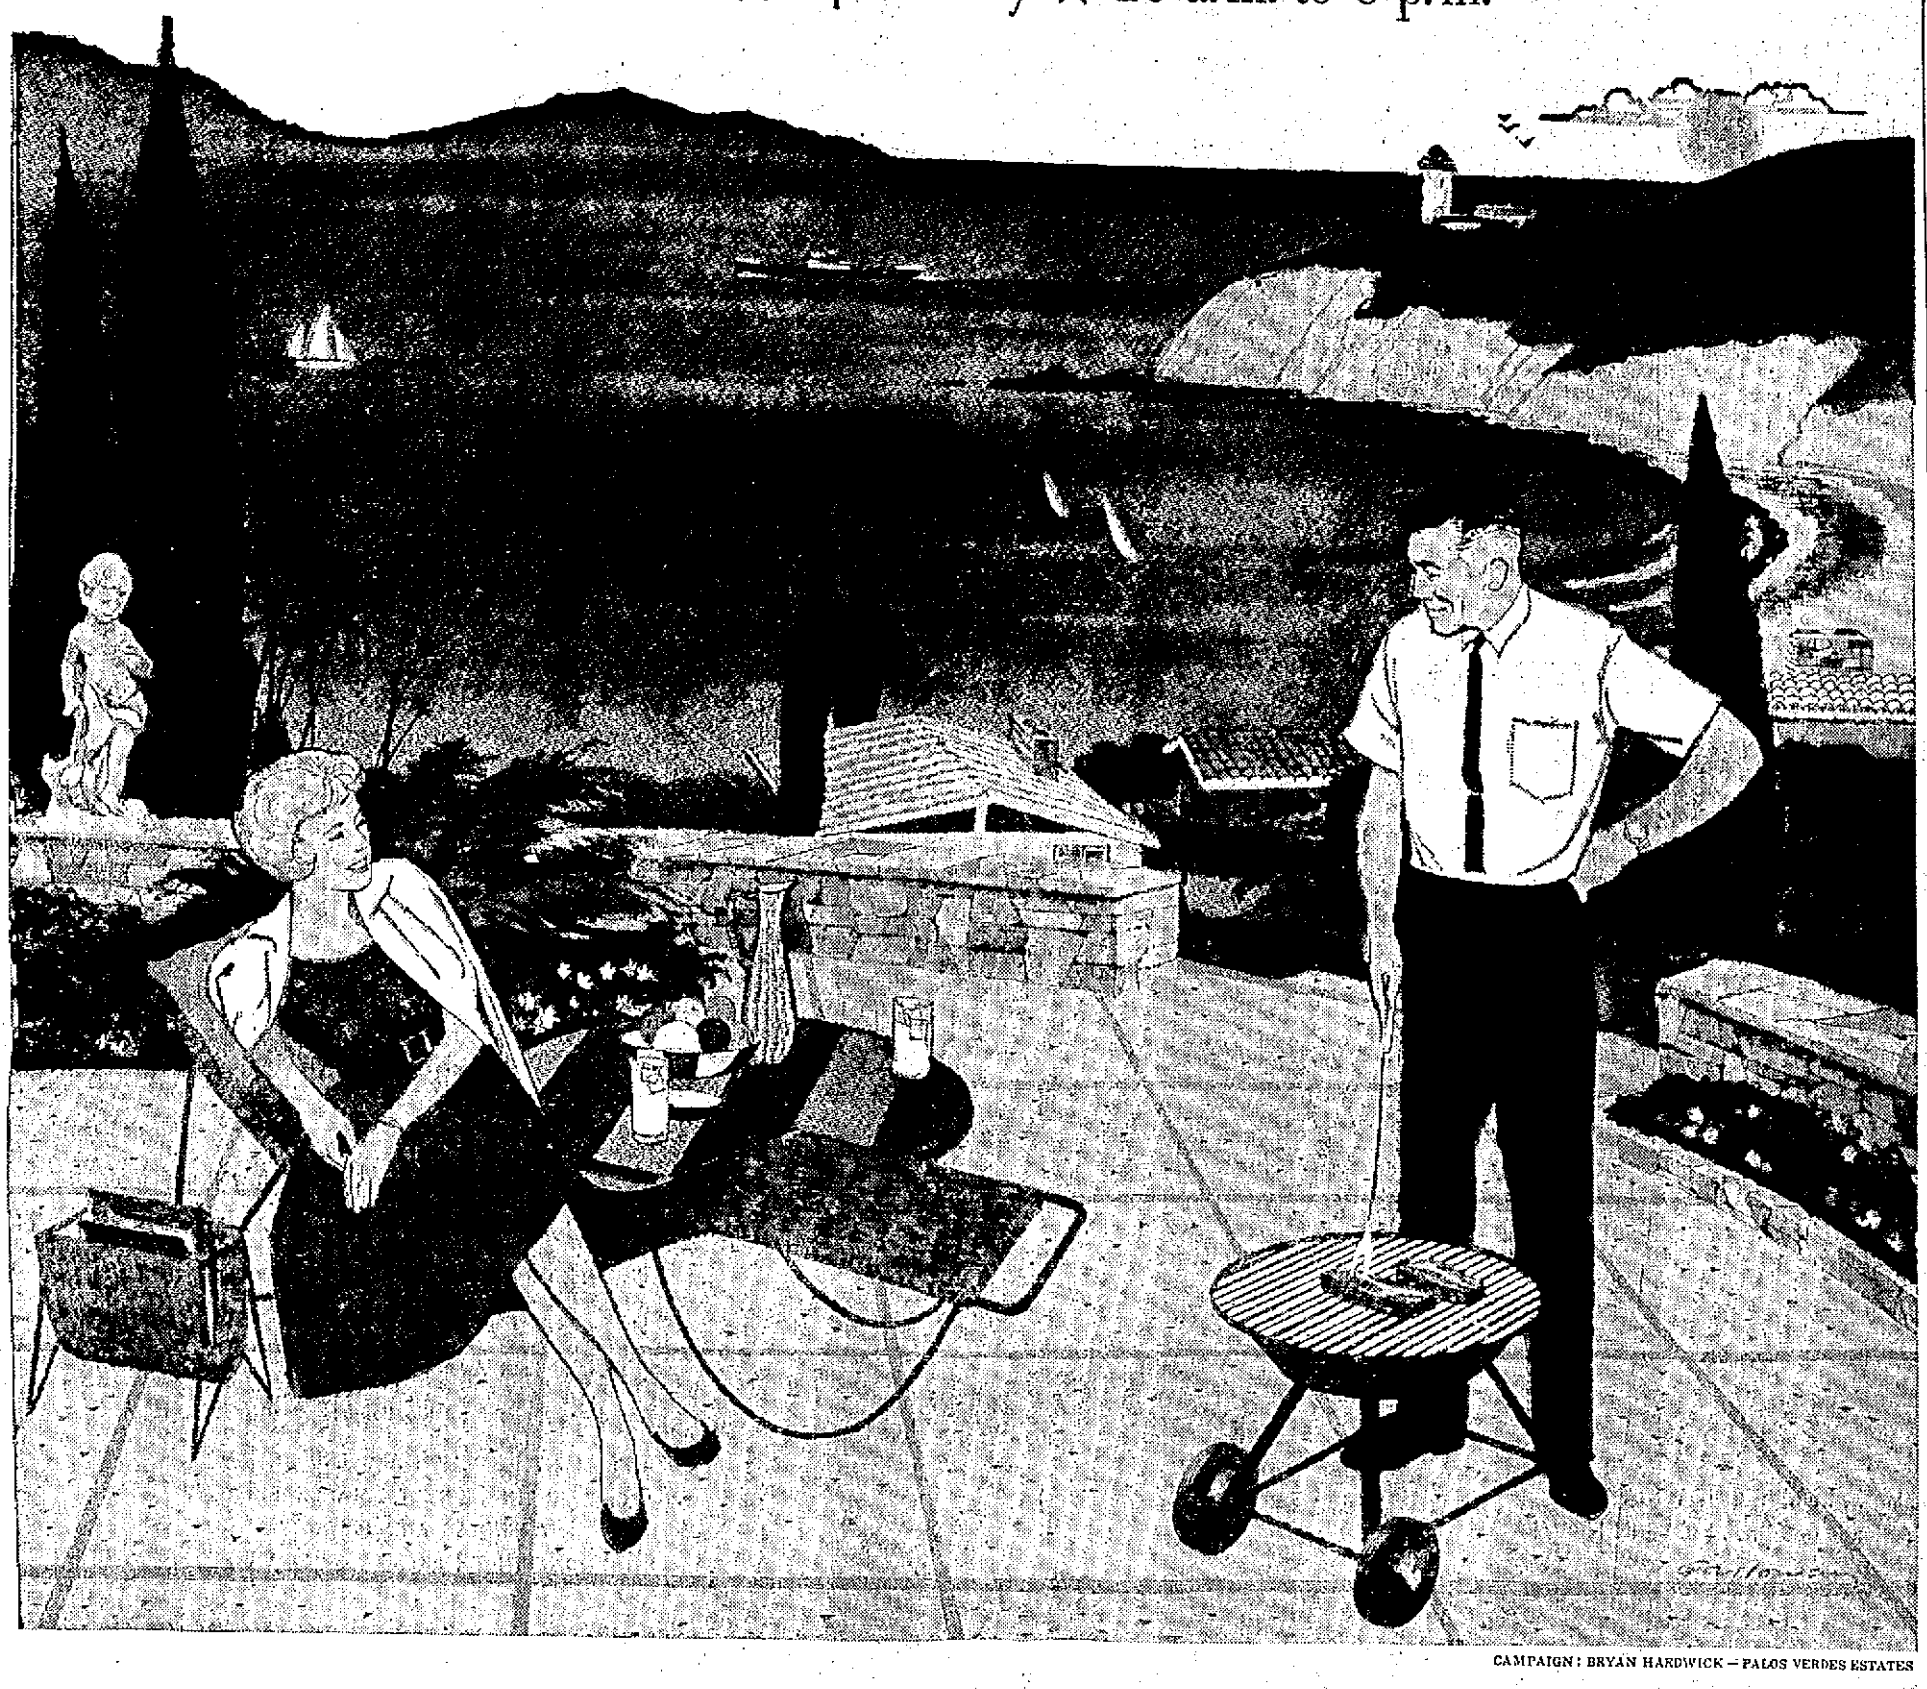

AUTO TOLL

Traffic accidents took 38,000 lives in America in 1961, down 200 from 1960. Fewer accidents occurred in multivehicle collisions and railroad accidents. Increases were recorded in noncollisions (running off road, turning over, etc.), and mishaps involving bicycles and animals. Chart above, based on National Safety Council figures, lists total deaths in each category and percentage change from 1960.

Panzich lives at 7662 Shady Oak, Downey.

Kitchen-Family Room Popular Plan in Golden West Estates

A large kitchen-family room with modern range top separator and handy breakfast bar is a highlight of the three-bedroom "100-Plan" at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction.

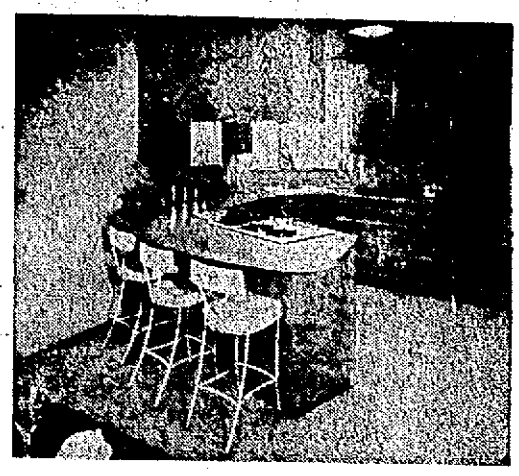

The functional "U"-shaped kitchen area includes natural ash cabinets, Wilson-Art sink tops with coved splashes, and a corner sink with view window commanding the front entranceway to the home. A convenient door in the family room leads directly to garage. The kitchen, like all other areas in the home, is directly accessible from the large entry and center hall.

* * * *

GOLDEN WEST homes in the new 7th Unit are available in 22 distinctive exterior stylings. Immediate occupancy is available on most or buyers may reserve their favorite plan and lot until the close of the school term.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two baths, family room, and an oversized two-car garage, the homes may be purchased with FHA, conventional, or VA no-down-payment terms. The 35-year, 5¼% FHA terms offer down payments from $800, while conventional down payments range from $695. Buyers may build up to their down payment gradually under a special layaway plan. Pricing is from $17,800.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached via Seventh St. east to Golden West St., then right.

KITCHEN IS U-SHAPED

The large kitchen-family room in the new Golden West Estates is proving very popular with buyers. The kitchen is U-shaped with a dining bar room divider.

"I BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT I LIVE IN A MEDALLION HOME"

"I've built more than 12,000 homes—all kinds—since I started in the construction business," says Mr. Holstein, "and I hold some very definite opinions about what makes a home a solid value.

"That's why I built my own to Medallion Home standards. For clean, up-to-date livability, you just can't match a Medallion Home."

In the light of Mr. Holstein's testimony, it's easy to understand the growing preference of new-home buyers for Medallion Homes. Take your cue from the experts. Choose a Medallion Home.

Only one new home in four earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

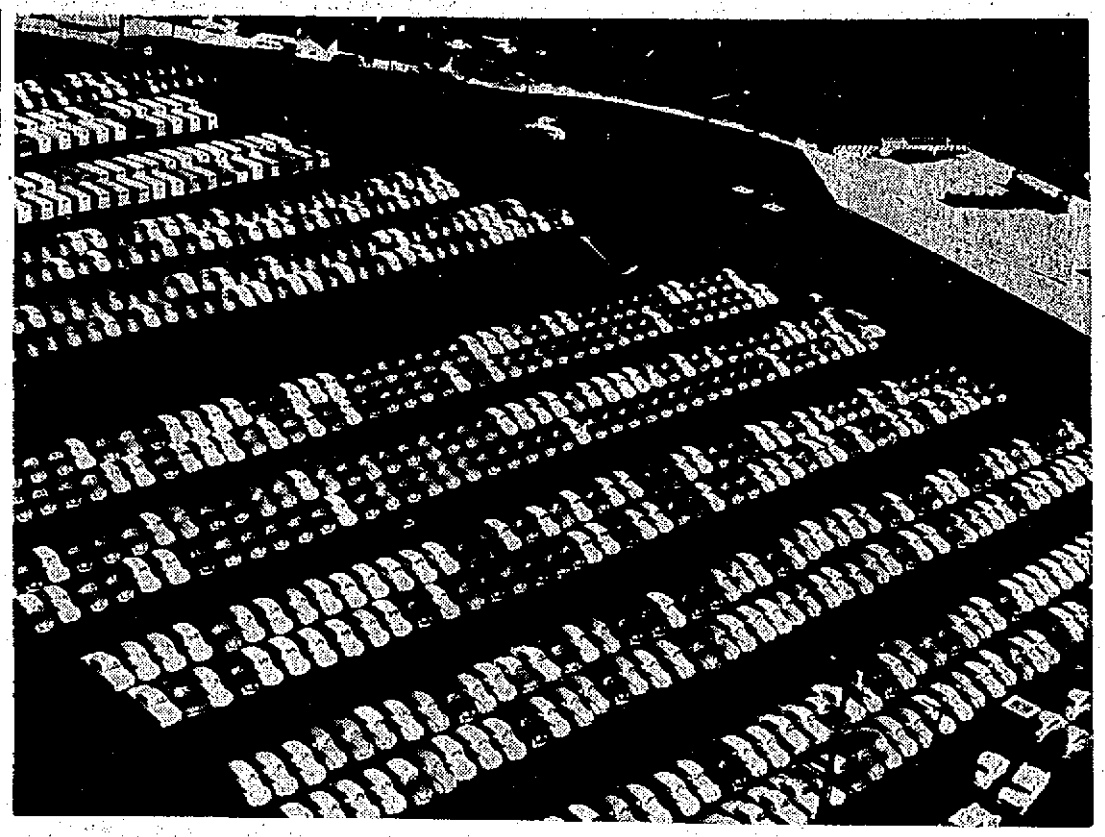

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

LAW IN NEWS

Landlords May Face Headaches

Many people depend for their income upon the rental from real property.

Good management rests on many separate things: Not the least of these is the selection of good tenants, thus to avoid legal headaches which an undesirable tenant may cause.

Suppose a tenant fails to pay his rent, or creates a nuisance by being noisy: Even though your written lease or rental agreement says you can end the tenancy, re-enter the premises and evict the tenants, the law will not permit you to. The law frowns on self help even though the tenant's possession is unlawful.

AS A RESULT, legal assistance is often needed. For the tenants must be served with a notice that the tenancy is ended — and this notice must be carefully worded. If he does not move out of his own accord one must file a lawsuit (called an unlawful detainer action) and obtain a court judgment. Then if the tenant does not move out voluntarily, the sheriff must move him out. All of these steps cost money.

A well drawn lease or rental agreement will do much to solve the landlord's problems and spell out the tenant's obligations. Things that a good lease can say:

1. In case of a lawsuit which party shall pay the legal expenses. Sometimes laeses say the tenant; and sometimes, the winning party.

* * * *

2. WHAT SHALL be done if the tenant abandons the premises leaving behind his personal belongings. Unless the lease allows the owner to place the property in storage at the tenant's expense, a wrong guess by the landlord may make him liable in damages to the tenant.

3. If there is a security or cleaning deposit, what conditions give the tenant the right to its return.

4. How much notice the tenant must give to end his tenancy. If the tenancy is one from month to month, he must, if there is nothing in the lease on this point, give at least 30 days' notice. Without this notice he would owe the landlord another month's rent, even though he moved out. Of course, if the lease is for a fixed period of time—for example six months—unless the lease says so, it cannot be ended before the time is up.

Record Crowds View New Dutch Haven Unit

WELL LIKED BY VIEWERS

Unit 20 of Dutch Haven Homes in Huntington Beach has been thronged by viewers who found the big homes appealing. Here is a view in one of the new models, showing the beautiful panel wall separating the living room from the dining area.

Overflow crowds thronged to the preview opening of Dutch Haven's 20th unit in the Southern California area, on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica at Huntington Beach.

According to an official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, crowds have been so large that many visitors were unable to inspect the community in complete detail. A number of immediate reservations were made last weekend and many viewers are returning to finalize negotiations.

"American Home Series" residences are being shown exclusively at Dutch Haven unit 20. Buyers have a choice of award-winning floor plans, all of which feature unusually efficient room arrangements, spacious closet and storage areas and an oversized garage with additional storage space.

There are 16 exterior elevations available.

THE LOCATION is exerting a strong influence on sales. Climate is ideal, beaches are but a few minutes away and there are excellent facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at 5¼% interest rate are also available. Monthly payments begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

Custom features include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and countertop gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

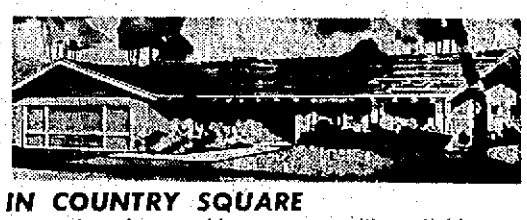

Oregon School Needing Cowboy

TOLEDO, Ore. (AP) — The school board of the coastal town of Toledo is looking for a cowboy.

School Supt. Marion Huff told the board that a roving white-faced cow has made nightly visits to the school grounds for the past three years and has done more than $500 damage to the athletic field and to shrubs and lawns.

Huff said he had chased the cow away a number of times. But it always comes back.

Nearing Sell Out in Country Square

IN COUNTRY SQUARE

A select few residences are still available at Country Square in Cypress on Orange Avenue just west of Knott Avenue. The homes are fully priced from just $14,990.

While emphasizing that there are a select few residences at Country Square in urban-surburban Cypress just minutes from Long Beach, W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. said that the near sell-out in a matter of weeks, is credited to the quality construction and fine home appointments so unusual in homes in their modest price bracket.

Full prices, McCaffrey explained, are from just $14,990, and the favorable conventional 25-year loans have down payments as low as $620.

SITUATED ON Orangewood Ave., just west of Knott Ave. in Cypress, the community offers home shoppers, who act promptly, a selection of distinctively diverse exterior elevations and plans with three and four bedrooms and two baths.

Open daily, Country Square is reached from the Long Beach area, by driving east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave., then left (north on Knott Ave. to Orangewood and then left to the homes.

Spacious Homes Appeal in Garden Park Estates

Garden Park Estates, popular walled "city within a city" at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, has recently introduced an exciting new series of one- and two-story residences that feature among the many other fine home appointments, handsome kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range, officials noted.

Architect-designed, the spacious new Garden Park Estates homes afford choice of three, four or five bedrooms, charmingly defined dining areas and family rooms, beautifully appointed baths and big two-car garages with extra storage space and clean, long-lasting cement driveways.

* * * *

PARTIAL ROSTER of the many luxury and convenience features lists fireplaces, sliding glass doors, forced-air heating, baths with pullman lavatories, stall showers and colored plumbing fixtures, and color-coordinated kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range in decorator colors with color-matched rangehood with light and fan, semi-automatic dishwasher, waste disposer, furniture-finish hardwood cabinets and superamic (ceramic) tile countertops.

Moderate full prices are from $17,800, officials said. Veterans may purchase on terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $98.50 including principal and interest, and there is also Cal-Vet, conventional and FHA financing.

THE COMMUNITY is within easy walking distance of eight schools from elementary through high school, Long Beach State College is about five minutes drive, shopping is excellent and there are many churches in the area.

Furnished models depict the handsome, quality constructed homes. From Long Beach, drive east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College straight to Knott Ave. and the homes.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 8, 1962 SECTION W

. . . . . dancers go dynamic, explore new dimension

By BETTY WENTWORTH

How can we measure space? It extends into infinity, but it has directions and levels. With no more than this small germ of an idea a choreographer and a composer decided to concoct a dance drama.

Collins, who plays first trumpet with Les Brown's orchestra, composed the music while Ruiz and the dancers developed the idea. There must be solid rapport for creative minds to work well together. Ruiz, teacher, dancer and director, presented the idea of "This Is Space" to his corps of young dancers from the Dance Drama Center Workshop and let them devise their own movements. They wear simple black leotards and tights for uniformity of effect and to prevent the distraction of elaborate costumes.

The finished product is one of three dances to be presented at Long Beach State College Thursday at 8:15 p. m. sponsored by the college's Dance Workshop and Friends of Long Beach Museum of Art. It is open to the public without charge.

The program is all modern dance, but just what is THAT? It's more creative than classical ballet, for one thing. Ballet is danced in a tradition involving stylized movements, with a tendency toward rigidness and sometimes even frigidness, although it undeniably has great beauty. Creative dancing is constantly exploring and experimenting. These young dancers are enthusiastic, earnest and energetic.

The dancers are asked to relate their movements to their own experience. They then expand from natural action to larger movements in order to more dramatically express their emotions. Modern dance is not a literal presentation. It goes around or behind a fact, embellishing it.

* * * *

WITH THAT for a starter let's examine how a dance drama develops. On the program for "This Is Space" it says "choreography by the individual." And it's exactly that.

After Ruiz explains his idea he tosses it to the dancers. They decide, in this case, to define space geometrically at first by measuring it. They form beautiful patterns of squares and triangles. They are surrounding space, as it were. Then someone interpolates the idea of giving space direction by pacing it off, or giving it levels.

Meanwhile, Composer Collins and Janet Runolfsson, pianist, fit music to action and Narrator Margaret Mangano works on a script to unravel the action for the viewer. There are singers, too, Barbara Dunbar and Betty Tesman, who accompany the dancing with songs sung first traditionally and then with exaggeration to fit the developing dance patterns. Watching from the sidelines is Roellen Estes who will handle stage lighting.

* * * *

As a painter learns to show a landscape

NOT JUST JACKIE---

THREE Mrs. Kennedy's to Watch!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When the President's youngest brother announced the other day he planned to enter his first political race, women around the country began to wonder: What is Mrs. Ted Kennedy like and how does she measure up as Kennedy campaigner?)

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

A year ago Joan Kennedy candidly admitted it was hard to keep up with her in-laws.

"I'm learning a lot about politics," she said then, by way of example. "They've lived it all their lives."

How much politicking skill Joan has absorbed from the kinetic Kennedys is about to be put to the test.

When her husband Edward, known as Ted, takes to the hustings in search of the Democratic nomination for senator from Massachusetts, she expects to be by his side—smiling, shaking hands, but silent. He'll do all the talking, she says.

Observers point out that Joan, with her blue-eyed, blonde good looks and gracious manner, is somewhere between ebullient Ethel, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's wife, and the basically shy First Lady.

* * * *

BUT MRS. John F. Kennedy, reserved by nature though she may be, has always risen to the occasion. Pregnant during her husband's campaign for the presidency, she couldn't work actively. Nonetheless, the few appearances she did make, at volunteer headquarters and such, left staffs starry-eyed for days.

After she became First Lady she won over people on trips abroad. With her husband in Europe a spring ago, the crowds applauded "belle Jacqui."

No slacker in the foreign friendship department is Ethel Kennedy. Last summer she accompanied her husband to West Africa and enchanted the Ivory Coast with her homey interest in how they lived. Perhaps her most endearing quote: "I'm jealous," of a village official who has 10 children. Ethel has only seven.

On the recent four-week world tour she kept pace with her energetic spouse, was fussed over from everybody from Japanese geisha girls to the Dutch queen.

In the last presidential campaign Ethel Kennedy was unofficially elected "Miss Perpetual Motion of 1960" by admiring, perspiring photographers trying to keep up with her efforts in behalf of her brother-in-law.

* * * *

IT WAS at Ethel's side—and with the Kennedy sisters—that Joan got her kindergarten training in Kennedy campaigning.

As a relatively new member of the clan—she and Ted were married in November, 1958—she traveled California with sister-in-law Patricia (Mrs. Peter Lawford) and Pennsylvania with Ethel.

She recalls their campaign meetings:

"They were neighborhood things, you know; coffee in the morning, or tea in the afternoon, with 25 to 50 ladies, sometimes 100. We'd stand around and chat, and I guess shake hands with every lady there—not in a reception line, moving around.

"Then, one of us—not me—would get up and talk about what kind of a person Jack, the President, is and ask if there were any questions.

"Eunice (Mrs. Sargent Shriver) is the one who would talk on the issues. The others just talked about his qualifications and about what kind of a man he is."

* * * *

SHE PLANS to be as affable, and noncommittal, in Ted's campaign.

"I look forward to being very busy with Ted; traveling around with him. I love living in Massachusetts, everyone has been very friendly and wonderful, and I look forward to meeting even more wonderful people, and being with Ted all the time during this next seven months."

Being with Ted probably means the most to Joan. Since he became a $1-a-year assistant Suffolk County district attorney more than a year ago, Joan hasn't seen too much of him. He spent his day at the courthouse and most evenings making speeches. Joan would go with him whenever she could but there was always the problem of sitters for little Kara now 2½ and Edward Jr., born last September.

WHEN JOAN accompanies Ted, household help stays with the children. However, she says, no part of Massachusetts is more than 2½ hours by automobile from Boston, except the offshore islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

Their vine-covered brick house at the foot of Beacon Hill—"one of these tall, skinny things" Joan describes it—is their first real home.

They met in 1957. Ted was in Harvard Law School and pretty Joan Bennett of Bronxville, N. Y., was at Manhattanville. She was graduated in June, 1958, and they were married in November. Until they were settled in the Charles River Square house in Boston late in 1960 they were at Charlottesville, Va., while Ted finished law school.

* * * *

SHE ADMITS she's not much of a cook—"I get kidded a lot." But Joan likes cultural things, such as playing the piano and attending concerts.

Is she fitted temperamentally for the role of a political campaigner's wife?

She says she loved every minute of her 1960 campaigning, and expects to enjoy it even more alongside her husband.

The campaign hasn't really started, but she's already gone with him to a number of political affairs in the last few months where she simply met people and talked with them a bit.

If their reaction is any indication, one of Ted's greatest assets will be Joan.

Vienna Coup Is Best Play

The earlier articles this week have been on bidding only. Here is a hand to test your ability at dummy play.

Needless to say, you will take the ace of hearts for trick one and then draw a few rounds of trumps. You will count 12 top tricks and see that a successful club finesse will give you your contract, but you must have a better play. There must be almost all sorts of squeeze possibilities.

You can assume that West holds the queen of hearts. No one in his right mind and West (in this column anyway) is always in his right mind, would lead an unsupported king against a grand slam when he knows the other side holds all the aces.

* * * *

THE BEST line of play is a Vienna coup. You cash dummy's ace of clubs, ruff a heart just to see if the queen will drop and then cash all your trumps. The first three discards from dummy will be the queen, jack and ten of clubs. On the last trump lead West will have to hang on to the queen of hearts and will be forced to discard a diamond if he started with four of them so you throw away dummy's last heart. Now if East holds the king of clubs and four diamonds he will be squeezed out of his diamond stopper.

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson, I, P-T Women's Editor

ONE REASON why husbands of Rick Rackers have turned into such good cooks is that necessity is the mother of invention.

At annual meeting and 20th birthday celebration Tuesday at the League House it was revealed that RR's 37 members gave 4,300 volunteer hours to the good cause during the last 12 months. That does not add up to homecnoked meals, steaming hot, on time every night, you know.

"Dinner Ready"

Individual hours honors went to Susie Lewis with 196 and Jackie Welty with 187.

Still on the hours kick, members of the telephone committee made 1,100 calls —and were only allowed 10 hours credit. Ha!

Having reached the ripe old age of retirement from RR, Betty Anne Kirkpatrick, Joan Hoskins, Jackie Campbell and Ethel Severson were given their walking papers which will lead them straight along the path to activity in Assistance League.

Several of the gals did an exceptionally clever act, a la "The Mikado," in full costume and make-up. Jackie Welty, Susie Lewis and Neena McHenry all have dark enough hair to manage to get by without benefit of rinse. But Joan Hoskins, Harriett Williams, Audrey Green and Georgiana Hamilton were brunettes for the day, and probably several more to come, with realistic dyed-to-order noggins.

THEY'LL be staging a welcome scene at Magnolia Theater as a special production in April to welcome Pat (Mrs. Gerald) Brown home from New York. Pat forsook her job as managing director of the little theater here to serve as field director of the theater communications division of the Ford Foundation.

THERE'S more to education than a book mark. Jannie and Dr. Jim Hester, our illustrious ex-citizen who is now president of New York University, are definitely on the glamor social trail. They have been invited to attend a dinner at the White House Wednesday, a state function being given in honor of the Shah of Iran and his queen.

Last week they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III.

But wotinheck have they got to look forward to the week after next?

THAT FAMOUS (or is infamous the word I'm groping for?) golf tournament, the Loyal Pulley Invitational, is in the wrap-up stages today at Gilman Hot Springs. Annually, a gang of attorneys and wives travel to the spa for a long weekend of stick swinging.

The crowd named it after Loyal in retaliation for a time when he didn't show up for it when he was supposed to.

Most or all of his fellow law firm members, so numerous that it is referred to as the "We, the People" (behind their backs, of course) plus about 60 others joined the tourney namesake for the date.

Included in the fun and sun flecked weekend (since Thursday) are Patti and Bob Bergmann, Betty and Jack Spence, Marge and Ed Demler, June and Clark Heggeness, Glenda and Earl Barnes, Billye and Fred Lightner, Lorraine and James Ackerman and that sterling chairman of the affair and his wife, Sterling and Legia Clayton.

BILLED as the quietest meeting of the year is Minerva Club's Wednesday gathering at the chapter house, 1830 E. Ocean. But I have me doubts. Even in action on a silent auction silence is seldom sanctioned by gregarious gals.

Maxine Van Leuven, chairman, explains that everyone brings a white elephant type something for sale. Each item has a long slip of paper attached. 'Silently" members and guests circle the tables, write their name and amount they're willing to pay. Trick is, if you notice somebody coveting something you covet you can sneak a peek and change your bid. If you're in time. It's all done on a time limit basis—and you never know when the gong will bong ending the whole thing.

ONLY policy insurance woman Antoinette Oster is interested in right now is one that will pay off in a good time. She's decided to go AWOL (in this case meaning away with official leniency) from her office for a flying vacation jaunt to Japan, and such other spots in the Orient as Taiwan, Hongkong, Bangkok and Thailand. She'll return early May, loaded to the gunwales, no doubt, with tourist loot.

NO WONDER the parents of teen-agers wake up screaming. It's worry over the high cost of sending them off to college. But what else can they do to get rid of that music? It's like being caught in a vice.

"Parents vs. Music"

You can hear the recorded ruckus but can you tell one from the other without looking at the label, Gable?

I called two record shops — Bob Morey downtown and Carl Schramm in Belmont Shore to find out the names of the current best sellers. Bob said outselling all others are "Johnny Angel," "Mashed Potato Time," "Slow Twistin'," "Good Luck Charm" and "Lover Please," in that order.

Carl's top two are the same but the balance are "She Cried," "Old Rivers," "Love Letters" and still going strong, "Midnight in Moscow."

The popularity is a direct result of these whatevers constantly being hammered over second rate radio stations.

As a speaker for the National Association of Broadcasters said, in essence, earlier this week, "We're killin' ourselves."

Brides Say 'I Do' at Ceremonies Here

Wearing a traditional gown of organza and Chantilly lace, Beverly Ann Whitford became the bride of Donald Eugene Holmes in a recent ceremony at Grace Methodist Church.

She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Whitford, Lakewood; he is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Holmes, Huntington Beach.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Mrs. Claudia J. Gonzales, matron of honor; also the bridegroom's sisters and sister-in-law, Deborah and Ruth A. Holmes, and Mrs. David B. Whitford Jr., bridesmaids.

Completing the wedding party were Carl D. Nauman, best man; William E. Gonzales, bridegroom's brother-in-law, and his brother, David B. Whitford Jr., ushers.

The new Mrs. Holmes was graduated from Wilson High School and attended Brigham Young University, where she was a member of Theta Alpha Phi honorary fraternity. Her bridegroom attended Compton Junior College.

Teeter-King

Judith Lynn King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie N. King, 3868 Gaviota Ave., became the bride of Bradley A. Teeter, son of Mrs. Leo Wermerskirchen, 3621 Gaviota Ave., and Mallon Teeter, 5410 Myrtle Ave., during a recent ceremony at California Heights Methodist Church.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace. She was attended by her sister, Sharon King, as maid of honor and Anne Tucey, matron of honor. Gladys Ashmore, Kathy Mobley and Kathy Pross were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom chose Jerry Ashmore as best man. Completing the wedding party were Willie Houck, ring bearer; Jack Tucey, Mark Monfort, Wayne Glenn and Dave Foster, ushers.

Mrs. Frederick Engels II

Engels and Elmquist in Ceremony

Numerous friends from Long Beach journeyed to Newport Beach recently to join the 400 guests at the wedding of Sally Louise Elmquist and Frederick Letteau Engels II in St. James Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul William Elmquist of Lido Isle, who were summer residents of Long Beach for many years. Elmquist is a prominent local business executive. Mr. and Mrs. John Engels of Sarasota, Fla., are parents of the bridegroom and attended the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in ivory peau de soie, its bouffant skirt extending into a chapel train, and with Alencon lace bordering the bodice. A drop pearl crown held her veil, and she carried gardenias centered with a green orchid.

* * * *

IN HER entourage, wearing jade green taffeta gowns, were Suzy Callender, Terri Marshall, Mary Jo Reilly and Pam Peterson.

The new Mrs. Engels was educated at Orme Ranch School, Arizona, and Greenbrier College, West Virginia. Her husband was graduated from Virginia Military Institue, Lexington, Va., and is serving in the U.S. Army, stationed in Stanto-realistically and then abstracts it, the dancers take natural gestures and extend or distort them for fuller self-expression and greater audience impact.

There is no star or premiere ballerina. Each contributes to the whole effect from his special field of knowledge, and all work together in great harmony. One is an engineering student—he was helpful in planning concise geometrical designs. The composer and pianist help the dancers understand intricate tempos and beats. Ruiz supervises the whole and smooths rough edges. He's dynamic and imaginative and they're devoted to him, it's obvious. There's a busy stage crew too.

THE GROUP'S second work has the addition of a story with lines spoken and plot developed. Ruiz feels this is the whole of theater. It's from a Tennessee Williams one-act play. Ruiz does the choreography himself for this, and Ruth Gartler and Richard Hunter are added to the cast. In their third number, "Jazz Chairs," ice-cream parlor chairs are used, not as props, but as extensions of the dancers' movements, and novel and intricate designs are formed.

None of the group is paid. Their reward is in being part of a creative effort in the modern dance idiom. In short, they love their work, and you will too, if you go to their exciting performance Thursday night. It's on for one evening only, so don't miss it!

Bruncheon to Benefit Foundation

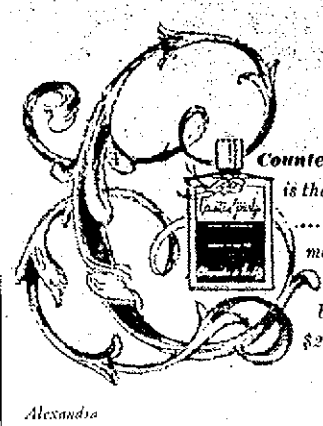

Native Daughters of the Golden West will have its fifth annual Southern Counties Children's Foundation benefit bruncheon today in International Room, Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Theme of the event will be "Springtime Carousel." The benefit will open with a social hour at 10 a.m. followed by bruncheon at 10:45 a.m. with George Liberace providing musical entertainment.

* * * *

CHILDREN'S Foundation serves youngsters from infancy to 16 years regardless of race, color or creed. Braces, wheelchairs, artificial limbs, speech correction lessons, psychiatric care and corrective shoes are a few of the items and services provided.

Mrs. Donald Frey, chairman of Children's Foundation of Long Beach 154, will attend along with Mrs. Donald Frey, president, Mrs. Maxine Gatlin and other members and guests of the Long Beach parlor.

BRAND NEW provisionals of the Assistance League of Long Beach are pictured at the league's Thrift Shop, 414 Locust Ave., practicing for their future duties as saleswomen. Pictured (from left) are Mmes. Harlan Moore, Thomas Brown, Albert Beach, William Zantiny and Lewis Seapy. They will be honored at a tea on Wednesday.

Aura of Elegance to Surround League Tea

A flower cart filled with bright spring blossoms pushed by an attendant in colorful artist's smock and beret will set a gay French sidewalk cafe theme for the tea given by the Assistance League of Long Beach on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, 4147 Country Club Dr.

The party is planned as a gracious courtesy welcoming the sixteen new provisionals pictured, each of whom has an outstanding record of community service, as well as Mmes. David Eagleson and Dean Lucas, incoming Rick Rackers, and promises to be one of the most elegant events of the spring season.

* * * *

TO FURTHER carry out the Parisian motif, striped awnings will shade white tables covered with pink and white cloths centered with perky little paper poodles. Models of the Arc de Triomphe and the Eiffel Tower will contribute to the illusion as will strolling musicians.

Life members of the Assistance League are in charge of the gala event, with Mrs. Douglas H. Graham, charter member, as chairman. She will be assisted by Mmes. Carl B. Shank, Lester Callahan, Harry Witz, Warren Ten Eyck, Joseph Fellows and Melvin Campbell, founder of the local league.

* * * *

GREETING guests will be Mmes. Campbell, Sidney Exley, league president; Donald Murphy, president-elect; Robert Langslet, Rick Racker chairman, and Charles Smith, Las Hermanas chairman.

Provisional training will begin in May with the CVO orientation program.

Staff Photos by Joe Risinger

A WARM WELCOME at the home of Mrs. Francis J. Heusel on Wednesday will be accorded neophytes of the Assistance League before they plunge into their training program in May. Shown admiring handsome Oriental objets d'art at League House are (from left) Mmes. Monroe S. Yunker, James J. Nagle, W. M. Woodard and W. C. Strawinski.

Off to Capital for GOP

Long Beach women will play an important part in the tenth annual Republican Women's Conference in Washington, D. C., Friday through April 12.

Mrs. J. Lloyd O'Donnell is in charge of arranging air transportation for the Southern California delegation. She is vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and has attended all conferences held to date.

Mrs. Logan H. Goodknight, president of the Southern Area of the California Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, will be hostess at the registration get-together Friday evening in Statler Hilton Hotel.

Mrs. John Bowler, president of Los Angeles County Federation, will head the hostesses at the breakfast for the California delegation April 16.

* * * *

EACH YEAR GOP leaders from throughout the country travel to Washington at their own expense to learn the newest campaign technique presented at the conferences.

For the California delegation, highlights of the conference will be the meeting with Republican congressmen from California in the Capitol Building Saturday morning and a reception in their honor given that afternoon by Senator and Mrs. Thomas Kuchel.

El Tanya to Install

El Tanya Court 61, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, will install Mrs. Max G. Miller as high priestess Monday at 8 p.m. at Palos Verdes Masonic Temple, 5155 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Others taking office will be Doris Dearden, Evelyn Hinkley, Vivian Grosser, Ruby McLaren, Wilma Martz, Georgina White, Mary Dickinson, Ione Leach and Clair Noel.

Frances Oakes is retiring high priestess.

Entertainment will be furnished by the court's choir, oriental band and dancers and the patrol. Past high priestesses will preside at the silver tea following the ceremony.

Mrs. Max Miller

Pair Set May Rite

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Havekorst, Long Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Mary, to Raymond E. Allard, son of Mrs. Louise Allard, San Diego.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Wilson High School and UC, Santa Barbara, where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

Her fiance was graduated from Loyola University, Los Angeles, where he was a member of Alpha Sigma Nu and Jesuit Honor Society.

The wedding will take place May 5.

Auxiliary Plans Annual Luncheon

Woman's Auxiliary, Long Beach Pharmaceutical Association, will have its annual Past Presidents' Luncheon Tuesday noon in the home of Mrs. George Marx.

Days of the 49ers

FASHIONS, DIPLOMACY, MUSIC ALL IN OFFING

Variety is the theme on the Long Beach State College activities front these days.

Spring and summer styles will be in the spotlight when Omega Alpha Delta, women in extended day, stages "Promenade of Fashion" at 2 p.m. Saturday in Soroptimist House. Vice President Nell Polson is in charge of arrangements, and members of LBSC's Gamma chapter will model. Proceeds will go to OAD's scholarship fund.

And the accent is on international diplomacy Thursday when chairman Steve Held leads an 11-student delegation to a three-day Model United Nations convention at San Diego. His group is one from 97 universities and colleges in the Pacific and Mountain areas. LBSC will represent Argentina, and recent developments in that nation haven't made our group's task any easier. On the non-political front, Long Beach State and San Diego University's College for Women will host a reception for consular representatives of the Organization of American States.

And some music: today at 4 p.m. is the annual spring concert of the Long Beach State Concert Band. So that more may hear, the event is in Long Beach CC's auditorium. And on Wednesday night, the Acappella Choir sings at 8 in the First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue. Both are free.

Saturday, another Long Beach Film Society program in the Little Theater. "Blue Angel," the movie which introduced Marlene Dietrich to the world, has three showings: 5, 7:30, and 9:15 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the box office.

* * * *

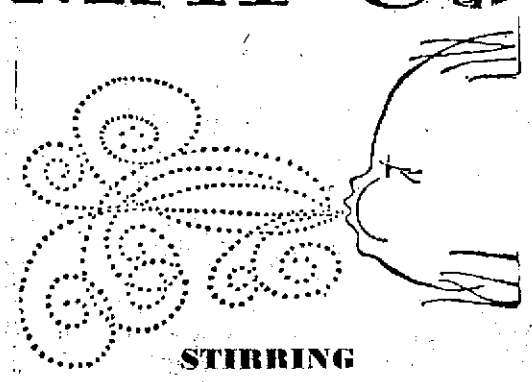

PLUS SOME news from sororities:

Valerie Kester won the best scholarship improvement award at last Saturday's Delta Zeta State Day fete . . . at the same time, the alumnae service award went to Mrs. Esther Hatch . . . DZ's "Man of the Year" will be named at Saturday's Rose Formal. He will be one of five: Leonard Alfieri, Richard Bailey, Ralph Grosso, Jerry Galbreath, and Tim Leslie.

Delta Gamma recently initiated eight fall semester pledges; Lynn Cleveland was named outstanding pledge, and she also had the highest GPA . . . the pledge class gave the DG House a projector, screen, and camera . . . a former LBSC Delta Gamma, Ethel Walker, now at SC is Sigma Phi Epsilon's "Queen of Hearts" . . . Last Monday Acacia fraternity presented the sorority with films of last year's homecoming where four of the gals were royalty.

And for a college so close to the ocean, a little bit about sailing: LBSC's Sailing Club is looking for new members. This lively campus group has a program which spells f-u-n if you are not afraid to go near the water. Inquire in the activities office or contact Tom Bardeen, 11141 Martha Ann Drive, Rossmoor. Incidentally, the club could use a Lehman-10 to help get its teams in shape for collegiate sailing races coming up. Any suggestions?

THE Look of Spring

Eye Zing for Easter Bonnets

. . . it's the hat's frosting

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Hats and eyes will co-star in this spring's fashion extravaganza. And in technicolor, yet.

That's the consensus of top-flight milliners, who agree to a woman—and a man—that unless your orbs are ornamented, neither you nor your Easter bonnet will rate second glances.

"Eye makeup is a must under your new spring chapeau," says haute hatter Mr. John, whose fashion authority is unquestioned by a roster of beauties ranging from Arlene to ZsaZsa.

"Simple lines and vibrant colors characterize hats for spring," says he, "But a woman must make herself a good subject for hat flattery.

"Eye makeup brings a face to life, gives it sparkle and vitality."

EMME, whose know-how with hats has won her umpteen fashion awards and a loyal following of the country's smartest women, is equally emphatic.

"Match your eye makeup to your hat for Easter," says she. "Today eye makeup comes in so many smart shades, you can use it as a real fashion accessory—as well as a beauty necessity."

And here's Sally Victor's hatitude: "Beautiful eye makeup complements a becoming hat because it adds that essential of allure so important to an attractive, well-groomed woman."

And who are we to argue with the experts?

BIG, BOLD 'N' BEAUTIFUL . . . this white ribbed silk beret (above), by Emme, will rate second glances every time . . . especially if milady brings out beauty of eyes with sapphire blue eye shadow, royal blue eye-liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and royal blue mascara, tipped with black.

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM in spring are no match for profusion of blossoms on Emme's Easter confection (right). For eye-appeal: amethyst-violet pressed powder eye shadow, violet liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and mascara.

DELIGHTFUL PIXIE HAT of violet starflowers and pale green leaves (left), by Robin, is romanced with violet tones in eye makeup. Says designer: "The more beautiful hat, the more necessary for your face to live up to it."

SALLY VICTOR whips up smartest Breton of year (above), using ombre crepe in shades of turquoise and blue. With it, the perfect eye makeup: turquoise pressed powder eye shadow, turquoise liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and mascara.

League to Honor City Officials Wednesday

Long Beach city officials will be honored at a 10 to 11 a.m. coffee hour Wednesday by League of Women Voters.

The get-acquainted event will take place in Recreation Park Clubhouse, 4900 E. 7th St. A business meeting will follow.

The coffee will be open to the public. No reservation will be necessary.

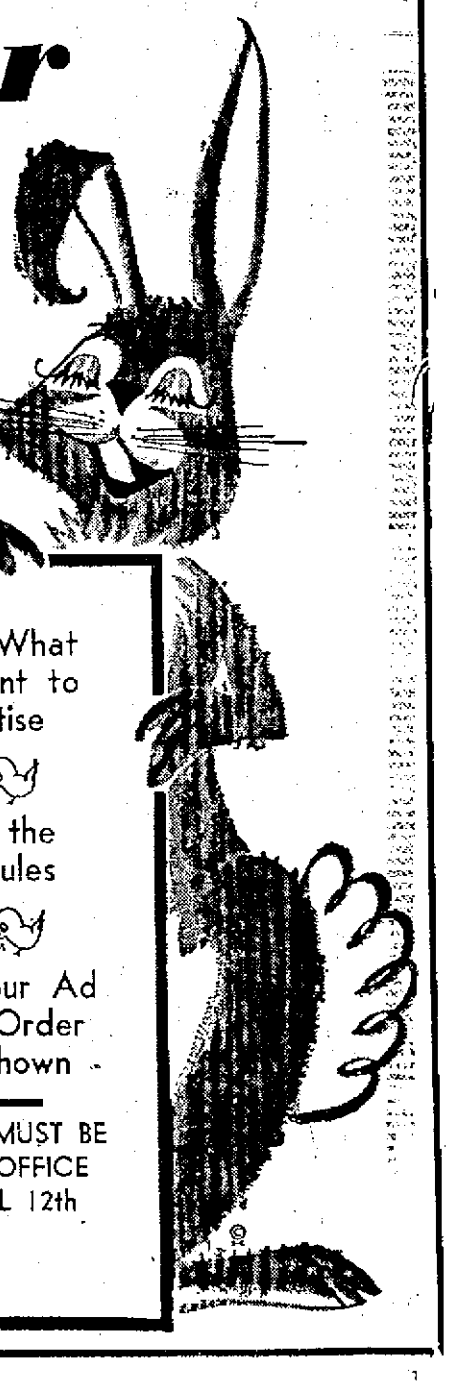

THROUGHOUT the past year the League has supported action for a new city charter, services to disturbed and delinquent juveniles and children in need of temporary shelter care or foster homes. It also has backed County assessment and collection of Long Beach city taxes.

At the present time there are seven local units of the league in Long Beach. Information about the group may be obtained by calling the office located at 724 Atlantic Ave.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

'More Blessed to Give . . .'

DEAR ABBY: I am 50 years old and unmarried. I don't care if you call me an "Unclaimed Treasure" or an Old Maid. My complaint is that I have bought countless gifts for bridal showers and baby showers with no hope of getting anything back. Why doesn't the government declare OLD MAID'S DAY so girls like me can get even?—GIFT GIVER.

ABBY

DEAR GIVER: A beautiful idea. Write to your congressman!

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a family of 5 girls and 3 boys (all married with nice homes) who stick one brother with their 80-year-old father? He has made his home with us for 12 years. I am the "good" daughter-in-law. ("Sap" would be more like it.) He used to work part time, but now he is unable to work and is under my feet all day and all night. We asked if some of the others would take him for a few weeks and they flatly refused. I never have a free moment. He is in the living room 14 hours a day. He takes several naps every day but always on the living room sofa. I am ready for a nervous breakdown. Can you blame me?—HAD MY FILL.

DEAR HAD: (And you were.) Since the father is your husband's, the problem should be handled by him. Your husband should gather his brothers and sisters together and ANNOUNCE that they are just as responsible for the care of their father as he is. There are enough of them to pitch in and give him all the comforts of a nice rest home, if they refuse to take him into their homes.

DEAR ABBY: If you are at a restaurant and someone stops by your table to say hello, but stands there and talks while your food is on the table, are you supposed to (1) go right on eating? (2) stop and let your food get cold?—VICTIM.

DEAR VICTIM: If the person says more than hello and it looks like a long siege, invite him to sit down and say, "My food was just served and I would like to eat it while it's hot—I hope you don't mind." If this doesn't make him disappear, nothing will.

Designer Pattern

PRINTED PATTERN
A 759
SIZES 10-18

by Don Loper

THANK DON LOPER of Beverly Hills for the bouncy, buoyant beauty of his pleats—and their easy sewing, too. The secret? Just straight seaming. It's the clever Loper shaping that makes them so figure-flattering. The closely-fitted bodice of Printed Pattern A759 dips in back to a low U-neckline—romantic on a dance floor, cool on a simmering day. Choose a vibrant color or flower-splashed print in shantung, cotton, linen or a Dacron blend.

Printed Pattern A759 is available in misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 8 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send one dollar for Printed Pattern A759 to the Press-Telegram, Pattern Department, P. O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Please print plainly your name, address with zone, style number and size.

San Marino Floral Show Announced

Georgia Green, 3231 Copa de Ora St., Los Alamitos, will represent Long Beach area when Flower Arrangers' Guild of Southern California holds its show in San Marino this week.

The show, "Floral Composition — Spring Inspired," will take place in San Marino Woman's Club, 1800 Huntington Drive, San Marino, from 1 to 9 p.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Green, a consistant blue ribbon winner, has participated in shows throughout the Southland.

The guild, limited to 25 members, represents the flower arranging artistry of women from all sections of Southern California.

Carmen Edgar, well-know landscape designer, is in charge of arrangements for the show. In addition, she has designed and will execute an original exhibit for the stage.

Money from the show will be used to purchase an art scholarship for a talented high school student.

Zelotai Club to Entertain at Women's Day Program

Zelotai Club of Long Beach Pacific Christian College will entertain Christian Women of Southern California at a Women's Day program on campus Thursday.

Mrs. Donald Meyer, wife of the minister of the Park Avenue Christian Church, Montebello, will talk during the afternoon program at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Chapel, 4835 E. Anaheim St. Her topic: "On Being Lovable."

* * * *

MUSIC will be provided by Rita Roberts, first-year college student of Las Vegas, Nev., and the Seisho Four Freshman Girls Quartette.

Mrs. Fred Niklas of Long Beach is president of the host organization.

Following the program there will be a tea in the college dining hall.

Fabric Facts

by BETTY BLAKE
Foasberg's Fabric Care Counselor

Shirt Wear: Shirt tails last indefinitely, but collars and cuffs wear out. This proves it isn't laundering, but actual wear. Abrasion from wrist watches, running a finger around the collar as a nervous habit, long neck hair, and whiskers all can play their part. Also extra-heavy starching can cause fibers to become brittle and break.

Buying Tips . . . When buying corduroy, rub the material briskly with a white handkerchief. If color comes off, it will be much worse when the material is wet, and the corduroy will fade.

STAIN-PROOF?

Our new water-repellent makes garments almost stain-proof. A good investment on better dresses.

KLETZKI TRUE MAESTRO ON OR OFF PODIUM

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

Meeting and talking to Paul Kletzki, the internationally famous conductor, is just as exciting as listening to him conduct an orchestra. The other day I had a wonderful two-hour visit with this charming man.

Somehow I expected a man born in Poland to be dark-complected, but from Mr. Kletzki's heavy red eyebrows I knew he had been a redhead, although he is quite bald now. His twinkling blue eyes and very fair skin make him a blond indeed. In one of my reviews I called Kletzki an "aristocrat of the baton." I also found him an aristocrat in bearing, in culture and in manner, and it seemed good to have my hand kissed in the old European manner in departing.

* * * *

AS A CHILD, Kletzki played the violin, and when his home city was occupied by the Germans, the Polish musician formed an orchestra by way of distraction and comfort at the age of 14. At 19 he went to Warsaw to study conducting.

1921 found him a student at the Hochschuler (high school of music) in Berlin. There the great conductor, Furtwangler, discovered him and took him under his wing. With such a mentor, how was it possible for this gifted lad to become anything but a great conductor in his own right.

From 1923 to 1934 he conducted under Furtwangler the concerts of the Berlin Philharmonische Orchestra. As Bruno Walter loved Gustav Mahler, so Paul Kletzki loved Furtwangler and one sees in his conducting the poetic instincts of that man, whom I had the privilege of hearing many times when I lived in Berlin.

* * * *

"WHEN THE trouble came in Germany in 1934," reminisced Kletzki, "I left the country. My wife was from Switzerland so we went to Montreaux where we still live." He conducted the La Scala Orchestra in Milan for four years, and was being sought as guest conductor all over Europe and Scandinavia.

"I have conducted in every country of the world except Japan, China and South Africa," he said. In 1958 he came to America and conducted the Cincinnati, Baltimore and Philadelphia orchestras. After one of these concerts in New York an imposing group of men and women visited him. "We want you as regular conductor of our Dallas Symphony Orchestra in Texas," they said. In 1959 he consented and held the post until ill health forced him to resign.

* * * *

"AFTER TWO years and a half in shaping that orchestra," he told me, "I wanted the best available conductor to follow me. But who?" One day as he was in flight on a tour with the orchestra one of his men picked up a newspaper which read "Solti resigns from the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra." "I rushed to the first telephone after landing," he recalled, "and got Dallas. 'Solti is available,' I screamed, 'Grab this man quickly.' And they did."

Mrs. Kletzki does not travel the tiring guest appearance route with her husband but remains quietly in Switzerland. They have been married 32 years but have no children. "A conductor's wife," he told in confidence, "should have a badge of merit pinned over her heart for the first three years of married life, and then two badges of merit for the remaining years." "Are conductors so difficult to live with?" I asked. "They are always tired," he laughingly retorted.

* * * *

THERE ARE trials and heartbreaks in the life of a conductor. The contralto who sang in his recent performance of Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" had sung it only once before. "When I heard that," he said "I nearly fainted!" The tenor, Richard Lewis, on the other hand, had sung it with him many times in Europe. In London recently when he conducted the work with the BBC the day after Bruno Walter died, Kletzki dedicated the performance to his beloved friend, Dr. Walter, and after the last note died away the whole audience stood in mute tribute.

I think Paul Kletzki was thinking of Bruno Walter when he conducted Mahler's work the other night with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra because the performance was so moving that a long silence ensued after the music had ended; the audience spellbound both by the beautiful music and by the superb conducting of a great maestro, Paul Kletzki.

Circus Premiere

One of the big charity events of the year is scheduled for Thursday when the Thalians sponsor the premiere of the International Super Circus at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Scores of Hollywood personalities including Debbie Reynolds, Thalian president, will join with Emmett Kelly, the Magnificent Wallendas and 200 circus artists in the affair. Proceeds will go to aid mentally retarded children.

Following the premiere the circus will open its regular popular price engagement through April 22, on weekdays at 2:30 and 8 p.m., Saturdays at 10:30 a.m., 2:30 and 8 p.m. and Sundays at 1:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Troupe to Perform at Center

Appearing in concert at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. will be an Israeli troupe, Geula Gill and the Oranim Zabar.

Featured artist, Miss Gill, has an unusually beautiful voice which covers three octaves, and she sings in 16 languages. She started her career as a soldier in the Israeli army. While performing in distant border posts she met the other two members of the group.

Michael Kagan is a virtuoso on the oriental drum and Dov Seltzer plays the

accordian as well as having composed and made arrangements for a majority of their songs.

Following army service they toured all Israel and began a world tour. They have made nine record albums during their U. S. tour, all being best-sellers in the field of folk music.

* * * *

THE NAME Oranim Zabar has a poetic meaning. Oranim are the pine trees tat symbolize the old stubborn mountain tree standing against the winds and power of nature. Zabar or, sabra is fruit of the cactus that symbolizes the new offspring from the dry and arid desert plant. Together they represent the fusion between old and new.

Tickets are on sale at Brower's, 316 Locust Ave., and at the Jewish Community Center. Series and patrons tickets are honored.

The group will also appear next Saturday at 8:15 p.m. at the Los Angeles Wilshire - Ebell Theater.

Set Auditions for Juilliard

The Juilliard School of Music of New York is sponsoring auditions in five southwest and midwest cities this spring. In Los Angeles they are scheduled for Monday, April 16, in Assistance League Clubhouse, 1367 St. Andrews Pl., Hollywood.

There are scholarship openings on the following instruments: Viola, oboe, bassoon, horns, trumpet, trombone and tuba. The traveling jury of Juilliard staff members, will hear instrumentalists in these categories only.

* * * *

APPLICATIONS should be accompanied by a letter of recommendation from the student's private teacher or the musical director of his or her school.

Applicants in other mediums—piano, voice and other string instruments, are encouraged to apply for the New York auditions on June 4 to 6 and Sept. 18 to 25. Correspondence in regard to these should be directed to the Admissions Office, Juilliard School of Music, 120 Claremont Ave., New York 27.

Symphony Soloist Is Noted Harpist

Stanley Chaloupka, first harpist of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be the soloist with Long Beach Symphony next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at Long Beach City College Auditorium. Under the baton of Lauris Jones the orchestra will present a new work by Chaloupka, his "Vignettes" in which he will be soloist as he will in "Aria" by the famed harp virtuoso, Grandjany.

* * * *

CHALOUPKA is one of the most distinguished musicians to have been born and educated in California where he began his harp studies under Kajetan Attl, first harpist of the San Francisco Symphony Orchesta. At 16 he appeared as soloist with this symphony and at 21 he was engaged to play first harp with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. During this time he played under scores of distinguished conductors. He has also made many recordings and appeared on radio and TV programs.

Also on the program will be "The Seven Seals" by the Norwegian composer, Knut Nystedt who will be artist in residence at State College in May. Orchestration for this work was obtained through the cooperation of the Norwegian Embassy in Washington, D.C. Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture will complete the program.

* * * *

THERE WILL BE a free preview of the concert Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the Pacific Coast Club sponsored by the Long Beach Symphony Guild and the Junior League of Long Beach on Thursday. Dr. Leon Dallin, composer and musicologist from Long Beach State College, will discuss the program.

The public is especially urged to attend the preview since the new and exciting music to be performed will be even more enjoyable for those who take the opportunity for a preliminary hearing of its themes and motivations. No reservations are necessary for the preview unless luncheon is desired. Luncheon reservations may be made with the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5336 Appian Way. Seats may be reserved by calling Mrs. Richard Matlock, 1560 Ramillo Ave., or the Symphony Association.

Show 'Blue Angel' at State College

"The Blue Angel," film which in 1930 introduced Marlene Dietrich to the world, will be shown Saturday in the Little Theater at Long Beach State College at 5, 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the box office. The companion piece is "Panta Rhei" (All Things Flow"), a study of movement in nature.

Ataide Shows at Veltman's

Editor's Note: In the absence of Elise Emery, art's page editor, this column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

A reception today from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Veltman Gallery, 5604 E. Second St., will open a new exhibit of works by Joe Ataide which will run to April 28. This is the first of a series of one-man shows that will run to July with three weeks for each artist.

Ataide, of Portuguese descent and a former boxer for the Navy, is a painter with both vitality and a fresh viewpoint toward color and form. Soundly trained academically, he has degrees from the U. of California and the U. of Washington, plus studying at the California College of Arts and Crafts. He has also taught art in public schools.

The artist has done everything from murals for the Navy Postgraduate School to yacht portraits. He has had shows in New York, Philadelphia, the U. of Hawaii, and the Albany Art Museum.

He has been strongly influenced in style by George Bellows and Glackens as well as Orozco and Kuniyoshi. Works in the show include figures and still lifes. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; closed on Sunday.

* * * *

LECTURE SERIES program at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will take place Tuesday, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., with the "master work of the month" being reviewed. "Cariani," by Giovanni Busi is master work for April and is lent from the collection of Lorser Feitelson. Mrs. James L. Frame will speak about the artist, his life and contribution to the art of his times. John Weeks, museum educational curator, will relate the work to art trends. The program is open to all without charge.

Artists whose works were in the recent annual Southern California exhibition are asked to pick up their works today from 2 to 4 p.m.

* * * *

A RECEPTION will take place Friday for exhibitors and the public at the Tenth Annual Art Exhibit for professional and amateur artists at South Gate Auditorium, 4900 Southern Ave., according to Rozell Farnsworth, president of the South Gate Art Association. The show includes paintings, mosaics and sculpture.

Cash and merchandise awards are given to the ten best in show as well as ribbons to the honorable mentions and 25 gold seal awards. Jurors will be Edward Reep and Leonard Cutrow of Chouinard Art Institute, and exhibit chairman is Mrs. Lee Lambeth. For further information call the South Gate Art Gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. any day except Monday.

* * * *

ARTISTS of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5140 Atherton, are members and friends of the church. Exhibit includes oil, water colors, collage, mosaic, ceramics and sculpture and will continue until May 3. The gallery is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

* * * *

CURRENTLY Gitana (Virginia Mullen) has two shows hanging for the month of April. At Di Piazza's Restaurant, 4713 E. Second St., the exhibit consists of 21 works, 12 of them abstracts done in sculptured style with plaster and sand, a technique she learned in Paris two years ago.

Second exhibit is at General Surgical Supply Co., 1776 Obispo Ave., and includes portrait sketches of women done in Spain, France and Italy.

* * * *

LATEST paintings by Harry Lachman, noted post impressionist artist who says he paints pictures, not problems, are now on display at Dalzell Hatfield Galleries in the Ambassador Hotel, 3400 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Lachman's canvasses, painted recently in France, are being shown daily except Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through April 25. Included are scenes done in Italy and California. The exhibit is being sponsored by Rene Millet, consul general of France and Mlle. Yvonne Petrement, consul of France.

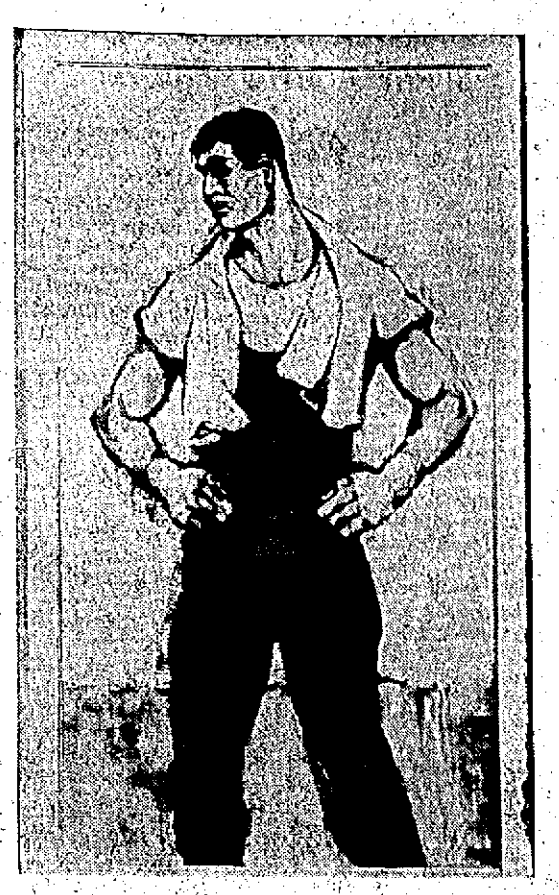

The French government has purchased several of his works for the national museum of France, and these will eventually become part of the permanent collection of the Louvre. Lachman, a Southern Californian, has been called the "most French of American painters."

* * * *

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made by the Long Beach Art Association that pictures for their annual spring juried exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art will be received at the museum next Friday from noon to 4 p.m. and 8 to 9:30 p.m., and next Sunday 1:30 to 4 p.m. There will be prizes of $100 for first place and $50 for second. Three entries are permitted, not to exceed four by five feet in size. The show will hang in May.

* * * *

PALOS VERDES Community Arts Association is giving a reception tea today from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Library Gallery, 2400 Via Campesina to open its new show. It consists of works from the private collection of primitive and Oriental art of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sheets of Claremont. Gallery hours are 2 to 5 p.m. daily.

"MOMENT OF DOUBT," painting of boxer by Joe Ataide, is one of works in his exhibit opening tonight at Veltman Gallery. Artist has been a Navy boxer.

Cellist on Program at Music Arts

A musical evening is scheduled for members and guests of Musical Arts Club on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Hazel Pattee, 936 Santiago Ave. Gayle Smith, cellist, will present the program.

Miss Smith is studying with Piatigorsky at USC and studied with Casals in Puerto Rico and in his master class at Berkeley.

* * * *

AMONG MANY honors won by the 18-year-old Glendale artist is the Gov. Brown "best in state" trophy for young string players, a $1,000 prize from Young Musician's Foundation presented by the late Dr. Bruno Walter, and Coleman Chamber auditions top award. She has appeared with numerous orchestras.

She will be accompanied by Michael Zearott who was pianist for the Heifetz master classes at UCLA and accompanies the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Izora Brandt will introduce the artists, and Clayton Barrie will preside at the meeting. A reception will follow.

College Choir to Give Concert

Long Beach State College's A Cappella choir will present both old and new works Wednesday in a concert at the First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue, at 8:15 p.m. The concert is free to the public.

Frank Pooler will direct the choir and soloists will be Janette Brock and Allen Spencer. The program will include works by Norwegian composer Knut Nystedt who is considered one of the most influential of present day Scandinavian composers and who will spend 10 days as visiting artist in residence at LBSC starting April 28.

On Stage---

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 2501 E. Anaheim St., "The Man Called Peter," 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, 7:45 p.m. Thursday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.
CHAPEL THEATER, 4164 Pacific Coast Hwy., Torrance, "Gigi," 8:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday, Sunday.
MAGNOLIA THEATER, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "The Andersonville Trial," 8 p.m. Thursday and Sunday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.
OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 221 Lime Ave., "Mr. Roberts," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Color Films at Libraries

Two full-color travel film programs will be offered at branch libraries this week, according to Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Three unusually beautiful films of Japan will be screened on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Bret Harte Branch Library, 1595 W. Willow St. Mrs. Chizuru Boyea of the catalog and art department of the Main Library will introduce the trio. They include "Gardens of Japan," which describes the meaning and symbolism of various arrangements, "Conspiracy in Kyoto," a delightful short work based on 12th century Japanese narrative scrolls, and "So Small My Island."

* * * *

ON THURSDAY, Brewitt Branch Library, 4036 E. Anaheim St., will offer films on Italy and Austria. "Italy: Land of Enchanted Fountains" is being repeated by request. Fountains of Rome, Capri and Florence are among those shown. "Four Seasons of Austria" takes the viewer on a breath taking automobile tour of Austria showing festivals, horseracing and the famed Vienna Boys Choir.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of April 9-13:

MONDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, whole kernel corn, raisin coleslaw, coconut bar cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, chopped spinach, apple raisin pie square, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hot sliced pork, mashed potatoes with gravy, citrus fruit cup with cranberry garnish, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Pizza, buttered green beans, fruit gelatin, carrot sticks and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, garden peas, peach-cottage cheese salad, whole wheat bread and butter, Easter cookie and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Spaghetti, southern style, buttered green beans, spicy applesauce, toasted cheese special and milk.

TUESDAY: Hamburger, potato salad, apricot halves, coconut bar cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Lasagne, buttered spinach, fruit gelatin, hot buttered French bread and milk.

THURSDAY: Diced turkey in gravy on mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, buttered carrots, raisin coleslaw, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked fish with oven fried potatoes or chuck wagon bake, buttered peas, Easter fruit cup, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

High Quality, Creative Exhibits at Museum

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Our suspicions that technical knowledge and polished craftsmanship do not necessarily inhibit creation of exciting art forms are confirmed by the four new exhibits at the Long Beach Museum of Art.

The oil paintings of Lorser Feitelson represent three periods in the artist's development: cubism of the 20s, sur-realism of the 40s, and abstract classicism of the decade. Whether one is sympatico with the hard edged "Magical Space Forms" of the latter, there is no quarrel with the fact that Feitelson reached these after complete mastery of the figurative as in the "Bathers" series of 1942.

FEITELSON uses color and applies paint as reflexively as one uses knife and fork, or laces shoes. "Magical Space Forms 1955" is a series of highly-colored vertical areas which alternate in surface texture, some palette-knife smooth, others revealing canvas. A large work, the whole is greater than the sum of the dynamic parts.

Ward Youry's potting is in no way tentative, whether in the forming of strong classic shapes, imaginative textures or exquisite glazes. His inventiveness is freed by his obvious knowledge of just what can be done with the medium.

The works are placed throughout the Museum with a concentrated display in the upper gallery. Of all, we were most captivated by No. 33, a large shallow bowl, dull brown on the outside, oyster grey inside painted with sure strokes of purple, hints of pale green, and tobacco brown calligraphy.

THE WELL-DRAPED Scalamandre fabrics are not only scholarly documentation, but mouth-watering beauties.

The fourth exhibit is a photograph and scale-model exhibit of the architectural works of Marquis & Stroller in the Bay Area. These vary from the elegant I Strada Restaurant to a small octagonal mountain retreat, each meeting the challenges of use and environment with soaring creativity.

The shows are well exhibited, tied together by a mutual respect for high quality, and considerate of the human desire for order.

Japanese Film at Art Museum

"The Impostor," a full length Japanese film, will be shown at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., on Friday at 3 and 8 p.m.

This ninth in the museum's film series is escape fiction and historical intrigue laid in 17th century Tokyo, with rival claimants for the royal heritage clashing and scheming. There's a samurai hero, traditional swordplay and Kabuki theater scenes.

The program is open to all without charge. Doors open for the evening showing at 7:30 p.m.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Engineer Builds Cake Upside Down

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I-P-T Food Editor

He prefers guns to pots 'n pans. In fact, he was supposed to be caught cooking today, but he got carried away showing guns to photog, Joe Risinger, so Joe just "shot" him in action.

When not gunning, today's Chef of the Week, Robert (Bob) Hoffmaster, is chief harbor engineer, Port of Long Beach.

Hoffmaster was born on a farm in York County, Neb., but by the time he had reached the age of six, his Dad decided he was tired of farming, so the family moved to California, not stopping until they reached Long Beach. Bob, without interruption, mastered Lincoln and Whittier grammar schools, Hamilton Junior and Poly High Schools, Junior College and UC at Berkeley. He also has done graduate work at UCLA, USC, and the California Institute of Technology. While still a "Cal" man at heart, it was at USC that he earned his degree in civil engineering.

* * * *

GRADUATING just in time to put his "degree" to use following the earthquake in 1933, he joined the Long Beach Board of Education in the rebuilding of its schools.

Twenty-four years ago he joined the civil engineering division of the Port of Long Beach, first as chairman on a survey crew, then draftsman, and then senior harbor engineer. A hitch as structural engineer preceded his six years as assistant chief engineer. Four years ago he became the "chief."

He has seen the Harbor Department grow from 15 people and 8 engineers, to 400 people and 100 engineers. In those days the Harbor boasted three inner berths, and Pier A was just in the planning stage.

* * * *

HOFFMASTER enhanced his engineering "know-how" in the Army with a corps of engineers, European theatre. Drafted as a private, he emerged four years later with the rank of major.

Robert N. Hoffmaster

Locally, Hoffmaster is a Downtown Kiwanian. Professionally, he is a Fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers; a member of the local, State and National Society of Professional Engineers, and of the Society of American Military Engineers. He belongs to the Propeller Club and to the American Association of Port Authorities. He serves on Committee IV, Construction and Maintenance.

Now, about his "gunsmithing"! He assembles the guns, but makes the stocks from scratch. In fact, he has assembled so many, another room soon will be a must at his home. He golfs a bit and is a regular Dead-Eye Dick when it comes to reading detective stories.

His wife, Gayl, doesn't get much assistance from him when it comes to cooking. But he does love to eat—even to the extent that he's "supposed" to be on one of those modern flings—a diet. His recipe today is for Chocolate Upside Down Cake. See what we mean!

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Part I
1 cup flour
¾ cup sugar
2 tblsp. cocoa
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt

Sift together. Add ½ cup milk. Stir and add:
2 tblsp. Wesson oil
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup nut meats

Mix well. Pour into greased and floured pan.

Part II
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tblsp. cocoa
½ cup brown sugar

Mix thoroughly and sprinkle over batter. Pour 1 cup cold water over top. Bake 30-35 min. at 350 deg. F.

Leave in pan until ready to serve. Top with whipped cream. Makes 6 large portions.

Variety Revue Slated

Bebe Carpenter Studio of Theatrical Arts, Los Angeles, will present a variety revue, "Footlight Fantasies," at the Community Program, Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Monday.

The program will open with community singing at 7:30 p.m. with Carl Robertson directing and Regenia Beam accompanying. Old time and square dancing to the music of the Tyo Orchestra, Joe Marshall, caller, will follow.

The stage show will be emceed by Barbara Gill, television and recording artist. The Swingsters, popular USO song and dance team, will perform. Members are Melinda Forbes, Roseann Galleota, Jerilyn Jorgenson, Louann Martello, Diane Morey, Diane Rameriz, Kathleen Turrish and Donna Wright.

* * * *

ALSO appearing will be Denny and Linda Robinson, a guitar duo and the Footlighters, a little theater group known as the "Glamour Grandmas."

Footlighters are Thelma Brancati, Byrnadine Buehring, Fran Costinett, Mary Wolthekker, Barbara Gill and Bebe Carpenter.

The entire program is being produced and directed by Misses Carpenter and Gill.

The weekly Community Programs are sponsored by the Recreation Department.

GARNER TALENT FOR SPRING SING FRIDAY

Members of 13 social clubs at the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division will display their vocal talents in the annual Spring Sing this Friday, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the campus auditorium.

Alan Ross, who has played several leads in LAD drama productions, will be the master of ceremonies. Taking part in the program, though not as contestants, will be the College Choir and the Concert Band.

Friday night's program will open with the presentation of the 1961 sweepstakes trophy to Tilsmen, last year's grand prize winners. Other trophy awards go to the winning groups in men's and women's divisions. Tickets will be on sale all week, and a capacity crowd is expected.

LAD journalists emerged as first place winners in two separate contests recently. Photographer Jon Wetterholm took first in photography (junior college division) at the annual University of Southern California Newspaper Day. Feature editor Phil Yaffe was awarded first place for feature writing in a statewide contest conducted by the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges. One of Yaffe's stories dealt with his experience as a "professor" at Long Beach's "University by the Sea."

Only two corrections on last week's Student Forum item in "The Voice of the Vikings." The program, "Castro's Threat to the Americas" is really this Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the auditorium. The speaker, Dr. Paul E. Hadley, is associate professor of international relations at USC.

Members of Associated Junor Retailers will attend an all-day session of the Distributive Education Clubs of America Wednesday in Santa Monica. The conference is co-sponsored by the General Telephone Co., Security First National Bank, the Sears Foundation and Hamilton Stores.

Business and Technology Division delegates will be Lynda Ernst, Fradena Culuris, Marilyn Lynn, Nancy Williams, F. B. Lewandowski and Mrs. Eva Lampson, faculty sponsor.

BTD faculty members will present a scholarship benefit melodrama titled "Egad, What a Cad!" at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium. Tickets will be available from Faculty Association members during the week. All proceeds go toward student scholarships.

EVENING students will attend an International Night assembly at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the campus gymnasium. Featured speakers will be three foreign-born students who have just attained their American citizenship.

Theta Alums Slate Banquet

Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae Chapter, Long Beach, will have a benefit dessert bridge Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in Ebell Club.

Mrs. Clifton Lowen, 6330 Barbanell St., is in charge of reservations.

Mrs. Harry Landis, chairman of event, will be assisted by Mmes. Clifton Lowen, William Zantiny, Robert N. Hall, Ruben Dawe and Charles London.

Money will be given the Children's Psychiatric Clinic here, the Institute of Logopedics and national Theta philanthropies.

He Needs a Budget --Or a New Closet

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My boy of 17 works after school and on Saturdays at a little less than a dollar an hour. The pay is small but all those hours add up and make a sizable spending allowance, believe me.

He buys his own clothes and his wardrobe is beginning to overflow a bulging closet. Oh, I don't think he's vain beyond normal, but I do worry that he doesn't offer to pay a thing for his food or for college funds we are trying to gather.

I work, too, wait tables at slightly more than he makes. My hours are very long and my washing and ironing and cooking fill every conceivable minute I'm home.

My question, Molly: Should a boy of this age help pay his way? — MRS. LARSON

DEAR MRS. LARSON:

When a boy works for his money it is his. But so young a boy ought to be trained to budget that money proportionately. And you're the one to train him.

Work out a financial sheet of some kind that will explain to him his expenses. Now that he is working he owes it to himself to carry a part of these expenses himself. As simply as that show him what portion of costs he can handle, including a small savings for college.

He is probably not so much vain as untrained. Good luck!—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What cats gals who sit and stare in bars? Anybody who thinks a bartender leads a tender life is a walnut.

This dame, all of 40, lives in a hotel nearby and every afternoon, so help me, Molly, she comes in and sits and stares. Just stares. Doesn't talk or even blink.

I ask what's eating her and she stares. The only time she breaks into anything human is when she says, "Another beer."

When she goes glassy-eyed and I think I can't stand another minute of that stare, home she goes.

I'm getting so I dream of her—just her eyes looking at nothing—and it's giving me a good case of jitters. I've gone to drinking myself. And now I'm breaking glasses. Help please before I crack, too.—TENDER

DEAR TENDER:

Have you a wife or a girl friend who could outstare her? Set them down about the time you expect old Glass Eye, one each side of her, and see who can hold out longer!

It's a pity someone can't bring a glint back to her eyes, though.—M.M.

Organizational Meet Scheduled

Mrs. Israel Usdan, New York, national organization chairman of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, will conduct a one-day organization institute for leaders of Los Angeles chapter and its 30 affiliated neighborhood groups next Wednesday. Event will take place from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in board room, Jewish Community Building, 590 N. Vermont, Los Angeles.

CLETE ROBERTS (LEFT) INTERVIEWS UNIDENTIFIED PRISONER FOR 'CRIME AND PUNISHMENT' SERIES

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Crime and Punishment' Brings Prisoners' Stories

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THE SALLOW FACED man said:

"The next 30 minutes are going to be painful for me and they may be very painful for you, too.

"I want to tell you what it's like to murder a man—to be in here for life."

The sallow-faced man was one of 42 prisoners interviewed by Clete Roberts for his "Crime and Punishment" program on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m., channel 5.

The sallow-faced man, sentenced to jail for car theft, had murdered a cellmate. He had a record of trouble with the law dating back to childhood.

"The reason why I stole my first car was that I was drunk," he said. "I had a drinking problem. I drank and drank and drank.

"Reality has awfully rough edges. I tried to take off those rough edges.

"But it didn't work very well. I was in pain both ways—when I was drinking and when I wasn't drinking.

"All I want to do is get out of prison and just get drunk."

THE SALLOW-FACED man was at the Vacaville Medical Facility where psychiatrists were attempting to help him. They were capable psychiatrists but the man seemingly was incapable of working with them to help himself.

Richard A. McGee, director of the Department of Corrections, said at the conclusion of the program that the man was seeking "a magic pill and blames us for not having it."

Interviewer Roberts, after the program was filmed, informed prison officials he thought the man was "excited and upset."

Officials checked the man and came away with the impression that he was "elated."

That night the sallow-faced man broke into the prison hospital and drank a large amount of methyl alcohol. It killed him.

Ironically, he had several times before attempted suicide. At the age of 27 he found death in satisfying his craving to "just get drunk."

EACH OF THE 42 prisoners whom Roberts interviewed volunteered and there were many more volunteers than there was time available.

None of the volunteers received as much as a cigarette for his or her interview.

Why did they do it?

Roberts said they did it because, although the words they used in expressing their feelings varied, they all felt:

"Somewhere there is someone in a situation similar to the one I faced when I made my mistake.

"Maybe he or she will hear me and will be spared all this."

Roberts stresses that the "relatively few days" he spent interviewing the prisoners doesn't make him an expert in criminology. But he did come away from the task with certain strong impressions.

THOSE IMPRESSIONS:

"With the exception of two prisoners, all those I interviewed came from a broken home or lacked parental supervision or lacked religious training or had an utter lack of self-discipline or drank too much.

"Considering its tremendous overload, the Department of Corrections is doing a phenomenally

Widow of Ernie Kovacs Stars in TV Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Six years ago blonde and pretty Edie Adams, working on NBC's day-time "Ernie Kovacs Show," began attracting viewers' delighted attention.

First, of course, there was Edie's fine voice and excellent way with a song. But she was also emerging as a hilarious comedienne, specializing in wicked imitations of the likes of Marilyn Monroe, Marlene Dietrich and Grace Kelly.

But when interviewed, Edie promptly tossed all the credits to her then-bridegroom, Kovacs.

"He's my first and only critic," she told a reporter. "Without him and his help I wouldn't be half so funny . . ."

On Monday night, without the help and guidance of Ernie, Edie Adams returns to show business. Her ABC special (channel 7 at 7 p.m.) will consist of a lot of music and there will be comedy, too, including some Adams' imitations.

ERNIE KOVACS died in an automobile crash on Jan. 13, leaving a shattered family and a complicated estate. Two months later his widow reported at an ABC studio in Hollywood to tape a comedy sequence with Dick Shawn for Monday's show, and then flew to New York to make the rest of the program.

"It was hard and I had to push myself," Edie said during a rehearsal break. "But I have learned that work is the only answer. It is easy to let grief and a loss engulf you, but you have to get it or it gets you.

"I have done a lot of thinking, and I know that in a circumstance like mine, getting back to work—immersing yourself in work so deeply you can't spare time for anything else—is the best way.

"You must start where you are—you can't look back. And all this takes a special kind of effort."

AFTER TAPING her ABC show, Edie flew to Florida to do some work for a sponsor—the cigar company that sponsored Ernie's programs and which has signed Edie for a new two-year contract to do commercials. She has also been signed to appear in a Bing Crosby TV special and has a motion picture commitment.

Most important, she is up for the starring role in a Broadway show scheduled for next season — such an important and promising musical that she doesn't even want to talk about it lest the part slip away.

"We'll keep right on living in California," she said. "The children like it out there and they wouldn't want to leave the house."

"The House," is a mansion of from 25 to 30 rooms and has been valued as high as $600,000. It not only has the usual Hollywood embellishment of swimming pool, but a turntable for automobiles, so they will be facing out when the driver wants to leave.

"IT IS A BIG HOUSE," Miss Adams said. "But we've simplified things—closed up a portion of it—and we all want to stay."

The family consists of Ernie's two daughters by a previous marriage, Betty and Kippei, in their teens, and Mia, Edie's and Ernie's child, now almost 3.

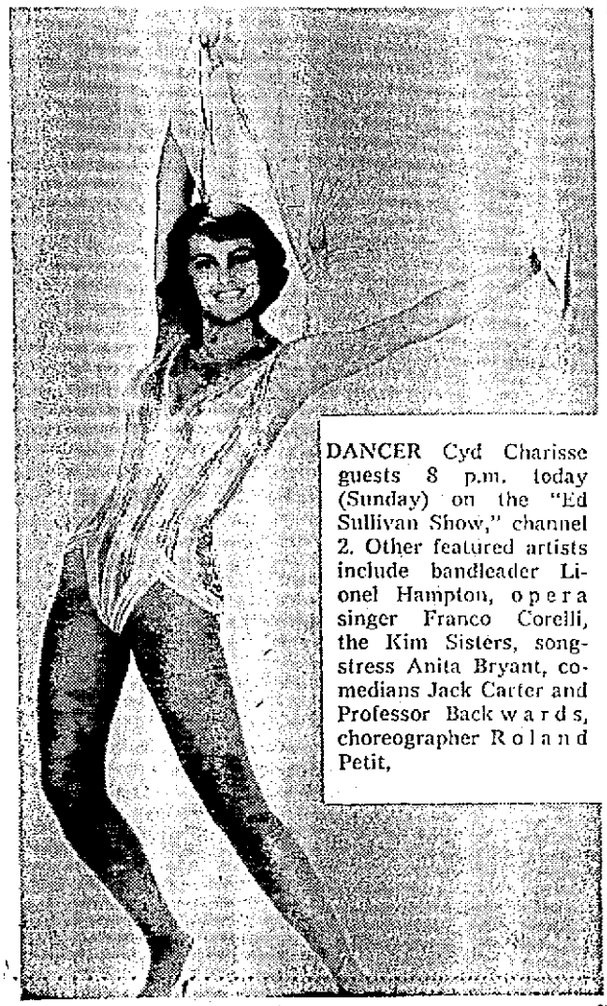

"We're surrounded by our troops—I have my mother, and there's a couple who take care of us and a nurse," continued Edie. "I've talked it over with the older children. I've told them how the only way to handle this is to work. Betty, the oldest, understands this so well that she's now on the school honor role for the first time."

She smiled, a bit shakily, and started back to the piano in the rehearsal hall, looking over her music as she went.

"It's hectic," she concluded. "But that's the way I like it—the busier the better."

TV COWBOYS 'SCARED'

Japanese Crowds Joyfully Mob 'Rawhiders'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Found: Something to scare television's horse opera heroes. It's Japanese crowds.

Clint Eastwood and Eric Fleming, a couple of 6-foot-4 giants have faced just about every kind of hazard in four years of starring in CBSs' "Rawhide." But they hadn't seen anything until they went to Japan recently for a good-will trip at the behest of their Japanese sponsor (a whisky maker!)

"I thought I didn't scare easily," said Clint. "I've appeared at rodeos and on the Dick Clark television show where you get crowds that are pretty wild. But nothing like Japan.

"When you've got 12 girls hanging onto you, and not one of them willing to let go, then you've got a problem."

* * * *

"I GUESS our biggest scare was in the railroad station at Osaka," added Eric. "There were 5,000 people. We had bigger crowds elsewhere, but never so many packed into one enclosed area. For a while I wondered if we would get out alive."

Their arrival at the Tokyo airport brought 8,000 fans—the Japanese are wild over westerns, and have been exposed to "Rawhide" for two years.

"There was a bit of a delay because the police wanted our sponsor to put up a bond for extra police protection charges," said Eric. "At first they didn't even want us to enter the country."

* * * *

THEY MANAGED to hurdle the red tape, though they had to leave their shooting irons in customs. The new, pacifist Japan doesn't approve of anyone, even play-cowboys, toting six-shooters.

The Rawhiders' reception everywhere was clamorous. They received many gifts—everything from dolls to samuri swords and a motor scooter. They were interviewed and photographed endlessly.

"I was surprised at how intelligent the questions were," said Clint. "There were none of the silly questions we get here, like: 'Do you use real bullets?' They wanted to know about our writers and directors; they mentioned names that we had almost forgotten about."

Clint and Eric said they were charmed by Japanese people and customs and would like to return to enjoy the country without the crowds. That doesn't appear likely, what with their television fame and their height.

"I never felt self-conscious about being tall—until I went to Japan," Clint confessed.

* * * *

"RAWHIDE" is also playing in England, Sweden, West Germany, Lebanon, Australia and South America, and the boys would like to visit those countries as well.

"I don't know how much good we can do," said Eric, "but I think such trips can help win some friends for our country. At least maybe we can counteract some of the American tourists you wish would stay home."

They encountered one of the ugly Americans in a Tokyo night club — drunk, loud and insulting. After listening to his noise, Eric called over from his table, "Yankee, go home!"

Pan and Fan Mail

Why has Hugh Reilly's role been written out of the "Lassie" series for a couple of months, except for the three-parter?

There's been no explanation in the scripts.

Jane Steagall, Garden Grove

CBS officials say there's been no deliberate attempt to write out or write off Reilly, who plays the role of Paul. They say he's just in scripts calling for a father. Father is called for in tonight's script.

* * * *

I've bet my wife $7.50 that Madge Blake, who is the mother on the Joey Bishop series, and Frances Bavier, who is Aunty Bee on the Andy Griffith show, are one and the same woman.

They are both the same woman, aren't they?

Jack Miller, Long Beach

Your addition is wrong, Jack. One and one still make two and, in this case, $7.50 for your wife. They are not the same woman. And you should know better than to argue about a woman with another woman.

* * * *

I have always accepted the TV supplement in your Sunday paper as authentic and factual.

I am referring particularly to a recent article that appeared about Judy Garland's show. As I recall, the article stated that the show had been taped the previous month before a live audience.

I understand now from a Sunday TV supplement in another newspaper that Judy's show took four days to tape and it wasn't before a live audience.

Mrs. Margaret Pappas, Long Beach

Our article stated it took three days to tape. CBS verifies that was correct. Our article said the taping was done before live audiences. CBS verifies. The taping was done a month before the show aired, another fact which CBS verifies. And thank you, Mrs. Pappas, for asking.

* * * *

Could you please tell me why "Adventures in Paradise" went off the air? Didn't it have good ratings?

C. A. Mason, Long Beach

Ratings were just average. Gardner McKay, the show's star, made it clear he wasn't interested in another season's work. ABC found a lot of sponsorship interest when it announced it would put on a Sunday movie to replace "Adventures."

SPECIAL

FLIGHT OF JOHN GLENN —Hour-long film prepared by General Dynamics for the NASA is seen at 5:30 p.m. on channel 2. Footage, never before made public, includes films taken inside the Friendship 7 capsule showing Glenn's reaction to the flight, plus activity inside Mercury control at Cape Canaveral and the threat of a loss of the heat shield. Sound includes Glenn's heartbeat and radio conversations with ground teams. Portions are narrated by Glenn, others by Walter Cronkite.

HERE'S EDIE — Dick Shawn and Andre Previn join singer-dancer-mimic-actress Edie Adams in a special half-hour at 7 p.m. on channel 7. Excerpts from her nightclub act include impressions of Helen Kane, Jeanette MacDonald, Shirley Temple, Ruby Keeler and Marilyn Monroe. Her late husband's (Ernie Kovacs) cigar sponsor will pick up the tab. Same company, incidentally, will bring back Sid Caesar in nine monthly half-hours (Tues., 10:30 p.m.) next fall.

FRIENDSHIP 7—Color version of the NASA film is shown at 7:30 p.m. on channel 4. Same video, with only audio narration differing.

OSCAR AWARDS — The 34th annual presentations, live, from Santa Monica, are at 7:30 p.m. on channel 7 (and radio station KABC). Bob Hope emcees, with the 16 "presenters" including Fred Astaire, Joan Crawford, Greer Garson, Rock Hudson, Shirley Jones, Burt Lancaster and Debbie Reynolds. Nominated songs will be sung by Ann-Margret, Gogi Grant, Johnny Williams. (Upcoming awards shows are Emmies May 22 and TV Guide June 24, both NBC.)

Educational Series Topped in Ratings by Talking Horse

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Critics agree the best new children's educational show gets the horse laugh every Sunday in television's rating battle with "Mr. Ed," the talking nag.

But Jack Lescoulie, affable straight man in years past to Jackie Gleason and Dave Garroway, fails to see the humor of it all.

"Educational organizations, church groups and the P-TA cry out for better children's programs," Lescoulie said on a visit to Hollywood.

"When TV does provide them with exactly the kind of show they want these same organizations don't bother to tune it in."

Lescoulie said his show, "1, 2, 3—Go!" is an example of public indifference to an educational, violence-free series dedicated to entertaining young people.

"With a national craving for such a series we should have a tremendous rating," he said, "but 'Mr. Ed' tops us every time."

DESPITE THE FACT that Lescoulie's program is free of shootings, stabbings and other violent forms of death, Jack believes violence has its place on television.

"I think Newton Minow and the Federal Communication Commission are wrong about television violence," he said. "Violence is objectionable only when it is contrived. If you take violent action out of TV, the kids will have a trauma when they visit a farm and see a chicken killed for dinner.

"Youngsters have always been exposed to violence and death. Most nursery rhymes are full of hair-raising escapades."

Lescoulie, who co-stars on the Sunday show with 10-year-old Richard Thomas, hasn't found the switch from sophisticated companionship with Gleason and Garroway to young Thomas as difficult as he thought.

"IT'S LIKE RELIVING my youth," he grinned.

"We try to give viewers, both youngsters and adults, a view of the world through a 10-year-old's eyes. So far we've visited Cape Canaveral, the United States Mint, the Boston Celtics basketball team and a real haunted house.

In today's show (6:30 p.m., channel 4) the pair visit Edwards Air Force Base for a look at the X15 manned rocket plane.

"I accompany the boy in his adventures, and each show has a dream sequence in which Richard envisions himself as taking part in the exciting new worlds that open up to him," Lescoulie said.

Lescoulie began his career immediately after leaving high school. He became an announcer at station KGFJ in Los Angeles.

He hopes to continue next season with "1, 2, 3—Go!" in addition to joining the new Jackie Gleason hour scheduled for the fall.

If he manages to do both, Lescoulie will be one of the few television personalities to appear on both CBS and NBC in the same season.

"I'm looking forward to that," he said.

IMAGINE! a Trained Masseur at your beck and call 24 hours a day! That's what you'll have with a

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations - - the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

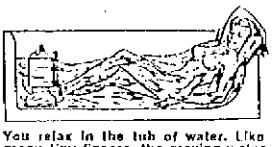

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. The unit starts automatically.

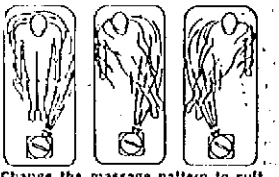

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of your body.

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Many everyday aches and pains may be unnecessary. Hydromassage provides heat and massage at the same time to stimulate local blood circulation. It relaxes and brings temporary relief of minor pains associated with CLOSE-UP! The traffic dilemma of our modern cities gets a half-hour study at 10:30 p.m. on channel 7, highlighting loss of downtown business, cost of parking lots and tickets, and loss of man hours as motorists sit out a traffic jam. New York's new traffic commissioner, Henry A. Barnes (who helped ease the strain in Baltimore, Denver, Louisville and Flint), explains his methods, including controlling pedestrians with 3-way traffic lights (like Long Beach), and city planner Victor Gruen of L.A. tells why he advocates park-like shopping malls for pedestrians only.

HE'S COMEDIAN

Joey Bishop Changes Role for Fall Series

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Joey Bishop will go back to making people laugh by telling jokes next fall, rather than act in a comedy situation which might fall flat on its face.

On his television show this season, Bishop plays a public relations man. Joey didn't feel at home playing somebody else.

"If I'd known public relations men were so despised, I would never have played one," joked Bishop, casting a glance at his public relations representative.

Bishop admits his show had troubles getting started but says "in the last 10 weeks I was certain it would be renewed."

"This past year we took the show too seriously," he said. "Next year we're going to have fun."

* * * *

JOEY WILL change his television character and play a comic, something he started 23 years ago.

"A comedian is what I've always been," he said. "There's something about being what you really are, it's easier."

Bishop describes his new video role as "the life of a television comedian, what he does for a living."

Referring to his public relations man role as being "in a suit of armor," Bishop says playing a comic will be "like falling off a log."

"I can dip into 23 years of comedy," he said. "I couldn't do that before."

* * * *

THIS SEASON, Joey had a make-believe family with him on the show. He'll go it alone as the comedian.

"We'll have Milton Berle on our first show," said Joey. "And there are a lot of things we can do. There can be stories which have the comic working with his writers, or preparing for a show."

On his upcoming Wednesday show (channel 4 at 8:30 p.m.) Joey has a reunion with two partners from the old "Bishop Brothers" nightclub act. When Joey, Mel Farber and Morris Spector, the unrelated "Bishop Brothers" reunite, it'll be the first time they've teamed up since 1939.

Adding a touch to the make-believe family reunion, will be Joey's real brother, Morris Gottlieb, who's not even an actor.

"He's in lady's pocketbooks, sells handbags," Joey said. "He'll play a mandolin and do an imitation tap dance with his teeth on the show."

THE BISHOP BROTHERS (from left) Morris Spector, Mel Farber and Joey Bishop, are reunited on "The Joey Bishop Show" at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4. It's the first reunion for the unrelated pair since 1939.

Butler Series

In the wake of NBC-TV's success with "Hazel," a series about a maid, ABC-TV has announced the start next season of a half-hour comedy about a butler, "Our Man Higgins." Stanley Holloway, the English comedian who played Professor Higgins in the American hit, "My Fair Lady," will have the lead.

Fairbanks Claims Public Accepts 'TV Trash'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—"I don't believe the public is always right—I think it is mistaken in its judgments on occasion."

Saying this, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., added:

"Consider the matter of TV which has added a new dimension to the lives of people. The public accepts the trash just as quickly as the good things. So if TV is not all it should be or could be, the public is at least partially responsible."

DOUG FAIRBANKS JR.

The handsome, urbane actor-businessman munched a hamburger, waited for a glass of buttermilk that never came and spoke of the mission that brought him to Dallas.

He is a participant in more than 20 businesses in the United States and Europe, divides much of his time between New York and London and has little time to think of acting.

"But the people of the 'Route 66' show sent me the script of a show and I found it so clever and amusing that I decided to fly to Dallas from New York and take a part in it. I'm enjoying it.

"It was a bit different when I spent several years in TV. I produced 160 short dramas and found that TV has a voracious appetite and chews up energy and efforts. People burn themselves out."

(The "Route 66" program with Fairbanks airs 8:30 p.m. Friday on channel 2.)

What about TV and the movies?

"TV HAS BEEN a challenge to films and it is probably all to the good. There are fewer pictures, but better. Pictures are terribly expensive to make and the cost of distribution has increased greatly, too. You remember the first 'Mutiny on the Bounty' with Charles Laughton? That cost about a million dollars. The cost of the one they made now is around 19 million.

"You hear a lot about cheaper movie making abroad. Well, it is cheaper to make a movie in Spain, but it is just as expensive to make one in England as in the United States and it's almost as expensive in Italy."

What does Fairbanks think about adult pictures?

"Why not?" he asks. "Why not adult movies the same as adult literature? But the movie industry should impose on itself the basic elements of good taste. I am for self-imposed censorship, guided by good taste.

AT 52, THE FORMER STAR of both swashsbuckling adventure and drawing room films is as trim as ever, the result of a life of vigorous exercise and sane eating habits.

Do young men get enough exercise these days?

"Probably not," Fairbanks said mildly. "We have a tendency these days to make life as easy as possible, and there is no counterbalance of trying to make it tougher. We become spectators of sport rather than participants.

Fairbanks, who won the Silver Star for combat in the second World War added:

"It is not generally known, perhaps, but in World War II our troops had a greater incidence of minor diseases than all our allies and enemies put together. The American serviceman had a comparatively weak resistance to disease and I am afraid the trend continues. We have tremendous morale but we need more physical toughness. We are tending to become hothouse flowers."

SPECIAL

AMERICAN LANDSCAPE—Folk music and Americana are depicted in singing, dancing, story-telling, humor, art and poetry during a special color hour in Perry Como's regular slot at 9 p.m. on channel 4. Burgess Meredith is host and narrator, with Phil Harris, Chuck Connors, Barbara Cook, Peter Palmer and MacKinley Kantor—plus the Peter Gennaro dancers, Ray Charles singers and Mitchel Ayres orchestra.

OBJECTIVE: SURVIVAL—Special half-hour report on what can be done to increase chances for surviving a massive nuclear attack is at 9 p.m. on channel 11. Alexander Scourby is host, with Rep. Chet Holifield a guest.

CIRCLE THEATRE—Modern developments in cancer therapy (surgery, radiation, nuclear medicine, chemotherapy and virology) are dramatized through the story of an assistant resident surgeon in a cancer research hospital. Three real-life cancer experts guest at intervals in the dramatic development at 10 p.m. on channel 2.

SONGSTRESS Anita Gordon guests on "The Bob Newhart Show" at 10 p.m. Wednesday, channel 4.

A Star Is a Star Is a Star—Or Is He?

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Purposely or not, television has wrecked the movies' cherished star system, just as it has raised havoc with other filmland sacred cows.

Thanks to TV the word "star" in reference to a performer has become downright ludicrous.

In the salad days of flickers a star meant Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Rudolph Valentino. Even a score of years ago Clark Gable, Bette Davis, Gary Cooper were synonymous with stardom.

Once an actor reached that rarified eminence—and it took years—he resented an untried newcomer being billed on the same screen as a star.

But everybody is a star on television—like an army with no privates, captains or colonels. Just generals.

Take "The Perry Como Show." The TV blurb bills his program something like this:

"THE PERRY COMO SHOW, starring Perry Como. Co-starring Cosmo Carter, Gladys Glutz. Also starring Phoebe Phipps and the Tanglefoot dancers. With special guest star Maurice Mandlebaum."

The situation is even worse on dramatic "specials" where everyone but the assistant makeup man is a star.

Consider the "stars" to be seen weekly in their own series. For instance, John Ashley and Brian Kelly, a couple of clean-cut youngsters who star in "Straightaway." When Gloria Swanson appeared with them a few weeks back, it seemed ridiculous for them to get star billing while Gloria (superstar before they were born) had to settle for the "special guest" category.

Television moguls deny the existence of a starless series.

ONE OF THE TOP five shows, "Bonanza," boasts four regular stars, Lorne Greene, Pernell Roberts, Dan Blocker and Mike Landon—all of whom were unknown two years ago.

In the beginning movies fell for TV's ersatz stars.

They put Liberace, George Gobel and other video regulars on the big screen and watched them lie there like gaffed salmon.

Movie audiences did not desert Marilyn Monroe, Frank Sinatra and Elizabeth Taylor for the new crop of stars. Gradually thick-headed moviemakers got the message: "TV stars ain't movie stars."

Then they decided to steal a page from the upstart medium and bill all picture players as stars.

Thus, movie screens are filled with co-stars, also stars and special guest stars. Those stars accepting bit parts (a forbidden term) or supporting roles (never, never!) are now "cameo stars."

If you've ever been caught in a mob scene by a TV camera don't be ashamed to tell your grandchildren you once were a television star. There are hundreds of characters walking around Hollywood making the same claim—and with less time on the air than you have.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

RAYMOND BURR, in his role as Perry Mason, attempts to prevent Kaye Elhardt from leaving a bungalow where a man has been murdered. The action takes place on "Perry Mason" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, channel 2. Miss Elhardt portrays the role of a mother whose baby is abandoned.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Crime' Series Successful

good job.

"The Department needs more physical facilities.

"It needs more skilled professional help such as psychiatrists. It does not have enough skilled professional help and its officials admit this."

As for the television program itself, Roberts frankly admits it could be "a lot more successful."

A LOT MORE successful, that is, from the number of viewers that watch it. It hasn't set any rating records.

As for its accomplishments among those viewers who do witch it, Roberts is convinced:

"It sure as hell has deglamourized crime.

"It's the greatest argument against taking the law into your own hands that I've ever seen."

If you've seen one of the programs, heard just one of the prisoners bare the misery of his soul, you can't argue with Roberts' convictions.

You can see for yourself, hear for yourself and realize for yourself that he's right.

And if the realization did no more than keep just one man from making the mistake that 42 prisoners did in similar situations, then the program—rating surveys to the contrary—is a success.

SPECIAL

ZANE GREY THEATRE—Return premiere. Ralph Bellamy hosts selected repeats of the 1956-61 series, at 9:30 p.m. on channel 2. Jack Lemmon stars in opener as gunman who meets opposition from an unexpected source when he tries to take over a peaceful town. Nan Leslie and Frank Ferguson are featured.

CBS REPORTS—First in a 2-part study of the American tax system is aired at 10 p.m. on channel 2. Harry Reasoner is host as tonight's half hour interviews IRS commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin, shows returns being audited and previews the new data processing system. Next week's report, too late to be helpful, is subtitled "Loopholes of '62", but there won't be many.

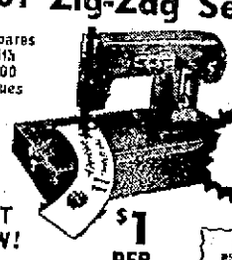

SYLVESTER (left) and Harry Wiere, stars of the "Oh, Those Bells!" Thursday series, woefully remind taxpayers of the April 16 income tax deadline.

COVER

To Natalie Wood, stardom came early. The brown-eyed, chestnut-tressed actress is one of Hollywood's youngest stars, and also one of its most seasoned veterans. Her youth, beauty and ability have now carried her to new heights in Warner Bros. "Splendor in the Grass," and to nomination as Best Actress for an Oscar. Many who are wise in the way of Hollywood think she will make it; others equally wise think her competition is too tough. That the field is rugged can easily be seen in the lineup (see Page 7). Natalie is not new to Academy Award competition; her memorable effort as the high school girl friend of the late James Dean in Warner Bros. "Rebel Without a Cause" won her a nomination in 1955. Whether she wins or loses in the current Oscar Derby, her youth assures her many fans that she'll be around for many more top efforts.

NEWS WEEK

The Communists celebrate May Day with parades of might. Democratic America will mark May 1 with a meaningful "Law Day, U. S. A.," a day of celebration by Americans in appreciation of their liberties and to reaffirm their loyalties to their country. Next week, Southland will tell you how that unusual day will be marked in Long Beach.

Fred Taylor Kraft, Editor

Southland Magazine is published weekly as a supplement to the Sunday Edition of the Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif. Represented nationally by Ridder-Johns, Inc., New York, San Francisco, Chicago, Detroit, Minneapolis and Los Angeles.

Get Into the Swing of Spring

Linda Williams, NBC-TV actress, and Lois Ellingson, enjoy an old-time glider swing that's easily made at home.

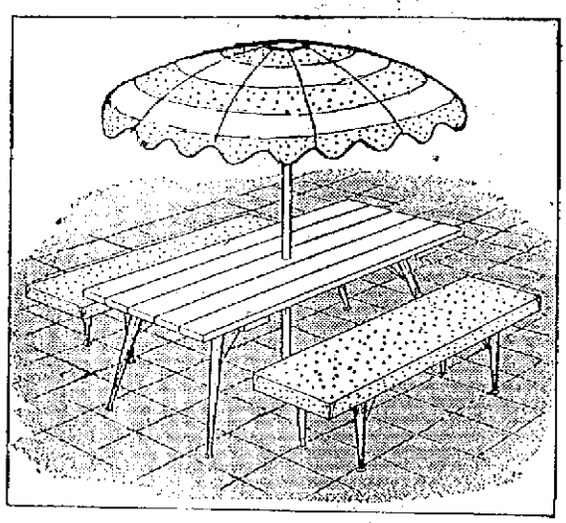

THIS IS the time of year when people all over America start their annual back-to-nature movement via their own back yard. Porches, patios and lawns, no matter how small, will once more become part of the home. These are the places that will again become centers of activity during the spring and summer months that lie ahead. And of course, the activities that we enjoy this summer will depend largely upon the type of outdoor furnishings which we possess.

An old-fashioned glider swing is something every member of the family will enjoy. The one pictured here with NBC's television actress Linda Williams and Lois Ellingson seats four adults or a half dozen kids. It has a gentle relaxing to-and-fro motion that mildly stimulates the muscles as well as good conversation.

Any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses an easy-to-follow pattern. There's no trick to building it. The parts may be cut out indoors and taken outside for quick and easy assembly. The pattern lists the needed materials and gives easy to understand directions and illustrations.

TO OBTAIN the easy-to-follow glider swing pattern number 276 send $1 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Department, P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Patio picnics and cook-outs get a bright lift from this easily-made bench-table set with modern look.

By Ursula M. S. Dadras

HAVE YOU ever wondered why most outdoor "picnic" tables are heavy, rustic-looking affairs with bulky crossed legs?

Maybe Americans associate eating outside with a return to the frontier and like to feel that they're "roughing it" just like their forefathers. Or perhaps, and this is more likely, most picnic tables are built that way today out of pure habit.

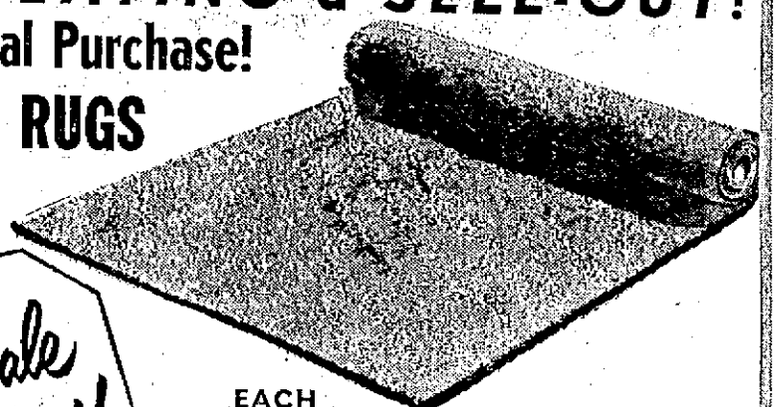

In any case, the log cabin look is not essential to a modern outdoor table. The design shown in the illustration brings a contemporary air to outdoor dining, without sacrificing ability to withstand heavy handling or the effects of the weather.

Another departure from convention in this design is the cushioned benches. No matter how much a person admires getting back to nature, there is a limit to the time most people can sit on a bare wooden board without discomfort.

Principal construction material is 5/4 redwood or pine, which has an actual thickness of about 1⅛ inches. The table surface is 29 inches wide by 60 inches long. Legs are bought ready-made, and screw into metal brackets mounted on crosspieces under the table.

TO OBTAIN, send 50 cents with name and address for Terrace Table Plan S-52 to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Entertaining foreign students is rewarding . . . and fun!

A Stranger Wants to Meet You

By Robert Hazelleaf

ONLY A SIMPLE telephone call separates your family from an experience that beats armchair traveling by books and magazines a dozen ways. Right now, there are 120 students from foreign lands in Long Beach State and City Colleges, most of them bursting for a chance to know an American family.

More important, each will leave for his homeland with a better impression of the United States, the people of Long Beach, especially.

That telephone call to Chamber of Commerce Secretary Merle Stang can bring you a guest from one of the better-known countries of Europe, from the politically turbulent Middle East, even from lands in the Orient that conjure visions of exotic cities and strange customs.

The plans can be for a quiet evening of conversation, a dinner, even a weekend trip with the family.

As a result of interest by dedicated citizens, the Chamber of Commerce has offered to act as a clearing agency not only for individual requests for international students, but as coordinator for clubs, churches and other groups who work to improve our relations abroad, whether for organization guest appearances, industrial tours or civic functions.

ALL IT TOOK for the idea to bear fruit was a gentle nudge from Charles Sleeper, who, with his wife Shirley, has been deeply involved in friendship with other countries since an American Field Service exchange high school student lived with the Sleepers in 1957.

A couple of months ago, Sleeper mentioned his idea of more contact between foreign students and Americans to Dr. Paul Opstead, international student counselor at Long Beach State. Dr. Opstead's answer was quick and enthusiastic: "Come out to the school. We've got things to talk about!"

And talk they did. A call to the Chamber of Commerce had equally fast results. "That suits our International City thee to a T," an official said, "besides being a good idea in itself. We'll work on it."

Municipal Judge Martin De Vries, member of the Chamber's Education Committee, leaped at the idea, too. The judge and his wife have sponsored foreign college students for several years and are ardent supporters of any plan that will help our relations abroad. They know how much it means for a young man or woman to have sympathetic American listeners in making one of the most difficult adjustments they will ever experience.

"IT SEEMED as though I had a magic wand," Sleeper says. "All I had to do was mention the idea and the chamber went to work. Now, with the help of Judge De Vries working as co-chairman, Dr. Opstead, Glenn Irvin and Jim Gordon of the Chamber of Commerce, we've really got some results."

Dr. Opstead sees the problem of American contacts first hand. "Although there are 80 international students at State, there is a total of 250 in the harbor area. Most of the two-year college students are already sponsored and living with American families, which is a big help.

"But at State, many of the students live in rooming houses or apartments. They get little contact with Americans at the home level. They tend to keep to themselves, not because they want to, but simply because it works out that way."

The students, ranging in age from late teens to early thirties, are enrolled in courses from undergraduate to advanced degrees. Nearly all of them are conversant with English, though the language problem is present for some.

All of them are here because they want to learn. They want to work for their homelands as businessmen, teachers or in government service. They want to bring to their countries the advancement that they so urgently need but that requires so much effort by so many millions of people.

"FORTUNATELY," says Dr. Opstead, "we are getting started when we have relatively few international students on our campuses. In a few years we will have many more. Setting up a program now will prepare us for the future."

The lack of contact is much more than a local problem. It has been pointed out by foreign students who have returned home disgruntled with the lack of association with Americans. There are presently some 70,000 students in this country from abroad. A recent national magazine article reports, "more than half of them are discontented."

This can be an impression with expensive overtones for Americans. There is a growing cohesiveness among nations in the Common Market agreement, in alliances both East and West. The young men and women now studying with us are doing so, in most instances, because they are expected to become leaders within a few years. It would be unfortunate if we can do little but foster a stand-offish attitude.

Mrs. W. Wallace Maner, hostess for the International Center, University of Iowa, has written a sprightly pamphlet that serves as a guide to the American family acting as international host.

"HAVING a foreign student or visitor for dinner or for the weekend is not a complicated, difficult or heroic task," Mrs. Maner writes. "You needn't approach such hospitality as though United States foreign policy depends upon the success of your affair!"

When the invitation is issued, don't rush to the encyclopedia or library to learn all you can about a strange country, Mrs. Maner warns. Your guest can take care of that, except for the basic facts—his name and homeland.

To most Americans, the national People-to-People and Sister City movements are faceless and remote. The foreign guest can dispel that illusion.

"The only qualification a family needs," says Mrs. Maner, "is to be well-adjusted. Rich or poor, house or small apartment, 12 children or none, it makes no difference. Welcome an opportunity to learn more things about new people in the comfort of

Will 1962 Be the Dodgers' Golden Year?

New park, rising stars spark team confidence

By George Lederer

LAKE MEAD water was cool and calm as a baseball manager in February. By sheer coincidence it was February and Walter Alston, manager of the Dodgers, was relaxing on the top deck of a sleek cabin cruiser, casting for fish and fishing for his future cast.

It was a doubleheader as frustrating as any in Alston's eight years in the National League. His line and lineup remained total blanks.

By mid-afternoon, Alston was willing to try his platoon system on the bass in Lake Mead. He cast first from the right side of the boat, then from the left. He lossed sinkers and hooks as Ed Roebuck never did and still could not get a strike.

He had time not only to ponder the future, but to delve into the immediate past. In the absence of bass he began to reel off statistics.

"IF WE WERE to score 100 more runs than our pitchers allow, do you suppose we'd win the pennant this year?" he asked. He didn't wait for an answer. "I'd be willing to take my chances," he said.

It was an introduction to an amazing set of figures that Alston memorized during a long winter of meditation at his farm in Darrtown, Ohio.

"Do you realize," Alston continued, "that Cincinnati won the pennant by scoring only 57 runs more than they allowed? That the difference on our club was 38? That the Giants led the league in runs, scored 118 more than they allowed and still finished third?"

Further research proves conclusively the National League's topsy-turvy 1961 race.

Pittsburgh led the league in hitting and finished sixth in the standings. St. Louis pitchers led in earned run average, yet the Cardinals finished fifth. Milwaukee was the top defensive team and wound up fourth.

THE DODGERS ranked no higher than fifth in any of these departments, but trailed the champion Reds by only four games. The Dodgers were fifth in batting and fielding, sixth in pitching and total bases.

What else is there but strategy? Very little, the Dodger front office admitted in rehiring Alston for what it hopes will be a golden new era in Dodger Stadium, the $18 million Taj Mahal of baseball.

Financially, the Dodgers are assured of success. Already they have sold 1.3 million seats or more than the club drew in its final season in Brooklyn. At no time will Walter O'Malley unlock his doors for fewer than 16,000 spectators.

O'Malley promises that such faith shall not go unrewarded. "Our team enjoys the greatest fan support in baseball history. We will spare no expense in developing a winner. We will go all out for a pennant and I expect nothing less."

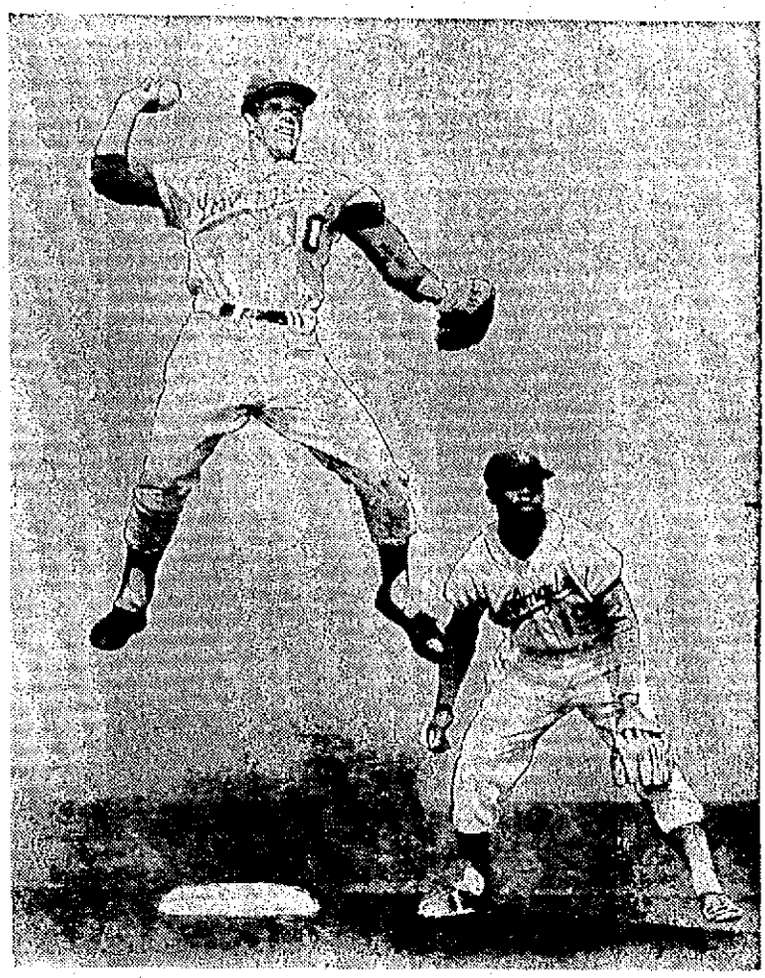

The order frightens neither general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, who claims "we have the talent to win the pennant," nor Alston, who says "there's no doubt that we'll improve in the new park."

ALSTON'S PROBLEM can be compared to the lady who lived in a shoe: He has so many players, he doesn't quite know what to do.

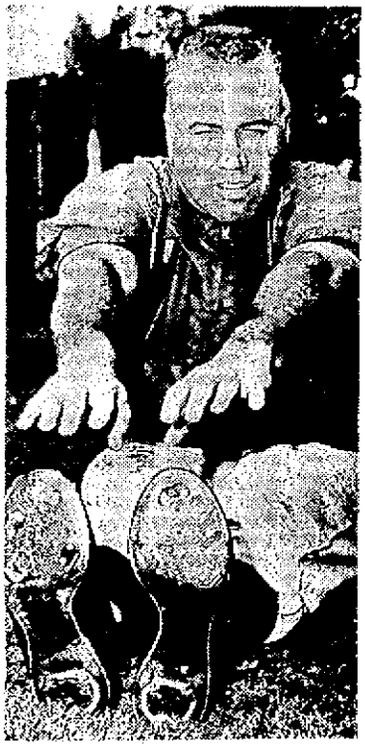

He has talented veterans in Duke Snider, Wally Moon, Jim Gilliam, Maury Wills and Johnny Podres; rising stars in Willie Davis, Tommy Davis, Ron Fairly and Frank Howard; and promising rookies in Joe Moeller and Larry Burright.

Alston is blessed with the hardest throwing set of pitchers in baseball, including the league's strikeout king, Sandy Koufax, and Don Drysdale, the most feared and also the most frustrated sidearmer of the decade.

Defensive power, demonstrated here by Maury Wills (1) and Jim Gilliam, is a Dodger characteristic; should be a big factor in team's pennant chances.

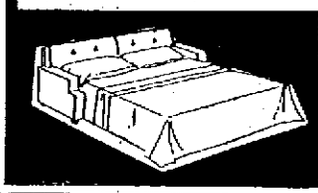

Duke Snider, Dodger captain, is driving hard to be in top shape for '62.

Starting pitcher in season's opener in new Dodger Stadium will be either Johnny Podres (right) or Sandy Koufax, both lefthanders, shown offering services to Manager Walt Alston for choice assignment.

Sugar Shell Eggs for Easter

By Darlene Mitchell McClain

FEW OF US as youngsters could claim a globe-trotting senator for a great-grandfather and fewer still were sent gifts from around the world as he traveled.

Mrs. Maurice Patchett, 421 Maine Ave., had this interesting experience as a child in Taunton, Mass. Out of all the foreign baubles, she remembers best the enchanting German Easter eggs sent to her by Jeremiah Dennett, senator from Massachusetts.

The eggs were hollow and had magical Easter lands inside, and Mrs. Patchett tried many times to describe them to her own children.

Commercial eggs could be found, but the hastily assembled paper figures bore little relation to the rich delicacies of the German confections.

THEN ONE DAY she found in a magazine a casually-mentioned recipe for making the foamy sugar shell, and immediately set about re-creating the eggs of her childhood memories. She could fill the center with icing fantasies, because she had been studying cake decorating and could squeeze a mean rosebud.

So Mrs. Patchett began experimenting with the too-brief recipe and soon discovered quite a few ways not to make sugar shells. But she finally succeeded, and is willing to share her findings with others. Here is the recipe with which she began:

"Mix one egg white with 4-5 cups of sugar."

Mrs. Patchett has amended it further to read: "Knead the sugar and egg white about 10 minutes, until it feels uniformly like wet sand. If you prefer pastel shells, add food coloring. Then fill a plastic egg mold, bought at a dime store, with the mixture and unmold on a sheet of waxed paper. Make as many as you can.

"CUT OFF the large end to form the peephole. Let them dry about two hours, if intended for an adult, or three hours for a child. The extra drying makes the shell thicker, less fragile. Then turn over and very carefully scoop out the still-damp center with a teaspoon. This can be used again to make more eggs, or, if desired, different shapes: bells, baskets, or even bunnies."

Ordinary icing won't work for the decorations. A butter mix will soften the sugar shell, and an egg-white frosting will soon begin flaking. A commercial mixture, called Deco Icing, is ideal for use on these eggs. It is edible, if children decide to devour their goody, or it will hold up for years, if an adult wants to save it.

Cover one-half shell with a blue-frosted sky, and then you can turn loose your imagination.

"You don't have to be adept at cake decorating to make these eggs," Mrs. Patchett points out. "I often let my grandchildren make their own. They work for hours, and come up with some fascinating ideas. Besides, small figures can be purchased and used, if you're bashful about making your own flowers."

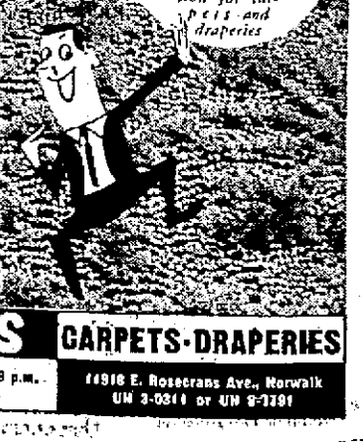

Photos by Joe Risinger

Recalling the beauty of the German Easter eggs she received when she was a child, Mrs. Maurice Patchett has found a method of reproducing them in the oldtime way.

Nature's Seaplanes

By Thora C. Froyen

LIKE migrating whales and the swallows that return to Capistrano each spring, the flying fishes also return from their winter sojourn in the warmer equatorial seas to spend the summers cavorting around in the Southern California waters.

These dragon-fly fishes come soaring up from the inky depths like flashing silver blades to the great delight of surprised passengers on ships plying from Long Beach to Santa Catalina Island. The largest and best variety, the "Cypsilurus Californicus," summers in Southern California waters.

They are not all equally good for human consumption, but the California variety is considered by some to be a succulent delicacy. However, local markets contend that there is no customer demand for them and those caught are used mainly as bait for larger fish. They can be caught with butterfly nets, with a spear or with gill nets such as commercial fishermen use.

They skim over the water up to 200 yards and reach heights up to 50 feet, depending on the wind. Then they gradually lose speed and touch their tails down in the sea to give themselves another boost and off they go again.

THE SHAPE of the flying fish is adapted perfectly for the life it leads. Its long sleek body, from 12 to 18 inches in length, is fitted for smooth progress through the water as well as through the air with the least friction. Its air bladder is greatly enlarged and filled with a gaseous substance (mostly nitrogen), diminishing the relative weight of the body, which usually runs from one to three pounds.

The clear quiet waters around Catalina Island offer an ideal feeding and breeding place for flying fish. They swim close to shore after dark and feed and spawn in the kelp beds. Their silver, white and gray coloring blends perfectly with the sun-dappled sea, giving them a protective camouflage. They are naturally carnivorous and like to feed on crustaceans such as shrimps, prawns, young crabs and tiny fishes.

Trained naturalists have found that flying fishes while in the air, hold their supporting planes, the greatly expanded pectoral fins, as rigidly as though they were made of steel. In this respect the principle of fish flight is clearly very close to that of sail planes.

Nature has been kind to these unusual fish by endowing them with the ability to escape from their larger fish enemies by ejecting themselves into the air at will; thus they are masters of both the sea and the air, a combination of submarine and seaplane.

Nature has given the flying fish an extra means of escape from enemies, the ability to leap from the sea and fly through the air for distances up to 200 yards at a time.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES: Southland takes it readers into a different attractive Long Beach area home each week.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the origin of DUNBAR.—Mrs. L.D., Long Beach.

L.D.: DUNBAR is from a Scotch name in Elginshire. "Dun-barr," the source words, meant "Fortress at the summit of the hill." The Dunbars are descendants of Duncan who died in battle in A.D. 965. In 1368 this clan acquired the Scotch baronial estates of Mochrum and Glenkens. Their coat-of-arms has a rampant silver lion on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on CALLAHAN and the shield—Mrs. R. B., Long Beach.

R. B.: CALLAHAN is traced to the Irish clan O'Ceallachain. This family were descendants of Ceallacan, a 10th century king of Munster. His name is deciphered as "Controversy and war." The Callahans were originally rulers of southern County Cork. Their coat-of-arms has a wolf issuing from a grove of trees. This emblem is on a silver shield. The Callahan motto "Fides et audax" means "Faithful and bold."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like ancestry on ABBOT.—N. P., Westminster; S. A., Long Beach.

N. P., S. A.: ABBOTT is an English name from an ancestor who was nicknamed "The Abbott." He reminded his compatriot villagers of a dignified abbott, one of the devoted leaders of a monastery. Adam Abbott was a Huntingdonshire resident in the late 1200s. The Abbott coat-of-arms from Essex has three golden pears and three blue crosses on a chevron across the center of a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze WEBER.—B W., Long Beach.

B. W.: WEBER is German and was applied to a tradesman for his proficient work. This name identified a weaver of cloth, who wove woolen yardage on a loom in the Middle Ages. The Weber coat-of-arms from Prussia has two black bands across the center of a silver shield, placed below an iron cross on a silver stripe. The most famous ancestor was the celebrated musical composer Baron Karl Maria Von Weber (1786-1826).

DEAR MISS RULE: Do you have information on SHEEHAN.—P.S., Long Beach.

P.S.: SHEEHAN, an Irish family, is traced back to the 11th century. The old Gaelic name O'Shiegane, is interpreted as "Sons of the little, peaceful one." The clan founder was an unusual person among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE CASTRO?—Mrs. C.L., Long Beach.

C.L.: DE CASTRO, a Spanish name, was taken by this family from a place termed a "Castrum" by the Roman rulers of Spain 1700 years ago, Castrum meant "Army camp." This word was altered by the Spanish to De Castro (From the camp). The De Castro coat-of-arms from Aragon has six golden coins arranged in pairs down the center of a scarlet shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the origin of PARIS, PARISH and PARRISH. — Mrs. D. P., Downey, Mrs. L. L., Slaton, Tex.; Mrs. L.M., Long Beach.

D.P., L.L., L.M.: PARIS, PARISH and PARRISH are early English surnames descended from an ancestor from the city of Paris, France. A primary forebear was Robert de Paris in 1273. The Parrish shield is red, emblazoned with three unicorn heads.

Calypso Goes to College

Lylburn Layer, foreground, leads USC's calypso band, steel drum musicians copied from the Caribbean idea.

By Bob Loeffelbein

YOU DON'T have to tour to Trinidad for a true calypso beat any more. Right here in our own back yard, on the campus at the University of Southern California, we have the first and the only Calypso Steel Drum Band in the U.S.

The idea for this novel undertaking came from Lylburn Layer, who learned his art on the singing drums as arranger and lead player in the U.S. Navy Steel Band in Puerto Rico in 1957.

When he returned to college he brought his "manicured" drum back with him. Friends in the band department at USC played it, started tinkering, making their own drums.

Taking various sizes of steel drums, they heated and chiseled sections of different sizes into the drum heads corresponding to the various musical tones.

NOW THERE are eight pieces in the combo, including Layer, Charles Boito, Richard Bower, John Brown, David Christensen, Stuart Fox, Jerry Kirkbride, and Darrell Mettler. They play at all sorts of functions ranging from basketball games to the recent USC dental department dinner.

The original drum play, according to Layer, was nothing more than natives beating on empty steel drums, discarded by the Navy, at war dances.

Gradually the system of combining various sizes of drums in chorus, and giving each a pitch and tone, brought about real band music. After World War II these new sounds swept the shores of the Caribbean. And that was when the Navy band at San Juan under Layer, who had graduated from the Naval School of Music, got its start.

LEADER LAYER has done most of the arranging for the band, in true calypso styling. "Mary Ann," "Jamaica Farewell" and "Liza" are some of the standards in the group's repertoire . . . but their piece de resistance is the USC fight song, "Fight On for Old SC," played calypso style.

Even though the group wishes to show calypso music as international in flavor, they still want listeners to know they are SC Trojans first and last. Even their costumes of three-quarter length white beach pants with sandals and multihued tee shirts are topped with straw hats cresting in the famous "brush" of the Trojan warrior helmet.

Custom-built to fit a hilltop, the new home of Eileen and Earl Nickerson capitalizes on a sweeping view of Long Beach and the sea. Inset, exterior view of the home.

Straight, simple lines of furniture add spaciousness to living room, below. Telescopic bench beside window provides an extra seating facility without blocking the view.

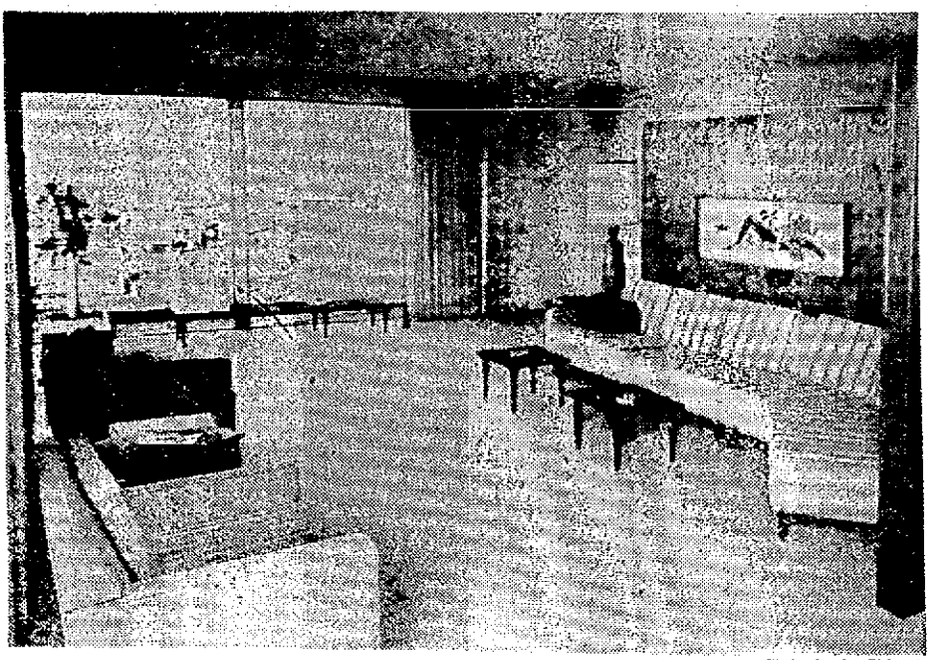

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Custom-Built to Fit a Hilltop

By Stella George

EILEEN AND Earl Nickerson live luxuriously, casually, and comfortably in a hilltop home of their own design, located at 2550 E. 21st St., Signal Hill. Not only did they draw up the plans for the house themselves, but Mrs. Nickerson did her own decorating with the skill and good taste of a professional in the field.

The lot commands a view of the city and the sea. All facing walls are glass. The interior has a tremendous feeling of wide open space induced by the open floor plan of the home, plus the fact that the rooms, including the baths, are carpeted in a near-white champagne color. Floor-to-ceiling drapes are of the same color, and walls are bone white.

Compact, the kitchen is nonetheless decorative and in keeping with the living room. Note ornamental lighting.

The front door is actually at the side of the home, and opens in the living room. The kitchen is set back to take advantage of the view, with an open dining area in front.

A WHITE sit-down bar partly separates the kitchen from the living room, and along the front of the kitchen is another bar where the sink is located. The floor of the kitchen is covered with a top quality white linoleum, curved into the carpeting.

Cabinets in the kitchen look like polished walnut but are really a formica-type finish that resists wear and tear. The color matches wood in the furniture. Shell-like white stools with brightly colored cushions are used for the sit-down bar.

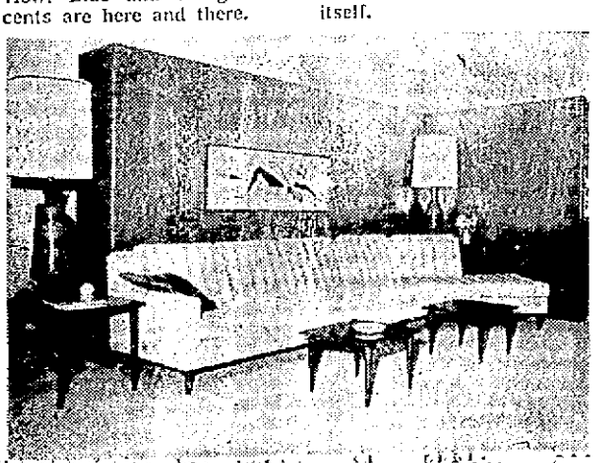

A high, L-shaped partition in back of the living room couch continues around the side of the couch to form a hall in the rear where the bedrooms are located. It is finished to resemble kola teak, and is a decorator's item in itself.

THE COUCH is of beige and toast coloring with twin coffee tables in front and twin blue chairs opposite. Telescopic slat benches are in front of two of the long windows, providing seating space without obstructing the view. Blue and orange accents are here and there.

The master bedroom not only has ample closets, but built-in chests of drawers that leave the room itself free and spacious. Glass that covers the wall on one side of the room doubles the size and provides a living picture by day and night. The second bedroom, used as a den, features a gay color accent in the form of a violet occasional chair placed near the study area.

There are many hidden features or characteristics that make this dwelling outstanding. For example, the Nickersons wanted their home to be what they termed a real American home in every sense. Consequently, every item in the home, large and small, was made in the United States. They have no imports from any other country. Considering the number of everyday things in common use which come from abroad — carpeting, bric-a-brac, lamps, and accessories, to name but a few — the job of making sure that everything was made in this country was no small undertaking.

The view from this home is so conducive to evening relaxation that the Nickersons do not own a television set. The scene of the city in the distance with background music in the house is a kind of three-dimensional TV in itself.

Divider in back of the couch performs a twofold serv... ice, with cupboards and closets on the bedroom side...

GRAD CARD

Tailor Your Speech

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

SOONER OR LATER, every student has to make a classroom speech, and the chances are good that the speech-making chore will fall to him time and again in his business and social life after he leaves school.

Most high schools and colleges have speech departments and work in great detail with the subject of public speaking. We couldn't hope in this short space to offer any new techniques.

However, experts in this field tell us that while many students and adult speakers have been well-schooled in speech techniques, a limited number know a very important secret which can make all the difference between an effective and a poor speech.

That fact is:

At least ONE-HALF the time you use preparing for a speech should be spent thinking about your audience.

It is not enough to know what you want to say.

It is not enough to have your material well organized.

It is not enough to have an attention-getting introduction and a thought-provoking conclusion.

It is not enough to have some excellent examples of your general principles to make your subject clearer.

It is not enough to have some carefully-selected visual aids.

Many a speaker makes all these preparations and then, when he gets up to talk, discovers that the audience feels distant and unresponsive.

He failed to study his audience and determine how to get his point across to THEM.

THE EFFECTIVE public speaker considers these things about his audience: their age, their sex; their individual and group interests, their environment, their religion, their politics, their economic position.

Such words as capitalism, free enterprise, and right-to-work produce sharply different emotional responses in industrial leaders than in union leaders.

An experienced writer studies his audience. That is, he studies the subscribers to the publication for which he wishes to write. He knows what they like to read. He satisfies them. Readers buy the publication to read him.

And so it is with the successful speaker. He shapes his speech for his specific audience. And audiences "buy" him.

Jupe Pluvius Is a Fickle Gent

By John F. Fairchild

WHEREVER Southlanders meet, the weather is a standard topic of conversation and rain usually is the foremost thought. Fog and smog are probably next.

When it does rain in Southern California—and it does, as we recently rediscovered—contrasting viewpoints prevail. For instance, most eastern or midwestern visitors ask, "Where is this highly touted sunshine we came here to enjoy?" The native often says, in effect, "Isn't this rain wonderful? Worth millions to the country, besides cleaning the air of smog and fog."

However, Jupiter Pluvius is as fickle in doling out his wares to the Southland as the visitor and native are opposed in their remarks.

For many years my work has associated me with storm drain problems of the City of Long Beach and the harbor area. I have recently dug into official Long Beach rainfall records, as well as those of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Los Angeles, thereby uncovering some interesting facts.

In some cases, storm drain facilities are inadequate to cope with heavy and prolonged amounts of JP's generosity. Millions have been spent on drains, and to good avail, but considering the Southland's growing pains, with more paving being constructed annually; run-off increases along with costs, posing a major problem.

Usually bonds must be voted to build effective drainage systems. Seldom are such elections held during Jupiter's generous moods—and when it isn't raining voters don't see the need for the drains.

CONSEQENTLY, the voter or native doesn't always see eye-to-eye with the trained drainage engineer, until he may try to drive home some evening after a good rain only to find his street blocked with "detour" signs.

Based on records of the Los Angeles office of the U. S. Weather Bureau for 81 years from 1877 to 1961, the average season total was 15.01 inches. If it were possible to depend upon this amount annually, and this quota only, simplicity would replace complexity. However, this is not the case.

For example, during the season of 1883-84, a total of 38.18 inches of rain was recorded. While in 1960-61, only 4.85 inches fell. These represent the highest and lowest seasonal figures of record and bears out the old axiom: "Rain breeds rain and drought breeds drought."

Here lies the drainage engineer's dilemma. He must design, according to the highest run-off occurring in the shortest period of time in the history of the area for which he is designing.

The season of 1915-16 is known among the weather fraternity as the Hatfield season. The City of San Diego had contracted with a so-called rain-maker, named Hatfield, to relieve a drought which gravely threatened its water supply.

Hatfield secluded himself atop a remote peak in the San Diego mountains and proceded to brew up a batch of chemicals, which did—or did not—cause the heaviest rainfall in any one month in Southern California history. A whopping 13.30 inches of precipitation occurred in the month of January alone.

NEEDLESS TO say, dams, highways and railroad bridges went with the surging run-off. San Diego contemplated suing Hatfield, but this action was not carried out.

Up to and including the Hatfield season, January had been the average wettest month since the turn of the century. With a grand total over February of more than 16 inches.

The Southland rainy season is, supposedly, from September 15 to May 15 but, in 1906-07, Jupiter was in a moist mood, and let rain fall each month from July to June, with the exception of October, which is ordinarily a damp month. This, while holding the season total down to 19.30 inches.

With Southern California weather so tricky, small wonder it is jokingly said in weather circles: "All our best forecasters are locked in safe places, cutting out paper dolls."

Drawing by Dick Wahlmeyer

Because of Jupiter Pluvius' ficklenass, a Southland weatherman almost needs witchcraft for forecasting.

They Call Her 'Iron Liebchen'

SO ALL RIGHT, in the nick-name-dropping town of Hollywood Dietrich is "Legs," Eckberg "the Big Swede," and "Mmmm!" is the word for Marilyn, but—"the Iron Liebchen?"

That's what the film center has dubbed little, blonde import Cordula Trantow, who at 18 already holds West Germany's equivalent of our Academy Award and has just been nominated for a Golden Globe by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association for her performance in her first American movie.

And this time you have to ask why.

"Liebchen — that means sweetheart. Doesn't she look

Award winner in Europe, Cordula Trantow, 18, from Germany, has come to Hollywood, acquired odd nickname.

it?" answers Stuart Heisler, the man who directed her opposite Richard Basehart in "Hitler."

"Quit stalling, Heisler."

"Oh, you want to know about the 'iron.' Well, that's what's inside the velvet glove. Did you know that when she arrived in this country she was carrying a pistol?"

"What! That little doll?"

HEISLER crossed his heart. "She had an impression America was full of gangsters or something. She was scared. But she came. She came armed with a dainty nickel-plated gas-firing pistol warranted to blind at six paces. It was the first time she'd ever traveled without her parents. And what do you think happened?

"One night she returned to her apartment building to find the place full of police. There'd been a prowler or something. She was too frightened to sleep in her own apartment. She went to Maria

Black or white . . . always light . . . going formal has been graduated to the fun class. Whether the occasion calls for jet black or white Formalwear, the American male demands comfort. The lighter way of going formal has brought greater pleasure to dressing up. Today's formal fabrics stay crisp and fresh throughout the longest dinner or formal occasion. Black or white, take your pick. Next to the young lady—jet black tuxedo in natural shoulder shawl collar by Palm Beach; right—white Wash 'n' Wear dinner jacket in a blend of Dacron Polyester and Orlon Acrylic, also by Palm Beach.

The Men Like Blends

Like the rest of the world, men's wear seems to be split into two camps of taste—but unlike the rest of the world, ever the twain shall meet!

One line of interest and excitement is, of course, sportswear, which during the past generation has brought new color, new life, new vibrancy, new interest to all kinds of men's apparel. In sportswear, a man now has an opportunity to express his personality with discrimination and good taste.

The fact is that in the past 25 years, in the span of a generation, men's clothing and sportswear has taken on a whole new look. Witness bold and subtle plaids in suits, bright plaids of the India Madras type, in sport jackets. Witness, if you will, equally bright plaids in slacks and walking shorts. Witness the development of bright prints and bold stripes in sport shirts. Witness the growth of design and color in knit shirts.

Conventional clothing, too — the white collar man's work suit—has shown remarkable progress toward spring and summer comfort and better fit, even in so short a period as the past decade. And although dark suitings have tended to dominate men's tastes, these dark dark tones have been relieved by handsome neckwear and gaily colored foulard kerchiefs that peep out of breast pockets with a flaunt at convention.

The blend revolution was touched off by wash and wear, which continues to get bigger and bigger, because the polyester fibers blended with rayon, or cotton, or acrylic to produce cords, poplins, and fancy mixtures provide a new kind of wearing performance (wrinkle resistance, crease retention) never before offered to men.

Of course, not everybody wants a wash and wear suit, so many turn to the polyester and worsted blends, which are a very important factor in lightweight performance clothing for spring and summer. Mohair and worsteds will also be strong, because they express the desire for sheen and lustre which is an important fashion attraction today.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Is there an international code for marking civilian airplanes of all countries? C.J.

A. Yes. The aircraft of all nations can be identified by official registration markings. These usually consist of one or two letters to denote the nationality, followed by other letters, or figures to make a total of five. Thus N is used for the United States, D for Germany, G for the United Kingdom, F for France, PH for The Netherlands, and so forth.

Q. Who originated the International Red Cross flag? I.T.

A. This flag, a red cross on a white background, is the national flag of Switzerland (white cross on a red background) with the colors transposed. It was adopted in recognition of Switzerland's initiative in calling the Geneva Conference in 1863, at which the agreement was signed concerning the international protection of sick and wounded, with their nurses and doctors.

Q. How tall was Gen. Phil Sheridan of Civil War fame? D.N.

A. Gen. Philip Henry Sheridan, called "Little Phil" by his men, was only five feet, five inches tall. Like many small men he was tremendously aggressive and possessed enormous energy. These qualities helped make Sheridan one of the great combat commanders of the Civil War.

Q. From what poem are the lines beginning: "I will go back to Innisfree"? C.B.

A. You refer to Stanza 1 of "The Lake Isle of Innisfree" by William Butler Yeats: "I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree,/ And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made:/ Nine bean-rows will I have there, a hive for the honeybee,/ And live alone in the bee-loud glade."

Q. Please describe the mythical monster called the griffin. H. Y.

A. The griffin, in ancient and medieval mythology, had the body of a lion and the head and wings of an eagle. The hind legs were always those of a lion, but the fore extremities were sometimes represented as eagle's claws. The griffin was much used in ancient sculpture, especially that of the Assyrians and Persians, and has been traced to the Hittites. In heraldry it is symbolic of wisdom and vigilance. From the griffin was derived another fabulous creature, the winged hippogriff—half horse and half griffin.

New Technique Dulls Pain

By Ben Zinser

Independent Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

A TECHNIQUE called mental concentration can enable obstetric patients to cope better with the pain of childbirth.

The method is described by Dr. A. A. Earn of the University of Manitoba in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The technique, Dr. Earn says, raises the pain threshold to reduce suffering. It has proved out in trials in Leicester General Hospital in England.

Here's how it works:

The patient, lying supine, fixes her eyes on a spot on the ceiling—a spot so far behind her head that the eye muscles fatigue rapidly.

She does this for one to two minutes. Ocular fatigue becomes so marked that the eyes soon close involuntarily in order to obtain relief.

General muscular relaxation follows.

Meanwhile, the patient is reassured through suggestion.

The concentration technique should be practiced before the day of delivery, Dr. Earn says.

It is integrated into an education program that advises the patient of the elemental anatomy and physiology of childbirth. The patient is told what she can expect during labor.

Pain-killing drugs are available if the patient requests them.

IF YOU'RE traveling east, and encounter a late winter storm, here's how to skid-proof your shoes against icy pavements:

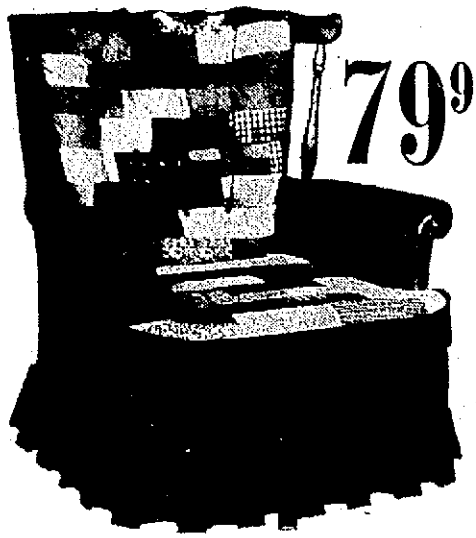

Stick a strip of one-inch adhesive tape lengthwise on each sole, another strip crosswise. Repeat on each heel.

The advice is in RN, a journal for nurses.

Blessing of the Animals

By Aubrey B. Haines

WITH GARLANDS of flowers around the necks of the larger animals and gay ribbons festooning the bird cages and decorating the smaller animals, the Blessing of the Animals begins in Los Angeles' Olvera Street on the Saturday before Easter. Before noon crowds will have gathered along the colorful thoroughfare, anticipating the procession and ceremony. Mexican children and adults, themselves gaily dressed in native colors, stroll along the street with pets on leashes or in their arms. Parrots and parakeets arrive in highly decorated cages. Rabbits, lambs, goats, dogs, cats, monkeys and chickens are all gaily festooned with ribbons or dressed in colorful little jackets.

The custom of blessing the animals goes back to the days of the patron saint of animals, San Antonio de Abad, who died in A.D. 356. This ancient custom — observed annually in parts of England, Switzerland, Austria, Spain, Mexico and in Rome—is in grateful recognition of the great service rendered to humans by the animals.

With their pet lamb adorned with ribbons, two Mexican boys bring the animal to Olvera Street for blessing.

IN THE EARLY days of spring when Nature softly calls new life into existence, the humble people of many lands gather together their work animals and pets and take them to the priest to be blessed for fertility and health. For years Mexican Catholics of Los Angeles have observed this ancient tradition.

The parade, formed at 1:30 p.m., will slowly make its way to the Old Plaza, where the priest and his altar boys stand on a raised platform. The right arm of the priest will hold the golden receptacle of holy water high so that the crystal drops of blessing fall on each passing animal.

A SATIN BLACK Holstein cow leads the parade each year, wearing a blanket of white gardenias and a crown of orchids on her horns.

Appropriately the animals are blessed in the Old Plaza, for in the early days when Los Angeles was a tiny pueblo, the citizens had to journey 9 miles to San Gabriel Mission for mass. As there were no funds with which to build a church, the priest appealed to the ranchers, who donated 500 head of cattle which they drove to the Plaza and auctioned off at $5 a head. The cornerstone of the Old Plaza Church was laid in 1814.

Cattle again played an heroic role in history when hides and tallow were used as barter to purchase all household goods, clothing and everyday living necessities. The early prosperity of California came not with the discovery of gold but in the trade value of hides. Hence with historical significance and gratitude the animals of Los Angeles are invited to come to Olvera Street each Easter season and receive blessing.

Pearl S. Buck's Bridge to Reality

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

FOR the first time since she wrote "My Several Worlds," Pearl S. Buck returns to personal experiences in "A BRIDGE FOR PASSING" (Day, $4.50).

In moving language, stark in the portrayal of her blinding grief, poetical as grief gives way to courage and trust in tomorrow, the author describes her reactions to news of the death of her husband, and the way she built a bridge again to reality.

It is a tender story, as only Pearl Buck could write it, and familiar to all women who must walk alone without the man who is life itself to them.

Pearl Buck had flown to Japan, as technical adviser in the filming of her "The Big Wave," originally written for children, when her daughter telephoned that her husband of a wondrously happy quarter of a century had died in his sleep. Mrs. Buck came home for the simple service in the library of their Pennsylvania farm home, then returned to Japan, loneliness and the task of finishing the film. In work she found surcease, and in solitude a measure of acceptance and peace.

THE WORLD in December, 1950 waited with dread and fearful hearts word of the First Marine Division trapped and surrounded by hundreds of thousands of Chinese troops in the frozen wastes of North Korea.

Were they annihilated? Could they retreat? Would they surrender?

"Surrounded?" exclaimed Col. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, commander of the First Regiment.

"Those poor bastards. They've got us right where we want them. Now we can shoot in every direction."

Barrel-chested, banty-legged Lewis Puller of Saluda, Va., grandson of a Confederate cavalry hero and cousin of the celebrated "Blood and Guts" Patton of World War II, is the most famed Marine of all times.

During his 40 years of service (27 at foreign posts) he rose from private to general and fought in 100 combats in the Caribbean, South America, China, the Pacific and Korea.

He won five Navy Crosses and more decorations than any other leatherneck in history. He was wounded several times.

The remarkable story of this remarkable fighting man is told for the first time in "MARINE—The Life of Chesty Puller" by Burke Davis (Little, Brown, $5.95).

THE CIVIL WAR is being waged with renewed vigor in American literary and history circles.

Three recent releases are representative of this situation. They are "LEE'S MAVERICK GENERAL," by Hal Bridges (McGraw-Hill, $7.50) and two Virginia Historical Society works, "A VIRGINIA YANKEE IN THE CIVIL WAR", $7, edited by C. D. Eby Jr., and "FOUR YEARS IN THE CONFEDERATE ARTILLERY," $4, edited by W. H. Runge.

ADVENTURESOME Ann Davison is to sailing what Jacqueline Cochran is to flying. A boatman's-boatwoman, she is the only woman ever to sail the Atlantic single-handed.

In "THE WAKE OF THE GEMINI" (Little, Brown, $4.95) she describes another voyage—6,000 miles through the inland waterways of the United States and Canada. She went alone, in a 17-foot outboard cruiser. Her twin 35-horsepower motors she named Castor and Pollux, and the boat she called Gemini.

FOR SOME, the era of Prohibition will bring stirrings of nostalgia; for others a feeling of shame for a mighty people at their lowest moral point. Andrew Sinclair's "PROHIBITION: THE ERA OF EXCESS", (Little, Brown 7.95) is a veritable encyclopedia of the 1920s, for it leaves no stone unturned in a highly sucessful effort to find out what made this nation tick in one of its gaudiest periods.

VIAN SMITH, British author, has written a new novel, "PRIDE OF THE MOOR," about a boy and a horse in England's wild Dartmoor country (Doubleday, $4.50). Smith is well known in England and Canada for his novels, newspaper stories and articles.

your own home."

Mrs. Addie M. Carl of Columbia, home of the University of Missouri, has been active in the student guest idea. Her suggestion: "When you entertain a guest, don't let him dangle. He'll wonder what he did wrong, if you never call him again. He doesn't expect an invitation every time he talks to you, he just wants to be remembered, to have someone he can call a friend."

IN-TELLING about activities at Columbia, Mrs. Carl says, ". . . the things we have done are very simple, but the students have been appreciative. . . . It has enriched our family with the knowledge of cultures not our own, stimulated us to read and find out more about the countries these fine people come from, and brought us into contact with some bright young people whom we sincerely like."

At a recent meeting of foreign students in a Long Beach home, a young Indian flashed a white-toothed smile at his hosts as he thanked them.

A graduate student in his mid-twenties, the youth was strikingly handsome, intelligent and spoke flawless English. But there was a hint of wistfulness in his voice as he said, "Thank you for an enjoyable evening. I've been going to school here for two years. This the first time I have been invited to an American home."

That telephone call will let you travel half a world when the doorbell rings or you pick up your foreign guest. You, too, can help make a friendlier neighborhood out of our shrinking world—and when your new friend leaves the country, there will be warm spots in two widely separated hearts.

Will This Be the Dodgers' Golden Year?

The cast is nearly the same that suffered from a 10-game losing streak in August of last year and was frustrated by the Coliseum for four years. The biggest difference is the new stage.

In symmetrical Dodger Stadium (330-foot foul lines, 410 in center) Alston will be able to utilize Dodger speed and defense and all but ignore the absence of a power hitter in the class of a Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson or Ken Boyer.

"FIRST OF ALL," says Alston, "the new park will help our pitchers, who had to have some sort of a mental block from that Coliseum screen. They had to pitch there 77 times. The visitors saw it only 11 times a year.

"Our hitters who were unable to take advantage of the screen should prosper, too. You'll be seeing a different outfield alignment. They won't be able to bunch up in center field. They'll have to protect the lines against extra-base hits.

"That's where we should benefit from the speed of Wills, and Willie and Tommy Davis. We'll bunt, we'll steal and we'll hit-and-run."

Statistics of 1961 bear out Alston's optimism. The Davis boys, Fairly, Wills and Daryl Spencer fared far better on foreign soil than in the Coliseum. The figures:

	On Road	At Colisum
T. Davis	.309	.247
W. Davis	.298	.203
Fairly	.331	.315
Spencer	.293	.196
Wills	.304	.259

Podres and Koufax, both 18-game winners and the club's top pitchers, also showed a dislike for the Coliseum.

WHILE ALSTON gave some indication in spring training that he may not platoon as much as in the past, he does have the depth to make frequent changes.

"It won't be so much a matter of lefthanders vs. right and vice-versa. I'll play the boys who have the hot bat," he says.

This decision could not be made in spring training, where averages are misleading. The most frequently employed combination consisted of John Roseboro, c; Fairly, 1b; Gilliam, 2b; Wills, ss; Spencer, 3b; and an outfield of Moon, W. Davis and Howard.

The problem will be to find room for Snider and Tommy Davis and how long to keep Howard in the starting lineup if he fails to hit.

'Iron Liebchen'

Emo's—you know, the tall blonde from Vienna who plays Eva Braun in the picture—and made Maria sit up with her most of the night till she fell asleep with the pistol in her hand."

"So nothing did happen."

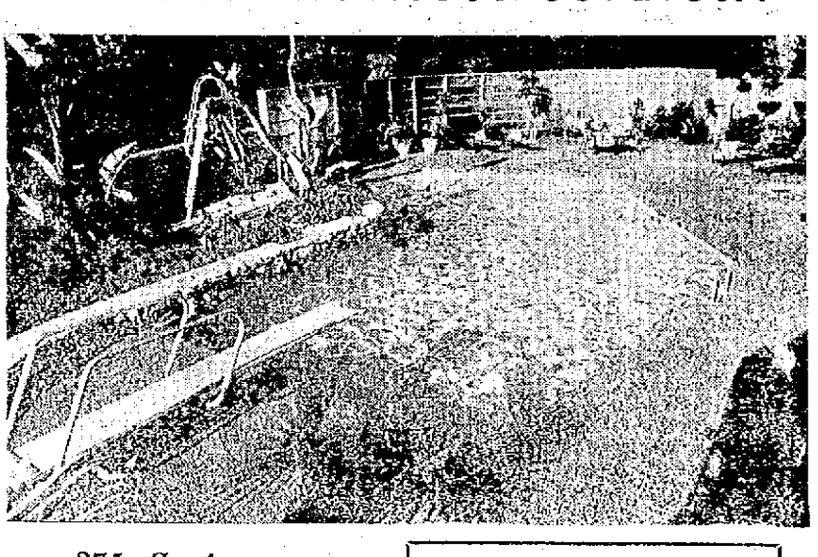

"No, but I'd hate to have been the prowler if it had."

CAST in the Allied Artists film as Geli Raubal, pursued by a smitten Hitler and later found with a bullet in her heart, the "Iron Liebchen" is a dimpled ash-blonde standing 5 feet, 3 inches and weighing just 107 pounds, who began her career at four, playing a pigeon in a stage production of Paul Claudel's "The Book of Christopher Columbus."

She bit Columbus.

Savory Pineapple Shrimp Volcanoes are good luncheon feature for bridge or club event.

Food

Volcanoes Spout Good Eating

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

FOR A REAL luncheon special, you'll find that canned pineapple tidbits blend wonderfully with shrimp for a tempting and unusual flavor. The pineapple is combined with cooked rice, butter and grated cheese, then the mixture is molded to resemble tall volcanoes. A rich golden curried shrimp sauce is cascaded over the pineapple and rice, adding savory goodness. It's good with buttered broccoli or peas and hot blueberry muffins for bridge or women's club luncheons.

Pineapple Shrimp Volcanoes

¼ cup chopped green onion
¼ cup chopped celery
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 (9-ounce) can pineapple tidbits
⅔ cup undiluted evaporated milk
½ cup water
3 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup cooked deveined shrimp
Pineapple Rice Volcanoes.

Cook onion, celery and curry powder in butter until vegetables are soft but not browned. Blend in flour and salt. Slowly stir in syrup drained from pineapple, evaporated milk and water. (Reserve tidbits from rice volcanoes.) Cook and stir until sauce is thickened and smooth. Blend in lemon juice and shrimp. Heat a few minutes longer. Serve over Pineapple Rice Volcanoes. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

PINEAPPLE RICE VOLCANOES: Combine 3 cups hot cooked rice, ½ cup grated cheddar cheese, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine and drained pineapple tidbits. Pack into oiled small molds or pile in mounds to resemble volcanoes. Unmold on hot plates and spoon shrimp sauce over top.

$5 for Your Recipe

BRACIOLA, which translates into "Beef Rolls," wins the $5 Recipe Contest prize this week for Mrs. Florence Shanaberger, 6609 Fairman St., Lakewood. Mrs. Shanaberger's recipe:

Braciola (Beef Rolls)

2 lbs. round steak ½ inch thick, cubed
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 tblsp. Parmesan cheese, grated
2 slices salt pork, cut fine (optional)
1 green pepper, chopped
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper
¼ cup olive oil
1 small onion, chopped
2½ cups tomatoes, sieved
½ tsp. salt
1 bay leaf
¼ tsp. pepper

Lay out steak and wipe with clean damp cloth. Cover steak with mixture of garlic, cheese, green pepper, salt pork, salt and pepper. Roll up steak to enclose mixture and tie securely. Cut into 4 or 5 portions. Heat olive oil in large skillet and cook onion for a few minutes. Add steak rolls and brown on all sides. Combine tomatoes, salt, pepper and bay leaf and slowly add to browned steak. Cover and simmer 1½ hours or until steak is tender. Remove string and bay leaf. Slice and serve. Makes 6 portions.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12.

Taste Treats

The man who grows herbs within easy reach of his kitchen is one who enjoys the better things of life. Like the home vegetable garden, he knows the culinary pleasures which are unattainable to the cook who buys only from the neighborhood grocer.

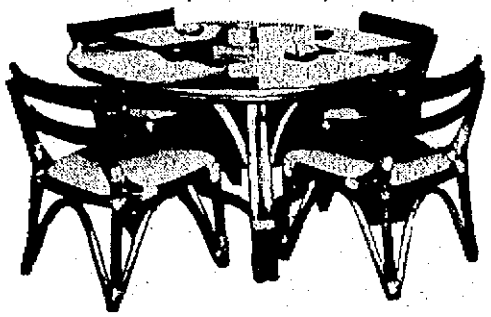

The space required for growing herbs is so small that no garden should be without its share of these wonderful kitchen accessories. Herbs grow beautifully in pots or plant boxes.

For the budding herbal enthusiast, the California Association of Nurserymen suggests six or eight standbys as a start: Parsley, which many consider more a vegetable than herb, chives, thyme, rosemary, basil, sage, marjoram and mint are readily available and always in demand by cooks. As interest expands, try savory, tarragon, caraway, dill and many others, though some of them may be grown only from seed rather than nursery-started plants.

CAMERA ANGLES

New Items Make Photo News

By Irving Desfor

HERE'S A summary of outstanding features of some of the new cameras and accessories seen at the recent photo industry trade show, which soon will reach local camera shops:

FASTEST LENS. Available till now only for scientific and experimental work, a 35mm camera with an f/0.95 lens is being marketed for U. S. camera fans. The phenomenal speed of this seven-element 50mm lens produces special effects when shot wide open since the plane of sharp focus is centered on a single detail such as an eye or a hand. The Bell & Howell/Canon 7 camera has an extra-sensitive exposure meter system and accepts both bayonet and thread-mount accessory lenses.

Magician's art is caught, using stage light, Royal-X pan film and exposure of 1/50th at f5.6. With a new Canon f0.95 lens wide open exposure would be 1/3000th.

LONG RUN 8MM. An 8mm reflex movie camera with the large film capacity and advanced features of a professional 16mm camera . . . that's the Bolex H-8 Rex. It takes 100-foot rolls of 8mm film giving a finished footage of 200 feet. The turret camera accepts three Switar lenses (wide-agle, normal and telephoto) which are equipped with a pre-set diaphragm arrangement not found on any other 8mm camera. It permits focusing with the lens wide open, then stopping down to a pre-set stop without removing the eye from the reflex viewfinder. Extremely accurate close-up focusing is also possible without extension tubes or supplementary lenses.

STILL CAMERA ZOOM. The Nikkorex is the first 35 mm single lens reflex camera with a built in f/3.5 zoom lens. The zoom ranges from 43mm to 86mm and the viewfinder image changes with the focal length.

WAY OUT LENSES. Nikon's Fisheye lens is an f/8 super-wide-angle 8mm lens with a 180 degree view. It has six built-in filters on an internally rotating turret and is supplied with a centering finder. The Nikkor Perspective Control lens is unique. It gives a 35mm camera lens control over verticals and horizontals equivalent to the cameraback movements of a view camera in architectural photography.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"You mentioned that you had taken an apartment in London for a few months. Can you tell us how to arrange something like that? How much does it cost?"

I got my furnished house for three months through Al Wagstaff, a travel agent. Write him at 177 Sloane St., S. W. 1, London. He has a special service geared to Americans on short-time rentals. He'll send you a list, description and cost.

English furnished houses are not like ours—they often don't include linen, silver and blankets. But the ones handled by Wagstaff do. And when you move in, your basic food supplies are there ahead of you.

Cost is anywhere from $36 to $100 a week, depending on size and location. But it's a lot more comfortable and cheaper than hotels.

"We've heard about renting villas in Spain, on the coast."

You could write Wagstaff (above) on this one, too. On long term rentals you do wonderfully in the south of Spain or the Costa Brava—a friend of mine with three children was doing this on $3,000 a year.

In the big summer season on short rentals, the prices on these places go up. It's still pretty expensive though. And you get a lot of maid service for few dollars.

. . ."a place to buy a Swiss watch at reasonable prices in the Caribbean. We are on a cruise."

The free ports are the places. Jamaica, I think, has the best selection. You get it without duty. It will be about half what you pay in the States. You buy it ashore and it is delivered on your ship or plane when you leave.

"How many cigarettes can you take to Europe?"

THE rule varies. Most countries go for two cartons. They are pretty relaxed about this if you don't pile them all in a bundle. Distribute them through the baggage and tell the Customs man: "I brought enough to last me for my PERSONAL use."

Good place to buy them at $1.50 a carton is the duty-free shop at Idlewild. Second rotunda deck in the international arrivals building.

There is one drawback: They deliver them in a bundle on board the plane.

Friend of mine arrived in England the other day with six cartons and British Customs charged duty on ALL of them.

Worthwhile bringing SOME in though. American cigarettes in England are 70 cents a package, 60 cents for English brands.

". . . some good country hotels in England for a driving trip."

This is just what you want: Write Trust Houses, 81 Piccadilly W. 1, London, for a list of their places.

They have 200 old English inn type places all over the British isles.

I've found them colorful, inexpensive ($4 to $10 double with breakfast).

And 50 per cent of their business is with British commercial travelers who should know the best ones. Most of them are full of history. Admiral Nelson used to stay at two of them I used on the Portsmouth road.

"How would you tip on a first-class trans-Atlantic ship (Italian) on an eight-day crossing? There are two of us."

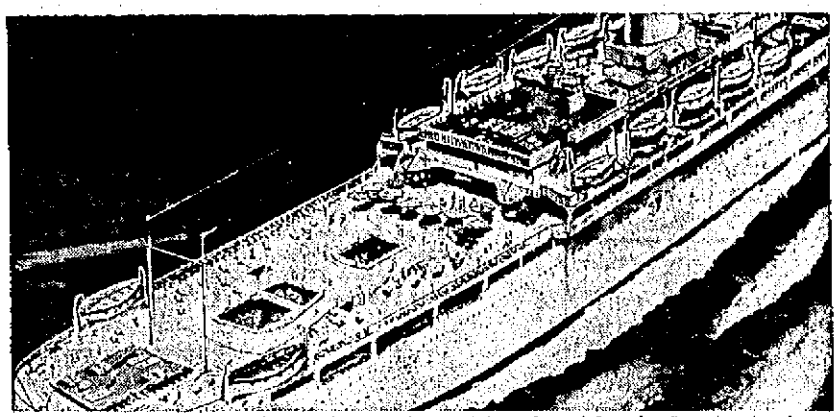

On an Italian ship, I'd tip the room steward $10; the table steward $10; the deck steward $3; the wine steward $5 (if you have wine with every meal); the bar steward $3 and the bellboys about 25 cents for each service.

Introduction to the True Art of Travel

Henry James died 40 years ago but his large dimensions and searching vision, his subtlety and curiosity in his writings give them a quality that will live for generations. For these reasons, and because James found travel one of the primary conditions for existence, his "The Art of Travel" (Doubleday, Garden City, N. Y., $1.45 paperback) at once becomes an exciting experience for those who like to go places — whether in plane, train, bus, ship or armchair.

In this one, James takes you from Avignon to Washington in his roamings over Europe and eastern United States, treating you with his acuteness of observation, integrity of interest and brilliance of detail and expression. In addition, there is a rather lengthy introduction by Morton Dauwen Zabel which alone is easily worth the price of the book to students of travel literature.

Lurline Stars Again

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

"DIAMOND HEAD" is the title of a new movie being made in Hawaii, and one of the stars—of all things!—is Matson's elegant cruise ship, the Lurline.

The famed California-Hawaii liner plays its exotic role in the early part of the picture in which is shown a typical "Boat Day" arrival in Honolulu.

A Columbia picture, "Diamond Head" is based on the novel by Peter Gilman, former Honolulu newspaperman.

Others in the cast besides the Lurline are the star, Charlton Heston, and Yvette Mimieux, George Chakiris, France Nuyen and James Darren.

This is not the first time the Lurline has appeared in a film. She first starred in Cinerama's "South Seas Adventure," which you may have seen at Warner Bros. Hollywood Theater a year or two ago.

TWO HUNDRED Californians will debark from the Cunard liner, Caronia, when the luxury cruise liner arrives at Long Beach next Saturday on the final phase of a 90-day cruise to ports and islands of the South Pacific and Far East.

The Caronia has twice crossed the Pacific during her 32,880-mile cruise which began Jan. 26 at New York. From here, she will proceed to Acapulco, thence to the Canal Zone, and finish the cruise in New York on April 26.

GOLDEN WEST Rail Tours, a Southland group that just loves to gad on trains, plans two junkets which the public is invited to join.

The first is a three-day, weekend, all-expense springtime fun and scenic adventure to Carlsbad Caverns National Park, April 14-16. The second will be a 13-day tour of eight western states, British Columbia, two national parks and the Century 21 Exposition in Seattle, June 29-July 12.

The group can be contacted at P.O. Box 201, Los Angeles 28; or, you can contact your travel agent for details.

THROW "Jamaica" at a North American in a word association test and chances are he'll throw "calypso" back at you (either that or Harry Belafonte, which he thinks is the same thing).

Actually, calypso as we know it originates not from Jamaica but from Trinidad, the bouncy little keystone of the British West Indies that is culturally, politically and economically the most vigorous of the British islands. It is also the most ignored by tourists because of its remoteness and shortage of good hotels.

Like all Negro folk music, calypso's origins are buried deep in the jungles of Africa. It first emerged in the Western Hemisphere as a kind of commentary on world affairs on the part of the slave, in language the master could not understand — a subtle, contrived set of allegories that effectively slipped the needle into the bossman without having him know exactly what it was all about.

IT FOLLOWED naturally that calypso developed into a highly inventive and effective form of topical music. Its subtleties became so developed that to this day even the dirtiest songs can be couched in double-meaning terms that never really spill over into vulgarity on the surface.

Many Americans have the idea that calypso is devised for tourists on the spot. But this is generally a showy night club trick which rarely can be done well. Most of the lyrics are right out of stock. True calypso is thought out and composed with an artistry — sometimes deceptively childlike — worthy of Lerner and Lowe. It can also be devastating.

In the adaptations of Jamaica, where tourism dictates much of the island's economy and culture, not to mention its politics, the racy pace of the music was slowed down in keeping with Jamaica's easier approach. The informal meter and outrageous rhymes, both of which would shock Ogden Nash, were smoothed out. Finally Harry Belafonte and others got hold of calypso, turned it into a juke box fad, and inevitably it watered down and died out.

TODAY, the absurdly costumed bands which haunt hotel patios day and night can usually come up with some of the hilarious classics of calypso, such as "False Children," "Saxophone," "The Bedbug Song," "The Big Bamboo' and other esoteric interpretations of varying shadings. Mostly, however, they stick to "Yellow Bird," "Mary Ann" and other bland Tin Pan Alley-oops.

jet fleet will consume nearly five times the turbine fuel required today.

In flying TWA's 50,000 miles of worldwide routes last year, the SuperJets used more than 324 million gallons of fuel. The company forecasts eight years hence big birds will need about 1½ billion gallons.

This astronomical figure represents enough fuel to send a SuperJet to the moon and back 715 times. In more down-to-earth terms, that's 56,444 times around the world.

On the average cross-country run, the jets consume about four gallons of fuel a mile, flying 10 miles a minute.

He's Tiny, but Fun!

By Eleanor Price

SPECULATION surrounds the origin of the Chihuahua, some asserting he was once a wild dog and others like to say he was a cross between a dog and the prairie dog, which is a rodent. A very popular theory is that he evolved from the Techichi, a dog of the cultured Azetc and Toltec Indians of southern Mexico who believed he guided souls of the deceased on their journey to paradise. Also, since the first Chihuahuas to arrive in the United States in 1850 came from the northern Mexican state of Chihuahua, some fanciers believe this to be the cradle of the breed.

Research into the matter indicates, however, that the dog may not be of Mexican origin and, of course, not a wild dog nor a rodent. It is quite likely that the Chihuahua originated from dogs brought to Mexico from Asia. At the time of arrival he may have had both long and short hair, but there is always the possibility the longcoats appeared from interbreeding with the Mexican Techichi.

THE AZTECS worshipped the dog, but their glorification of him went too far when they destroyed him in their sacrificial burial ceremonies. There were and still are several colors of Chihuahuas, the Aztecs seeming to have preferred the blue for their soul-guides. This could very well account for the rarity of blues today with the resultant demand for them.

When the Mexicans found that Americans sought the little breed, they put a handsome price on the dogs. Some brought their weight in gold. However, Americans wanted only the smaller dogs, so, in spite of their desire to obtain as much wealth as possible, the Mexicans did strive to keep the dogs small. It is said they half starved them to do so and fed them quantities of gin. In any event, many arrivals north of the border had impaired bone development.

Ch. Coqueta Mia (above), owned by Nina Tallboys, is a fine example of Chihuahuas, the world's tiniest dogs.

AMERICAN breeders have, of course, improved the breed until it is a fine sturdy toy even though it is the world's smallest dog. American stock is much sought after and can be found on every continent except Asia and Australia.

The Chihuahua requires only the exercise he gets running around inside the home. In fact, an apartment house suits him fine. He does enjoy obedience work, and quite a few have obedience titles tacked onto their names. Naturally he works better on close-cropped grass and level ground or in an indoor obedience ring.

The little dog thrives on companionship, is eager to please, and is always ready for play. He is courageous, graceful, saucy. He makes a perfect pet for those who want a dog that does not tire them. All he asks in return is some attention and a little protection from severe cold.

ON APRIL 14, the Kerry Blue Terrier Club of Southern California holds its puppy match at Arroyo Seco Park, San Pasqual Area, Pasadena.

APRIL 15 is the date of San Fernando Kennel Club match at Recreation Park, San Fernando.

Its Purpose Is to Bloom

Morea Iridioides has a rugged name but also is a rugged plant, supplying blooms for periods of many months.

By Joe Littlefield

IT'S HUMAN nature to overlook or ignore plants that bloom their hearts out for long periods of time. Instead, we gardeners eat our hearts out trying to make some particular plant grow well and bloom for us. Perhaps its because of challenge that we persist in growing certain plants till we've mastered their culture technique and . . . voila, the plants flower!

If you are considering such a challenge and have the time, that's fine. But if you're like many of us with limited time for gardening, stick to plants that blossom for long periods of time, with minimum care involved.

One such of many plants is Morea Iridioides, an iris-like plant with narrower leaves than bearded iris. Once this plant begins to bloom in the spring, it continues to flower off and on until late November. The white flowers marked yellow and blue, last about a day, the stiff flower stalks continue to develop many flowers over a long period of time.

IT IS unfortunate that gardeners don't realize the landscaping value use of this plant. Such a lack is one of the main reasons why it is fast disappearing from the nursery trade.

Morea may be used in tropical effect landscaping, as an informal hedge along a walk or driveway, a narrow space between walk and wall, tucked here and there in the sunny perennial flower bed, or as an anchor plant in an annual flower bed. It grows in full sun or half sun and half shade. Hardy, too, enduring cold to about 15 degrees above zero. Clumps should be dug up about every four years or so, separated, and young plants reset.

By Dorothy Jonson

If you have an area in your yard that is being overrun with weeds, you might like to get rid of them the easy way, with a weed killer.

Fortunately, there are weed killers on the market now to meet every requirement, some that are selective and some non-selective; some that sterilize the soil and some that do not; some that are contact weed killers and some that act through the roots. Your choice of a weed killer depends entirely on what you want to accomplish.

If you want to kill the top growth but not sterilize the soil, you should use the contact type of weed killer; if you want to sterilize the soil for a longer period of time, another type is needed, of course. But whether you use the newest weed killer or a hoe, the time to start working on weeds is when the tender green sprouts first appear. In a short time they become tough and hardy and more difficult to destroy.

Fragrance Is a Family Affair

Photos by the Author

In the quest for desert scents, the fragrance of the saguaro cactus bloom has eluded perfume-makers.

By Jack B. Kemmerer

ONE WHO can extract exotic new perfume from plant life in the middle of a barren desert and then watch smilingly as the world beats a path to his door to barter for the product must be considered a successful practitioner of the "Better Mouse Trap" theory.

Howard Foncanon of Albuquerque, N. M., is that man and his "Perfumes of the Desert" have become known throughout the world. The perfumes are made by Foncanon and sold in the Perfume of the Desert Shop on the Plaza in Old Albuquerque. In addition to his own shop and 150 retail outlets located over the world, Foncanon does a very large mail order repeat business from tourists who have visited his unique shop.

"We do everything ourselves," says Foncanon. "We" means the family — father, mother, daughter and son-in-law, William Mollenkopf. Originating and developing this unique and completely New Mexico industry, they produce thousands of drams of rare desert scents in a closely guarded laboratory in Albuquerque.

"THE PERFUME business is highly secretive," Foncanon explains. "I never write down a formula. That way it can't be stolen." The formulas are also memorized by Bill, the son-in-law. Bill's small son will also memorize the formulas when he is old enough to enter the business and in this manner the family's most valuable asset is safe from theft.

Many tourists have doubted that these scents could be captured but the exotic and mysterious scents that make up the fragrance of the desert greet them as they enter the plaza shop. The sweet, clean fragrance of the cactus flower; the fresh but different scent of yucca; pungent purple sage with its hint of hot days and cool nights; exciting desert jasmine suggesting the hot sands and wild mesa are but a few of the many desert scents that the Foncanon family have been successful in blending into fine perfumes.

The process by which the desert's aroma could be captured for milady's use had its serious beginning in 1921 when Foncanon was in the insurance business in Cleveland, Ohio. He bet a professional perfumer that he could start from scratch and turn out a completely new fragrance in five years.

"I LOST the bet," he said. "It took me six years." But he did learn that perfume was his major interest and he deserted insurance to devote his entire time to it.

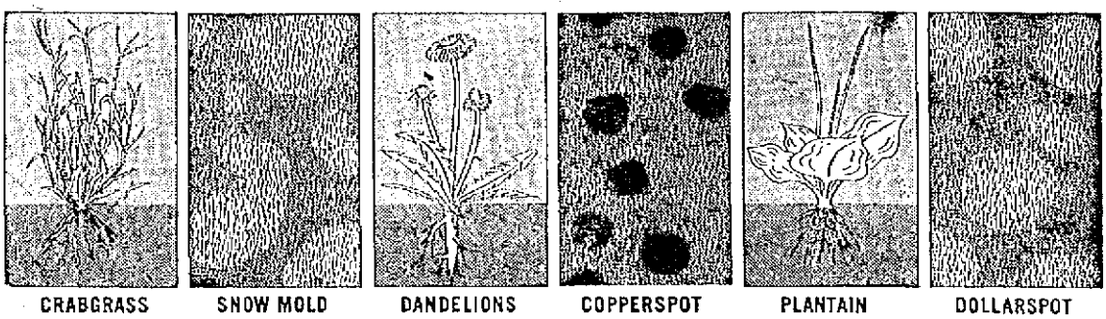

So Foncanon — aided and abetted by his wife, Emma — began the long tedious job of learning the exacting art of the perfume chemist. It wasn't easy, for perfumery is an art and a science with textbooks that are, unfortunately, completely inadequate. The perfumer must be as flexible as an artist and as exact as a scientist, yet there are no teachers or schools to which he can turn for help.

Foncanon learned the only way possible — by trial and error—blending literally thousands of perfumes. He bought the rare expensive floral oils that go into the making of any perfume and in his home laboratory contracted, refined and blended scores of oils into a desired scent. One moment he would look like a modern technician, measuring with the greatest of accuracy at a sensitive scale. A few minutes later he would pick up a small, odorless perfume blotter, carefully put a drop of his blend on the blotter, and smell; first from one nostril, then the other, over and over again. Nevertheless, he was working, perhaps doing nothing for several days but smell the blotter. But always he was seeking something new, a blend that he could say was a "finished" perfume. Most of his efforts ended in complete failure and thousands of dollars worth of worthless blends went down the kitchen sink.

FONCANON refused to give up, and, by 1938, he had mastered the art that predates ancient Egypt. "Most people think making a perfume merely consists of pressing the oil out of flowers and diluting it," Emma Foncanon said. "Actually, nothing could be further from the truth. First a basic scent is chosen; its petals are pressed in specially prepared oil and left there for weeks. The perfume oil is then extracted, refined and mixed with from 20 to 75 or even more other floral oils from all parts of the world."

According to Mollenkopf, the exact delicate training of a prima donna is nothing compared to the development of a new perfume. It is a tedious process requiring extreme patience and skill. Often several years are spent in developing a new scent and then it must withstand an additional one year test

Northrup King "Garden Hose Killers" let you spray all these pests away

CRABGRASS SNOW MOLD DANDELIONS COPPERSPOT PLANTAIN DOLLARSPOT

Now you can destroy crabgrass, cure lawn diseases, knock out broad-leaved weeds as easily as you water your lawn! With Northrup King's powerful Liquid Weed Killers you don't even need to mix and measure; all you need is an inexpensive nozzle-type garden hose sprayer (such as a Fertl-Rain Sprayer). Or you can use a tank-type pressure sprayer.

These fast-acting liquid killers (the same method used by professional lawn-care men) are not only easier to apply than dry preparations . . . they also work despite unexpected showers.

Northrup King Liquid Crabgrass Killer blasts crabgrass (tiny shoots or adult plants) and also prevents lawn diseases—Copperspot, Dollarspot, Brown Patch, Snow Mold.

A single application of NK Liquid Lawn Weed Killer will usually destroy dandelions and plantain. A second application may be necessary to eliminate chickweed and knotweed.

Howard Foncanon, Albuquerque perfume specialist, makes many field trips to seek new scents to add to growing collection. Here he examines flower of a cactus.

for odor retention. If it clicks —a new perfume is born!

"I eat, sleep and dream perfume," Foncanon admits. At present he is working on about 15 new perfumes, each in a different time stage of development. "What to do with each blend never leaves my mind, awake or asleep," Foncanon says. "I often wake up in the night and make a note to try a drop of Mousse De Chene Absolute in blend No. 4 or leave out that drop of Petitgrain Sur Fleurs in blend No. 14."

In addition to perfumes Foncanon and Mollenkopf have succeeded in capturing the tangy odor of the twisted mountain pine—the pinon—for an after-shave lotion for men. In recent months they have also developed complete new lines of pinon, mesquite and purple sage incense.

In line with keeping everything within the family, Foncanon and his son-in-law also design and manufacture all of the containers in which their perfumes are sold. The bottles, made in intriguing shapes, are of plexiglass and lucite with some designs having miniature desert flowers drilled into the container itself.

Garden Club

Colored slides taken in Hawaii will be shown by Mrs. F. L. (Jo) Ibbotson, former district director of the garden clubs of Los Angeles Bay Area, at a meeting of the Long Beach Garden Club, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. The public is invited.

Overplanting Tip

When spring-flowering bulbs like hyacinths and tulips finish blooming, their leaves gradually turn yellow, then brown and finally die.

To camouflage the bulb leaves, overplant seeds of quick-growing, quick-flowering annuals that will be starting to bloom by the time the bulbs have finished flowering and will continue to blossom while the leaves gradually disintegrate.

Annuals that lend themselves to overplanting, by simply scattering the seeds over the area in which the bulbs are planted, are poppies, cornflowers, white sweet alyssum or its deep pink counterpart, variety Rosie O'Day or calliopsis.

The alyssums and calliopsis will continue to flower all summer; the poppies and cornflowers may be pulled out when they cease to bloom.

New Rose Guide Ready

Each year there are increasing numbers of rose varieties introduced to the American buyer. To aid the rose gardeners in selecting the best, the "1962 Guide for Buying Roses" is now available.

The Guide rates more than 450 old and new roses including hybrid teas, floribundas, climbers, grandifloras and miniatures. The individual ratings are an average of observations and reports from more than 5,000 American Rose Society gardeners. A scale of 1 to 10 is used. The perfect, but not obtainable, rose is 10. Roses rated 7.0 to 9.5 are generally best and this year no hybrid tea under 7.0 rating is listed. Other classifications drop lower since few of them are rated as high as the hybrid teas—with the exception, perhaps, of the grandifloras. The first Guide was published in 1950.

For a free copy, write to The American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus 14, Ohio. Another publication, "A Guide for Beginners on Growing Roses," also is available.

JACK AND ROSE
Happy Anniversary

THERE'S a special reason for the twinkle these days in the eyes of Jack Bass and his wife Rose.

They're looking forward to celebrating a double anniversary. This Wednesday they will observe their 13th wedding anniversary and the 7th anniversary of their ownership of the smart, modern Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Belmont Shore.

And because they want their patrons and friends to share in their happiness, Jack and Rose will include an extra treat with their dinners Wednesday. Guests will receive a gift of a bottle (half of a fifth) of Paul Maisson's Emerald Dry Chablis, a new and delicious wine.

Even without the wine a dinner at the Corsican Room is something to remember. Jack does a good share of his own cooking and his charcoal-broiled steaks and prime rib are absolute marvels, including the finest beef money can buy prepared with the loving care of a man who enjoys his work. His prime rib au jus ($3.75 for a one-pound cut) is so tender and flavorful it brings tears of joy to the most hard-hearted of men. His steaks (priced from $4) receive the highest praise from visitors who come from throughout the Los Angeles area and points as far away as San Francisco, Chicago and New York. The dinners include a bowl of superb soup, mixed green salad served on a large dinner plate, baked potato, beverage and dessert. Also featured are pan-fried chicken and sea food items, including gourmet-style filet of sole ($2.75) steamed in a white wine and mushroom sauce.

Closed Mondays, the Corsican Room serves dinners daily and Sunday from 4 p.m. on. Viennese pianist-composer Franz Steininger is featured at the Steinway.

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N. Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. How does Robert McNamara, the present Secretary of Defense, rank in Washington?—J. Bray, Marion, Iowa.

A. Ace-high. In one year on the job, he has made more basic improvements in the nation's military organization than any other Defense Secretary of recent years. Currently, he is determined to improve the nation's reserve forces, most probably by streamlining them.

Q. Can you tell me if Gina Lollobrigida and her husband, who were becoming Canadian citizens a year or so ago, are still living in Toronto?—L. T., Detroit, Mich.

A. No, they've pulled out of Canada, have returned to Rome for good.

Q. Is it true that Bing Crosby is producing a series of 15 record albums to be called "Bing's Hollywood Story"?—David Larrimore, Chicago, Ill.

A. Decca is turning out the series. It will contain 189 songs from 40 Crosby motion pictures.

Q. Will the U.S. Navy permit a Negro to command any of its ships?—V. Bostic, Birmingham, Ala.

A. Negroes have commanded patrol-type boats. The USS Falgout, a destroyer escort, is currently commanded by Lt. Commander Samuel L. Gravely, 39, a Negro.

Q. Who is the authority for the statement that it cost the late Clark Gable $500,000 to divorce his second wife, Ria Franklin Prentiss Lucas Langham of Houston?—Manny Franklin, Miami Beach, Fla.

A. According to Charles Samuels, author of The King, a biography of Gable, the actor asked Carole Lombard, his third wife, after they were married in Kingman, Ariz., if she had any money in her purse. He had just given the preacher $100, claimed it was all the money he had in the world. "What happened to the rest of your loot?" Lombard asked. "I gave it all to Ria," Gable confessed. "More than a half a million." Carole took her husband in her arms. "You silly son of a ---," she cried ecstatically. "To think you paid half a million bucks for me."

Q. I have been told that Tito of Yugoslavia and Nasser of Egypt are close friends. Is this true?—J. G., Washington, D.C.

A. Tito has made a number of trips to Cairo to see Nasser, and the two men appear to get on well with each other.

Q. Can you tell me how much Chubby Checker will earn from the Twist this year?—Donald Richards, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Checker, 20—real name Ernest Evans—will earn approximately $200,000 this year, according to his court-appointed guardian.

Q. Who is considered the leading dress-designer in Paris?—Sandra Bryan, New York, N.Y.

A. Cristobal Balenciaga, an unmarried, publicity-shy Spaniard, is generally considered pre-eminent.

Q. What's happened to Brigitte Bardot's husband, Jacques Charrier?—Lois H., Camden, Ark.

A. Jacques Charrier, 26, was recently recalled to complete his army service but is in a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. He was temporarily discharged from the French army in 1959 after three weeks in a psychiatric ward.

Q. Why do we land our astronauts in the ocean, and why do the Russians land theirs on land?—James Nebel, Washington, D.C.

A. We believe it is safer. The Russians apparently eject their astronauts from their space capsules and let them parachute to earth.

Q. I understand that Danny Thomas could have had a long term contract at MGM years ago if he had agreed to a nose-job. Is this true or publicity?—Mrs. J. Sherman, Springfield, Ohio.

A. True. According to Thomas, he refused to let plastic surgeons alter his nose, thereby lost the contract.

Q. Ingemar Johannson's secretary and traveling companion—a beautiful babe named Birgit Lundgren—haven't she and Ingemar been secretly wed since 1954? —B. Olson, Chicago, Ill.

A. No, they've been friendly since 1954, plan to marry later this year.

Q. Ford is turning out a new small car, the Cardinal, to compete with the Volkswagen. Will it be made in America? When will it come out? How much?—T. R., Lansing, Mich.

A. The Cardinal will be manufactured domestically with a German-imported engine. It will be shown this fall, will probably sell for around $1750.

On Parade

How does President Kennedy spend his week-ends? On page 6, PARADE Washington correspondent Fred Blumenthal gives you a rare portrait of the President working and relaxing in the week-end White House at Glen Ora.

In Blumenthal's account, you'll find answers to such questions as:

How does a man whose job never ends recharge his batteries?

What bedtime stories does the President tell Caroline?

What does the President eat for breakfast? What does he like best about his job?

What explains his phenomenal capacity for work?

How quickly can he contact other government leaders in an emergency?

Poets, be patient! Since announcing its poetry contest, PARADE has been swamped with more than 100,000 entries of all kinds. Judges will announce the winner soon.

Soup'n sandwich meals

Bean with Bacon Soup is a soup to satisfy a good healthy appetite. It's a husky purée of tender pea beans, smoky with the flavor of fine lean bacon. Have it with a hamburger or any sandwich for a good hot meal.

Ready in 4 minutes... wholesome, nourishing, good!

These hearty soups taste so good you'll want them again and again. Each one makes any sandwich a good, hot nourishing meal. Put them on your shopping list. Pick them up next time you market. Serve these 3 sturdy soups with your soup 'n sandwich meals. You'll enjoy them all.

Like all Campbell's Soups, they're hot and ready in just 4 minutes. Ready to make a good sandwich taste better still. Ready to make a simple sandwich a better-balanced meal. Ready to make daily pleasure of the rule: Every time you have a sandwich have some good hot Campbell's Soup.

Have you had your Campbell's Soup today?

(M'm! M'm! Good!)

Beef Noodle Soup is a hearty soup, with tender pieces of fine lean beef in it. The noodles are golden — made with enriched wheat flour, country eggs. Makes a cheese sandwich — or any sandwich — a satisfying meal.

Chicken Gumbo Soup is a Deep South favorite, with chicken, okra, tomatoes, and other green and yellow vegetables in its rich chicken broth. Have it with a meat sandwich — or any sandwich — to enjoy a good hot meal.

Among world's best legs are those of West German women. Group above relaxes at Soviet Memorial, W. Berlin.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BONN. West German women have become the world's most leg-conscious. The average woman here uses 17 pairs of hose per year, buys many of them from street slot machines now almost as numerous as cigarette automats.

TOKYO. To keep their population at an even 94,000,000, the Japanese are going all-out on promoting birth-control information. Abortion has also been legalized in Japan. Average cost for same: $4.

ATHENS. The Greek government privately told Archbishop Jakovos, Primate of all Greece, to resign his position a few weeks ago, or the government would legislate him out of office. Reason for the government's strong stand: Shocking allegations concerning the archbishop's private life. Jakovos resigned and has been replaced by Chrysostomos, former Bishop of Cavala.

NEW YORK. To put housewives in the right psychological mood to buy more goods, supermarkets are currently experimenting with "chemically created sales scent." The idea is to entice customers to particular shelves. The scent comes in various odors--chocolate, banana, fresh bread, tobacco--and is blended to relax and lure the customers. "After all," says one scent manufacturer, "women have been using perfume for years to lure men. Now we're using it to lure them to our merchandise."

bringing up baby®
Hints collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

in answer to your questions
?!!?!!?!
????????

"Is there really a Mrs. Gerber?" asks many a mother. Well, I'm happy to report that I'm a very much alive, proud mother of five and a grandmother, too. And down to the last one of us we think babies are the very nicest things that can happen to people.

Among the nicest things that can happen to babies are pleasant mealtimes. The needed ingredients? A relaxed and smiling mother . . . food with a flair for flavor. Excellent example of exceptionally flavorsome dishes: Gerber Strained and Junior High Meat Dinners. These baby-style casseroles are extra savory because they have 3 times as much meat as other baby food dinners. Add to this extra meat the wonderful goodness of garden vegetables and you have as tasty a main course as ever made a baby love a meal.

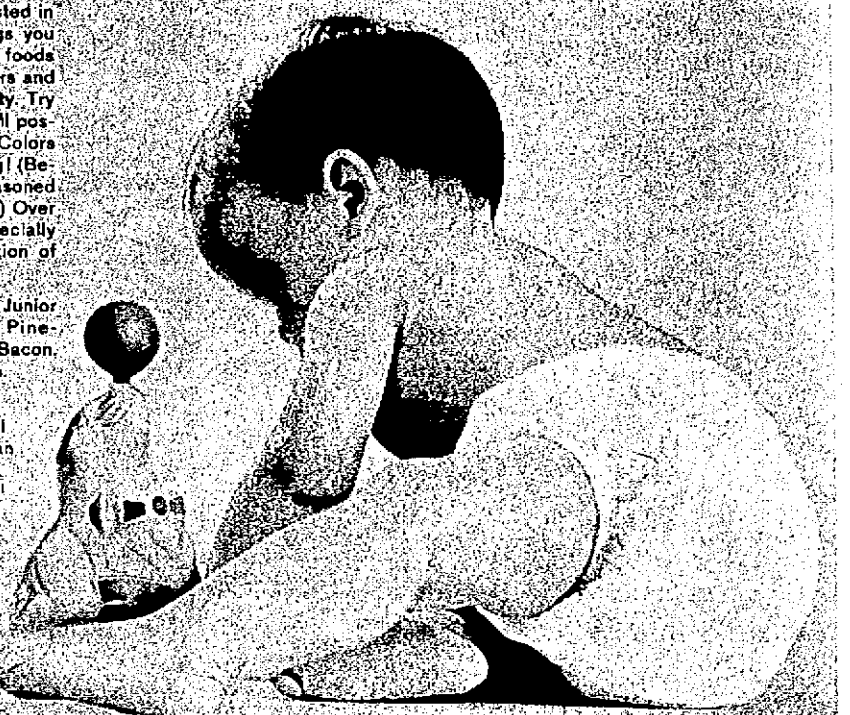

What about toys? Toys play a big part in the life of babies. Aside from the amusement they provide, toys help develop manual dexterity, co-ordination and imagination. Hence, the choice of toys is worthy of consideration.

- Toys should be chosen according to your baby's age and ability to use his hands. Most toys bear age labels to help you decide. And remember, play value counts more than price.
- Because toys are cuddled, loved and chewed they should be washable, free of sharp edges, too large to swallow. (Gerber has a line of safe, tested toys, like the Circus Seal illustrated. Look for them at your favorite toy counter.)

How do you keep a toddler interested in his food? There are several things you can do to spur an appetite. Choose foods with appealing colors. Rotate colors and kinds of food. Offer plentiful variety. Try to serve a favorite at each meal. All possible with Gerber Junior Foods. Colors are ever so appetizing. Flavors sing! (Because Gerber Junior Foods are seasoned with a just-right touch for toddlers.) Over 40 varieties and each one is specially processed for the utmost protection of nutrients.

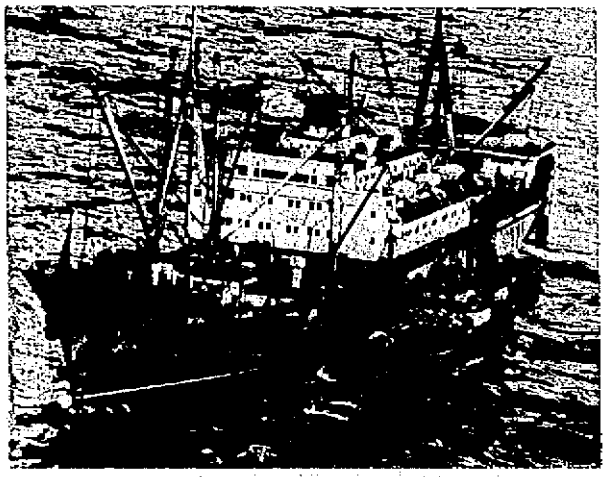

Super supper suggestions: Gerber Junior Creamed Cottage Cheese with Pineapple or Cereal, Egg Yolks and Bacon. Both nourishing and scrumptious.

Basket bulletin. A handle-basket makes an ideal catch-and-carry-all for a toddler's small toys. You can teach him to put his possessions in it and promote good "pick-up" habits. Easy to tote from room to room.

Russian vessels fishing off Cape Cod are among thousands of foreign ships and aircraft under NORAD's watchful eye.

COLORADO SPRINGS. Unknown to most of us, the nation girds for action many times a day. North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) keeps uninterrupted watch on 200,000 planes in our airspace plus satellites in space and ships at sea, even follows aircraft high over Siberia. Daily it spots a handful of "suspicious" planes. Fighters then are sent aloft to identify them, usually learn they are craft whose pilots are lost or whose radios have broken down. On a typical day recently, the NORAD duty officer's report looked like this:

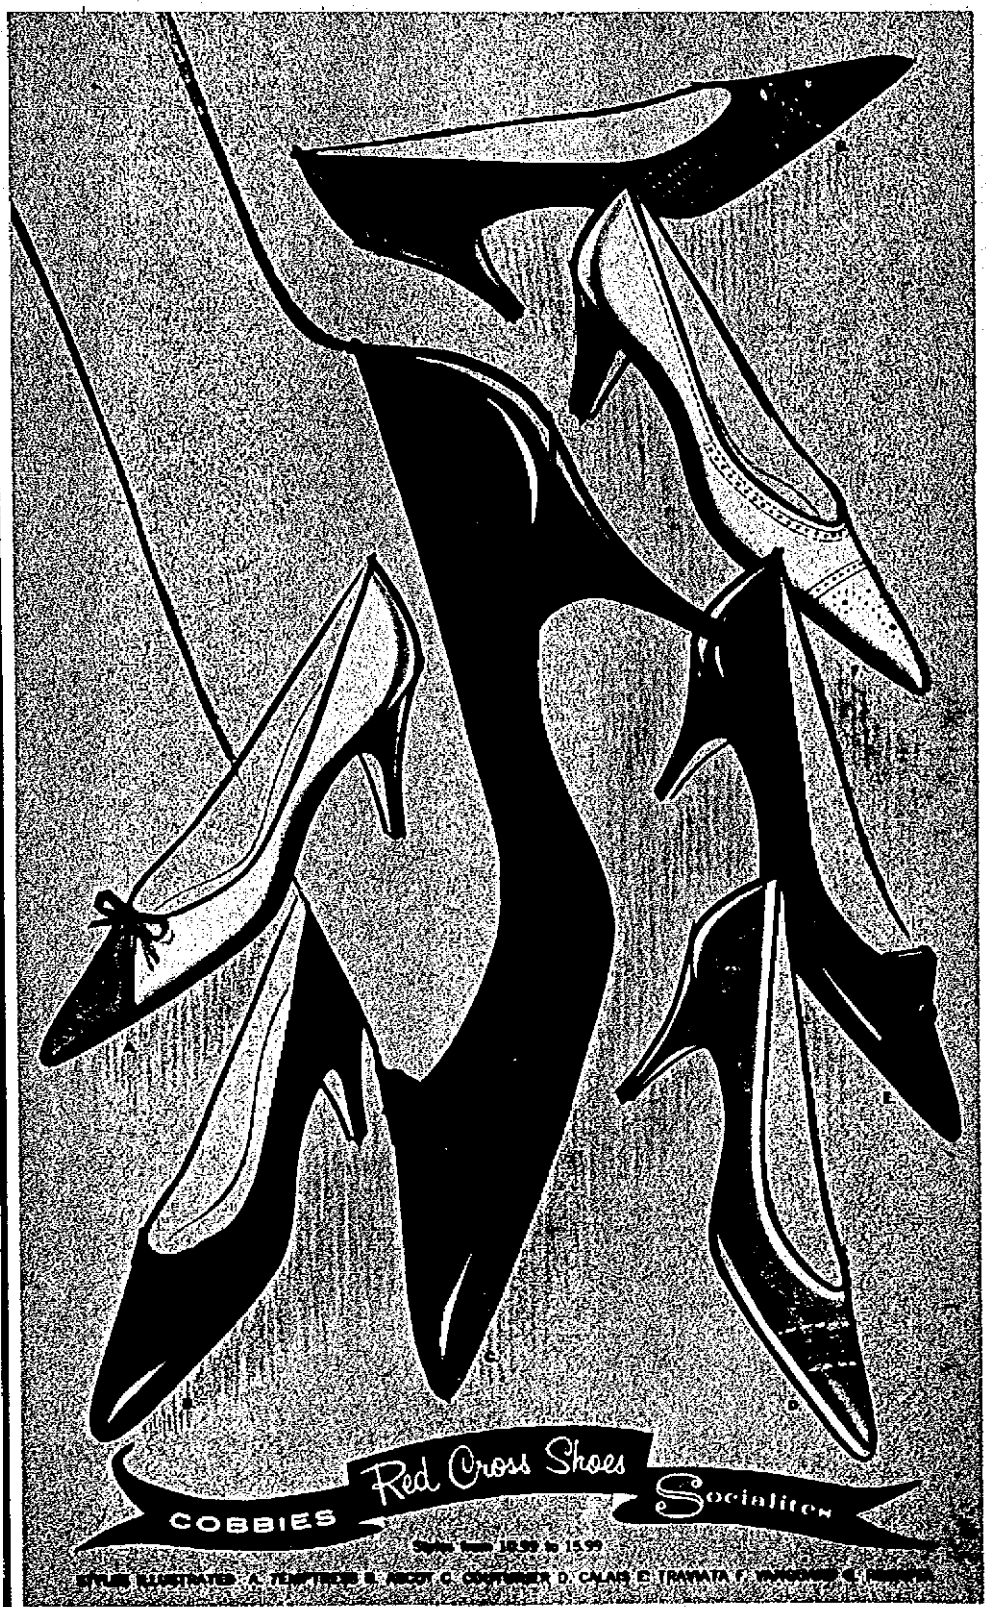

Unknown aircraft tracked	18
Identified without tactical action	8
Total number of scrambles	10
Scrambles recalled prior to intercept	2
Actual interceptions	8
Siberian aircraft tracked	4
Satellites in orbit — US 34 USSR 1
Pieces of junk (burned-out rocket stages) in orbit — US 86 USSR 2
Total — US 120 USSR 3

In season, NORAD also has spotted as many as 88 Soviet fishing trawlers around the Aleutians and North Atlantic. It also watches subs, but keeps the totals classified.

LONDON. President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have a private telephone line from the White House to 10 Downing Street. Because there's a five-hour time difference between London and Washington, President Kennedy rarely phones after 7:00 p.m. which is midnight in London. All conversations over the line are "scrambled" so that they cannot be meaningfully tapped by enemy intelligence agents.

PARIS. Last year's output of champagne, a total of 54,000,000 bottles, was the greatest in French history. As always, Great Britain was the largest importer of French champagne, taking 4,000,000 bottles. The U.S. was the second largest importer, taking 2,500,000 bottles.

Presidential retreat at Glen Ora, near Middleburg, Va.

A WORKING WEEK-END WITH THE PRESIDENT

How he relaxes under pressure — A close-up by Fred Blumenthal

MIDDLEBURG, VA.

WHEN PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY steps out of U.S. Army helicopter No. 1 onto the front lawn of his Glen Ora retreat here, he carries under his arm a highly-polished but well-worn black alligator briefcase.

A quick greeting to his family—who arrived earlier—and the President hurries upstairs to shed his business suit and don a favorite brown tweed sport coat and flannel slacks.

It's Saturday afternoon and the Presidential week-end has begun.

The briefcase and the sport coat are the twin symbols of President Kennedy's week-end—whether it is spent here, at Hyannis Port, Mass., or at Palm Beach, Fla. The briefcase contains the problems of the nation, a burden he can never leave behind even for a moment. The sport coat stands for his "change of pace" which he considers vital to his spirit and health.

How does the President stand up to his pressures? How does a man, at front and center of the world stage, with the spotlight full upon him, still preserve a little of his own personal life? How does he relax and keep both his health and a balanced mental outlook?

What does a week-end do for a President?

To learn the answers to these important questions—answers which may have meaning to all Americans—I recently paid a visit to the First Family on a week-end at Glen Ora.

A rambling, two-story, vintage home of stone and pale yellow stucco, set in 400 wooded acres in the rolling Virginia hunt country, Glen Ora is the most secluded of the Presidential week-end retreats. When you come upon it by helicopter, it seems to sprawl, but inside it is surprisingly small, snug and intimate. There are only three family rooms on the first floor—living room, dining room, kitchen—and the living room is not much larger than the average family's. The President leases the estate out of his own pocket.

Glen Ora is the epitome of privacy, where the First Family can be alone with only relatives and close friends. Not a doctor, not an aide, not even his personal secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, accompanies the President here except by specific request. Newsmen cover arrivals and departures from Glen Ora with binoculars from two miles away. Even Secret Service agents—because there are no crowds, no strangers, and few visitors, all well-known in advance—keep at a comfortable distance.

The President has neither study nor office at Glen Ora. With two Princess-type telephones, a portable dictating machine, and the ubiquitous briefcase, he works in the living room and his bedroom. And he works more than half the waking hours during which other week-ending Americans are relaxing.

I sat with the President in his lime-walled living room and discussed his theory of change of pace. "Is this really relaxing?" the conversation began, for the whole atmosphere was one of action. The marble coffee table was piled with papers brought by his military aide, Maj. Gen. C. V. Clifton (see cover). The week-end reading matter lay nearby. The telephone was at his elbow. Moments before, he had called to leave a message for Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The President grinned.

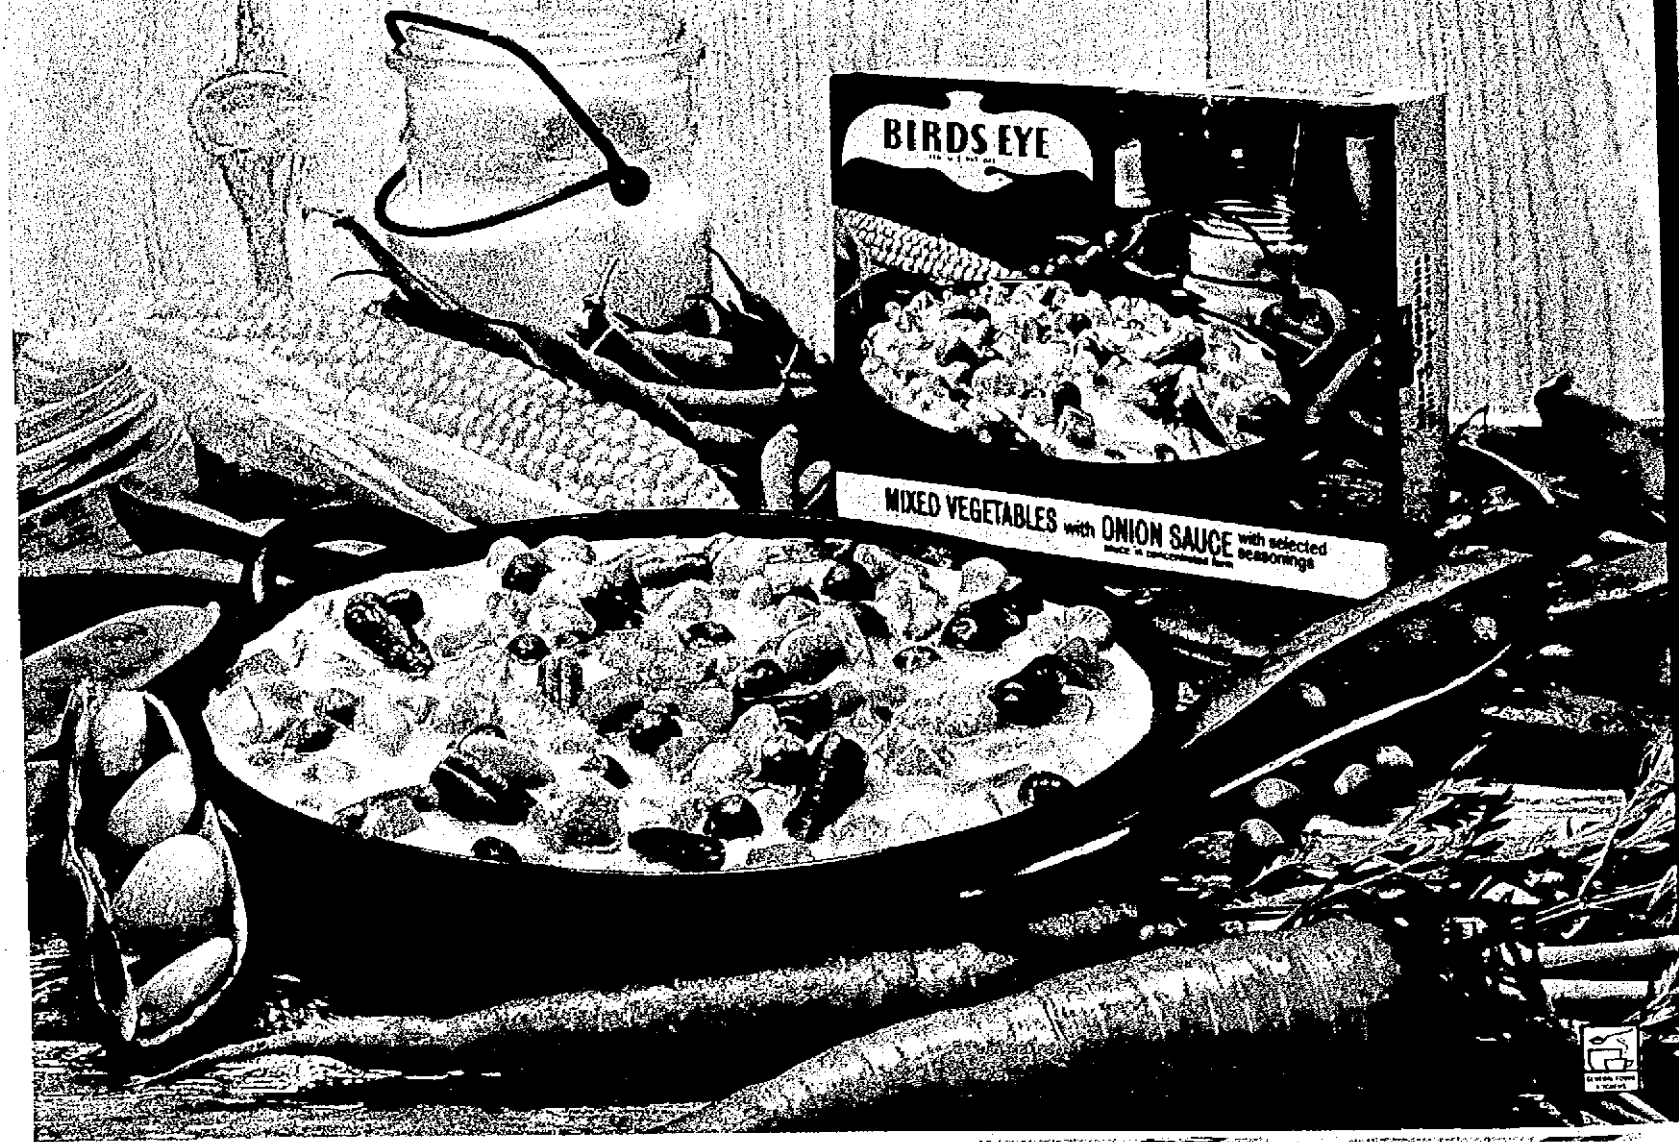

"The day before my inauguration," he said, "President Eisenhower told me, 'You'll find that no easy problems ever come to the President of the United States. If they are easy to solve, somebody else has solved them.' I found that hard to believe, but now I know it is true. If you have a good staff—and I believe I have—I get only the difficult problems. It has taken me a year to understand that fully. To paraphrase the old saying, 'Good news is no news.' So the kind of news a President usually gets is bad.

"But it is important that there is a lot of good news, too, which does not immediately cross the President's desk. One must remember to keep a balance, to maintain a broad perspective and to refuse to be overwhelmed by bad news. President Eisenhower was certainly right."

What duties give the President most pleasure?

What is the President's key to relaxing?

It's the change of pace which he most enjoys on week-ends. The President can't leave the duties of the White House behind him. But in a different setting, with different activities at hand and with events taken at a different pace, his burdens don't seem so heavy as in Washington.

Many Presidents have found the ceremonial functions of the office irksome. But not Mr. Kennedy.

"There is good reason for state ceremonial," he said emphatically. "On the surface, it may appear as tedious pomp and circumstance but I don't look at it that way. It has a great significance for people both at home and abroad. For example, I believe it is important to greet in person not only heads of state, but other visitors from abroad—a group of teachers, let's say. State dinners can be stiff and formal, or they can be gracious and something not to shy away from but to look forward to by both the host and the guests. Mrs. Kennedy and I believe that light-hearted toasts, good humor and interesting entertainment can make state occasions as enjoyable as any other good party."

Stuffing JFK's briefcase are his personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln and special assistant McGeorge Bundy.

He Liked Pinning Medals

What duties give him the most pleasure?

There are many pleasant aspects of the Presidential role. But one which gave him the biggest lift was pinning medals on the astronauts. This was a heart-warming ceremony for a young President. He commented, "Like every other American I'm filled with admiration for these men. I was very proud to act for all Americans in paying them tribute."

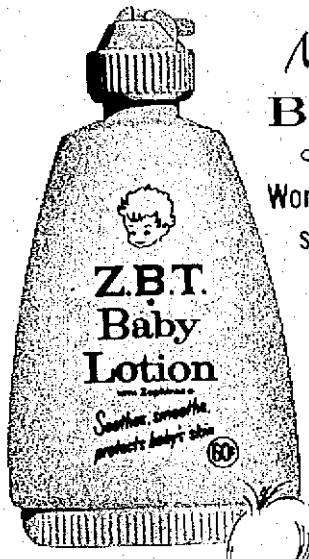

In his change of pace and break of routine at Glen Ora, there is a definite pattern, as there is at the other week-end White Houses. Time is set aside for homework, for church, for games, strolls, sailing or picnicking—even for bedtime stories for Caroline. These are not read but invented by the President as his daughter, in pajamas, sits on his knee.

How does he do it? The President eats well, works hard—and has a secret

A typical bedtime story is woven around Caroline's Welsh terrier Charlie and Caroline's imaginary pet, a big brown bear named Bruin. The President related it to his wide-eyed daughter this way:

"I heard Bruin and Charlie having a chat the other day. Bruin was saying that Charlie must have a soft time living in the White House and Glen Ora, and Charlie was quite angry with Bruin. He said, 'You don't know what you're talking about. I've got a real tough job here. I've acres of ground to patrol. I've got to keep the ducks and the squirrels at the White House in line. I've got to guard Caroline.'"

To Caroline's joy, the President continued the narrative, playing first the part of the dog and then of the bear until it was bedtime.

No matter what the pressure, Caroline and John Jr. never are neglected on a Presidential week-end. Caroline doesn't know exactly what her daddy's job is, but she does know that he is very busy during the week. But on Sunday morning, after an early breakfast, she joins the President in his bedroom. Nibbling a piece of his unbuttered toast, she gives him his first briefing of the day—on her own activities and those of her horse Macaroni, Charlie and Bruin. Both the President and Caroline take this briefing very seriously.

Caroline's Weather Eye

Caroline is something of a weather expert. She likes picnics and boating. If her weather eye tells her boats and picnics are out, then she invariably has some alternate proposal up her sleeve. A typical Caroline suggestion: some of her friends for lunch followed by cartoon movies, with Daddy and Mummy greeting the guests.

Most week-end afternoons at Glen Ora, the President and his wife and daughter go for a short ramble in the woods. They are alone as a family. If work is not too demanding the President, who likes to drive, may go barreling around the estate in a beat-up station wagon. Twice in recent weeks he was stuck in the mud and had to be pulled out by the Secret Service.

For guests at Glen Ora, the rule is every man for himself from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Guests may walk, talk, swim, ride, read, watch TV or take a nap.

For the President, hours from 4 to 7 are a back-to-work period. Between waking at 7 a.m. and church at 11 or noon, he not only will have been immersed in state papers—three-page, single-spaced memos from each cabinet officer, special intelligence reports, and perhaps a letter from a foreign chief of state—but will have digested the meat of at least six newspapers.

He does not stop at the front page. He delves at once into the editorials, chuckles or bristles over the cartoons, keeps abreast of the columnists and sports-writers, and reads the book reviews. He also reads PARADE.

His week-end reading may in addition include texts of speeches by Democrats and Republicans which he wants to read in full, magazine articles which have caught his interest, private letters that have backlogged, and books.

His favorite light reading is the thrillers written by British newsman-author Ian Fleming. The President, who reads all the top-secret real-life dramas of the Central Intelligence Agency, enjoys nothing more than the adventures of Fleming's fictional hero, British agent James Bond. Bond always wins.

The President shaves in his tub "so I don't have to think about it the rest of the day." He makes maximum use of the telephone. There are four lines from the White House to Glen Ora, one always kept free for the President. At a moment's notice he can call any or all the key men involved in national security, including commanders of all U.S. major military commands throughout the world. He has a direct line to several world leaders.

President and Caroline head back to White House. He tells her stories while traveling, later quizzes her for facts.

Early in the day, he makes a quick call to Press Secretary Pierre Salinger; another to personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln. He tries to wrap up his telephoning before church, so that aides and cabinet officers can be at ease with their families. "Everyone needs some freedom on a Sunday afternoon," he says.

He also makes time to watch television. His preference: Sunday afternoon public affairs programs, where he can see how his own team and the Republicans are doing. Recently he made a point of watching his friend conductor Leonard Bernstein presenting a symphony concert in Japan. Both the President and the First Lady love music of all kinds—classical, pop, folk.

Needles for Dinner

At dinner, after he has kissed the children goodnight, the President really relaxes. He loves "talking dinners"—where a small, intimate group can sit around the massive dining table and discuss issues of the day and indulge in gentle ribbing. Sister-in-law Ethel Kennedy, wife of the Attorney General, and a frequent Glen Ora guest, is the "needle" expert in the inner circle.

Among the Kennedys it's always open season on family fashions and foibles from haircuts to waistlines. The President is hard to tease about his waistline. He maintains a constant 174 pounds, which he considers his best working weight. He eats heartily. A typical breakfast consists of fruit juice, cereal with cream, scrambled eggs and bacon, a glass of milk and tea or coffee, and dry toast.

He loves soup—all kinds of soup. Whenever he travels, there's an ample supply. Tea, dry toast and soup are his snacks. He is not an icebox raider.

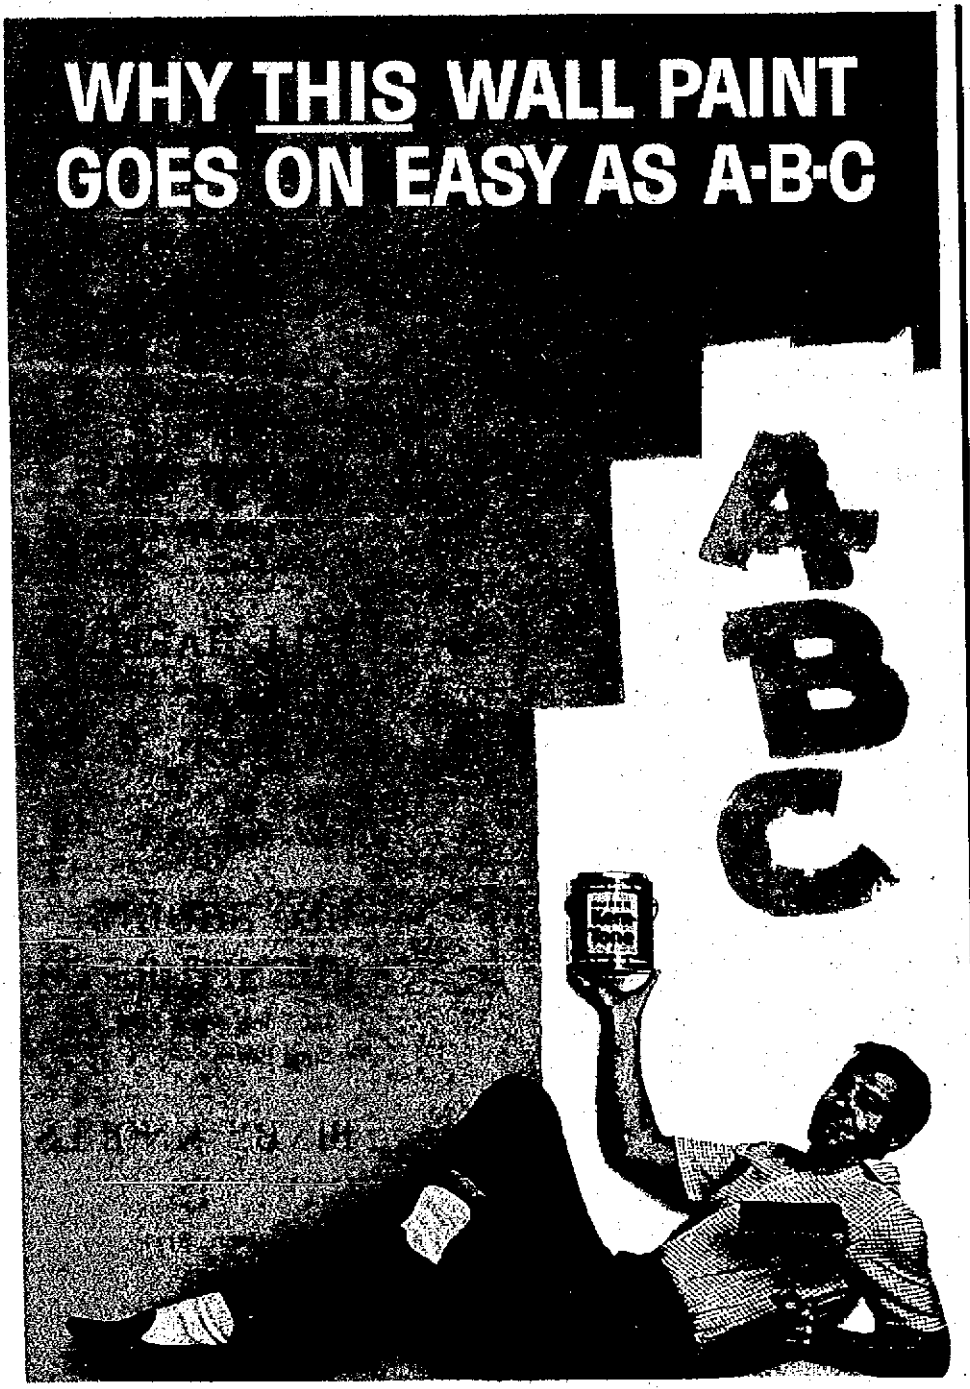

Another source of his phenomenal work capacity is his ability to take a quick half-hour nap to "recharge my batteries." He wakes up alert.

One thing that astonishes everyone close to the President is the amount of reading he can accomplish, not only on White House workdays, but on week-ends and even in a helicopter. He can read—and absorb—more than 1,000 words a minute.

Since this seemed a key to his ability to soak up work, I asked the President how he did it.

"You know," said the President, "no one ever asked me that before. The answer is simple. When I was in Congress, I took a $100 course in speed reading at a school in Baltimore. It's the best money I ever spent." ■

MY FAVORITE JOKES by MARK RUSSELL

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mark Russell, born in Buffalo, N.Y., 30 years ago, started out in show business by playing the piano at Polish weddings, some of which lasted for days. In 1953, after a year at the University of Miami where he majored in citrus fruit, Russell joined the Marines and was sent to Japan. "I was a latter-day Marine," he explains. "Peace broke out right before I went in." Following his military service, Russell decided to become a comic and took his first jobs around Washington, D.C., where he now lives with his wife and two-year-old daughter. He leans to politics in his comedy and usually introduces himself as "the official representative of Democrats for Goldwater." He has appeared in many of the nation's major supper clubs where he gives out with jokes like these:

Some of these new book titles amuse me. There's one called I Prayed Myself Thin . . . I'm going to write a sequel entitled, I Blasphemed Myself Fat. After that I'm going to concentrate on one which I know will outsell every best-seller in the world —Lady Chatterley's Tropic of Cancer.

Last year I played at the Inaugural Ball, you know. Originally there were supposed to be three balls that night; because so many people wanted to entertain, this number mushroomed to seven, eight, nine. By the time they got finished there was a total of 31 Inaugural Balls for President Kennedy. I played at the ball held in the Trailways Bus Terminal . . . But the really big ball, of course, was the one where President and Mrs. Kennedy appeared, the official National Barn Dance . . . The big band struck up "Yankee Doodle." Then Vice President Lyndon Johnson walked in, and the band played "Deep in the Heart of Texas." And when finally Frank Sinatra walked in, they played "Hail to the Chief."

You've heard about all the new and wonderful toys they have for children these days. For example, they have an exact replica of a United States Embassy. You wind it up and it gets stoned.

Sign outside a psychiatrist's office. NO WAITING . . . TWO COUCHES.

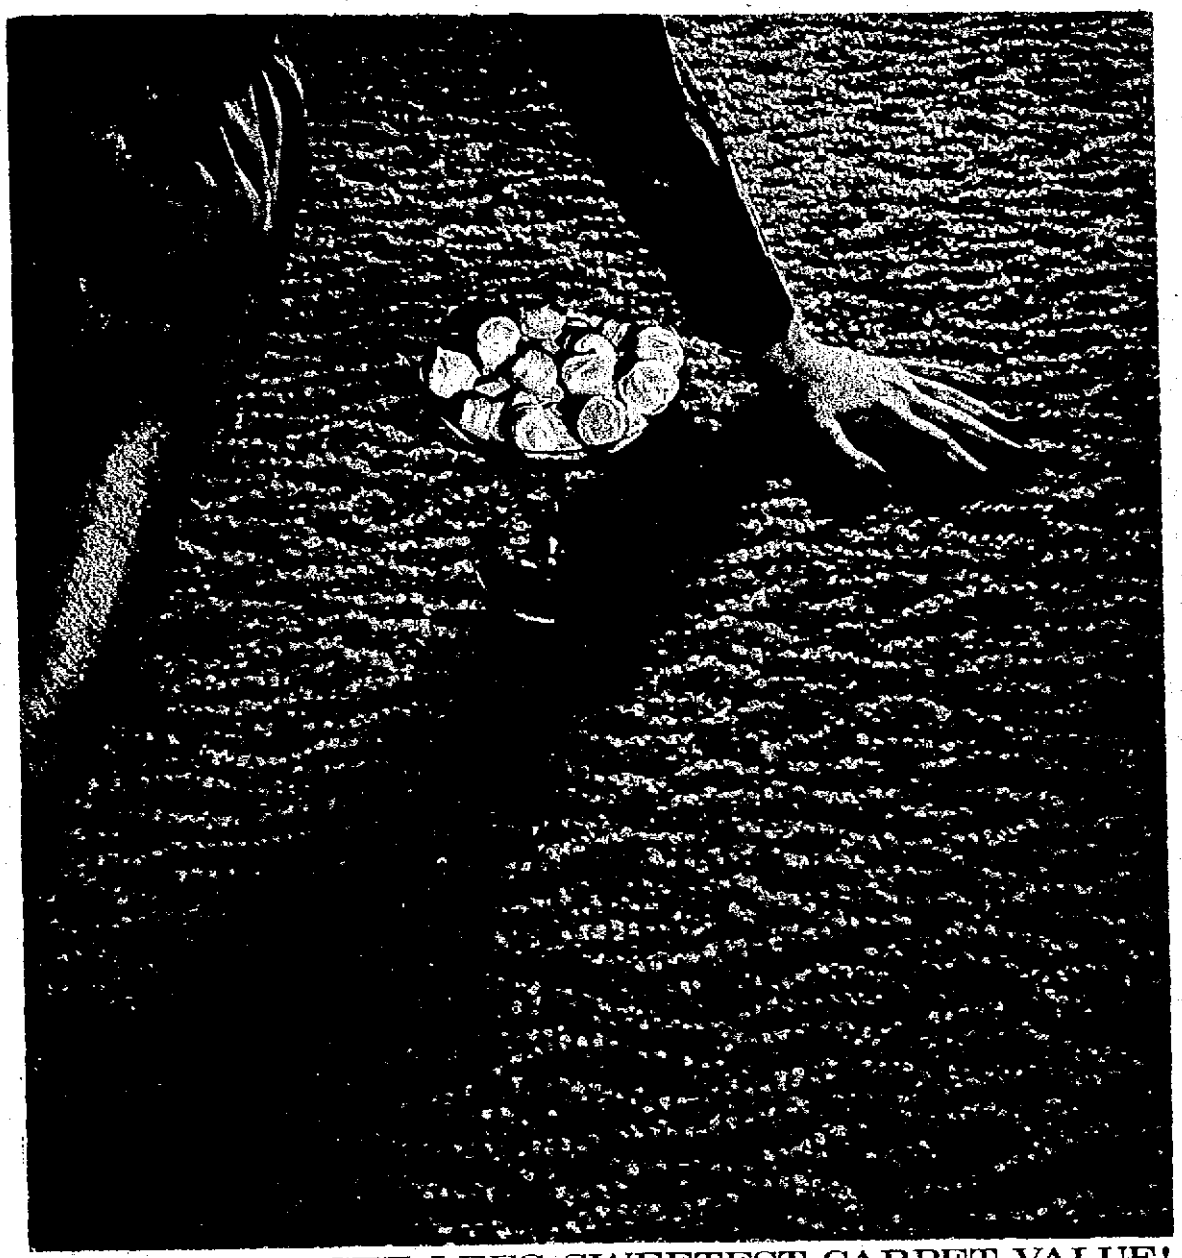

This happened in a church. A young pastor came running out one afternoon, dashed into the rectory. He was flushed with excitement. To the veteran pastor in charge, he said, "You won't believe this. I know you won't believe this, but the Good Lord is sitting in our very church right now."

The old pastor smiled tolerantly. "You've been working too hard," he said. "You need a rest."

The young assistant pressed on. "No, sir, it's true. Come see for yourself." So the two men walked into the church and sure enough, there was the Good Lord sitting in the front pew.

The young fellow turned to the pastor and said, "What'll we do?"

Said the pastor softly, "Look busy, man. Look busy."

Christine is shown in Hollywood with her mother, who supervises her career, chooses her film roles.

First big role for Christine was in Town Without Pity.

Christine Kaufmann

At 17, she's been killed many times

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

IN HER FIRST MAJOR FILM, Town Without Pity, Christine Kaufmann, 17, a beautifully formed young German version of Elizabeth Taylor, was criminally assaulted by four American soldiers.

In her second picture, The Last Days of Pompeii, she died in the volcanic ash of Mt. Vesuvius.

In her third big picture, which she recently finished here with Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner, a story of the Cossacks of the Ukraine, Taras Bulba, adapted from a novel by the Russian writer Gogol, Christine is burned at the stake à la Joan of Arc.

"I guess," she says with an air of resignation, "that people just like to see me suffer. On the screen I cry nicely. Mama says I reach people's hearts easily because I have such an innocent girlish face. When I am ravished by soldiers, or murdered or drowned or burned alive, the audience is also outraged. They feel for me.

"But the truth is I am a happy person. I am all the time laughing. And I only wish someone would give me a part in which I could play myself, a girl in love with life and love."

Christine was offered the title role of the nymphet in Lolita, but her mother, a clever French doctor who no longer practices medicine, turned it down for her.

"Christine," she explains, "is one of those young girls who suddenly blossom out with enormous sex appeal—a combination of girl-woman like Brigitte Bardot or Elizabeth Taylor. With such a girl one must be extremely careful, because she can lose her individuality and become regarded only as a sexy body without a brain.

"That's why my husband—he's a major in the German Air Force—is not so thrilled about Christine's motion picture career. He wants her to develop into a normal woman, marry some hard-working man and settle down. He doesn't want his daughter to become an international sex symbol like Marilyn Monroe or Bardot. That's why I'm so careful about her roles."

Christine Kaufmann—now 5 feet 3, 108 pounds, measurements: 36-23-34—was born in Graz, Austria, on January 11, 1945. As a youngster she was a lovely, blue-eyed, copper-haired child, so photogenic in fact that she was signed for films at the age of 7 by the first producer who saw her in Munich, Germany, where she was raised. Since then she has played in 27 different films, learning four foreign languages in the process: English, Italian, French, and Spanish.

American Test

She entered American motion pictures when Otto Preminger tested her for Exodus. Although she didn't get the part, the test brought her to the attention of director Gottfried Reinhardt. He signed her for Town Without Pity in which she plays the pivotal role of a lovely German girl who is attacked by four American GIs, then faces Kirk Douglas, their defense attorney, in a court martial.

Critics acclaimed her performance so widely that almost overnight she was in demand by Hollywood.

Her mama, who cooks a mean onion soup, says the major problem now is to keep Christine from being spoiled by the Hollywood sharpies.

"To the producers," Frau Kaufmann says, "my Chris is a figure of dollars and cents with a 36-inch bust. To me she is a delightful, sensitive girl entering the world of womanhood and men. It is a time for both of us to be careful—especially here in California." ■

Rare beauty of Christine is apparent in this scene from forthcoming Taras Bulba in which she dies at the stake.

For Easter–choose ham or lamb

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

In this country, ham is the traditional meat for the Easter feast, while in many other parts of the world lamb is favored. So we give you recipes for both. The ham is encased in a cloak of flaky pastry, gaily decorated; the lamb steaks have a flavorful lemon glaze. Take your choice. Save the other recipe to give the family a treat on another special occasion.

PHOTOS BY GOMMI

HAM IN PASTRY CASE

1 canned boneless ham (5 lbs.)
1 cup halved maraschino cherries, divided
1½ cups maraschino cherry juice
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup dry vermouth or dry white wine
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Mace Pastry
Red and green maraschino cherries for garnish

Draw outline of top surface of ham can on paper, for use in Mace Pastry, given below. Remove ham from can; score top surface. Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Cover entire top with ¾ cup of halved maraschino cherries. Make glaze by combining cherry juice, lemon juice, vermouth and honey; blend in cornstarch. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Reserve 1 cup glaze. Pour some of remaining glaze over ham. Bake ham in moderate oven, 350°, 30 minutes, brushing frequently with remaining glaze. Cool. Fit Mace Pastry over top and sides of cooled ham. Seal; flute edges. Bake in very hot oven, 475°, 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 450°; bake 10 minutes longer, or until pastry is done. Decorate top of pastry with red maraschino cherries cut to resemble flowers and green ones cut to resemble leaves and stems. Heat reserved glaze to serving temperature; stir in remaining ¼ cup halved maraschino cherries. Serve with ham.

Mace Pastry: Sift together 1½ cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mace and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cut in ½ cup shortening to texture of coarse meal. Sprinkle with 3 tablespoons ice water; stir until pastry forms. Shape ⅓ pastry into ball; roll out to ⅛-inch thickness; cut to match the paper pattern (above). Shape remaining ⅔ pastry into ball; roll out to ⅛-inch thickness; cut to fit sides of ham.

LEMON-GLAZED LAMB STEAKS

1 leg of lamb, cut into steaks
¾ cup honey
1 tablespoon Kitchen Bouquet
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon curry powder
Few grains salt
¼ teaspoon mint extract

Tell your meat-dealer how many lamb steaks you will need; he will select the leg of lamb accordingly. You can use the shank meat and bones as the basis for a rich soup or stew for another meal. Blend honey and Kitchen Bouquet. Add brown sugar, lemon juice, mustard, curry and salt. Cook and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves and ingredients are well-blended. Cool slightly; stir in mint extract. Arrange lamb steaks on rack in large open roasting pan; brush generously with glaze. Roast in moderate oven, 350°, 1 hour or to desired degree of doneness, basting several times with glaze. Gravy can be made with pan drippings, if desired.

Let's not pamper the disabled, says Illinois' Tim Nugent, who produces

MIRACLES on

Disabled but not handicapped, Donna Weisinger, 23, practices archery with others at University of Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

ONE DAY THIS SEMESTER, a University of Illinois student in a wheelchair was whizzing across the campus when he dropped a book. Leaning over to pick it up, he lost his balance and fell heavily into the grass, scattering books and papers around him.

Yet, despite his disability, no one rushed to his aid. One passerby called out, "Are you hurt?". The disabled student shook his head. A few students threaded their way around his wheelchair. The others only watched as he gathered up his papers, climbed laboriously back into the chair, and set off again.

To some people, the incident might have seemed callous. Yet to a square-jawed, outspoken physical therapist named Timothy Joseph Nugent, it was a moment to be proud of. Nugent is the founder and director of a remarkable institution here called the Student Rehabilitation Center — the nation's first large-scale attempt to help the severely disabled get a higher education. And the Center is built on the revolutionary idea that the way to help the disabled is to treat them just like anybody else.

Bigger Doors and Higher Tables

The daily life of Donna Weisinger, depicted in these photos, illustrates how this philosophy is carried out. Despite her wheelchair, Donna can go almost anywhere and do anything that an able-bodied coed can.

On most campuses, she would have to contend with narrow Gothic doorways and steep marble steps. But here classroom buildings and dormitories have been completely streamlined for the benefit of the disabled. Wheelchair students enjoy ramps, ground-level entrances, wider doors, higher tables, reserved elevators, special parking lots, buses with hydraulic lifts and even low-level telephones.

The Center also provides physical therapy, medical care, and guidance. Counselors and therapists aid disabled students with their personal problems, assist with their studies, and even advise on their romances.

Since most other colleges discourage severely disabled students from attending, Illinois has attracted them in great numbers. The current student body includes 188 quadriplegics, paraplegics, paralytic polio victims, cerebral palsy sufferers, multiple amputees, arthritics and blind persons.

Just the Beginning

This is only the beginning of the revolutionary program for the disabled here. More important is the way the Center teaches them a whole new concept of life. At its heart is Nugent's belief that much of what has been done for the disabled in the past was wrong.

"Too many are pampered, coddled and petted," Nugent says. "Those who stay home are waited on and fussed over until they become selfish and soft. Many who enter institutions learn to expect service and solicitude until they get worse instead of better. What they really need is to be challenged. They have to be put into situations where they must call upon their abilities, not hide behind their disabilities."

To carry out this philosophy, Nugent sends his students through a steady procession of obstacles. He begins by insisting that they all become "functional." In a ten-day crash program at the start of the school year, he teaches those who previously have been dependent to dress themselves, get in and out of bed, wash, toilet, and wheel a chair.

How this works was explained by Sharon Hovey, 21, who is paralyzed in the legs, back and trunk, cannot use her fingers. The night she arrived, Nugent assigned her to a dormitory room alone. Unknown to her, she was being supervised 24 hours a day.

"I thought he was the cruelest man I had ever known," Sharon recalls. "Why, anyone could see that I couldn't do things for myself. But he left me there for ten nights in a row. At the end of that time I was furious—but I was functional. Why, I had even taught myself to write—so I could send home letters telling them how mean I was being treated."

Nugent also insists that his students take meaningful subjects. He detests handicraft programs for the disabled—"basket-weaving and watch-making and all that artsy-craftsy stuff." He makes them study hard and shun special favors.

On the other hand, Nugent wants students to be realistic about their limitations. "How the hell are you going to do surveying from a wheelchair?" he asked a boy who wanted to study civil engineering. "Try aeronautical—you can handle that." He also discourages the disabled from social work ("too many tenement stairs to climb") and elementary teaching ("very few schools are equipped for chairs").

Most "rehabs" will take this mailed-fist treatment because they know Nugent is one of them. He was disabled with a severe heart condition until he was 11, when it was corrected surgically. One of his sisters was blind, his father nearly blind and deaf. "My interest," he smiles, "is more than academic."

Since 1948, 216 severely disabled students have been graduated, including 23 who have received master's degrees and eight who have received doctorates. Among them have been a physician, a minister, a number of architects, professors, and scientists.

These successes have stimulated a federal program to set up rehabilitation centers on other campuses on a regional basis. Nugent has been widely acclaimed for his pioneering work, both in the U.S. and abroad.

Meanwhile, admittance to the university here is in great demand. More than 400 disabled persons (most of them financed by state vocational rehabilitation grants) apply annually. Nugent screens the applications carefully, concentrating on the most severe cases and investigating the individuals for the right spirit.

Nugent's Entrance Exam

Recently, an applicant showed up in a wheelchair pushed by a hired attendant. "We don't allow servants," Nugent declared brusquely. "If you want to go to school here, you've got to be on your own. Go push yourself up that ramp over there, and if you make it, you're in."

The boy, who never had propelled his own chair before, went at it bravely while Nugent and the attendant stood by. He sweated and labored and pushed, and Nugent encouraged him but made no move to help. After three hours, the exhausted boy finally hauled the chair to the top. Nugent rushed to his side, a grin across his broad face.

"Admitted," he shouted joyfully, as he waved the attendant away. "You're the kind of fellow we want here. The people who come to Illinois have got to be willing to help themselves." —ED KIESTER

How weekend gardeners beat the bugs and win the blooms

When new leaves unfold, tender growth is most susceptible to aphids, other insects that suck life from the plant. Powdery mildew and black spot begin. Just mix Isotox and Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide in the Ortho Spray-Ette and you can spray danger away.

When buds appear, aphids build up again, mites menace, many hard-to-control diseases incubate. Don't wait; give a quick spray with the Ortho combination that controls many garden insects and diseases: Isotox Garden Spray and Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide.

When flowers are in bloom and the weather turns warm, plant diseases can ruin a whole spring's work. Protect blooms now with a thorough spraying. Easiest is the combination spray that does two jobs at once: Isotox and the new Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide.

Key to easy weekend gardening: the Ortho Spray-Ette attached to your garden hose. Water pressure does the work. Takes only minutes to spray your entire garden. (It's so simple, you may want to spray more often, especially if there's an unexpected attack of bugs or blight.)

One combination spray controls both garden insects and disease!

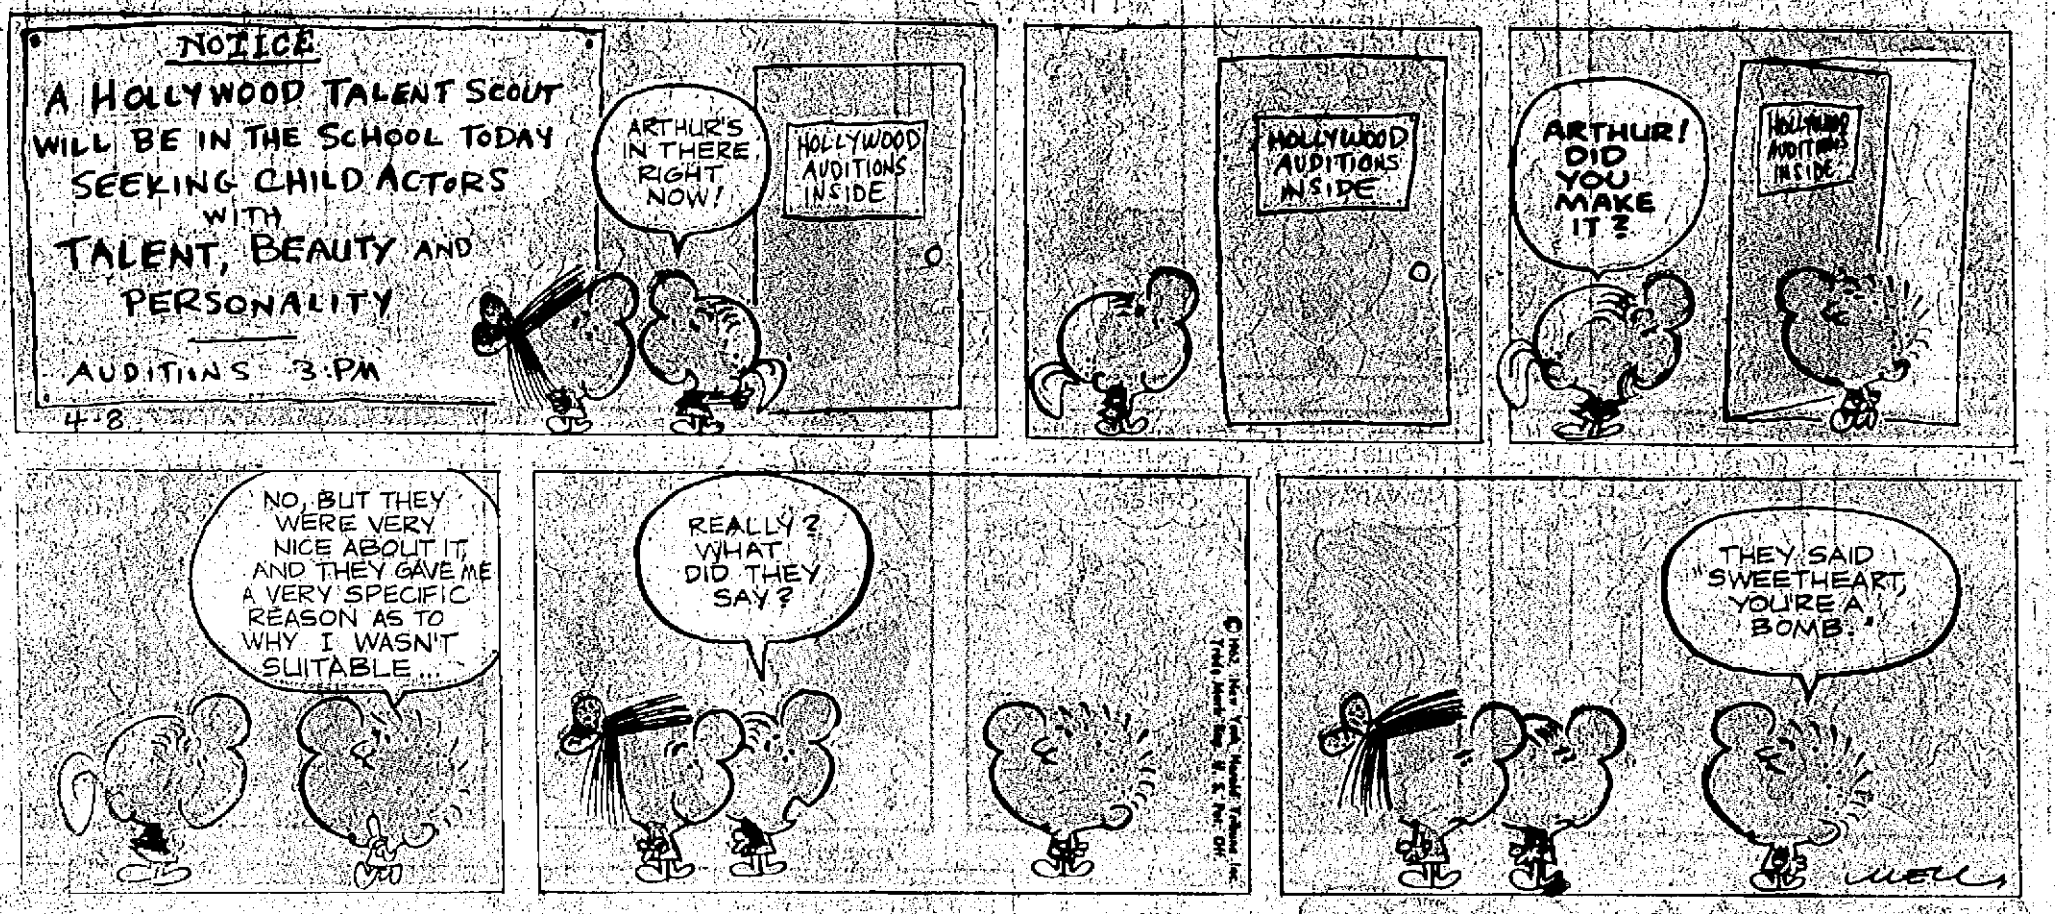

Unbeatable combination! Isotox Garden Spray controls over 250 different insects including aphids, red spider mites, Japanese beetles, thrips. Isotox combines four different insecticides—Malathion, Ddt, Lindane and Tedion. The new super fungicide, Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide, controls black spot, mildew and rust on roses, leaf spot on chrysanthemums and diseases on other ornamentals. Using both, weekend gardeners can beat the bugs and win the beautiful blooms!

SALT INTRUSION ENDANGERS CITY'S WELLS

Seal Beach Fears Rationing in Water Crisis

Imminence of a possibly disastrous water shortage in Seal Beach was revealed Saturday by Mayor Norma Gibbs.

Engineers have told city officials that salt water intrusion—which has already wiped out one of the city's three wells—could render the other two, and a fourth emergency well now being drilled, worthless.

That would leave the city with no water supply.

Jittery officials have placed a $750,000 bond issue on the ballot for approval in Tuesday's municipal election. "If the bond issue doesn't pass," Mayor Gibbs said, "the city may be in for water rationing."

Money raised by the bonds would provide a link to Metropolitan Water District lines and a two-million-gallon reservoir.

In the past, Seal Beach has relied on Long Beach for emergency water supplies. But, Mayor Gibbs said, increased water needs in Long Beach have forced that city to terminate the agreement effective this June.

That would leave Seal Beach with no emergency supply should the wells fail.

Southern California's 12-year-old drought has lowered water tables below the critical point and has caused creation of Water Replinishment Districts in an effort to pump Colorado River water into the underground to prevent intrusion of salt water along strata normally filled with fresh water.

Wells right along the coast, however, have not been saved by the replenishment program and in several coastal areas the water wells have been ruined by salt water flowing into them.

"We have been informed that salt water intrusion into our wells is right at hand," Mayor Gibbs said. "It could happen tomorrow or next year. The engineers can't pinpoint the exact time."

The bond issues requires a two-thirds majority to pass and that is what admittedly worries city officials. The entire city council, the Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups have endorsed the bond issue.

If the issue is approved, Mayor Gibbs said, the pipeline hookup would be hoped for in a year. Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Westminster are expected to join with Seal Beach in extending the link to the MWD line.

Mayor Gibbs described the installation of the pipeline as "a race against time."

"The bond issue simply must pass this time if we are to avoid serious trouble," she said.

Water rationing, she said, could be in varying degrees. At its easiest—if not all the wells are eliminated—it could mean simple restrictions on the watering of lawns and garden plants.

Should the shortage become more acute, she said, it could mean a prohibition on the use of automatic washers, dishwashers, showers and other major water outlets in the homes.

Rebel Camel Arrives

ROBERTA E. LEE PEERS QUEASILY AT LONG BEACH HARBOR

By ED KENYON

Roberta E. Lee — six feet from hoofs to hump — was getting her land legs again today after a three-week sea voyage en route from Victoria, Australia, to Victoria, Texas.

Roberta, a two-year-old camel, is the gift of the Lord Mayor of Melbourne, Victoria, to the school children of Victoria, Texas.

She'll be the central figure of a Civil War Centennial celebration in the Texas city.

In case the connection of a camel with the Civil War seems remote, the Texans have an explanation.

It seems that Gen. Robert E. Lee (you see the connection?) made use of camels imported from Egypt before the Civil War as supply carriers in some of the warmer areas of the country during the War Between the States.

James T. Carter, publisher of the Victoria Advocate, arranged for the shipment of the camel to this country. Costs already are more than $10,000.

Roberta was shipped by air from Melbourne to Brisbane, where she and her enclosed pen were loaded aboard the freighter SS Sonoma.

The Sonoma and Roberta both arrived Saturday morning at the Matson Terminal in Wilmington.

Roberta never lost her appetite for alfalfa during the ocean trip, according to Henry Porteous, one of the seamen who served as

McNamara Blasts Ike's B70 Effort

Program Called 'Worst Managed' by Defense Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was represented Saturday as feeling the B70 supersonic bomber program under the Eisenhower administration was "one of the worst managed programs he ever saw."

That opinion was relayed to a House appropriations subcommittee by Dr. Harold Brown, research director for the department. Brown's testimony, given last month, was made public Saturday.

• • • •

BROWN SAID that before McNamara took over there was considerable waste in the program, on which about $1 billion has been spent so far. Brown was asked by the committee why the cost was so high.

"Part of the problem is poor management of the program," he said. "The secretary of defense, a much better management expert than I, said it was one of the worst managed programs he ever saw until last March (1961) when he reoriented it."

The project has been renamed the RS70, under a reconnaissance-strike concept which will require new radar and other equipment.

McNamara resisted pressure from chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., and the House Armed Services Committee to speed up work on the new version. But he promised a new study of its feasibility and of the wisdom of spending extra money authorized by the House and approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee for the project.

County Will Begin Renovating Work at Hospital July 1

Remodeling of the old Seaside Hospital to convert it into a 325-bed chronic-illness facility is expected to begin July 1.

Neil McLaughlin, hospital administrator, said final plans for a $354,000 renovation project are slated to go to the Board of Supervisors for approval within a few weeks.

If plans are approved on schedule, contractors should be able to start work by July 1, McLaughlin said.

The hospital, now known as Long Beach El Cerrito Hospital, has been vacant since Seaside reopened as Memorial Hospital of Long Beach at a new location in June 1960. When it reopens, it will operate under the County Department of Charities.

McLaughlin said the new target date for initial occupancy of the hospital is May 1, 1963.

Contractors will need nine months to complete renovation, he said.

"We'll open the hospital gradually, opening up new wards every few weeks," McLaughlin said.

• • • •

AT LEAST 200 patients will be transferred to El Cerrito from Rancho Los Amigos, the administrator said. Rancho is planning to close down the temporary wards in which these patients now are housed.

To make ready for contractors, county workmen have been removing obsolete equipment and unused utilities from the hospital building at 1401 Chestnut Ave. the past few months.

Also, the exterior of the building has been repainted. The new color is pink.

JFK Calls for Inquiry on Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law Saturday in an effort to end a three-week maritime strike that has caused growing shortages of food and other necessities in Hawaii.

The President stepped in after two days of intensive mediation efforts by a three-man government panel had failed to forge a settlement.

Kennedy signed an executive order creating a board of inquiry to examine the dispute. When the board reports, Kennedy may request Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to seek an injunction, requiring an 80-day cooling-off period.

• • • •

IN HIS executive order the President said the strike is affecting a substantial part of the maritime industry and that if it is permitted to continue the national health and safety will be imperiled.

Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii had made several appeals to the White House for direct intervention. He has declared a food emergency in his island state.

This was the second time since taking office that Kennedy had used Taft-Hartley machinery. Last July an injunction was obtained under the law halting an East Coast maritime strike.

GOP Youth Row Boils Up Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bitter controversy between Nixon and Shell supporters split the California Young Republican College Federation's annual meeting Saturday.

A conservative group of students backing Assemblyman Joseph Shell threatened to leave the convention and hold its own meeting.

• • • •

THE TWO groups, whose melee Friday night brought police out, bickered again Saturday but maintained order.

Shell backers contended the federation's liberal wing supporting former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, had packed the credentials committee and refused to recognize pro-Shell delegates.

Miss Merrily Lamont, 18, of Cal Poly at Pomona, ejected from the meeting Friday night, again was refused recognition Saturday and escorted from the credentials committee meeting.

Plane Falls; 31 on Board

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—A Colombian air force plane with 31 persons aboard has crashed in mountains on a flight from a remote penal colony, it was announced Saturday. All aboard were feared dead.

Wreckage of the American-built C-47 plane was sighted near the El Nevado peak. There were no signs of life, officials said.

The plane had been missing since Friday, when it left the Araracura penal colony in the jungles of southeastern Colombia for a flight to Bogota.

Gusty Wind Hits

An unexpected burst of strong, gusty winds swept much of the Los Angeles area Saturday night, toppling trees, kicking up dust and shattering windows.

2 Fliers Killed at Fullerton

FULLERTON (CNS) — A flying instructor and a young student were killed Saturday in a fiery crash of their light plane about 45 minutes after they took off from Fullerton Airport.

Fullerton police said the two-seat Piper Colt crashed and burst into flames behind the Hughes Aircraft Co. plant near Gilbert and Malvern Avenues.

One victim was identified as Robert J. Borger, 26, of 6172 Bellgrave Ave., Garden Grove. The other tentatively was identified as Paul Edward La Plant, 19, of 11401 Gardenaire Lane, Garden Grove.

Bomber Trip Like Real Thing for the L.B. Air Force Unit

By SHERM WILLIAMS

The terse chalked message on the command post blackboard in Long Beach's 8646 Recovery Group command post told the story:

"One B47E expected inbound, dest. L.B.M.A., ETA, 12:30 local. Condition of aircraft and crew unknown. Aircraft slight contamination."

To the men in the Recovery Group, an Air Force Reserve Unit, it was the next thing to war. For the men in the B47 — a silver flash in the sky—the landing in Long Beach during Saturday's lunch hour was a key to survival.

The logic is frighteningly simple:

If the United States and Russia go to war, each nation will try to kill the other as rapidly as possible. Each nation will hurl its arsenal of ballistic missiles and manned

FIREMEN RUSH TO 'DECONTAMINATE' AIR FORCE B47 AT LONG BEACH AIRPORT

L.A.C. Says:

Nixon's Error

Democratic opponents—Republican opponent Joe Shell and Alger Hiss—are all pleased over an error in Nixon's book, "Six Crises." The error was the statement that the FBI had the typewriter which convicted Hiss. Actually, the testimony by the FBI in the 1948 trial was that it had been established that letters written by Mrs. Hiss were typed on the same typewriter as were some of the secret State Department documents which had been turned over to a Communist agent by Hiss.

The error in Nixon's book had nothing to do with the testimony that convicted Hiss. It was an error to say the typewriter was in the hands of the FBI when the evidence was based on comparisons of letters and documents typed on the same typewriter. The correction is being made in the next edition of the book. But we doubt this error in detail justifies the clamour it has caused. Attorney General Robert Kennedy has the past week stated a review of all the evidence fails to support Hiss in his claim of innocence.

If this is the only serious error his opponents can find in the 460-page book, it is quite a record for accuracy. It covers 14 years of the widest public experiences of any man in public life today. It is natural many people disagree with many of Nixon's actions. The Hiss case is one that does great credit to Nixon. But it also brought him implacable enemies who will never forget the part he took in that case.

Esquire magazine tells how Nixon isolated himself for nine days at Apple Valley where he dictated the entire book. It was then turned over to a research team to check it for errors. It was an example of concentration few professional writers could match. It gives a view of government and some of the great crises of the past 14 years which are historical, as well as informative. It is becoming one of the best sellers, if not the best seller, in the nation.

It might be rewarding if the background of his opponents were as frankly told to the nation. But few of them have ever had the experiences to make an interesting book. Also, many of them could not afford to bare their thoughts and experiences to the whole nation.

The attacks on Nixon have been severe throughout his political career. But a man who has taken so vital a part in government must expect such attacks. The remarkable fact is that with all the evidence that has been brought to bear on his career he received only a fraction of a per cent less votes than did his opponent in 1960—and carried his own state, which has a 60 per cent Democratic registration.

So many of the attacks have been made without evidence damaging to Nixon—it is probable the large majority of the people have tired of reading them. Every experienced politician knows there is a point where extremism starts working to the benefit of the person attacked. There is good reason to believe Nixon has reached that point. His opponents will need much more conclusive evidence of his weakness or unfitness for office if they are to accomplish their purposes of eliminating him as a public figure. The attacks on the Hiss case have brought about some strange bedfellows.—L.A.C.

Radioactivity Imperils Four at Hanford

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Four men were hospitalized Saturday after a sudden release of radioactivity in the processing of water-like waste material at the nearby Hanford Atomic Works.

The hospital said the men ate hearty dinners and showed no adverse reaction.

H. W. Lindberg, a personnel officer for General Electric Co., said they probably would be held for observation at least over the weekend.

Milt Cydell, information chief for the Atomic Energy Commission at Hanford, said the men's condition was "nothing to be worried about."

General Electric operates the plant as a contractor for the AEC.

Lindberg described what happened as a "criticality incident." He said this means an overconcentration of fissionable material, resulting in a sudden excessive release of radioactivity.

THE BURST of radioactivity occurred in a facility which was processing aqueous waste from the production of plutonium. The critical mass of fissionable material was confined to one tank.

About 20 men were evacuated as a precautionary measure from the plutonium metallurgical building, in which the accident occurred. There apparently was no damage to equipment.

The hospitalized men were identified as Harold Aardel, F. R. Lohedinck, J. R. Williamson and Glenn Thoenness, all of Richland.

BUT HOW DID THEY GET THERE?

Jail Has Problem: Minnows on Roof

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Jackson police couldn't explain Saturday how the police station's flat top roof became a home for scores of minnows—some three inches long.

Two inches of rain fell on the city Thursday night and police found the minnows swimming on their rooftop the next day.

Detectives said they didn't know how the minnows got on top the three-story building. Jailer Walter Miller said he was certain no one had been on the roof to put them there.

Bill Turcotte of the State Game and Fish Commission offered a theory.

He noticed that a drainpipe runs from the roof to a sewer. Possibly the pipe became flooded during the heavy rain and the minnows swam up it from the sewer, he said.

"I just don't believe it," Miller said. "That's three stories high."

Berlin Tension Ease Aids Policy Planning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some slight easing of tension over Berlin encouraged U.S. officials Saturday in plans for further probing of Soviet policy on the future of the Berlin dispute.

Top policy makers are extremely guarded in their hope of finding ways to improve U.S. — Soviet relations — because no step taken by the Soviets so far has involved any real concessions or any pledge as to the future.

INDEED, not only are Washington authorities baffled about what course the Communists will follow but there is some belief here that the comrades themselves may not be sure.

This uncertainty has produced a feeling among some well-informed officials that U.S.-Soviet relations may well be destined for dramatic developments in the next few weeks.

President Kennedy surveyed the Berlin situation in a meeting with policy advisers at the White House Saturday. The group reportedly included Ambassador Llewellwn Thompson, Soviet affairs expert Charles E. Bohlen, and McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's staff assistant on foreign policy matters.

'Drum Out' Probe Set by Marines

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The bone-chilling ceremony of "drumming out" disgraced Marines from the corps, revived by a Norfolk commander, has been ordered halted by the Marine Corps commandant.

The commandant, Gen. David M. Shoup, Saturday said he had ordered an inspector general's investigation of the circumstances.

"The local commander neither asked for nor was given authorization for the ceremony," Gen. Shoup said.

The local commander is Col. William C. Capehart, 47-year-old Norfolk native.

A MARINE drummed out of the service officially already has received a bad conduct discharge.

But he is marched by armed guard before a formation of troops to the accompaniment of the "death march"—a slow roll of military drums. His bad conduct discharge orders are read aloud. Then an officer of the guard commands: "Escort this man from the confines of this United States Navy reservation."

The ex-Marine is marched down the line of troops and as he reaches each unit, the commander orders "about face" and the passing Marine is presented with a row of unyielding backs.

This grim ceremony has been conducted at the Marine barracks here at least seven times since Col. Capehart took command in August 1960.

Lakewood Holds Election Tuesday

A light vote is forecast for Lakewood's councilmanic election Tuesday when voters will choose two of eight candidates for four-year terms.

The terms of Councilmen Angelo M. Iacoboni and Gene Nebeker are expiring. Both seek re-election.

Also seeking election to the Council are six challengers, two women and four men. They are Margaret (Meg) deCannis, Nora Mae Guthrie, Charles E. Haynes, Salvatore Occhipinti, David Stricker Jr. and Robert T. Tully.

No other issues are to be decided at the election.

BOTH IACOBONI and Nebeker were elected to the council in 1954 when the city was incorporated. They won re-election in 1958.

The other three members of the council—also elected originally in 1954 and re-elected two years ago—are Mayor George Nye Jr., Vice Mayor William Burns and Councilman Robert Baker.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday in 126 precincts. The city has 29,575 eligible voters.

A LIGHT turnout is predicted by City Clerk Jo Bennitt in view of the record of past elections and a comparison of campaign tempos.

Election returns will be tabulated Tuesday night as precinct reports filter into City Hall.

Artery Slashed by Lawn Edger

An Anaheim man was in critical condition Saturday night in Garden Park Hospital, Anaheim, after being struck in the neck by the flying blade of a home-made lawn edger he was operating.

Hospital officials said Harry Eugene Billyard, 35, of 1903 W. Cris St., suffered a severed artery. He was given more than 15 pints of blood, they reported.

6 L.A. Area Marines Hurt in Explosion

CAMP PENDLETON (CNS) —Six Los Angeles area Marine reservists were injured, one seriously, when a 105mm howitzer misfired and exploded at Camp Pendleton late Saturday.

Marine Corps officials said the reservists, members of the 8th 105mm Howitzer Battalion of Los Angeles, were engaged in gunnery training near the Camp Las Pulgas section of the base when their weapon misfired and shattered into hundreds of pieces.

Pfc. H. R. Nunez, 24, El Monte, suffered a perforated ear drum in the mishap.

• • • •

HE WAS admitted to the Camp Las Pulgas dispensary.

The others were released following treatment at the dispensary.

They were identfied by the Marine Corps only as Lance Cpl. D. L. Woodbury, 23, and Pfcs. J. B. Soper, 22; R. M. Sakoda, 24; P. W. Hughes, 21, and D. J. Gomez, 23.

Officials said a piece of shrapnel was hurled into Woodbury's shoulder. Doctors, however, managed to remove it without surgery.

• • • •

THE OTHERS suffered mild concussions. Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Officials said an investigation was underway to determine whether the malfunction was caused by an error on the part of the crew or by a deficiency in the gun.

The reservists were spending the weekend at Camp Pendleton for gunnery training.

BURTON AND WIFE
Actor Richard Burton and wife, Sybil, leave Paris hotel Saturday night for dinner date at Maxim's. Both were affable and smiling as they departed in auto.

Burton Flies to Wife; Liz Stays in Rome

PARIS (AP) — Richard Burton had a dinner date at Maxim's in Paris with his wife, Sybil, Saturday night while Elizabeth Taylor spent a quiet evening at her villa in Rome.

Affable and smiling, Burton flew in from Rome to do some scenes today for "The Longest Day," a film based on the D-Day landings. The meeting with his wife was in flat contradiction of a statement by a member of his Rome entourage that such a get-together was impossible.

Mrs. Burton has been staying in England while her husband and Miss Taylor have been making "Cleopatra" in Rome.

Miss Taylor announced Tuesday that she intends to divorce singer Eddie Fisher. She has been seeing a lot of Burton and they night-clubbed together in Rome until the early hours Saturday morning.

Arriving in Paris, Burton said "there is no question of Elizabeth Taylor meeting me" here. He then hurried off from Orly Airport to meet his wife.

A table for three was reserved at Maxim's by Darryl Zanuck, producer of "The Longest Day." Burton appears before the cameras Sunday as a RAF pilot and then plans to fly back to Rome.

Chicago Last U.S. Stop in Goulart Visit

CHICAGO (AP) — President Joao Goulart of Brazil arrived in Chicago Saturday night, the final stop of his informal visit to the United States.

President Kennedy's four-jet Air Force transport plane carrying President Goulart and his party touched down at O'Hara International Airport an hour after taking off from the Strategic Air Command headquarters near Omaha.

A priavte dinner this evening, and a visit to Holy Name Cathedral and a suburban polo field today were the only activities scheduled during the President's stop-over in Chicago. He will leave for Mexico City Monday.

Big French Yes Vote on Algeria Seen

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP) — Centuries of colonial history will be written off today as French voters approve Gen. Charles de Gaulle's accords with the Algerian Nationalists.

The accords provide for Algeria's independence this year. France will furnish large-scale economic aid in return for guarantees to Algeria's European minority plus an equal share of Sahara oil.

President De Gaulle, riding a new crest of public confidence and popularity, has asked for a massive "yes" vote to confirm the agreements.

• • • •

THE ONLY question is what the percentage will be. It may run as much as 80-90 per cent. The average Frenchman seems not much concerned at how the accords will work out. He is not expected to strike a heroic pose at the ballotbox as he turns his back on 130 years, covering Algerian colonization and that area's later incorporation into the French state. He'll be in too much of a hurry to get to the movies or to go for a drive in the country.

Waiting impatiently in line at the polls, he may have time for a sigh of relief at—so he feels—the final settlement of a long and anguishing problem.

De Gaulle's firm hand, he feels, has clamped the lid on activity of the secret organization in France itself. There are still occasional plastic bombings, but far fewer than several months ago. If the word "plastiquer" has joined the French vocabulary it is used these days mostly as a joke.

IN ALGERIA, the deadly earnest leaders of the secret army who oppose letting the Arabs and Berbers have Algeria may cast themselves as shining knights of France. In France itself the average citizen is simply glad for the prospect of peace and glad to get rid of Algeria.

He and his family now are thinking of an Easter outing, and making plans for their summer vacation. Le Figaro carries more than a page of travel advertisements, vaunting the rival claims of Italy, Portugal, Bavaria and Greece.

"In Corsica, it never rains in summer," boasts one.

• • • •

EVERY DAY there is a long line waiting to see the U.S. movie "West Side Story," a hit here. Other crowds are flocking to see the French film, "Le Bateau D'Emile," or Rock Hudson and Doris Day in "Un Pyjama Pour Deux," French title for "Lover Come Back."

The annual "Theater Des Nations" has opened what promises to be a successful season. Betsy Blair is co-starring with Daniel Gelin in a French play, and music-lovers are looking forward to two concerts by the Vienna Philharmonic.

At least two score dimly lit night clubs are jammed every night with well-dressed couples doing the twist to stereo music. This rage has spread to the provinces. Every sizable town has a "Palais De Twist."

• • • •

THE SUNDAY traffic jams are proverbial, and one newspaper complains that France is 40 years behind Germany in roads. Some people feel that with Algeria out of the way, the government will find money for roads, housing, schools and parks.

This being a weekend in the spring, the Autoroute De L'Quest which leads to Deauville or Chartres will be bumper-to-bumper while the referendum votes are being tallied. The major police headache will not be plastic bombs, but how to control traffic and keep the accident toll down.

Boring Burglars Loot Jewelry Shop

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Burglars bored a large hole through the wall of a jewelry shop Saturday and escaped with $7,000 in expensive watches and rings, police reported.

Officers said the burglars broke into an adjacent cleaners and bored into the Ann Sorrell jewelry shop.

'Rebel' Camel Lands Here for Texas Civil War Show

her caretaker during the trip.

"She's actually very gentle and easy to get along with," said Porteous, who apparently had better success than Civil War soldiers. They declared that camels were the most stubborn animals in existence.

Roberta's pen was swung from the ship to dockside, where Dr. W. J. Connelly, supervising veterinarian for the U.S. Agriculture Department's Animal Inspection and Quarantine Division, was waiting.

Dr. Connelly gave the 700-pound animal a check and then arranged setting up a larger pen and corral in the dock area for the camel's 30-day quarantine.

Hans K. Flanders, vice president of Arthur J. Fritz and Co., agents for the shipment, said the Texas publisher will come to Wilmington with a trailer to take Roberta to Victoria. Roberta will make several personal appearances along the way.

Keeping Roberta in quarantine will boost the cost of getting the camel to Texas by another $500. W. F. "Frenchy" Grant, an employe of the Jungleland animal farm in Thousand Oaks, will be her caretaker during her stay here.

And the quarantine is cause for consternation in Victoria for another reason.

Roberta was to be the star of a historical pageant opening Saturday in Victoria.

When the pageant opens, the star will be peacefully munching alfalfa and sniffing the sea air of Wilmington instead of the breezes from the nearby Gulf of Mexico in Victoria.

Rare Crane Eggs About to Hatch

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Audubon Park Zoo workers assigned to watch over two rare whooping crane eggs said Saturday they were "just sitting and waiting for something to pop at any time."

The eggs were laid a month ago by Josephine, one of the 37 whooping cranes left in the world. Josephine and her mate, Chip, are being counted on to help preserve the species.

George Douglass, Audubon Park director, said he would not give up on the eggs until they are both 38 days old. One of the eggs is 32 days old and the other 29. They normally hatch in 30 days, but Douglass says the hatching period has varied from 28 to 34 days.

EASH COURSE will consist of three lectures by Tal Morash, who represents the Camp Bureau of Southern California and the American Camping Association.

Although designed to help families plan and carry out camping trips, the courses also are open to youth group leaders. The classes will cover equipment needs, fires, fuels, setting up a campsite, sanitation, safety and nature.

The Lakewood course will be cosponsored by the Lakewood Recreation Department, and the Norwalk classes will be cosponsored by the Southeast Parks and Recreation District.

Filmland Museum, L.B. Man's 'Baby,' to Premiere May 4

A dozen Academy Award winners, wearing costumes from their memorable screen performances, will be on hand — but not in person—at the opening of the new Movieland Wax Museum May 4 in Buena Park.

The Oscar winners will be in wax.

Brainchild of Long Beach's Allen H. Parkinson the $1,500,000 Museum at 7711 Beach Boulevard will open with an around-the-clock Hollywood-style premiere at 6:30 p.m. on May 4 with an invitational showing for stars, representatives of all branches of the film industry, civic, social and business leaders.

The 30-hour premiere will benefit the Motion Picture Relief Fund. Doors open to the public at 9:30 a.m.

• • • •

THE 12 figures of Academy winners being readied for the Wax Museum are Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Berry, Charles Laughton, Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart, William Holden, Marie Dressler, Katherine Hepburn, Vivian Leigh, Ginger Rogers and Ethel Barrymore.

They are among the 60 life-size wax figures of Hollywood greats who will occupy the unique museum with a Hollywood sound stage interior.

The wax figures cost an average of $2500 each.

Parkinson plans to feature about 200 of these wax models of film luminaries in his 200,000-square-foot museum.

• • • •

PARKINSON got the idea for the museum while on a visit to Madame Tussaud's wax museum in London in 1958.

A successful businessman, Parkinson moved into the high-income brackets before he was 40. He went into business marketing a non-narcotic sleeping tablet, "Sleep-Eze." Later, he merged his Long Beach firm with a national drug organization and retired from active participation in the business.

Army to Lose 3-Star Officer in Shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army is losing one three-star general because of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's mammoth reorganization eliminating the chiefs of the technical services and consolidating operations under two major commands, it was learned Saturday.

Lt. Gen. John H. Hinrichs, 57, Army chief of ordnance, has applied for retirement, his associates said, rather than serve under a junior officer and see his present functions parceled among several agencies.

Hinrichs earlier this week celebrated his fourth anniversary as ordnance chief. He was presented a testimonial signed by the 90,000 civilians working under him. The signatures filled four books 20 inches thick.

• • • •

THE ORDNANCE chief was scheduled to be supply and maintenance commander in the new Defense Department setup. This would have been one of seven subordinate commands under one of the two major commands—material development and logistics and Army combat developments.

The material development and logistics commander is scheduled to be Maj. Gen. Frank S. Besson Jr., 52, who only recently was nominated by President Kennedy for the third star which will make him a lieutenant general.

In his present post, Hinrichs has 80 bases and 45,000 military personnel in addition to twice that number of civilians working for him in arsenals and other ordnance facilities throughout the country.

• • • •

HIS NEW assignment would have given him supply and maintenance responsibilities going beyond ordnance, but ordnance research, development, procurement and specialized training will be taken over by other commands.

The general is a veteran of 32 years service and is entitled to retire at three-quarters of his base pay unless called back for war duty.

Both he and Bessons are second-generation products of the Army.

Depletion Argument Reopened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The long-debated oil and gas depletion allowance has come under attack again in the Senate Finance Committee but there appears to be no prospect that it will be reduced this year.

Senators long convinced that the allowance is overgenerous have seized the hearings now under way on President Kennedy's tax-revision bill as an opportunity to renew their attack.

But a check of the 17-member committee Saturday showed that they could hope for no more than four or five votes to reduce the benefit.

Their prospects might be somewhat better on the floor. But Senate votes in recent years have shown that forces seeking to cut back the allowance are well short of a majority.

• • • •

THE ALLOWANCE permits an oil and gas producer to deduct 27½ per cent of his gross income from this source in figuring his income tax, up to a maximum of 50 per cent of his net income.

Supporters of the provision contend it is proper since oil and gas are a wasting asset used up as consumed. They also argue that it is essential to encourage continued exploration to keep American reserves at a high level.

Advocates of a reduction have been hoping for some backing from the Kennedy administration and received an indication at the Finance Committee hearings last week that they may get it later. Kennedy voted to cut the allowances when he was a senator in 1958 and 1960.

5-STAR GENERALS OVERLOOKED

Are Ike, MacArthur Open to Censorship of Speech?

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Overlooked in the controversy over alleged military muzzling is the fact that three famous five-star generals still are on the active list and technically subject to Pentagon speech regulations.

They are Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur and Omar N. Bradley.

Eisenhower is in a slightly special category because he does not take his $20,000-a-year Army pay. Instead he gets the $25,000 pension and the $50,000 annual office allowance provided for former Presidents.

• • • •

BUT THAT does not affect the question of what would happen if the defense Department should decide to be technical and require Gens. Eisenhower, Bradley and MacArthur to observe military regulations.

For one thing, they would be obliged to submit their speeches and articles for clearance by the Pentagon's security and review section.

They would be under strict injunctions to avoid public discussion of foreign affairs or other matters properly in the province of the State Department and White House.

• • • • •

JUDGING by the case of former Maj Gen. Edwin A. Walker, they would influence the votes of men in uniform.

The department's unofficial view is that "active duty" for five-star officers is merely honorary, and usually a means of paying them full salary instead of a pension. They are in other respects treated as retired officers.

But the department declined to make this official in answering questions submitted by United Press International. The exchange went as follows:

• • • •

QUESTION: "Do Generals Eisenhower, MacArthur and Bradley submit their speeches and writings for review?"

ANSWER: "No, except that Bradley occasionally does so voluntarily."

QUESTION: "Is there any thought of requiring them to observe regulations to which they theoretically would be subject as officers on active duty?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Is there a legal position on this, or is it merely considered a technically which should be overlooked?"

ANSWER: "There is no position; no one has looked into the matter."

Airlines Cut Down Hydraulic Troubles

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency Saturday reported a 50 per cent reduction in hydraulic difficulties encountered by jet airliners since last summer.

The improvement resulted from a massive FAA-industry drive to cure numerous malfunctions that were causing frequent precautionary and emergency landings.

One such malfunction led to a fatal accident involving a United Air Lines DC8 at Denver last July 11, killing 17 passengers. The jet was making an unscheduled landing after losing its hydraulic fluid supply when it swerved off the runway into a parked truck.

• • • •

THIS WAS the only accident resulting from hydraulic troubles. But a rash of reported malfunctions, both minor and major, prompted the joint FAA-industry corrective program.

That program, dubbed Project 61 by the FAA, called for:

Nine modifications to the DC8 hydraulic system, including a lock-out device to prevent engines from going into uneven reverse thrust. This was the cause of the fatal swerve at Denver, occuring when the pilot—lacking braking power—attempted to slow down the jet by reversing his engines.

Stricter inspection and maintenance procedures on the hydraulic systems of all jets.

A special check on all flight crews to make sure they are following prescribed procedures for dealing with hydraulic emergencies.

Faster, more frequent and detailed reports by all airlines on every conceivable type of hydraulic malfunction, no matter how minor. This enabled the FAA and carriers to prevent insignificant difficulties from developing into major problems.

AN FAA official told UPI Project 61 has reduced hydraulic incidents from a peak of 10 to 16 per 1,000 hours last summer to as low as five or six per 1,000 hours as of last month.

He added that all 92 DC8's now in scheduled U. S. airline service will have completed modifications by May 1. About 80 per cent of them are fully modified. The remainder have at least some of the improvements already installed.

"The rate of malfunctions now is down to about the level of piston-engine aircraft," the FAA spokesman said. "Considering the far greater complexity of the jet's system, this is a significant achievement."

He emphasized that the incidents being reported by the airlines include slight seepage or leaks as well as complete system failures.

Army Will Try Sergeant for 'Abusing' Reserve GIs

FORT JACKSON, S. C. (UPI)—The Army said Saturday a sergeant has been ordered to stand trial on charges he abused recruits from Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Sgt. Clyde Hinkle Jr., 29, of Columbia, Pa., has been confined at this infantry training center pending investigation of the incident.

The Army said Hinkle will be court martialed under Articles 117 and 128 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Although the Army declined comment on the incident, United Press International learned the complaining witnesses were members of a platoon of six-month reserve trainees, mostly from Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Hinkle was a student at the Third Army noncommissioned officer academy here, temporarily detached from his regular assignment as platoon sergeant in Company D, 7th Battalion, Second Training Regiment.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Cuba to Release 7 U.S. Skindivers

HAVANA (AP)—Seven American treasure hunters shipwrecked off Cuba's coast have been released from technical custody by the Castro government and will return to the United States early next week, the Swiss Embassy said Saturday night.

Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhofer told reporters the seven skindivers were lodged in a residence in Havana placed at their disposal by the Cuban government. They have been asked not to leave the house, but no guards have been placed over them, he said.

The Swiss Embassy was asked by the U.S. government to seek the release of the men after Cuban broadcasts announced that seven "frogmen" had been taken in custody in eastern Cuba.

Palsy Victim Wins Top Award

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emik Avakian, a 39-year-old immigrant who overcame severe cerebral palsy to become a brilliant electronics inventor and engineer, was named Saturday as the Handicapped American of 1961.

EMIK AVAKIAN
Brilliant Inventor

The award was made by the President's Committee on the Employment of the Physically Handicapped. Avakian will receive at a May 10 dinner in Washington the President's plaque presented annually by the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled.

Avakian's arms, hands and fingers are useless and he speaks very slowly and with great physical effort. Unable to walk, he gets around in a wheel chair by pushing himself slowly backward.

Avakian has suffered this severe crippling since before he was brought to the United States from his native Tehran as a boy of 11. He quickly demonstrated his keen intelligence and amazing determination by fulfilling the requirements of the first seven grades of school and learning English as well in his first year in this country.

Injured Boxer Slightly Better

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—Heavyweight Tunny Hunsaker's condition improved very slightly but remained grave Saturday after surgery for a brain injury suffered in what he had said might be his last fight.

Dr. E. Lyle Gage, who performed the midnight surgery on the 30-year-old boxer, gave him a 50-50 chance of recovery. Gage said "in 48 hours we'll know. All signs are favorable."

While Hunsaker lay unconscious in an oxygen tent at Bluefield Sanitarium, former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret was buried Saturday in Miami. Paret died of brain injuries in New York last Tuesday, 10 days after losing his title to Emile Griffith.

Dysentery Hits 27,000 Germans

BERLIN (UPI) — A week-long dysentery epidemic—blamed on infected butter from Communist China has stricken almost 27,000 persons—three of them fatally, the Communist East German government said Saturday.

The East German news service ADN released an announcement by Health Minister Max Sefrin after a meeting of a special dysentery commission.

Ex-President Frondizi Ill

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Ex-President Arturo Frondizi was reported to have fallen ill Saturday at the naval base where he has been held since his overthrow March 28.

Medical sources said doctors at the base on Martin Garcia Island in the Plate River have asked naval headquarters in Buenos Aires to send a heart specialist for an immediate examination of Frondizi. There was no immediate official word on the report.

Try to Avert Teachers' Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for both sides worked Saturday trying to avert a strike among the city's 40,000 public school teachers slated for Tuesday. The threat by the United Federation of Teachers is based on what they contend has been the board of education's refusal to grant its members a $53 million a year pay boost.

200 at Film, 100 in Jail Flee Flames

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Flames destroyed two large frame buildings here Saturday, forcing the evacuation of 100 county jail prisoners, 200 children attending a movie matinee and numerous apartment dwellers.

Firemen termed the blaze under control at 5:30 p.m., with no serious injuries. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

The fire wrecked a dozen stores and the lobby of a movie theater. The children were led in orderly procession from the theater.

State police evacuated the jail inmates. Thirteen maximum risk prisoners were manacled and taken to cells in the County Court House two blocks away. The 87 general prisoners, including several women, were removed to the County Workhouse.

rine Cooks and Stewards — held out for a 17.5 per cent increase in wages and benefits. The shippers' association offered an 11.5 per cent increase.

The walkout by an estimated 5,000 maritime workers has idled some 60 ships on the West Coast and in Hawaii. East Coast-based ships and foreign vessels are not involved.

Undersecretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz headed the three-man government panel that tried to mediate the dispute last week in San Francisco. Wirtz reported no progress to Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who reported in turn to the President.

• • • •

THE BOARD of inquiry established by Kennedy is headed by James J. Healy, professor of industrial relations at the Harvard Graduate School of Business. Other members are Frank J. Dugan, Georgetown University law professor, and Laurence E. Seibel of Chevy Chase, Md., a professional arbitrator.

The board will hold its first meeting at the Labor Department Monday.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, J. Paul St. Sure, president of the Pacific Maritime Association, telegraphed Healy that it would be impossible for the shippers' group to have a representative at the Monday morning meeting.

County Slates Hospital Work

General Hospital for storage until El Cerrito opens.

Part of the building already has been converted into county offices.

The Long Beach branch of the Bureau of Adoptions has a suite of offices with a private outside entrance at 453 W. 14th St. The agency employs 35 persons here.

Since December the adoptions staff has been working in the area formerly occupied by Seaside's children's wards.

• • • •

EIGHT EMPLOYES of Medical Aid District now occupy Seaside's old outpatient department. This agency evaluates applications for admission to county hospitals.

And one day and one night a week, two persons with the Bureau of Licenses of Foster Homes operate an office in what formerly was a Seaside business office.

When the contractors move in, here are some of the major projects ahead of them in remodeling the hospital portion of the building:

Installation of two new elevators.

Conversion of private rooms into small wards. Example: walls be knocked out to make two single rooms into one three-bed ward.

Reduction of ground level to first-floor level on the 14th Street side so that patients will be able to emerge onto a patio without climbing stairs.

Here's how the hospital will look when remodeling is completed:

Main floor: Snack bar and day room where gift shop and pharmacy formerly were located. Day room where radiation therapy once was performed. Wards in old dispensary, medical records room, physical therapy department and the Blue Room, Seaside's dining and enference room. Three fenced-in patios for patients. In-patient specialty clinics in old emergency room area.

Second floor: Patient space. Day room in old laboratory and central supply area. Laboratories, pharmacy and central supply to be located here.

Third floor: Patient space. Day room. Also, occupational therapy and physical therapy in old surgical suite. Shampoo sinks for women patients in occupational therapy section. Meeting rooms for staff in old nursery. Chaplain's office, volunteer offices and doctors' sleeping quarters to be located here.

Fourth and fifth floors: Patient space.

McLaughlin said El Cerrito eventually will have 325 employes and an operating budget of $2 million annually.

McNamara Hits Ike's B70 Plan

special equipment that would be required for actual use.

Brown argued strongly in support of McNamara's decision.

He said the complex radar and missile systems that would have to be added have not yet been proved feasible. To try to fit them all into a single system at this stage, he said, would lead to ultimate delay in reaching an operational aircraft.

Brown said the all-in-one policy was followed in developing the F106 fighter and the B58 bomber and led to delays of several years in getting both planes operational. In each case, he said, actual use of the planes was delayed five years beyond the original target date.

HE COMMENTED also that dropping the RS70 project altogether "would leave only small chinks, if they exist at all, in the line of possibilities which are actually feasible."

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., told a reporter that Brown gave similar testimony last Monday at a closed session of a Senate Appropriations Committee which Robertson heads.

The senator quoted Brown as saying that among features for the RS70 not yet developed are a long-range high-detail radar and special missiles.

Use of Storm Drains for Shelters Sought

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Use of storm drains as emergency public fallout shelters presents some legal obstacles, but none that cannot be overcome, County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy reported this week.

Negotiations currently are in progress to make an old storm drain in the City of San Fernando available for shelter purposes, Kennedy said.

The drain, now operated as part of the County Flood Control District, will become unsuitable for drainage purposes as soon as a new drain under construction is completed, the report explained.

• • • •

KENNEDY'S report was made at the request of Supervisor Warren M. Down, whose district includes San Fernando.

Commenting on possible conversion of other storm drains for shelter use, Dorn said it appeared "both state and federal legislative action would be required to modify these structures for shelter use."

No substantial legal obstacle stands in the way of building future storm drains so designed as to serve also as shelters, Kennedy's report stated.

More Smog Predicted This Year

L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Smog will probably be more severe in Los Angeles County this summer, and the Air Pollution Control District will continue to make daily smog forecasts—but not always accurate ones.

Smith Griswold, APCD control officer, said the approach of the smog season "without control of the emissions of our increasing number of automobiles," means heavier pollution this year must be expected.

The APCD will continue its daily smog predictions as a public service, Griswold said, but he cautioned that "it is not always possible to achieve accuracy" in such predictions.

• • • •

"IN THE OPINION of authorities in the field of weather prediction, the accuracy attained by the district's forecasters is excellent," Griswold said.

He admitted however, the forecasts are right only about 75 per cent of the time. A smog forecast is a "statement of probability," he said.

"Ingenious and accurate" instruments have been developed for air monitoring, Griswold pointed out, but he noted that eye irritation, odor, and reduction of visibility are not measurable by instruments.

"The only meter for eye irritation is the human eye, and the sensitivity varies with the individual," he said.

"Our reports on eye irritation are based on the responses to exposure to the atmosphere of a panel of observers," Griswold said.

Report Increase in Department Store Volume

NEW YORK (AP)—Department store sales across the nation for the year to date are running 2 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1961 period.

Federal reserve figures released disclosed that volume remained ahead of a year ago despite a drop of 2 per cent in sales for the latest week and for the latest four weeks, compared with a year earlier.

The higher sales for the year to date were recorded despite the fact that Easter last year was three weeks earlier than this year. That meant that Easter shopping has been included in last year's figures for the first three months while Easter shopping has yet to reach its peak this year.

SAVED MONEY

News Vendor's Will Sets Up Aid for Youths

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A man who sold newspapers on downtown streets for some 20 years, and saved most of his income, has set up a scholarship fund for deserving youngsters.

A will by the late John W. (Capt.) Smith estimated his estate at $1,800 cash and some $15,000 to $20,000 in bonds.

Most of the bonds go to his son, daughter and others. The remainder goes to the Eastminster Presbyterian Church for scholarships for "boys and girls whom the church may consider worthy."

Smith died March 16.

bombers at the other. Each nation will arm those missiles and bombers with nuclear warheads.

In the wretched shambles that would be left there would be one key as to which remnant of a nation would be victor. That key: Could American manned bombers return to Russia for a clean-up strike?

The almost certain bet: That Russia, to prevent that second or third counter-punch from the U.S. Air Force, would methodically demolish as many Strategic Air Command bases as possible in the first barrage of missiles. That would mean when U.S. bombers returned from their first strike, they would have no place to land; no chances of rearming with fuel and weapons for a second or third strike.

That is where the recovery groups come in. Their job is to provide homing facilities for returning aircraft on civil airports. The belief: That Russia would be unable to knock out the thousands of civilian airports in the United States.

The question: How well will the recovery program work? It relies entirely on Air Reserve units—weekend fliers and groundlings—and the cooperation they can enlist from civilian sources. It isn't a dramatic job. But to the reservists and the Strategic Air Command it rides on the edge of desperation. War to them is but one command away.

Saturday's test—a simulated mission—was important. The 8616 Recovery Group has gained experience through constant practice and hard work that few other reserve groups can boast.

Watching Saturday's drill were reserve commanders from the entire 2478th Reserve Sector—colonels and majors from Southern California, Southern Nevada and Arizona. All watched closely to see how well the recovery program could work.

The B47 screamed through the skies toward its home base at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base near Tucson, Ariz. Presumably it was returning from Russia. "Davis-Monthan not operational," the radio crackled.

In the plexiglass hump on the sleek fuselage the pilot made quick new calculations and decided on Long Beach. Rapidly the co-pilot and navigator read their seemingly endless list of checks, the staccato ritual of point by point preparing for the seemingly impossible feat of landing a thing that flies like a hurled stone.

On the ground enlisted men walked to an invisible line, spaced themselves apart, then turned, to stand, a bristling barrier of rifles to fight off "saboteurs."

Had it not been so smoothly organized the operation would have appeared jerry-built. An Air Force ambulance glided into position behind the barrier of riflemen. Two Long Beach city fire trucks moved out along the apron. Men in bee-hive headdress—the mark of a decontamination squad—got off the trucks and stood at the ready with hoses.

A cluster of men with geiger counters waited, chattering back and forth with miniature walkie-talkie radio sets. Two commercial fuel trucks edged up a driveway.

The plane broke into sight, lowering over Compton and North Long Beach, dropping steadily to the far end of the runway. Parachutes popped open behind, designed to stop the speeding hunk of metal on short runways.

—Staff Photo

CHECKING SPECIAL RADIATION protection clothing on Long Beach fireman are Col. Claude J. Norton, (center) commander of of the 8646 Recovery Group and Col. Robert S. Day, commander of the 2478 Air Force Reserve section.

Claude J. Norton, resident engineer with the Orange County Water District, eyed the plane carefully. In tan uniform for the day with a colonel's eagles on his shoulders, Norton listened to the briefings constantly relayed to him and issued a few final orders. They were treated with that bit of extra deference that goes to a combat pilot's combat pilot. Norton holds nearly all major Air Force decorations.

Jets screaming, the plane slowed, then turned from the end of the runway and taxied up behind the barrier of riflemen. Quickly the men with geiger counters moved in. If the plane were "hot,"—radioactive from Soviet nuclear anti-aircraft explosions — the crew, injured or not, would be kept inside.

The firemen moved forward with their hoses. If declared "hot," the firemen would hose down the plane in an attempt to decontaminate it.

"It's all right," the geiger counter men said. "A few hot spots."

The crew climbed down a ladder to the ground and reported to Col. Norton. Hoses were turned on two of the crew men who showed some radiation. The airstrip was washed down.

"How did it go, colonel?" someone asked Norton.

"Fine," he said. "If it ever happens, we are ready."

"Our planes will get a second chance."

Demos Hurl 'Birch' Tag at 21 Party Defectors

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Two local Democratic candidates charged Saturday that members of a Democratic club which defected to the Republican party Friday night were John Birch Society sympathizers who were asked to leave the Democratic party five months ago.

William J. Peake, candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach 39th District (old 70th), and Joseph J. Johovich, candidate for Congress in the 32nd (old 18th), issued separate statements reacting to the reregistration at GOP Headquarters, 3505 Atlantic Ave., of 21 members of the Longwood Constitutional Democratic Club.

• • • •

PEAKE SAW IT as "interesting that as long last the now-defunct club has heeded the advice I gave them some months ago.

"The Longwood club was a splinter from Los Cerritos United Democrats that caused the Los Cerritos club to be disunited indeed. The splinter faction adhered to principles which were in sympathy with the John Birch Society.

"While I was director for the California Democratic Council in the 18th (now 32nd), I invited these dissident elements to withdraw from the Democratic club movement and to seek affiliations with organizations which would more clearly represent their views. They failed to withdraw and I subsequently refused to certify the club to the California Democratic Council until such time that those who espoused the Birch philosophy were removed from the organization.

"They finally saw fit to disavow the Democratic Party and to associate themselves with certain fanatic elements of the Republican Party which do espouse a philosophy similar to theirs.

"I think this move . . . has established a much-needed precedent. In turn, I invite those Republicans of opinions less extreme than that of the John Birch Society to join us. Such a turnover will indeed align the parties as they should be."

• • • •

JOHOVICH characterized the action as a little bit of spring madness akin to baseball, where you find "switch hitters and Dodgers."

He said the switchers "swing from either side of the plate and duck every time a pitch is close and generally strike out. This early in the season it is not uncommon for a few to drop out. These are the ones who simply 'haven't got it' and, frustrated, end up criticizing the manager, the coach and even the playing conditions."

Johovich said it is "laughable" that the club turned Republican "when some of these (members) have been known attenders at Republican dinners over a long period of time and have been recognized by some of their neighbors who waited on tables and who asked the question, 'Were they really Democrats or the last of Gen. Walker's followers who migrated too far west?'

"As a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and a hard-working Democrat loyal to his party and believing in the two-party system, I only wish that the excessive amount of publicity that they received—and upon which they thrive—will react in the public's opinion as did publicity given recently to a certain American film star who has likewise disgraced herself."

• • • •

NEW FRONTIER Democratic Club will feature candidates W. Bud deCannis and William J. Peake at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Wilton Hotel Terrace Room. DeCannis is running for the Democratic nomination for Congress in Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill 32nd District (formerly 18th). Peake is a candidate for Assembly in the 39th District (former 70th) of East Long Beach and Signal Hill.

• • • •

SEAL BEACH FEDERATED Republican Woman's Club will meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the residence of Miss Charlotte Schuman, 204 Ocean Ave. The club is planning a membership tea for May 19 in the Jerome Brockman residence, 1425 Catalina Ave., and a "coffee" meeting for GOP governor candidate Joseph C. Shell in late April.

JFK Tax Incentive Plan Hit by Business, Labor

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy's tax-incentive plan—aimed at stimulating business by encouraging expansion—ran into opposition last week.

Criticism came from representatives of both business and labor.

The so-called incentive plan has been passed by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate. But the House cut from 8 per cent to 7 per cent the amount which businesses and farms would be permitted to subtract from their income tax for expenditures on equipment and machinery.

The administration let it be known that a fight would be waged in the Senate to restore the cut.

• • • •

SPOKESMEN for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers told the Senate Finance Committee that they opposed the proposed tax credit.

These organizations would prefer to have a larger depreciation allowance.

Walter A. Slowinski, representing the chamber, said of the tax credit:

"It may actually be a windfall to a business which already had fortuitously planned to purchase new facilities later in 1962. On the other hand, it will work against small businesses or large companies which have no current funds for expansion or no taxable income to be offset by the credit."

Stanley H. Ruttenberg, research director for the AFL-CIO, called the tax credit plan "a mountainous giveway."

• • • •

"THE KIND of spur business needs most," he said, "is the durable stimulus of rising family spendable income, which lower income taxes for the middle and lower brackets could help to provide."

President Kennedy sent congress a far-ranging program to aid the ailing transportation industry.

It would provide $500 million for public agencies over the next three years which, along with some matching funds, would be used for "the revitalization and needed expansion of public mass transportation."

Kennedy also proposed that Congress wipe out minimum rates prescribed by federal regulation for travel and for shipment of bulk freight, including grain, coal ore and farm and fishery products.

This, he said, is intended to make carriers "fit, lean and progressive by vigorous competition and innovation."

• • • •

SOME RAYS of encouragement seeped through what has been a darkening economic picture. Economists saw cheerful signs and some statistics bore them out.

"The hesitation is only temporary," said Dr. Marcus Nadler, economic consultant for the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York. "There is no basis for the view that the economy is leveling off or that we are headed for a decline.

Dr. R. H. Waters of the Pennsylvania State University Bureau of Business Research, said his charts indicate the upswing has resumed after a six-week lull in January and February.

The automobile industry is going great guns in both sales and production.

Sales of New American-made passenger cars in March exceeded 600,000, the highest for the month in seven years. General Motors Corps.'s Chevrolet division said its march deliveries were the highest for any month in its history, totaling 197,750. American Motors reported its sales of 45,402 cars were a record for March.

GENERAL MOTORS built its one millionth car of 1962 Monday.

In the first three months of the year the industry turned out 1,766,833 cars, an increase of 47.9 per cent over the 1961 first quarter. Output this week was estimated at 145,000, highest of the year.

Steel production continued to hum along at about 80 per cent of capacity but the industry looked for a slowdown in the wake of agreement on a new labor contract. Output last week totaled 2,417,000 tons, up 1 per cent from the prior week.

Other favorable developments included:

The Federal Reserve Board reported that outstanding consumer installment credit increased by $236 million in February. This meant that people were more willing to go into debt to buy things.

• • • •

THE COMMERCE Department reported that combined sales of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers reached a record level of $64.7 billion in February, up 1 per cent from January.

Surveys indicated that merchants expect an increase in sales of apparel and home furnishings.

Briefly around the business scene: the American collectors association says more people are paying their bills on time than at any time since middle 1958 . . . employment in the iron and steel industry totaled 566,028 in February, highest in 21 months. . . . U. S. smokers paid $3.1 billion in taxes in 1961, the tobacco institute estimates. . . . More than 2.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas is stored in caverns in 21 states. . . . Dividend increases were declared by 103 corporations in March, compared with 79 a year earlier.

Lull in Wall St. and Some Firms Scrimping

NEW YORK (AP) — In marked contrast to the spring of 1961, slow times have fallen on Wall Street and some brokerage houses are scrimping.

Volume of trading is the lifeblood of the brokerage business, and the business of handling other people's investment money has slumped. Commissions lately have been flowing like a dry creek compared with flood of business a year ago.

Several large brokerage houses are in the midst of economy drives. Some have cut loose extra help. Many are keeping a closer tab on long distance telephone calls, postage stamps and other office expenses.

• • • •

SO FAR as could be learned, there have been no reductions of permanent staff members.

One of the firms that says it has been tightening up on outlays is Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., the largest. Merrill Lynch handled 12 per cent of 1961 volume on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Bonuses will probably be smaller this year," a spokesman said.

Bache & Co., the nation's second largest brokerage house, reported no drastic curtailments but said status of part time employes was being reviewed and ways were being sought to reduce overtime.

• • • •

A STRIKING reminder of the situation appeared on newspaper financial pages the other day. "Big Board" turnover for the previous day was listed as 2,790,000 shares. Alongside appeared the year ago volume figure—7,060,000 (for April 4, 1961).

For all of last year, Big Board trading volume totaled just over one billion dollars, barely falling short of the record set in 1929.

So far, 1962 volume is running about 30 per cent behind a year ago. That means commissions for buying and selling, a brokerage firm's main source of income, are running at about the same ratio.

Stock prices have slumped, too.

• • • •

BACHE SAID it viewed the present situation as a lull and expects both volume and prices to rebound.

A spokesman for another brokerage house said "doubtless there are some among the smaller firms that are in the red on a recent short term basis but nobody expects this to last."

The New York Stock Exchange, with a paid staff of 1,540, said it had not reduced staff.

Overall employment in the financial district at the end of 1961 stood at 95,500, up 16 per cent from the 1960 year and level.

Radomes Play Key Missile System Role

By LEE CRAIG
Military-Aviation Editor

Huge bubble-shaped radomes of rubberized nylon, erected at key points in the United States and in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, will play a vital part in the Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile system.

The giant radomes, nearly 50 feet in diameter, were made in a manner that eliminates conventional overlapping seams, a design feature that allows the radars within the protective nylon bubble to operate at maximum efficiency.

Capable of withstanding extremely high winds, the radomes require only a half-pound of pressure per square inch for inflation.

CONGRESS has been asked by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for $15 million to build a 210-foot radio antenna capable of receiving "live television from the moon."

Existing equipment—largest in use are 85-footers—is capable of maintaining communications with early unmanned space flights to the moon, Mars and Venus.

But the Apollo manned flights to the moon and the planned unmanned planetary flights of the Voyager program, starting around 1966, demand more sensitive receiving equipment.

Felony Crime Rate in State Decreases

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk says the felony crime rate in California declined slightly in 1961 compared to 1960.

Mosk said the state's Bureau of Criminal Statistics reported that 257,229 felonies were committed in 1961, a drop of 1.4 per cent from 1960.

Mysterious Gift Cat Baffles Zoo

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A mysterious Borneo cat named Wilfred has San Diego Zoo officials puzzled.

The 5-pound animal arrived as a gift from the governor of North Borneo.

Wilfred has the face of a civet cat, the feet of a mongoose and the body of a genet.

Clyde Hill, assistant curator of mammals, was able to shed some light on the question, however.

After perusing zoo handbooks and inspecting the cat, Hill put forward one conclusion—Wilfred should have been named Wilfreda.

Gulf Lends Japan $10 Million; Oil Purchase Pledged

TOKYO (AP)—The Toa Oil Co. of Japan announced it has reached an agreement to obtain a loan totaling $10 million from the Gulf Oil Co. of the United States.

The loan will be used to construct a new refinery in Kawasaki, near Tokyo, Toa said.

It said the loan will carry interest of 4.5 per cent a year and will be paid back over seven years after a three-year deferment period.

In exchange for the loan, Toa will have to buy up to 30 per cent of its total crude oil imports from the Gulf Oil Co. for the next 10 years, Toa said.

Solons Hear Walker, Reporter 'Eyed' Him

By HARRY SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, storm-center of U. S. anti-Communist troop indoctrination policy and now a candidate for governor of Texas, had his day in court last week.

His last act was to punch an inquiring reporter in the eye.

WALKER

The ousted commander of the 24th Infantry Combat Division in Germany was given free rein to narrate his own case to senators investigating alleged military muzzling.

He charged he had been the scapegoat of a secret government "apparatus, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, which favors a 'no win' policy in the cold war." He said his own indoctrination program in Europe—the reason he lost his command — ran head on into this "conspiracy."

Walker was vague in substantiating his allegations and admitted he could not identify those "in complete control of the apparatus." But he named, in addition to Rusk:

—Special Assistant Defense Secretary Adam Yarmolinsky "who had a close connection with communism"; Arthur Sylvester, in charge of Defense Department public affairs, "who worked" to shear him of his command, and Walt W. Rostow, head of the State Department's policy planning staff, "who has been in control" of the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency's "operating arm" since 1954.

Walker averred that CIA's intelligence estimates are arranged by the State Department to reflect Rusk's no win policy and that he, himself, "was framed in this den of iniquity." Furthermore, he charged, civilian control of the military "has been perverted into a commissar-like system at all major echelons."

Chairman John C. Stennis of the Senate committee issued a brief statement which apparently closed the book on Walker's charges.

Stennis said the testimony was "quite general in nature without revealing anything specific or definite justifying further inquiry."

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara issued a strong defense of his aides. Rusk said the general's accusations were "not worthy of comment." Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., one of the investigators, said Walker had made charges he could not verify. President Kennedy continued to take a no comment attitude.

The general punched a reporter who tried to question him about George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party and Walker supporter.

In less turbulent news spheres, the President sent Congress a proposed package of new laws to end "the chaotic patchwork" of our mass transportation system. Envisioned were lower rail, bus and air fares; reduced freight rates; fewer federal subsidies and less federal regulation; and federal aid to modernize overburdened metropolitan transit systems.

The nation's seven Mercury astronauts turned down a $24,000 free homes offered by a Houston, Tex., homebuilders association after considerable official furor reaching from the White House.

The United States prepared to go ahead with nuclear weapons tests over the Pacific in the absence of an iron-clad treaty ban with Russia. A huge "keep out" area around Christmas Island was marked off. Moscow is expected to match the tests weapon for weapon in the race for nuclear supremacy.

The President set up a new venture in personal diplomacy with plans for a visit later this year to Brazil. Brazilian President Joao Goulart was a recent White House guest.

The Democratic-controlled California state assembly adopted a resolution denouncing former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for calling the President and his attorney general brother, Robert, "carpetbaggers." Nixon is a GOP candidate for governor.

Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, at 79 the oldest jurist on the high bench, was hospitalized after suffering a vascular insufficiency. He was ordered to rest. Frankfurter, named to the tribunal in 1939 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, suffered a mild heart ailment in 1958.

Congressmen and state governors reacted with alarmed protests to President Kennedy's plan to cut National Guard and Army Reserves by 58,000 men. The Army wants to eliminate eight divisions. This would reduce the National Guard to 365,000 men and paid reserves to 277,000. Election-conscious legislators set out to block the move.

The Senate handed the President a major victory when it passed 70 to 22 a compromise bill to give him power to buy $100 million worth of United Nations bonds. House approval is expected. The bonds—half of a $200 million issue—would help meet costs of special U. N. operations in The Congo and the Middle East. The peace agency is short of funds due to assessment delinquencies of some nations, including Russia.

'BIG DUTCH' KINDELBERGER STILL CALLS THE SIGNALS

Fabulous Story of NAA 'Rabbit In The Hat'

North American Aviation, Inc. has always had a rabbit in its hat. Just before World War II it pulled out the P51. On the eve of Korea it was the Sabrejet. And since the space race began, a surprised Washington has been presented with one bunny after another.

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The scene: A luxurious suite in the headquarters of a billion-dollar-a-year defense giant, North American Aviation, Inc.

Two men — one a wise old head, the other a young genuis called "Stormy"— were about to reach a critical decision, one that would affect not only the profit-posture of the company but perhaps the prestige of the nation.

The elder was Lee Atwood, spare-framed president of NAA, at 57 respectfully if not always affectionately known as the Old Man.

With him was Harrison Storms, 46, driving spirit behind NAA's highly successful 4,000-mile-an-hour rocket plane, the X15, and its controversial, yet-to-fly super bomber, the RS70.

There was another presence in the room — intangible but influential:

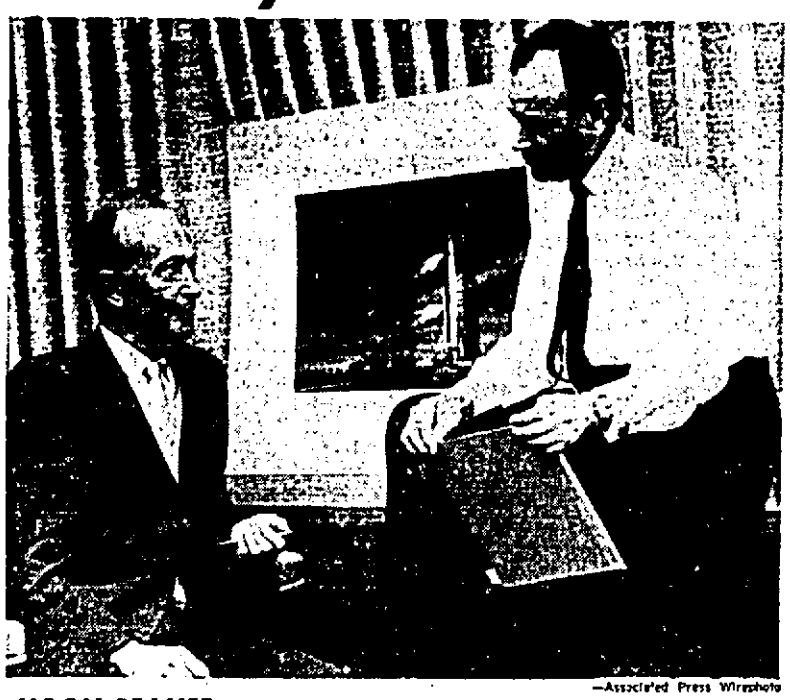

James H. Kindelberger. Founder and now chairman of the board, Big Dutch was there in the minds of both. Each knew he'd have to account to Dutch if their decision turned sour.

• • • •

FOR WEEKS STORMY had been badgering the men between him and Atwood. Now he had taken his case to the old man himself. He got the OK.

Thus simply was NAA bound to its biggest gamble: bidding for the contract to build this country's first moon ship, Apollo.

NAA won the contract, worth two to three billion dollars, and stands a good chance of providing the giant booster rocket that will loft Apollo into space. Its F1 engine, with 1.5 million pounds of thrust, is by far the most powerful under development in the free world.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

MOON-BEAMED

With their sights on the moon, Leo Atwood, left, and Harrison Storms discuss North American Aviation's contract to build the first U. S. moon ship, the Apollo, at NAA headquarters. Behind them is an artist's conception of the space ship and booster rocket.

Just what is North American Aviation, Inc.?

Obscure outside the industry, NAA has quietly become in the past few years the second largest harvester of defense dollars.

• • • •

WITH NET SALES last year of $1.2 billion, NAA was topped only by General Dynamics' $1.9 billion. Even before the Apollo contract was let, North American was the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's largest supplier.

• • • •

NORTH AMERICAN, started in 1928 as a holding corporation, went into manufacturing in 1934 with Kindelberger, lured from his job as chief engineer at Douglas Aircraft, as president.

Big Dutch, with his bluff personality and wisecracks, became Mr. North American, the man who sold NAA.

Wisecracks play a part in salesmanship. Here are some that have become known as Kindelbergerisms:

"An airplane is like an egg. It has to be sold when it's fresh."

"You can't pull a rabbit out of a hat unless you carefully put the rabbit in the hat beforehand."

Company officials say that the last quip explains Dutch's successful gambles, that in fact he wasn't gambling at all.

A certain element of risk seems apparent, however, in almost every decision made by NAA.

• • • •

SHORTLY AFTER Kindelberger took over as president, he junked a passenger plane, already partially built, and concentrated on plans for a trainer. The trainer, the old BT9, beat out big competitors for a 17-million contract.

Early in 1940 the British asked North American to build them some P40s. Kindelberger refused. He said he could design and produce a better plane quicker. In 127 days North American turned out the soon-to-be-famed P51 Mustang.

After World War II orders for military planes were canceled wholesale.

Other companies, notably Douglas, Lockheed, Convair (General Dynamics) and Boeing went in for commercial airliners, with some eventually taking heavy losses on their jet transports. North American decided this was a gamble it didn't want to take. There was one customer better than the big airline companies: the federal government. Whatever the government might want in the future, North American would try to build it.

STILL BASICALLY A plane builder, North American took a characteristic chance. It went into production with the F86 Sabrejet without waiting for wind tunnel tests. This shoved aircraft design ahead several years, gave the United States air superiority in the Korean War.

The 4,000-mile-an-hour X15 rocket plane (largely Storms' baby and a factor in winning the Apollo contract) was undertaken before anyone was sure such a plane could be built.

No longer is the "corporate image" of North American that of a huge aircraft factory. Today it's a giant technological laboratory, turning out products not by the thousands but by the handful.

Cadillac

Where the long way home is sweetest!

If he's a few minutes late tonight—well, who could blame him?

For there's an open road—and a spring evening—and a new Cadillac car. And that's a combination to bring out the wanderlust in any young man.

In fact, let's take a few minutes out ourselves—and ride with him as he takes the sweep of the boulevard.

What's it like, sitting there in the driver's seat of a beautiful new Cadillac car?

Well, first of all it's quiet. The car is so soundly built—and so precisely engineered—that only the rushing wind breaks the silence.

Driving seems the automatic response to wishing. The wheel turns with the weight of your hand—and the gentlest pressure of your foot sends the car instantly ahead or brings it to a smooth, silken stop.

And how comfortable and how inspiring it is to have command of the "car of cars"! Certainly, it should be no surprise that the miles ahead are so tempting—when the miles behind have been so wonderful.

Someday soon, when there's a touch of spring in the air—and a touch of adventure in your spirit—visit your Cadillac dealer and take the wheel of the "car of cars" for yourself.

You'll quickly discover that this is the perfect season to drive home in a Cadillac of your own.

BARRAGE AT KENNEDY

House GOP to Stage 15-Hour Talkfest

By WILLIAM BROOM
I-P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Republicans in the House of Representatives next week will lay down a grass-roots barrage at the Kennedy administration's image.

Fifteen congressmen who met in the office of Rep. James B. Utt, R., Calif., Friday contend the administration is trying to sell programs that the grass roots doesn't want. They were brought together by a common feeling that the party's regular spokesmen haven't made the point sufficiently clear.

The 15 have secured special orders to speak for an hour each in the House of Representatives Wednesday. Any other congressman who wants to speak will be welcomed to the lineup.

In effect, the 15 have planned a talkathon to replace the Ev and Charlie show, of which many rank and file congressmen disapprove. The Ev and Charlie show is a weekly statement of GOP position by the party's two congressional leaders, Sen. Everett Dirksen, Ill., and Rep. Charles Halleck, Ind.

The 15-hour talkfest is the brainstorm of Rep. Craig Hosmer, Rep., Calif. He and Rep. Utt are co-chairmen in lining up speakers for the day.

Hosmer said the speechmaking "is not a party deal." He said the congressmen plan to speak about "what's on the mind of the folks back home."

Despite public opinion polls showing President Kennedy's popularity extremely high, the congressmen at the Utt meeting believe that his policies receive relatively little backing at the grass roots.

The speakers will cover a wide range of topics from national defense policies to the farm program.

"We'll be talking about national issues and local issues that pertain to them," said Hosmer.

The special orders under which the program is to be conducted can be interrupted any time by the House's Democratic leadership. A speaker can be interrupted if anyone complains of the absence of a quorum and demands a roll call.

What happens if the Democrats decide to shut off the criticism?

"We're trusting the leadership's sense of fair play," said Hosmer. "Obviously we can't muster a quorum if we're cut off. But we think the public reaction to muzzling us would be bad."

Doctor Called, Dead Boy Is Son

But the youth was pronounced dead on arrival.

It was his son Daniel, 13.

Tangle of Lies Traps Hoodlum

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI)—Reputed Chicago hoodlum Gerald Covelli had some trouble testifying for the government in the whisky hijacking trial of four of his onetime friends.

"I told the FBI so many lies about this case I don't remember now what I told them," Covelli, star prosecution witness, said.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Navy Ships Take Gifts to Orient

Five Navy minesweepers left Long Beach Harbor Saturday carrying two tons of clothing to be distributed to needy persons in the Far East.

The clothing was collected by Girl Scouts of the Los Angeles area.

The cargo is aboard the Engage, Fortify, Impervious, Inflict and Loyalty which are en route to join the 7th Fleet in the Orient.

U.S. Tax Returns Due Next Week

The Internal Revenue Service issued a cheerless reminder Saturday for persons who are still struggling over the 1961 income-tax returns. Deadline for filing the returns is a week from Monday.

"The taxpayer who keeps good records will find it easier to justify his 1961 Federal income-tax return when we question it," John R. McArdle, head of the local tax office said.

"All individual records should be retained for at least three preceding tax years after the return is filed.

"Do not mail your records with your 1961 return," McArdle said. "Keep them available to substantiate any items which may be questioned on your return."

'Mikado' Benefit Performance Today

The Lakewood Philharmonic Association is staging Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado" today and next Friday and Saturday at Millikan High School as a benefit for the physically handicapped.

The school is at 2800 Snowden Ave. Tickets are available at Jack's Corsican Room in Naples and at Rose's Hardware and Wallichs Music City in Lakewood.

Ingalls Underbids Todd on Six Ships

The Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. of Pascagoula, Miss., underbid Todd Shipyards, San Pedro, by more than $2 million on each of six U.S.-flag cargo ships to be constructed for Moore-McCormack Lines, Maritime Commission officials said Saturday.

Ingalls bid $10,375,000 for construction of each of the ships. The Todd bid was $12,460,239.

The bids are subject to review and analysis before the contracts are awarded, officials said.

New Hospital to Open in Bellflower

A 28-bed hospital will be opened at 9264 E. Alondra Blvd. in Bellflower about mid-May, Dr. Clarence Y. Ching said Saturday.

The hospital, to be called the "Alondra Community Hospital" has been given state approval as a general hospital.

Dr. Ching, president of the board, said the facility is starting with only 28 beds "because we want to determine how practical our theory is of providing intensive nursing care at economy rates.

"If proved, as we think it will be, then we plan to expand our facility," he said.

The hospital will provide medical, surgical and maternity care and will have a 24-hour laboratory and X-ray department, Dr. Ching said.

'Mellerdramer' Star LBSC Coed

By ROBERT WILCOX

Don't whistle at Judi. The comely blonde hearkens only to boos, hisses and wild applause.

Born to the role, the 19-year-old actress has attracted vocal sympathy for three years as the winsome heroine of "mellerdramers" in the Bird Cage Theater at Knott's Berry Farm.

She spends afternoons and nights dodging swords in the fearful climax of "The Mad Magician of the Midway."

In the mornings, Miss Rader turns into Betty Coed for 9½ units of study at Long Beach State College where she is a sophomore.

Co-owned by her stepfather, Woody Wilson who plays the villain, the theater stages four and five 40-minute shows a day with a capacity audience of 350 persons.

The current production features Judi as a member of a broadwalk show troupe which the villain is trying to take over.

The climax comes two costume changes later when Judi, in an abbreviated leotard, is forced into a locked sword cabinet. Twelve swords are thrust through the cabinet, but Judi emerges unscathed amid riotous cheers.

Throughout the "drama" Judi just does what comes naturally. Her mother, Elinor Wilson, starred as "Mad Agnes" in "The Drunkard" in Los Angeles for 10 years of its 27-year run.

"I was born in the 'mellerdramer' business," says Judi, who spent as much time at the theater in Los Angeles as she could when she was a child.

The family came to the berry farm eight years ago and Judi started taking tickets when she was 13. They live at 2270 Coronet St., Anaheim.

Besides ushering during the 20-minute "pitch time" which precedes each show and uttering memorable lines in the production, Judi's a quick-change artist.

She wears an old-fashioned bathing suit with bloomers under her "pitch-time" outfit. She sheds to the bathing suit in the first number, then whisks on a skirt for the second scene. She jumps into the leotard for the frantic finals.

The attractive drama major, who gets $3 a show, has taken a week off to assist with the college production, "Beauty and the Beast."

She calls her "mellerdramatics" a "fun job" which she can do while going to school, prefers serious acting but doesn't like the high odds against success. Judi thinks she'll change her major to speech therapy next year.

Concerning the sword-cabinet episode, the actress somewhat reluctantly revealed a secret unknown to the villain, who asks with vigorous gestures at the play's conclusion: "How in blazes did you get out of there?"

Judi said she sits in a cramped position in a depression in the floor protected by a V-shaped shield. (Once she opened the shield too soon and received a cut hand.)

Her "fun job" presents other problems but at least once it provided its own solution.

Judi was standing with her back to the audience when the curtain slowly lifted, rolling up her dress at the same time.

The audience enjoyed the bit of comedy and Judi remained calm. As usual, she had her bloomers on in anticipation of the next number.

Russ Say U.S. Can Keep Twist

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow said Saturday night the U.S. dance known as the twist has spread around the world "like an epidemic of flu"—and America is welcome to it.

A commentator said American propagandists apparently intended the twist and twist music to be "a monument to U.S. culture."

"To speak honestly, we do not envy them," he added.

Papuan Police Nab 'Subversive' Group

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP) — Papuan police reported the arrest Saturday of a score of "subversives," including some women, who had been hiding in woods near Hollandia. Police said an Indonesian flag and a portable radio were found.

It is assumed the group was led by Indonesians and was preparing for "coming events," a policeman spokesman said.

PINE AT BROADWAY. HE 6-9841. STORE HOURS: MONDAY, FRIDAY, 9:30 A.M. TO 9 P.M. OTHER DAYS, 9:30 A. M. TO 5:30 P.M.

FOR pretty obvious reasons, certain public offices should be open on Saturday, when working people have about their only chance of the week to make use of their services.

That surely applies to the offices of the Motor Vehicle Dept., where drivers must go for license examinations and other business. It is ridiculous that this office is closed on Saturday, and the MVD director who will change the schedule will get a big hand from a lot of people. If the office can be kept open only five days a week, let the MVD staffers take Monday off.

There's something else that seems wrong about the local office setup at Broadway and Lime. At the point on Broadway, where drivers must take their cars preparatory to the driving test, there's a sign that reads: NO PARKING AT ANY TIME. The curbing in this area is painted red—the no-parking color.

So the license-seeker, coming up for his examination, finds it necessary right off the bat to park in violation of a police dept. sign and a red-colored curb.

They could have a sign on this curb reading something like this: PARK HERE FOR DRIVING TEST.

Or is that making things too clear and simple?

FATE played a nightmarish trick on a parking lot robber at a nearby store the other day.

The story begins with the death of a cat, a long-time pet of a Long Beach family. The cat's mistress, feeling that a decent burial was in order, placed the little body in a box and set off for a pet cemetery.

En route, she stopped at a store to buy some colored paper to line the box. She left the box in the car in the store parking lot when she went in for the purchase.

Returning, she found the box gone.

The store detective was notified. He remarked that usually thieves took such items to the rest room where they remove the merchandise for hiding under their clothing.

In the women's rest room, the thief was discovered. She had just opened the box and was staring in dismay at the carcass of a dead cat.

The cat was taken to the pet cemetery, and the thief was hauled off to the pokey.

APPARENTLY, everybody and his brother is itching to get out for a little motoring. Item here the other day about wild flowers on Ortega Grade sparked up a flurry of 'phone inquiries about the location of this stretch.

It lies on Hwy. 74, which can be reached via San Juan Capistrano, down the coast. Ortega Grade lets you down into the Elsinore country and is worth a trip some time, with or without wildflowers. Great view.

Also suggested for possible short weekend motoring ventures; A drive through Brea canyon or a run over to the Irvine Park country. If unfamiliar with routes, take a look at any good map.

ANOTHER report of auto glass-breaking on Los Coyotes Blvd. comes from Tom Gentry of Lakewood. He says that he lost some glass while driving there. It's not rock throwing, but marble-shooting with power guns, that is doing the damage, according to Gentry. He thinks some kids hide behind walls and shoot into the traffic-filled streets. Looks like a place for a little police activity.

RECORD REQUEST INCLUDES OPERATING COSTS AT NEW ARENA

L. B. to Ask $1.3 Million From Oil Fund

Long Beach city officials will apply this week to the State Lands Commission for approval of $1,378,454 maintenance costs under the Tideland Oil Fund for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

The amount is the largest ever sought from the offshore oil money for upkeep of beaches, buildings and other improvements on the tidelands. Last year the city asked for and was granted $761,400.

Most of the increase results from the scheduled opening of the new Long Beach Arena shortly after the start of the fiscal year July 1, 1962. Estimated arena maintenance and operating costs are $408,650.

* * * *

IN A CHANGE of policy, the city also is asking the state to approve operation of the Municipal Auditorium as a Tideland Oil Fund facility. Previously appropriations for this purpose have come from the General Purpose Fund, which also has received the Auditorium revenues.

City-state conferences now indicate that the line separating tidelands from uplands will be drawn to place most of the old building on the tidelands.

On the basis of current bookings, the Arena is expected to operate at a profit next year of $5,950, according to Samuel M. Roberts, head of the Department of Administrative Management. The Arena revenues, like those from the Auditorium, will be deposited in the Tideland Oil Fund for city use subject to terms of the trust.

* * * *

EXPENDITURES for the Auditorium are estimated at $233,417, or $39,542 more than the projected operating revenues.

The net cost of all the tideland maintenance operations, after deductions of revenues, is figured at $768,387 next year. This is only $6,987 more than was allowed for the current year.

Among the estimated outlays are $301,350 for lifeguard service and administration; $308,750 in Public Service Department charges for beach cleaning, maintenance and related services; $56,600 in Park Department services; $53,475 for Police Department patrols of tideland areas; and smaller amounts for other department patrols of tideland areas; and smaller amounts for other departments.

The current tideland authorization approved by the state included $78,500 for Arena maintenance. Originally the big new building was expected to be opened before the end of June. Completion of all the facilities is now expected to be delayed until August, although a few events will be held there in July.

Labor-Managing Conference Set

"Leadership in Labor and Management" will be topic of the fifth annual Industrial Relations Conference at the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division Wednesday afternoon and evening.

JOHN F. HENNING

C. HOWARD WATTS

The conference cosponsored by the technology division and the college industrial relations advisory committee, is expected to draw 150 delegates from business and industrial firms and labor organizations in the Long Beach area.

After registration at 4:30 p.m. in the Horseshoe Theater, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., the dinner program will be held in the college cafeteria.

* * * *

SPEAKERS WILL be C. Howard Watts of the consulting firm of Watts and Associates and John F. Henning, director of the California Department of Industrial Relations and administrator of the California Employment Relations Agency. Their topics will be "Management's Responsibility in Labor-Management Relations" and "Training for Leadership in Labor-Management Relations."

Peter C. Marcus, vice president of Anthony Pools and member of the college industrial relations advisory committee, will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Esther C. Caldwell of the business and technology staff is in charge of program arrangements.

CD Report Due at Class on Survival

Members of a Long Beach class in individual and family survival will hear a report Wednesday from the City Department of Civil Defense.

R. C. Major of the civil defense staff will review recent developments in local, state and national preparedness planning. He will also summarize results of the national fallout shelter survey.

The meeting is set for 10 a. m. in the Monroe School, 4400 Ladoga Ave. Although the report is directed to those graduating from the 12-hour course, the public is invited.

Long Beach Unified School District offers the course through the General Adult Division of City College. The California Department of Education administers the program. Graduates will receive certificates of completion.

Beautifiers Seek Design

The Woman's Division of the Chamber of Commerce Saturday announced a contest beginning today for the best emblem to typify the object of a city beautification campaign scheduled for May.

The winning entry will become the official emblem for Long Beach beautification projects, a Woman's Division news release said.

Entries will be accepted through April 29. The drawing must be in pen and ink on white paper about 9x12 inches, sponsors said.

Entries, the release said, should be of a stencil type drawing that clearly would signify the clean-up, fix-up, paint-up nature of the campaign.

L.B. Microwaves to Hear GeorgeTillitson

George Tillitson of General Dynamics, Pomona, past president of the San Bernardino Microwave Society, will address the meeting of the Long Beach Microwave Society at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Bayshore branch library, Second Street and Bayshore Avenue.

WEEK-LONG OPEN HOUSE

Library System Plans Behind-Scenes Tours

Long Beach's main public library, busier than ever, will offer behind-the-scenes tours this week in celebration of National Library Week.

Staff members will conduct visitors through areas in the building normally closed to the public, Miss Blanche Collins, city librarian, announces.

Patrons will see books for the entire system being ordered and received, prepared for the shelves and shipped to the branches.

They also may observe the inspection and cleaning of phonograph records, preparation of special indexes and information on files, mending of books, the tab room controlling overdue-book procedures and the security measures taken to insure inventory control.

Hours of the open house cover the normal main library schedule—from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Groups interested in guided tours are asked to telephone the library in advance.

Flood-Curb Report Given by Engineer

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The 180 storm drains, built under the 1952 and 1958 bond-issue programs, did an "excellent job" during the recent rain storms, according to M. E. Salsbury, chief engineer of the County Flood Control District.

Salsbury will report Tuesday to the Board of Supervisors on progress of the $179-million 1952 program and the $225-million 1958 program.

* * * *

ONLY 10 OF THE 140 projects included in the 1952 program remain to be completed, Salsbury said. Of these, seven are under construction now and the remaining three will get under way this summer.

The 1958 program called for 184 storm-drain projects. Fifty of these already have been completed. Another 54 either are under construction or are awaiting award of contract, Salsbury said.

By next winter, he reported, seven more 1952 projects and 27 of the 1958 storm drains will be ready to handle storm waters.

* * * *

WHILE considerable progress has been achieved in meeting county drainage problems by the two bond issues, Salsbury pointed out there still are many areas in need of facilities.

A 1958 survey by the Flood Control District, in cooperation with all cities in the county and the county engineer's office, revealed that nearly 2,000 storm drain deficiencies existed at that time.

I, P-T Group Hosts State Credit Meeting

Members of the Independent, Press-Telegram Employes Federal Credit Union will be hosts and will provide entertainment at a meeting of the Long Beach Chapter, California Credit Union League, 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Lakewood Country Club. Ray Gise is president of the newspaper credit union.

Harold Hines, assistant to the publisher of the newspaper, will give a short talk. The program will include Murray McDonald as master of ceremonies; Anne Barrows, concert contralto, and Don Nunez, all members of the newspaper staff; Julien Musafia, head of Long Beach State College piano department and assistant music critic of the newspaper; Vernon Overmeyer, piano soloist and accompanist for Miss Barrows; the 4 Bits of Harmony, barbershop quartet of Dick Montgomery, baritone; Nunez, bass; George Tait, tenor, and Murray Black, lead; and Syd Buszer, dinner hour strolling troubadour.

Parks Set Easter Play Programs

Park playgrounds will carry out an active Easter vacation week program, Duane George, associate director of recreation, said Saturday.

All park playgrounds will hold an Easter egg hunt at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Dancing, crafts and various Easter-connected activities are planned for pre-school aged youngsters.

Elementary school youngsters' program includes games, crafts, square and folk dancing.

For teenagers, games crafts, contests, social dancing and other events are scheduled.

Events also are planned for adults.

Events differ at various playgrounds, George said, advising that for particulars the park playground offices be contacted.

DEADLINE

Only Four Days to Register for June 5 Primary

Only four days remain for unregistered voters to sign up for the June 5 primary.

On the last day, Thursday, deputy registrars will remain on duty at City Hall through the evening hours as long as the expected late rush continues, City Clerk Margaret Heartwell announced Saturday.

Registrars also are stationed at numerous other places in Long Beach business districts.

Name Schools Week Officials

Orlo R. Peugh has been named chairman of the Long Beach Citizens Public Schools Week Committee, it was announced today.

Murray T. Courson has been appointed secretary for the group which will assist in the planning for the event in the Long Beach Unified School District.

Theme for the observance from April 30 through May 4 is "The Public School—America's Heritage and Strength." Visitations to schools and special displays will be featured.

OTHER MEMBERS of the citizens' committee are Perry H. Barrett, Melvin R. Berbower, Douglas J. Blair, Kenneth B. Conklin, William T. Corbusier, Herbert M. Cronquist, James S. Ellis, Arthur R. Erskine, John H. Ferguson, Henry A. Field, John L. Holbrook, Glen A. Houpt, William P. Kachmarik, Joseph M. Kennick.

Also, Benjamin C. Lewis, Harry R. Marland, Floyd O. Mason, Victor I. McCarty, Britton Miller, Kenneth R. Niles, W. Vernon Richardson, Kirby C. Serles, Emil M. Simich, G. Wesley Small, Earl A. Swenson, Sherwin W. Tubbs, Charles L. Vickers and Charles J. Wentz.

Factory Pay Average Sets L.B. Record

State officials have announced that the average Long Beach industrial worker earned $108.53 a week in February. The announcement said this was a high for the month.

John F. Henning, California Director of Industrial Relations, said the figure was a drop of $2.01 from January but topped February 1961 by $4.64 per week or 4.5 per cent.

The buying power resulting from these earnings was 3.6 per cent above the February 1961 figure, Henning said.

* * * *

HE ADDED that the major cause of February's drop from January earnings was contraction of the working week from 40.5 hours to 39.9 hours. He cited reduced overtime in auto, petroleum and aircraft industries, as well as poor weather.

The February workweek was four-tenths of an hour longer than that of 1961, said Henning. He said average hourly earnings dropped from January by 1 cent to $2.72, but were above 1961 by 9 cents.

Boys' Club Week to Be Observed

National Boys' Club Week will be marked this week with the four Long Beach Boys' Clubs holding events to be climaxed with a track and field meet Saturday at Long Beach City College.

The program, announced by Ray Stricklin, president, follows:

Downtown Branch, 1585 Chestnut Ave.: Doll carriage parade for little sisters of members, 7 p.m. Thursday.

East Branch, 1205 Freeman: ice-cream social, Dixieland band, Model T car display and movie, 6 p.m. Tuesday.

West Branch, 1858 Willard: William Adler, top billiard play, 7 p.m. Wednesday.

North Branch, 711 Via Wanda: Father-son comedy basketball game, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"National Boys' Club Week," said Stricklin, "highlights the year-round Boys' Club program which is designed to fight delinquency by promoting juvenile decency."

Ruling on Heiress' Case Due

Superior Court Judge Robert P. Kneeland in Santa Ana has promised an early ruling on a demurrer filed to toss out heiress Joan Irvine Burt's writ of mandate against the Irvine Co.

Mrs. Burt is seeking to force the Irvine Co. to allow her to have private legal counsel at board meetings. At a lengthy hearing Friday, Irvine Co. attorneys argued it would be chaos if each board member had a private attorney at board meetings.

Judge Kneeland took the case under submission late Friday to review written briefs submitted by both Mrs. Burt's attorney and the Irvine Co. counsel.

The case originally was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court in February, 1960, but Irvine Co. officials won a change of venue to Orange County Superior Court.

Big Gift Phase of Y Building Drive Opens

The big gifts phase of the Long Beach YMCA's $1.196 million "Buildings for Youth" campaign to expand YMCA facilities here opened last week under the charmanship of Earl A. Fast.

Fast has 50 prominent citizen-volunteers on his team including Norbert Dean, Robert A. Wenke, Harry J. Moore, Herman Parker, Weckford Morgan and Dr. John Morgan, vice chairmen.

Public phase of the campaign will be held the latter part of May.

Harry Buffum is chairman of the Citizens Committee sponsoring the "Building for Youth" campaign.

Norbert Dean, president of the Long Beach YMCA, says there is a critical need to fill the campaign quota to provide:

1. A community YMCA family-type center for the booming Los Altos — East Long Beach area.

2. An all-purpose type gymnasium for the Lakewood branch Y.

3. Complete the expansion and renovation of both the North Long Beach and Downtown YMCA branches.

Directing the citywide campaign is Bruce E. Gates of the national council of YMCAs. Dr. John Morgan heads a special committee in the Los Altos area, proposed locale of the community center YMCA building.

Going-Away Party for a Young Man

THE ARMED SERVICES have never held very closely to constitutional principles in either the trial or punishment of accused persons.

Through the years, however, public pressure has produced closer adherence to democratic and humane procedures.

Down in Norfolk, Va., the Marine Corps turned the clock back this week and imposed what clearly was cruel and unusual punishment on a youngster scarcely old enough to shave.

The youngster, age 20, had already served two years in a military prison for larceny and unauthorized leave. Technically, he had already been discharged from the service. But the Marines gave him a little farewell party.

The prisoner was escorted from his quarters by three drummers playing a death march. He was marched to a position front and center in a Marine formation. An order of discharge was read aloud. Then the prisoner was escorted between long rows of Marines who turned their backs on him as he approached. He was escorted to the gate, handed a paper bag containing his belongings, and released to resume his life as a private citizen.

All this was not quite as bad, of course, as the Civil War ceremony in which the prisoner, with head shaven and with the letter of his crime burned into his cheek by a hot iron, was escorted through the camp by drummers. The scar of that treatment was visible for the remainder of the man's life.

In the case of the young Marine, his experience has left no scar—except the hidden one within which will haunt him, and perhaps society, for the rest of his days.

It's the Season, the Reason . . .

HE WAS A MIDDLE-AGED MAN with a sag in the middle and an ingrained grumpiness. He smoked too many cigars, drank too much beer, and complained disproportionately about Elizabeth Taylor and public transportation.

Some had given him up as a hopeless case of irascibility and orneriness, a man jaded and sour. And then one Sunday morning, at an hour when he usually lay snoring like a moose, his wife saw him standing in the doorway with a light in his eye.

He had on a short-sleeved shirt, a billed cap, and the old army pants she had let out for him five times. She sat up in bed. He bent forward, rubbed his hands together, straightened up, and came down overhand in a movement that remided her at once of a dancing bear and, strangely, Sandy Koufax. Suddenly in her heart she knew that everything would be all right—until September at least.

"George," she exclaimed happily. "It's the baseball season again, isn't it?"

He pulled out a cigar, cocked one eye at her, and said in almost civil tones:

"You bet, kid. How did you guess?"

Armed Forces Go Jet First-Class

By the I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Defense Department air travel on commercial airlines in the United States cost $72.7 million last year, the bulk of it going for first-class flights.

Comptroller General Jacob Campbell indicated that the armed forces are too considerate of their various travelers.

Of the $72.7 million spent, he said, $49.3 million of it went for first-class tickets in spite of the fact that on the same plane—in the instances of jet travel—the fare would be 20 per cent less tourist.

He cited the case of an Army colonel who flew from Washington to Denver last fall to help plan an American Legion convention.

The officer went first class on an all-jet flight, the Army explaining that this was necessary because his mission "could not be satisfied with regular fare aircraft."

Campbell points out, however, that tourist accommodations were available on the same plane.

The Army went first class 65.5 per cent of the time last year, the Navy 79.9 per cent of the time, but the Air Force had the real big time spenders, going tourist but 4.3 per cent of the time.

DEVOTED FANS of the Congressional Record probably have the impression that members of the House and Senate are unusually polite to their political enemies and they are to them, as they do during debate, as "honorable" gentlemen or "able" or any number of courtly phrases.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R., La.) is noted for plain talk, however, with a tongue to match a sharp mind. In a brief exchange with Rep. L. Wayne Hayes (D., O.) this past week (during debate on the Peace Corps bill) Gross needled:

"The gentleman from Ohio has all the answers to all the questions asked anytime, any place."

"I thank you," Hays said.

Gross continued:

"I want to nominate him for the Five-H Club—Hell, How He Hates Himself."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Opponents of Brown's Big Spending Make Their Point

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Once again, Gov. Edmund G. Brown's lieutenants in the state legislature will try to force through a $2.9 billion budget submitted by the administration.

The dismal failure of the Brown administration to get its budget in the budget session of the Legislature proclaims the fact that the opponents of unbridled spending of taxpayer money may stand a slightly better chance of getting more reductions.

MacARTHUR

The fact that the Republicans were unsuccessful once in beating down the $2.9 billion dollar figure, indicates they can do it again, if they choose. Thus, in this second special session of the Legislature, it is anticipated more attention will be paid to the desires of the minority.

It does not mean this special session will adjourn without a budget. In 1958, former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight was faced with a similar problem. His problem, however, was not one of party politics, but rather the battle four years ago between northern and southern legislators.

Knight was ready one minute after adjournment of the special session with another call, and kept the legislators in virtual continuous session until they finally came up with a budget.

Gov. Brown, however, apparently believed up to the last minute that the Republicans would break ranks, as they have done in the past, and that he would get a budget.

Now, however, the Legislature can start all over again with the procedures necessary to passage of the budget bill. It should take about three days if differences are settled, and again, it could take three weeks.

Patently, someone has to give. And the giving probably will be on both the Republican and Democratic sides of the fence, for even with the bitter controversy, the art of compromise has not been lost.

The Republicans have made their point, which was that Gov. Brown's budget could be stopped.

It is a peculiar fact that reducing the budget is not of as great concern to a lot of legislators as is the political implication contained in the budget fight. Past history indicates that budget reduction campaigns save but little money for the people who pay the bills.

If California legislators looked far enough ahead to save taxpayers money in the future, they would authorize a real business study of state operations by private consultants experienced in the administration of big enterprises.

• • • •

SUCH A STUDY would tell the people just how much value they are getting for their tax dollar. Following which, if they were not getting enough value, the people could elect representatives to the Legislature who would insist that changes in administration and the application of modern business principles be initiated.

But as long as politics control economy, this is probably a hopeless cause, but at least, it's a good one to think about, as the day is not too far distant when the tax burden could break the back of the taxpayers.

DREW PEARSON

Meeting Between De Gaulle, Fanfani Historic Occasion

WASHINGTON—When President De Gaulle flew to Turin last week to confer with Premier Fanfani, it didn't make any big headlines in the U.S.A. But that meeting marked an important milestone in the fight against communism for which the United States can take some credit.

The specific reason for the De Gaulle-Fanfani meeting was the degree of cooperation to be worked out between Western European nations for a possible United States of Europe. But what is important is not the details of the differences, but the fact that these two leaders discussed the question of European unity at all.

PEARSON

The man who deserves initial credit for pushing a United States of Europe is Count Carlo Sforza, long in exile in the U.S.A. during Mussolini's day. He made a modest living lecturing to American universities and women's clubs, writing articles for American newspapers, meanwhile learning firsthand the advantages of American unity.

After the war when Sforza became foreign minister of the first Italian republic, he began preaching the doctrine of European unity. He told his colleagues how the industrial North in the United States had the great advantage of markets in the agricultural South and West; and he urged France, Italy, Belgium and Holland to get the same advantage by uniting.

I well remember the restless old Count Sforza in Rome at Christmas 1947. He was with us during part of the journey of the Friendship Train, which arrived with food from the American people just as Italy was suffering one of its worst winters. The Italian Communist party, biggest outside Russia, was blasting the train. But the middle-of-the-road Italian government was enthusiastic in its welcome.

It was cold in Rome that winter. And old Count Sforza, clad in a thin coat, his scholarly beard keeping the wind from his loose collar, paced up and down the station platform alongside the Friendship Train, talking about his great goal — a United States of Europe.

Count Sforza is dead now. Were he alive he could hardly believe the progress Europe has made toward unity. And part of it results from the wise statesmanship of two men — George Marshall and Dean Acheson — who have been excoriated by the right wing as pro-Communists.

• • • •

HOWEVER, their foresight in pioneering of the Marshall Plan paved the way first for European reconstruction, second for European unity. They achieved far more than the right-wing extremists who use name-calling as their chief weapon against communism.

• • • •

NOTE — To illustrate the remarkable change in French-Italian relations as evidenced by the De Gaulle-Fanfani talks, take a speech made by Mussolini in October, 1934. Standing before 500,000 Fascists in Milan, Mussolini announced: "Relations with France have improved." He meant what he said. But he had been blasting the French for so many months that the crowd didn't believe him. It jeered with laughter.

BOB HOUSER

Anti-Red Petitioners Deny Any Abridgement of Rights

PROOF THAT it isn't difficult to find anti-Communists in California is the apparent success of petition carriers now getting signatures on Assemblyman Louis Francis' initiative measure to "outlaw subversive activities in California."

However, some good citizens who agree with the intent of the proposed amendment to the California Constitution but who have carefully read the entire proposition, have honest misgivings about the amendment's Section 3.

HOUSER

On intent, the amendment denies political party status or property tax exemption to Communists or advocates of subversive doctrine, prohibits their use of public buildings and requires teachers and other employes of public institutions to answer congressional and legislative committee inquiries concerning Communist affiliation and subversion.

How do you decide who are Communists and subversive advocates? Section 3 says the finding would be made:

". . . by an appellate or superior court, or by the grand jury of any county in this state, or by the attorney general of the state of California, or by any court, officer, board, commission, agency or other body of the government of the United States making such a finding pursuant to law. . . ."

THOSE ALARMED by this say it appears that accusation by this wide range of potential accusers would amount to conviction as a Communist; that the accused would have no recourse; that the Section 3 method should be rewritten to provide for jury trial.

Attorney John W. Doran of Long Beach, circulating the petitions locally, disagrees with this appraisal and feels that apprehension over Section 3 is unwarranted. Doran maintains there IS provision for judicial review and that the accused have recourse to sue for slander or for malicious prosecution.

Doran also denied that such persons as a federal marshal or a collector of customs could, through accusation, nail somebody as a Communist. He said the language of Section 3 noting that the finding must be made "pursuant to the law." This reservation, he says, eliminates capricious abuse of the amendment and restricts this accusation power to persons and agencies already approved by the federal government, except for the state authority which the amendment adds.

DESPITE MR. DORAN'S explanation, and despite an opinion by the state legislative counsel that the amendment probably would be upheld as constitutional by the state supreme court, the controversy persists.

Some candidates for statewide office, including former Vice President Nixon have expressed doubt over the measure's constitutionality. On the other hand, some have endorsed itendorsed it without qualification. Endorsers include GOP attorney general candidate Richard J. Dolwig and local GOP assembly candidate George Deukmjian.

A major attack, but only against the Section 3 part, was made last week by the Los Angeles Times editorially, charging that the section would confer "new and incredibly dangerous authority on grand juries" and a host of others. Doran takes specific exception to the charge on grounds already cited above.

Assemblyman Francis, San Mateo Republican, has been almost exclusively preoccupied with Communist hunting and, almost literally, with flag waving, for which he does not apologize. But his activities have earned him the right-wing brand and a gerrymandered district which would make his reelection difficult.

Apparently, for both these reasons, Francis has announced he will not seek reelection but will devote his time to direct the statewide campaign for his initiative amendment. The petition requires some 420,000 valid signatures. It is estimated that more than 300,000 already are on the dotted line.

PUBLIC FORUM

Health Plan Pushed on Taxpayer Time

EDITOR:

In view of the much discussed medical care for the aged and advocates of other type compulsory health insurance, it would do well to recall the findings of a Congressional Subcommittee of some years ago where it was found that government employes were behind a campaign to pressure Congress into passing a national compulsory health insurance law. This campaign was planned inside the government, on government time, supported by the government's publicity and propaganda machine and paid for by the taxpayers.

Investigation revealed that headquarters for the drive for this scheme was in the Federal Security Agency in Washington. The staff and resources of the Bureau of Research and Statistics in the Social Security Administration were found to be devoted freely to the preparation of phamphlets and propaganda literature for the CIO, AFL and Physicians Forum.

The members of this Subcommittee, of both parties, unanimously agreed that the efforts of certain federal bureaucrats to organize pressure against Congress to advance their ideas and increase their authority were a threat to our representative institutions and it was agreed that, with democracy almost every where under attack, that these efforts must be exposed and fought.

Maritime Strike 'Deplorable'

EDITOR:

The present maritime strike of Pacific Coast unions is now in its third week with no agreement reached nor is there any sign that negotiations will end in a forthcoming settlement.

My letter is directed at your readers, you and your staff, in asking your help to bring this deplorable situation to an immediate termination. It has resulted in the fact that American Flag ships are tied up in ports with many thousands of tons of freight on board that cannot be discharged or released to the cargo owners, who are desperately in need of their materials.

Nation by Doctors and for Doctors?

EDITOR:

Often of late I have begun to wonder, and the question is this: 'Are we becoming a nation by the doctors, of the doctors, and 'for the doctors?"

There have been many rumblings in the past few years to indicate that this may be so, but the latest to call this to my mind is the Long Beach Naval Hospital incident.

• • • •

IT WOULD seem that a committee, presumably representing an association of doctors of all Long Beach, has taken it upon themselves to advise our Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Armed Services Committee regarding the need for a Navy Hospital in this area, not only by letter, but also by personal representation. All this despite the fact that it has been known for some time that the Congress of the United States has been devoting considerable time to an investigation of these very facts, and no doubt has a great deal more information on the subject than the Long Beach Medical Assn. could ever hope to obtain.

The Committee for Defense of the Long Beach Medical Association has overstepped its bounds, and has in fact entered the field of lobbying, for which it is required by law to be registered in Washington as such.

This is a matter which affects the welfare of thousands of persons, and should not be made a football for the benefit of a few local doctors who stand to lose a few dollars because such a hospital would make Medicare and some other programs unnecessary in this locality.

Visitors To Park Nursery Will Discover Tour of Facilities Is Real Botanical Treat

Long recognized as one of the finest, most complete supplier of nursery products in Southern California, Park Nursery, 3842 E. 10th St., is completing another major expansion.

Adding more than an acre to the big facility, and several attractive new buildings, the nursery thus is keeping pace with the growth of the Long Beach area.

From the vast stock Park Nursery will continue to provide quality merchandise at competitive prices, the policy adopted when the firm was founded many years ago.

NOT JUST A NURSERY

Park is more than a nursery in the modern concept.

Under the guidance of Fred Wiesenhutter and crews of well trained specialists, Park Nursery has grown into a virtual botanical garden paradise where home owners can find the most complete, healthy growth of plants, trees, shrubs and garden supplies possible.

Visitors are welcome to browse around the 5½ acres and view the exotic tropical garden settings, the exquisite Fuchsia growths and see the huge beds of plants ready for transfer to home and gardens. No finer offerings of Azaleas and Camellias can be found anywhere.

Rose lovers will find more than 7,000 Rose bushes from which selections can be made. Shade trees of varied sizes and fruit trees occupy another big section.

MUCH MORE

But beyond these offerings, Park Nursery provides customers with much, much more.

It has a high-style gift shop that is second to none.

Park Nursery's complete landscaping department, directed by William Abate, landscape architect is providing services to hundreds of homes and business firms in the Long Beach area.

The garden shop not only provides the finest of plants for exquisite settings but has a complete selection of garden benches, statutes, waterfalls, tables, potted plants and bedding plants. The garden shop also carries full lines of insecticides, fertilizers, tools and supplies to meet the needs of not only the home gardener but professional landscapers as well.

PLANTS GIFT WRAPPED

No larger selection of potted plants will be found anywhere. These will be gift wrapped with imported ribbons and papers and delivered anywhere in the area.

Complete lawn service is available at Park's, providing full renovation if needed or cleanup and pruning services.

The landscaping department welcomes conferences with anyone whether they have a small terrace or a large estate. Abate and his experts will discuss plantings, prepare drawings and the licensed landscape contractor will complete the work, no matter the size of the job.

The department also provides similar services for planters inside homes or buildings and offices.

OVER 50 YEARS OLD

The nursery was started by E. C. Wiesenhutter, father of the present owner, at 19th and Long Beach Blvd., more than 50 years ago. It then moved to Junipero and Broadway in 1914 and then to the site now occupied by Harriman-Jones Clinic on Cherry Ave., across from Bixby Park. This location gave the nursery the name Park, which it still retains.

In 1923 the elder Mr. Wiesenhutter moved to the present address where a brother had been operating a half-acre hot house development growing Maidenhair (fernery) for Los Angeles florists to use in bouquets.

The East 10th Street address was "out in the sticks at that time," explained Frederick Wiesenhutter. "They kept two cows in a shed behind the green houses." Mr. Wiesenhutter later bought out his brother's interests and began development of today's big nursery.

FINEST OF FUCHSIAS

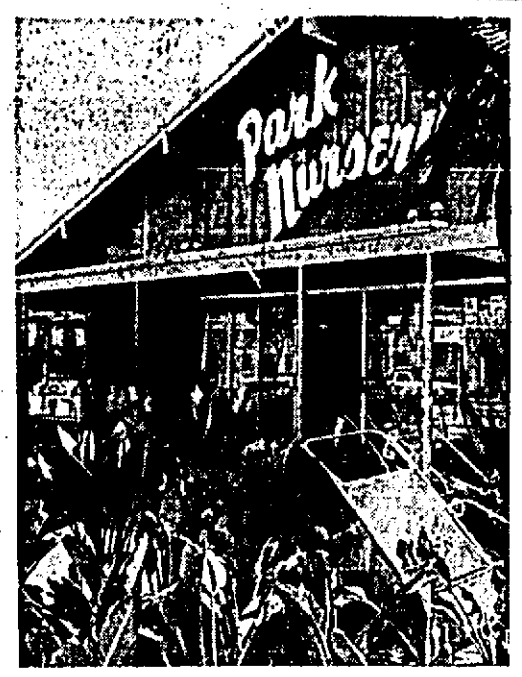

For years Park has been known for the outstanding selection of Fuchsias. These all are produced right in the Park Nursery facilities. While some plants are obtained from wholesale producers, Park Fuchsias are their own product.

Under the new concept at Park Nursery, visitors will find it a treat to visit the grounds any day of the year. While many nurseries are rather dormant except in the spring and summer season, Park has blooming potted plants available the year 'round.

FINE GIFT SELECTIONS

The gift shop, stocked with fine imports and exceptional American giftware was started largely as a Christmas shopping venture but now is a big part of the nursery with complete lines and beautiful gift wrapping available at all times.

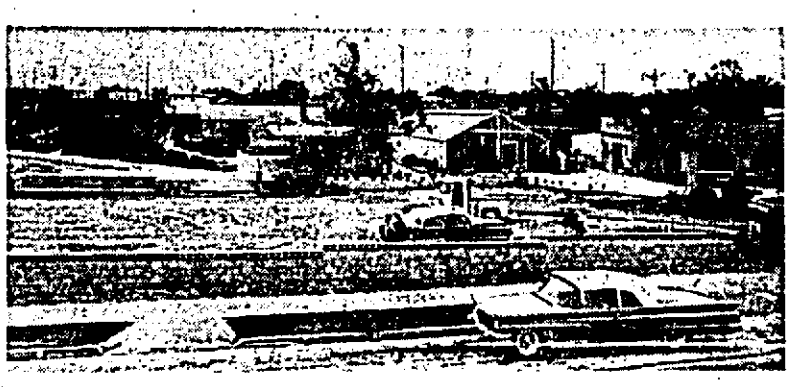

With the new expansion, in which Park took over more than an acre that had been school horticulture land, another half acre of free parking was provided in addition to providing room for additional buildings and floral beds.

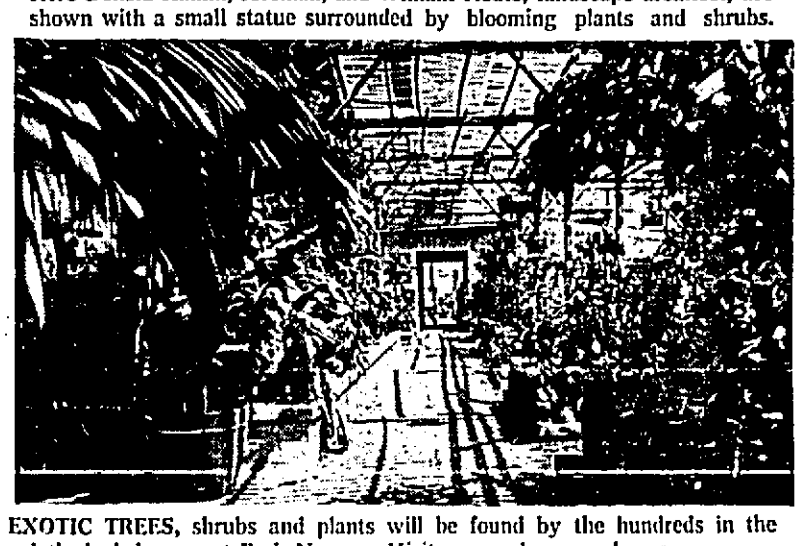

SALES OFFICES and the Gift Shop are located in this building near the center of Park Nursery.

GARDEN SETTINGS of varied kinds and sizes are offered by Park Nursery. Here Donald Hamm, foreman, and William Abate, landscape architect, are shown with a small statue surrounded by blooming plants and shrubs.

EXPANSION now under way at Park Nursery includes installation of the parking area in foreground and some new buildings in the rear.

EXOTIC TREES, shrubs and plants will be found by the hundreds in the lath-shaded areas at Park Nursery. Visitors are always welcome.

EXQUISITE GIFTS are found in Park's big Gift Shop. William Abate, landscape architect and buyer for the Gift Shop, is pictured with some of the gift items, many of them imported. The nursery also gift wraps and delivers potted blooming plants all year.

LANDSCAPING a Los Altos Avenue home, Park Nursery crewmen move large rocks into position. Complete landscaping is one of Park's outstanding services offered. Anything from a planter box for inside a home or office to full estate landscaping is provided at Park.

L.B. Federal S&L's Deposits Pour In

There was a "run" on the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association last week—but it was a run in reverse.

This time customers weren't lined up to take out deposits. They were lined up to put money in. They deposited $30 million in the firm in one week.

The deluge of customers brought beams to Tom Gregory, admittedly a bit bewildered at this inundation of depositors. Gregory had just rewon control of the association from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

• • • •

AFTER 23 months of government operation, during which deposits dwindled from a high of $96 million to $28 million, the association was returned to Gregory and the FHLBB wiped out all charges against the association and its management, a spokesman for the association said.

Gregory was returned to control of the firm April 2, marching into the offices with $5 million in new savings and 60 employes, many of whom had been discharged when the board seized the firm April 22, 1960.

Before the first day was over former customers had brought in a record of $24,278,658.28 for deposit. By the week's end the association had more than doubled the low mark of $28 million reached in the FHLBB operation, said a spokesman for the firm.

• • • •

"MORE THAN half a million dollars was lost to shareholders when they withdrew their funds as a result of the federal seizure and attendant publicity," said Gregory. "This amount we have set aside to repay these people and they can have it merely by coming in and asking for it." More than $100,000 was repaid to shareholders in the first week.

Gregory said he bears no ill feelings toward the present member of the FHLBB. "They deserve a lot of credit," he said, "in helping to work out this long and vexing controversy."

IT COST HIM

Just Got Into Bad Tax Habit

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Internal Revnue agents agree with Ralph A. Padgett, who says he has a habit of putting things off.

Padgett, 64-year-old jeweler, said in court that he always thought about figuring his income tax, but the deadlines came and went without his doing anything about it. Then, he said, he didn't file at all because he was afraid they'd find out about the other year.

Federal agents said a check back to 1929 showed Padgett never filed a federal return.

Padgett was found guilty specifically of evading taxes for 1955, 1956, and 1958. Judge William Warlick fined him $15,000.

Revenue agents said Padgett still owes an additional $13,000 in taxes, interest and penalties.

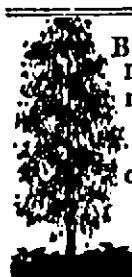

Kuchel Seeks to Free Funds for Smog Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., urged the government Saturday to release impounded funds for air pollution research so planned smog control studies in California can be launched.

In a letter to Secretary Abraham Ribicoff of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, Kuchel said California authorities were distressed by the fact that $425,000 which had been appropriated for the studies has been impounded by executive order.

This action, he added, has forced suspension of proposed contracts with the University of California at Riverside for exposing animals to air contaminated by automobile exhaust.

TROUBLE WITH FILMS . . .

Director Tells Movies' Errors

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everybody's got views on what's wrong with the movies. And some of the views make sense—such as those of director Edward Dmythryk.

"Screenwriting is poor," says Dmytryk, who has spent 40 of his 53 years in the business, "because too many first rate writers prefer to be third-rate directors."

Dmytryk maintains that a writer can't direct his own script objectively—he's too much in love with his own words. Said Dmytryk:

In recent years, there has been a big trend to make directors out of writers.

"How does a writer know anything about making a movie? For years, his job was finished the day the picture started shooting.

"Good writers, by nature, are introverted. Writing is really a form of escape."

• • • •

DIRECTORS, on the other hand, are the take-charge boys of the business—extroverts all.

"Studios are too timid about changing successful casting of stars," said Dmytryk.

He was the director who cast Dick Powell in tough melodramas such as "Murder, My Sweet."

"No one could see Powell as anything but Ruby Keeler's song-and-dance partner before this," Dmytryk recalls. Powell has since become a multi-millionaire. Dmytryk added:

• • • •

"STUDIOS always give the argument that the public will only pay to see their favorites in a certain type of role—for instance, since 'Room at the Top,' every script offered Laurence Harvey had him playing a heel. In 'Walk on the Wild Side,' I fought and fought to cast him as the warm, heroic Texas farm boy. And look what the picture is doing at the boxoffice. It's Columbia's top grosser at the moment."

OLD ORDER APPEARS TO BE CHANGING

New Generation May Dominate Oscar Race

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The old order changes, and the 33rd Academy Awards on Monday night will signal the arrival of a new generation in Hollywood.

No one knows the winners—only a foolish few would try to predict them. But those who collect the gilded Oscars are likely to represent a distinct break with the fading glitter of Hollywood's past.

Only two of the nominated stars—Spencer Tracy and Charles Boyer—date back to the movies' golden decade of the 30s. Nearly all of the acting nominees, star and supporting, are postwar products.

MONDAY NIGHT at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, the 2,500 voters of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences may well bestow instant stardom on a new crop of performers.

Here is how the major races appear to this fearless reporter:

Best actress—Audrey Hepburn was charming but miscast in "Breakfast at Tiffany's." Piper Laurie made an impressive comeback in "The Hustler," and Geraldine Page showed her vast skill in "Summer and Smoke."

But the race seems to narrow down to Sophia Loren ("Two Women") and Natalie Wood ("Splendor in the Grass"). If feeling against "Runaway" filming runs high, Miss Wood is likely to win.

Choice: Natalie Wood.

• • • •

BEST ACTOR—Boyer "Fanny" and Tracy "Judgment at Nuremberg" seem out of the running with the accent on youth. Stuart Whitman "The Mark" is a dark horse.

It's neck-and-neck between Paul Newman "The Hustler" and Maximillian Schell "Nuremberg." The latter had the advantage of originating his role on television.

Choice: Maximilian Schell.

Best picture—"The Guns of Navrone" was the most enjoyed film of the year and could win on that basis. "Fanny" was a charmer, while "Hustler," "Nuremberg" and "West Side Story" stressed artistic values.

• • • •

BEST SUPPORTING actress—Rita Moreno "West Side" has a good chance, Una Merkel "Summer and Smoke" and Lotte Lenya "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone" less so.

This is one race that narrows down to two veterans. Fay Bainter was the great strength of the otherwise unsuccessful "Children's Hour." Judy Garland was less impressive in "Nuremberg," but the drama of her comeback to films is perhaps too tempting for voters to pass up.

Choice: Judy Garland.

• • • •

BEST SUPPORTING actor—George C. Scott might have been a winner for "The Hustler," but his much-publicized request to be dropped from the race struck a sour note in Hollywood.

That leaves Jackie Gleason of the same film, Peter Falk "Pocketful of Miracles," Montgomery Clift "Nuremberg" and George Chakiris "West Side Story." The latter film seems likely to dominate the awards, hence—

Choice: George Chakiris.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Sid Chaplin's Wife She 'Act a Leetle'

By EARL WILSON

Charlie Chaplin's daughter-in-law, Noelle Adam, is just about the shapeliest most vivacious, most charming actress on Broadway—but she tells it much more colorfully.

"I sink I'm a stagehand who act a lettle," she says.

The "Beautiful Wife" of handsome Sydney Chaplin explained the other day, sitting in their Central Pk. W. apartment with an ear cocked for messages from their 19-month-old son Stephen a couple of rooms way, that she had many "problems" in Richard Rogers' hit, "No Strings," "shonjay" (change) the scenery.

• • • •

IN THIS SHOW, the actors frequently lug or push the scenery around; learning the lines was for Noelle not so hard as learning where to move the furniture.

"I fell a 'undred times because I couldn't find the marks to put," she told me. "In Cleveland, I push a screen too much. It all come down. I theenk 'Wot have I done?' "

But the only complaint against Noelle now is that she isn't seen often enough. Bravo to the genius who thought that a photographer's assistant (that's what she plays) should mostly wear black tights and run around with her chest thrust forward.

• • • •

SYDNEY WAS just rushing out to pick up the latest new Jaguar the other day when I was there. Noelle was kind enough to ask "Would you like a lettle port?"—I would—and, as she sipped hers, she spoke fondly about the car.

"But eet's a bachelor car," she protested. "We can't even put de baby in!"

The baby Stephen "lewk like" his grandfather—"he has zat curly hair . . . blue eyes . . ." and Grandfather Charlie has seen him several times, though new babies of course are no novelty to Grandfather Charlie.

"YES, 'ee's going to be a father again . . . eight times already . . . 10 with Sydney and Charlie! They say he's in great shape. I guess so!"

Noelle and her husband first met in Sardi's about four years ago, when she was "wiz a ballet, 'Broken Date.' " Gene Kelly introduced them. And now Sydney sees her mostly at home or after the theater—thus far he hasn't even been able to see her in "No Strings."

" 'Eez working in 'eez show," she explains.

THE WEEK-END WINDUP . . . Herb Shriner turned down a $225,000 offer to become TV spokesman for a toothpaste company . . . Flamenco dancer Jose Greco's son Jose Luis, 9, joined the cast of "A Gift of Time" . . . Jerry Lester shucked his shoes and Twisted barefoot at The Roundtable . . . Screenwriter Evan Hunter says he'll take the first draft of the "Marnie" script to Monaco to show to Princess Grace.

The Lance Reventlows (Jill St. John) are celebrating their second ann'y with a skiing trip to Colorado . . . Inger Stevens may nab the Julia Harris role in the touring company of "Shot in the Dark" . . . Now there's a novelty baseball tune (by Greg Brand) called "I Love Maris in the Springtime" . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: An air raid shelter, it has been noted is a Krush-proof box.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Some girls never grow up. They think every man they meet is Santa Claus.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's almost income tax time, which recalls Goodman Ace's line: "Who says you can't be wounded by a blank?"

ALAN KING SAYS at the Waldorf that many women who are dieting sneak a few candies while watching TV: "They figure that if it's dark, and nobody is watching them, they won't gain any weight." That's earl, brother.

SIDEWALK SENATE

DO YOU FAVOR COMPULSORY RETIREMENT AT AGE 65?

(Asked at Broadway and Pine Avenue.)

JOSEPHINE CHANCE, 1535 Golden Ave., secretary: "That's too young. We're living longer; our health is better. I hear lots of people gripe because they have come to retirement age. They'd rather be independent, make their own way, instead of Social Security or any lesser income.

CHANCE ROSE

PHILIP ROSE, 5840 Conant St., psychologist: I'm not in favor. It depends on the individual—his health, his intellectual ability, etc.

MARILYN BRADY, 121 Santa Ana Ave., bookkeeper: I don't think it's right. A person at 65 has as much intelligence and ability as younger people—and look at all that experience!

BRADY PAICH

LILLIAN PEDIGO, 338 W. Poplar St., Compton, homemaker: Any number of people at that age are quite capable of working on.

FLORENCE GENDRON, Villa Riviera, artist: No, there shouldn't be compulsory retirement at 65 or any other age. I'm going to work until I drop in my tracks.

GENDRON SYLVESTER

PAT SYLVESTER, 4050 Pine Ave., homemaker: A person of 65 has experience and training—and that experience is valuable.

FRANDO PAICH

BILL FRANDO, 1958 Magnolia Ave., rug cleaner: Not everyone, No. It should be up to the person whether he wants to retire or not.

SALLY PAICH, 937 Magnolia Ave., homemaker: If they feel they want to retire at 65, or if they want to work longer, it should be up to them.

$3-Million Newporter Inn Opens

A plush resort hotel, dubbed the Newporter Inn and heralded as the Southland's finest such hostelry, starts a four-day grand opening today.

Built at cost of $3 million, the Newport Beach hotel is a three-story structure of 115 deluxe rooms, including several suites; a restaurant, shops, nine-hole golf course and two swimming pools.

Studding the property are four villas, each of three bedrooms and with its own swimming pool.

Owner-builder George D. Buccola of Newport Beach imported an electrically controlled fountain from Austria to grace the grounds.

* * * *

HE OPENED the hostelry to the Orange County Press Club, city and county officials, and civic leaders as a preview showing.

William Munce, vice president of the Newporter Hotel Corp., said that German-born Oscar Zink will be chef d'cuisine, coming from a swank Phoenix hotel. Arthur V. Allen will be general manager and Ray Schmitz will be resident manager.

Decor of the hotel is modern, but with a nostalgic touch of yesteryear. It has a "Regency Room" and one in New Orleans style.

The hotel, on Jamboree Road near Coast Highway, is on 20 acres of land. It overlooks Newport Harbor and Newport Dunes on one side and Irvine Coast Country Club on the other.

U.A.R. Releases Frenchmen Held as Israel Spies

CAIRO (UPI) — The State Security Court Saturday ordered the release of four Frenchmen and seven Egyptians charged with spying for Israel and with plotting to assassinate President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The surprise move cleared the way for possible resumption of Franco-U.A.R. relations broken at the time of the Suez invasion in 1956.

Informed sources said the U.A.R. action resulted from the French decision to grant independence to Algeria and Nassar's efforts to improve Arab-French relations since the Algerian cease-fire was signed.

Baby Suffocates

COMMERCE (UPI) — Six-week-old Tamora Ann Wagner suffocated in her crib Saturday. Her mother, Mrs. William Wagner, said she found Tamora dead when she got up to feed the infant.

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION
SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION

After 21, common Kidney or Bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from fitful nerves, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast.

HOW TO FIGHT ASTHMA & BRONCHITIS ATTACKS

At the first sign of wheezing, short breath, or cough-spasm from recurring Bronchial Asthma or Bronchitis, start taking New, quick acting MENDACO. It works fast to combat allergy, relax bronchial tubes, thin and help remove thick, choking phlegm. This usually eases breathing fast, allays coughing; thus promotes sounder sleep. Get MENDACO at druggists. Feel better fast.

MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER MAKES PLEDGE

Vows to Restore Slain Dad's Reputation

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP)—A 20-year-old college coed Saturday pledged to use the millions in her murdered father's estate to offset damage she feels his reputation suffered in death.

"Daddy was our whole family and after this is all over, we will devote his estate to reestablishing his good name," said Valerie Brenhouse.

The Pembroke College coed spoke on behalf of her mother, two sisters and a brother in making the pledge at a news conference in a home next door to the one in which wealthy financier Maitland Brenhouse was found shot to death Thursday.

As the girl was expressing sorrow for whoever shot her father to death, police continued questioning a 34-year-old commission sales merchant who was being held on $150,000 bail as a material witness in the slaying.

"Daddy, if he was alive, would tell you that whoever killed him was not in his right mind or else they got the wrong person," the girl said in a steady voice.

Soon after the murder was discovered in the fashionable home where Brenhouse lived after having become estranged from his wife, Nora, 47, police noted that his free-wheeling financial dealings "may have hurt some people."

Authorities also disclosed that the 50-year-old college economics professor turned wizard financier was something of a man with the ladies.

"My father had made enough money and he planned to resume teaching," the daughter told the news conference

After questioning more than 60 persons, some of them residents of this exclusive Westchester County area, William Degna, 34, of White Plains, was held as the material witness.

Dist. Atty. Leonard Rubenfeld explained his holding Degna by saying "we feel he has information he is withholding that is vital to this investigation."

Dodgers, Braves Tangle Today

By GEORGE LEDERER

Don Drysdale and Lew Burdette, two of the National League's best and also most controversial pitchers, are rivals at Blair Field this afternoon in the final exhibition game of the spring.

The occasion is Long Beach's second annual junior baseball benefit game, the innovation of Dodgers general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi and co-sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram. It matches the Dodgers and Braves in the first all-major league game at Long Beach in 15 years. Game time is 1:30.

Both clubs are donating net receipts to Long Beach's growing junior baseball program. Thirteen leagues, ranging from Little League to American Legion junior teams, will receive equal shares of the gate to purchase uniforms and other equipment.

The Dodgers defeated Dallas-Ft. Worth, 5-3, in last year's inaugural and distributed $3,769 among 11 junior leagues. Receipts from today's game may be nearly doubled. Dallas-Ft. Worth received 30 per cent of the gross gate, but the Braves, through the courtesy of president John McHale, are asking reimbursement only for expenses.

Another capacity crowd of 4,500 is expected to be on hand when Mayor Edwin Wade throws out the first ball to City Manager John Mansell. All box and reserved seats have been sold, but 2,000 general admission tickets, priced at $1.50, will go on sale at 10 a.m.

Each club will display at least three opening day line-up members. The Dodgers, under the direction of coaches Leo Durocher and Greg Mulleavy, are bringing Ron Fairly, Wally Moon and Tommy Davis. The Braves, coached by Jimmy Dykes and Whitlow Wyatt, will show Eddie Mathews, Roy McMillan, Del Crandall and Lee Maye.

Crandall, the probable opening day catcher for Warren Spahn, will play first base today. Probable lineups:

BRAVES		DODGERS
Roy McMillan	ss	Dick Tracewski	ss
Del Crandall	1b	Larry Burright	2b
Tommie Aaron	rf	Ron Fairly	cf
Eddie Mathews	3b	Wally Moon	lf
Lee Maye	cf	Tommy Davis	rf
Lou Klimchock	2b	Tim Harkness	1b
Mike Krsnich	lf	Ken McMullen	3b
Bob Uecker	c	Norm Sherry	c
Lew Burdette	p	Don Drysdale	p

Drysdale and Burdette will be tuning up for starting assignments later in the week. Drysdale (13-10 last year) is scheduled to face Cincinnati Thursday night at Dodger Stadium. Burdette (18-11) draws the Giants at Candlestick Park Wednesday.

Strangely, Drysdale and Burdette did not meet last year. They have dueled, however, in many pitching classics, topped by the memorable 1959 playoff game at the Coliseum. Neither figured in the 12-inning decision that catapulted the Dodgers into the World Series.

Their last meeting was a classic, too. Drysdale tossed a two-hitter and emerged with a 2-0 victory over Burdette, who allowed five hits at County Stadium, Sept. 11, 1960.

Controversy surrounds both righthanders. Burdette is accused of throwing a spitter. Drysdale has been accused of throwing at the hitters. There is never a dull moment when these two are on the mound. There shouldn't be today, even for an exhibition game.

Drysdale will be followed by rookie lefthanders Pete Richert and Nick Willhite and, if necessary, by righthanded rookies Thad Tillotsen and Jack Smith. Burdette's successors will be Bob Shaw, Tony Cloninger and Don McMahon, all regulators or top reliefers in the Braves' rotation.

Larry Sherry and Ed Roebuck are other Dodger pitchers who will appear, but only on the sidelines. Roebuck will test his left knee, bruised severly by Giant Ernie Bowman's line drive at Phoenix Friday.

Drysdale's length of service today will depend mainly on Roebuck's condition. If Roebuck shows no ill effects, Drysdale may try for six innings. But if Roebuck cannot throw properly, Drysdale will work only two innings today and be saved for possible relief appearances in the first two games against the Reds.

In Saturday night's exhibition game at San Diego, Duke Snider's fourth-inning homer produced the only runs as the Dodgers scored their first shutout of the season, defeating Milwaukee 2-0.

Artful Arnie Nears 3rd Masters Title

Shoots 69 to Lead by Two

By MILTON RICHMAN

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, aiming to atone for last year's memorable blowup, maintained his two-stroke lead through the third round of the Masters Golf Tournament Saturday with a three-under-par 69.

A gallery of more than 40,000, largest ever in the history of this event, saw the solemn-looking 32-year-old Palmer start slowly on the first two holes and then shoot a 37-32 for a 54-hole total of 205 that gave him a two stroke lead over onrushing Dow Finsterwald, who fired a seven-under-par 65 to take over second place with 207.

Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa, who began Saturday's third round in second place, two strokes behind Palmer, carded a one-under-par 35-36—71 that dropped him to third place with 209, one stroke ahead of U. S. Open champion Gene Littler, who played in the same twosome with Palmer and had a 36-35—71.

* * * *

PALMER, reminded everywhere he goes of that horrendous double bogey six on the final hole that enabled Player to beat him for the Masters' title a year ago, has virtually dedicated himself to eradicating that blemish from his golfing background.

"I've won the Masters twice," he said, following Saturday's third straight sub-par round, "but it seems the only thing everyone remembers is how I lost it on the 18th hole last year.

"Well, I'm in front now and I hope I stay there."

With only a two-stroke lead over the determined 26-year-old Player before the start of play Saturday, Palmer got off on the wrong foot under overcast skies when he pushed his very first tee shot into a clump of trees on the right.

His second shot was no bargain, either, winding up to the right of the green, and to compound the damage he chipped poorly and had to settle for a bogey five on the 400-yard opening hole.

* * * *

THAT TURNED out to be his only bogey of the day, however, and before he was finished, Palmer, who won this event in 1958 and again in 1960, picked up four birdies.

As it turned out, Palmer needed every one of them because the curly-haired 32-year-old Finsterwald, often scorned as "too conservative," fired seven birdies and had 12 one-putt greens as he came

CELTS ROMP

Can Lakers Rebound?

BOSTON (AP)—Neither the winning Boston Celtics nor vanquished Los Angeles was thinking in terms of a short series following Saturday's National Basketball Association playoff finals opener.

The Celtics, after a slow start, rallied to whip the Lakers 122-108, but in the dressing rooms afterward there weren't many thoughts of 1959 when Boston swept the same foe in four straight.

"I'm afraid the Lakers can bounce back big tomorrow," Celtics' coach Red Auerbach said. "They've been doing it all year. And their coach, Fred Schaus, has a great knack along those lines."

"If we can take one tomorrow we're right in the thick of it again," Schaus said in the Lakers' room. "I think we'll do it."

Trailing 24-15 in the opening period, Boston got a three-point play from crippled Frank Ramsey, then saw old pro Bob Cousy either score or assist on the Celtics' next 11 points.

"I've long ago stopped trying to figure it out," Cousy said, "but I felt great today. I wasn't exhausted from Thursday night's final with Philadelphia as I felt I might. We got off to slow start today but were more tired mentally than physically.

"In that state it was good we fell behind at the start. It woke us up."

* * * *

THE GAME remained tight until late in the second quarter when Cousy fed Ramsey a sleight-of-hand pass and scored two long set shots to begin the drive toward victory.

In that same second stanza, pesky K. C. Jones scored six points, intercepted several passes and assisted two more buckets while Bill Russell and Jim Loscutoff contributed seven points each to the Celts to a 60-52 halftime lead.

K. C. Jones continued to play although he suffered a broken nose in a collision with a Jim Krebs elbow in the second quarter.

LOS ANGELES star Elgin Baylor, the highly publicized Army private who continues to play on passes and furloughs, topped the Lakers with 35 points while Jerry West had 21 and Rudy LaRusso 18.

In addition to the national television audience, a Boston Garden crowd of 7,467 watched the opener. The second game will be played here today before the two teams shift to Los Angeles for games No. 3 and 4 on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Crowd Lines Fairway to Watch Arnold Palmer Hit From Rough Saturday

Pender Rips Britisher

BOSTON (UPI) — Challenger Paul Pender regained his share of the middleweight championship Saturday night with a decisive unanimous decision over British titlist Terry Downes, the Cockney bookmaker who became champion when Pender retired in their last fight.

Downes, blood gushing from his nose and a deep gash over his left eye, was on the short end of all three scoring cards. There was no suggestion of a close "Boston decision" wherein the local fighter is favored.

Pender won the cards of the two judges, 145-143, and 146-141, and that of the referee, 144-143. He was a 147-142 winner of the UPI card.

Downes won only two rounds in the fight — the first and the fifth—and it was Pender on a landslide thereafter before an 11,500 Boston Garden crowd.

Downes, who lost a TKO to Pender here more than a year ago before winning the title on Pender's surrender in London last July, suffered the cut beside his nose in the sixth round. The deep gash over the left eye opened in the 12th round.

The victory gave Pender a title recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe for an expected title-clearing bout with Gene Fullmer, the middleweight king recognized by the National Boxing Association.

It was Downes' nose—which needed 14 stitches after his first fight with Pender here in July 1961—that was Pender's pet target. Pender, fighting in angry free-swinging flourishes particularly after being driven against the ropes, first drew blood from a small cut near Downes' eye in the fourth round.

While Pender was aiming a steady series of left jabs and an occasional short right at Downes' bleeding targets, the British boxer continued to concentrate on the body attack which had forced Pender's retirement after nine rounds in London last July.

Massachusetts' boxing officials, concentrating heavily on rules protecting the boxers as a result of the Benny (Kid) Paret death in New York, did not interrupt the bout though the referee paid close attention to Downes' wounds.

There were no knockdowns in the bout though Pender accidentally pushed Downes between the upper strands of the ring ropes in the eighth round and again in the fifth. Neither was ruled a knockdown by referee Jimmy McCarron.

"The next guy I want is Fullmer," said Pender later in his dressing room.

Baseball Season to Open on Monday

Sports Merry-Go-Round

Executive Sports Editor

Dodgers, Yanks—Who Else?

Elsewhere in this section you'll note that our staff members made their predictions on the forthcoming major league races. Like the rest of the "experts" throughout the nation, our gang went along with the Yankees and Dodgers to triumph in their respective circuits.

It's impossible to pick against the Yankees unless—as Don Hardin claims—one allows sentiment to stand in the way of better judgment.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

The Dodgers — as even boss Walter O'Malley declares in Jerry Wynn's Man-to-Man column today—have the best team in their circuit. They also have ingredients to be the most erratic.

I feel sorry for Walter Alston, the field pilot. He is squarely on the spot. Anything short of a pennant for the Dodgers possibly means his job.

"Everybody says the Dodgers should have won easily last year," sighed the quiet man after a troublesome game in Florida a few weeks ago.

"But look here. We led the league in strikeouts, as we always do AND we also led in hit batsmen and home runs given up. We also were a very bad sixth in earned-run-averages and runs allowed.

"Nobody thinks about that. All they remember is that the Dodgers led the league in strikeouts, so they should have won the pennant.

"Another thing. We made more errors last season than any Dodger team in recent history. We were fifth in defense last year, while we're usually the best in the National League.

"I hope the boys got all their wild pitches, gopher balls and fielding blunders out of their system last year because if they haven't they may star in Spokane when June rolls around."

SURPRISINGLY, the defending champion Reds are given little chance anywhere of repeating. I thought Cincinnati was a lucky team last year and I can see them (on paper) as being no better than fourth.

The club I like as most capable of toppling the Dodgers is St. Louis. I'm not alone in that respect, either.

The name of Johnny Keane will never send autograph seekers into a frenzy because the Cardinal pilot is an unknown. Yet, he's one of the most impressive baseball strategists I've ever seen.

He's got a solid team—the Cards LED the N.L. in pitching last season, if you didn't realize it, and were SECOND in hitting—and you can't forget that after Keane took over as pilot in midseason, St. Louis posted the BEST won-lost record in the league.

SAN FRANCISCO also is solid, but does any team in San Francisco ever win a pennant? No. The Giants and 49ers annually fold like $4.95 pup tents when the real racing commences. I will never pick a San Francisco team until one of them shows me it can win a pennant.

Milwaukee could collapse horribly this year, even though the Braves have a crackerjack infield. Ponder what might happen if Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette run out of gas . . . and don't be surprised if this is the year the tank springs a leak.

Pittsburgh is no better than its fifth place team of '61, while everybody knows Chicago, Philadelphia, Houston and the Mets are around just for the exercise . . . or laughs.

WHO WILL FINISH SECOND to the Yankees? While everybody seems to favor Detroit, I don't. The Tigers made a magnificent run last term, but I think they shot their best bolts in so doing.

Al Lopez' Chicago White Sox intrigue me. They look like the old Chisox go-go outfits of a few seasons back.

"We're going to revolutionize baseball with singles and running like hell," Lopez told us in Florida. "I've got Jim Landis, Luis Aparicio, Charlie Smith and Mike Hershberger (.310 in '61 at San Diego) as guys who can run."

The Chisox also have Joe Cunningham at first base, Sherm Lollar catching and a solid mound department in Juan Pizarro, Early Wynn, Frank Baumann, Ray Herbert and Turk Lown. If Herb Score finally comes back, look out for the Chisox.

THE REST OF THE A.L. seems to drop drastically after the three already-mentioned squads. I give Cleveland some chance for a part of the purse because young manager Mel McGaha impresses me in the same manner as Keane.

I don't think Billy Hitchcock will be able to handle a prima donna Baltimore club. A few examples, which can't be printed here, were shown when California writers were in Miami last month.

Obviously, nobody imagines Boston, Kansas City, the Angels, Senators or Twins will scare anybody, except their poor managers.

Well, that's our summation. Please destroy it immediately after reading.

Snider's Big Blast Powers Dodgers Over Braves, 2-0

Moeller allowed the Braves only four hits and struck out 15. Moeller, who came on in the sixth, accounted for seven of the strikeouts.

Los Angeles got only three hits. Carl Willey retired the first 11 Dodgers in order. Then, with two out in the fourth, Wally Moon singled and Snider followed with his home run.

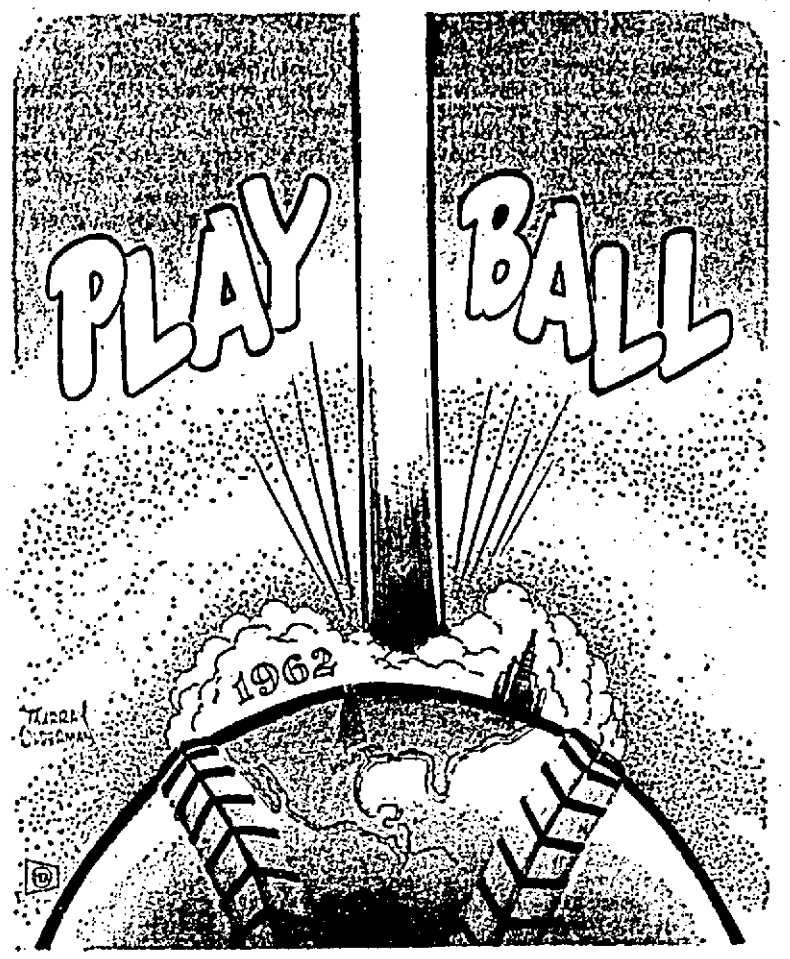

The game drew a crowd of 10,232, a record for an exhibition at Westgate Park.

DIS AND DATA—Bill Feiring, game committee chairman and Long Beach Nat. 1 baseball booster, will be honored in pre-game ceremonies . . . Chuck Stevens, head of the Baseball Players' Assn., will present the Helms Foundation trophy to Feiring for his long and meritorious service to youth . . . Umpires for today are Matt Sawyer and Doug Harvey of the National League and Cal Cartwell of the Pacific Coast League . . . Eddie Mathews will be making his first local appearance since 1948, when he starred for Santa Barbara High in a CIF playoff victory over Wilson at Manhattan Beach. Hank runs and a brother Frank followed in the play-off game . . . L.B. fans also will be getting their first look at Dodger rookie sensation Larry Burright, still a possible starter at second base . . . Another rookie to watch is the Braves' Tommie Aaron, younger brother of Hank . . . Tommie has a good chance to remain with the Braves at their No. 1 utility outfielder and first base man.

Dodgers, Angels to Start Tuesday in Full Schedule

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Kennedy's opening day pitch Monday will signal the start of the 1962 baseball season with the New York Yankees heavily favored to repeat as American League champions and a jolly old free-for-all to oust the defending champion Cincinnati Reds forecast in the National.

It's a season in which there'll be 10-team races in both leagues for the first time in history, in which the men with the long tapered bats will take aim at Roger Maris' mark of 61 homers and in which N. L. "expansion" into Houston, Tex., and New York is expected to help set new all-time attendance records.

Commissioner Ford Frick and league presidents Warren Giles and Joe Cronin are predicting attendance will reach the 20-million mark and that both pennant races will be spirited but the only thing really certain is that it will be the longest season ever for long-suffering pitchers.

The Yankees are odds-on—from 1 to 2 to 2 to 7 depending upon whether you're on Broadway or in Las Vegas—while the Los Angeles Dodgers are about a 7-5 favorite to edge out the San Francisco Giants in a tight N.L. race. The St. Louis Cardinals and Milwaukee Braves are also rated prime N. L. contenders with the Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates placed in the role of longshots.

The Reds begin the defense of their N. L. title in a traditional "advance opener" against the Philadelphia Phillies in Cincinnati, Monday, while President Kennedy will head a host of celebrities on hand at the new District of Columbia Stadium when the Detroit Tigers and Senators open the A. L. season in Washington, D.C.

The races begin in earnest on Tuesday with Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, New York at St. Louis, Chicago at Houston, Cincinnati at Los Angeles and Milwaukee at San Francisco in the N. L., and Minnesota at Kansas City, Los Angeles at Chicago, Baltimore at New York and Cleveland at Boston in the A. L.

A crowd of 45,000, largest in Washington, D.C., history, is expected at the presidential opener and a near-capacity turnout of 30,000 is anticipated for the Reds' opener in Cincinnati.

CALLED BEST PITCHING PRESIDENT

Pressure Is on JFK in Monday Opener

By WALTER T. RIDDER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Weather permitting at 1 p.m. (EST) Monday, president John F. Kennedy will uncork the first pitch of the 1962 major league baseball season.

As presidents go, Kennedy is probably the best hurler in presidential history. Last year, his first turn on the presidential mound, he loosed a couple of beauties which drew admiration from players and spectators alike.

William Howard Taft is generally credited with being the first president to toss out the opening pitch. What with his girth and poundage, he was far from a lean and hungry athlete. His pitch therefore did more for baseball and presidential tradition than for athletic records.

• • • •

TAFT ANYWAY preferred golf, and eye-witnesses to his throw recorded that his motion resembled that of a golf swing, not a baseball pitcher.

Woodrow Wilson, Warren Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover all had their stints on the presidential rubber, but none hurled with any distinction. Like Taft, Wilson was primarily a golfer, although this might be question in light of the fact that he wooed and won Edith Galt Bolling on Washington's Rock Creek golf course.

This took some doing because Wilson had to whisper his sweet nothings between slashes at the Gutta Percha ball and in the presence of the omniscient secret service men.

Both Cal Coolidge and Herbert Hoover preferred fishing to the national pastime, although Grace Coolidge, the president's wife, was an ardent baseball fan.

Franklin D. Roosevelt gave off great gobs of personality when he threw out the opening ball. The famous grin, the cigarette holder, the jaunty hat were all there and if the president's peg wasn't much more than little league stuff, at least the patrons of Griffith Stadium got a great show for their money.

Peppery Harry S. Truman put lots of stuff on the ball, but it flew erratically and neither very fast nor very far. Truman enjoyed politicing at the game, however, and gave the impression that he was enjoying himself immensely.

Exactly the opposite was true of the golfer-fisherman president, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Eisenhower didn't even show up for one opening game, a breach of tradition which produced a minor political crises.

• • • •

EISENHOWER was saved by rain. The opening day's game was postponed and the president rushed to Washington from the Masters golf tournament at Augusta to be on hand for the expected presidential performance. Ike never did look comfortable along the third base line and one always had a feeling he couldn't wait for the game to end.

Monday, Kennedy will open not only a new season but also a new baseball stadium. The new Washington Municipal Stadium has supplanted venerable old Griffith Stadium and when the Senators take on the Tigers it will be first game ever played in the 50,000 seat arena. It is perhaps fitting that the best presidential pitcher in history should dedicate the brand new playing field.

Batter up! Play ball!

"Sandy Koufax—The Secret That Made Him a Whiz" is the title of an article featured in the June issue of Mickey Mantle's Baseball Magazine, on sale now at news stands.

Written by I. P-T baseball writer George Lederer, the profile of the Dodger strikeout king relates the turning point of Sandy's career, the day he became a pitcher.

RIG NAMES LINEUP

Grba Opens Against Sox

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.P-T Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO—Manager Bill Rigney made it official Saturday, naming Eli Grba to face the Chicago White Sox in the American League lid-lifter on Tuesday.

The Serbian prince will be seeking his first victory in the city where he was born 27 years ago. Grba lost two heart-breakers in the Windy City last year with teammates' errors deciding both issues.

It will be the second opening-game assignment for the muscular righthander, Grba having defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2, when this all began in April of last year.

"It's always a great honor to pitch the opening-day game," said Grba after learning of the assignment. "This is a double honor for me since Chicago is my hometown and I have many relatives and friends there. I would like to show them I can win there."

• • • •

IN SUPPORT of Grba, Rigney named the following lineup:

Eddie Yost, 3b; Billy Moran, 2b; Albie Pearson, rf; Lee Thomas, cf; Leon Wagner, lf; Bobby Rodgers, c; Frank Leja, 1b; Joe Koppe, ss; Grba, p.

Only Yost, Pearson and Grba were in the lineup at Baltimore a year ago with Rodgers the only other man in the organization. Moran, Leja and Koppe were acquired by cash purchase and Thomas and Wagner by trade during the season.

Rigney said this lineup will open no matter if righthander Early Wynn or southpaw Juan Pizarro starts for Chicago. The manager thinks it will be Pizarro (14-7). Normally, Rigney would go with righthand hitters Steve Bilko and Ken Hunt, but both are sidelined with injuries.

• • • •

IMPROVING but not expected to be 100 per cent battle-ready, Bilko's injury (a pulled leg muscle) leaves the Angels with a surplus of left-handed hitters and no right-hand-hitting first baseman. In an effort to gain two-way punch at the initial sack, Rigney has been working Yost there during infield practice.

"It certainly wouldn't be a steady thing for Eddie," said Rigney, "but it would be a

WYNN

O'MALLEY

By JERRY WYNN

He won't be in the starting lineup, he may not even make an appearance on the field, but there will be one person at the opening of Dodger Stadium Tuesday whose presence will transcend all others.

He is Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers and the general who fought and won the battle of Chavez Ravine.

Would he call the opening of Dodger Stadium a dream come true?

"Yes," O'Malley replied with a twinkle in his Irish eyes. "For 10 years we had planned to build the stadium in Brooklyn. Now, after four years, a referendum, lawsuits and political haggling, we have it in Los Angeles."

Compared to all others, is it the best ballpark ever built?

"I hope so. Comparisons are not always fair. We like ours."

What features does Dodger Stadium have that others do not?

"Dugout seats, no posts or columns, level parking and parking for 16,000 cars, best field lighting, light and frothy in appearance."

Are there any features that are personal whims of yours?

"Big elevators, big aisles, big seats, good concessions, huge scoreboards, good public address system."

Looking back at the years the Dodgers played at the Coliseum, do you think baseball suffered there?

"Not really. But financially we did because of the unusually high rental."

What are some of your fondest memories of games at the Coliseum?

"Campanella Night, the playoff against the Braves for the pennant in 1959, the World Series and the last game of last season when we beat the Cubs in extra innings."

Eastern writers have been harsh with you and the Dodgers since the team left Brooklyn. Does the criticism bother you?

"Yes, but you and I understand. At the opener Tuesday we will have writers from New York who understand—Joe Williams and Jack Butler among them. Also there will be Mrs. John Cashmore, widow of the late Brooklyn borough president, and Frank Schroth, publisher of Brooklyn's only newspaper when the Dodgers were there. They know the score."

Compare the Southern California and New York baseball fan.

"Here there is more family attendance. In Brooklyn we had many devoted individuals. Here the fans are loyal, win or lose. In Brooklyn, the attitude was win or we'll give you just one more chance. Both groups know baseball and are wonderful, warm supporters."

Are there any plans for the Dodgers to leave Vero Beach and train in the West?

"It depends on politics. We will stay in Florida if possible but must be prepared for any eventuality."

Who do you feel can be called the greatest Dodger of them all?

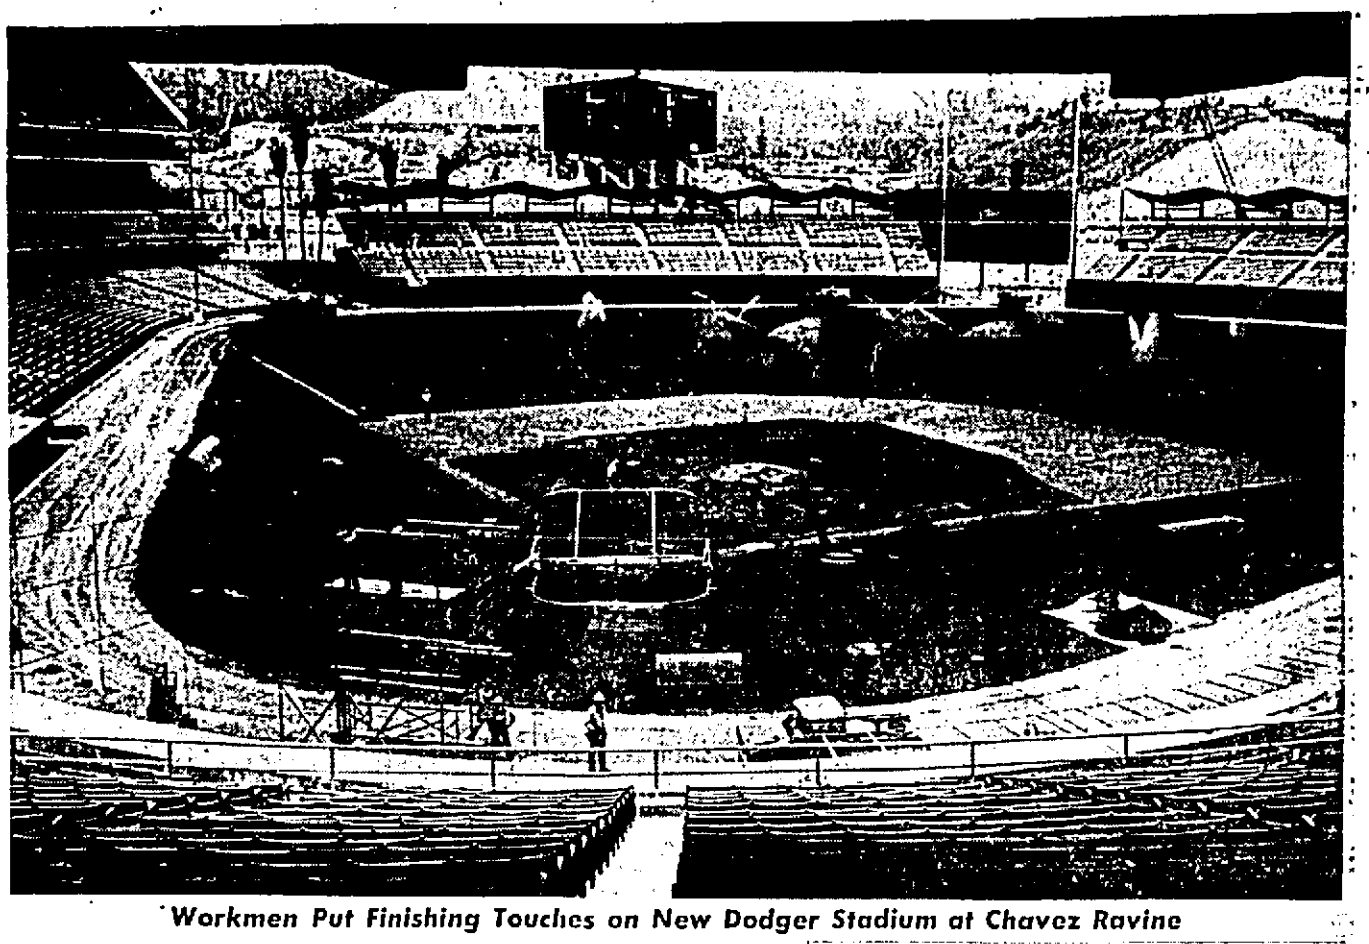

"Roy Campanella . . . for heart, religious convictions, desire to win. A team player, a great person and the best catcher in the National League for more than a decade."

Are the Dodgers going to win the pennant this season?

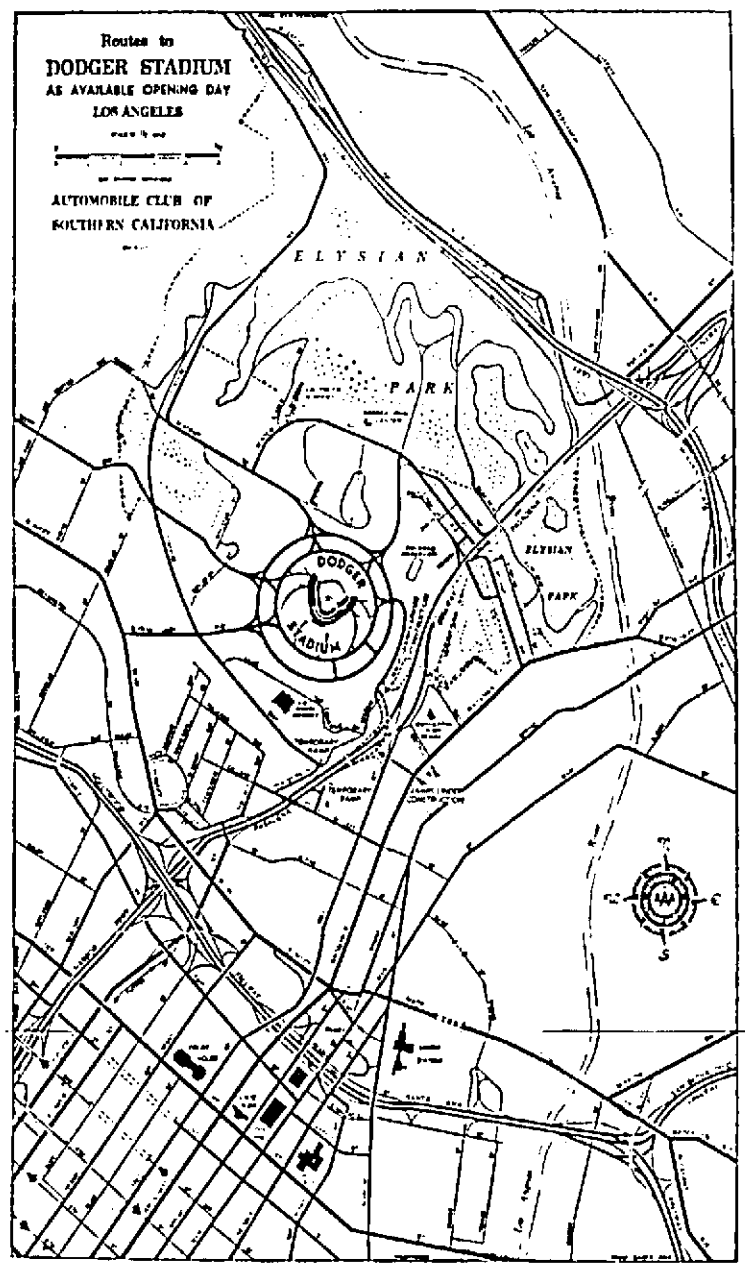

"It's like last year. We have the best team. Injuries will decide."

To Walter O'Malley, the man who brought major league baseball to Southern California and built a splendid new home for it, baseball fans owe a debt of gratitude.

HOW TO GET THERE

LIST ROUTES TO DODGER STADIUM

Don't Worry, You Can Get There (Says Here)

Dodger Stadium, baseball's newest and most glamorous park, will be unveiled to the public at grand opening ceremonies Monday morning, and on Tuesday afternoon becomes the permanent home of the erstwhile Brooklyn Bums.

The location of Chavez Ravine still is a profound mystery to many. As comedian Danny Thomas commented at the Baseball Writers' Dinner last week: "Anywhere you are in the metropolitan area, you can jump in your car and in 25 minutes you're lost."

To avoid such an event, the Independent, Press-Telegram offers some facts, figures and suggestions:

WHERE — Dodger Stadium is located approximately one mile north of Los Angeles City Hall, bordered by the Hollywood Freeway to the south, the Pasadena Freeway to the east, the Golden State Freeway to the north and Sunset Blvd. to the west.

HOW TO GET THERE—From Long Beach and the harbor area, there are three suggested routes: 1) Long Beach Freeway north to Santa Ana Freeway; Santa Ana Freeway to Golden State Freeway; turn north on Golden State Freeway and exit at Stadium Way off-ramp, turn left on Riverside Drive and follow signs to stadium. 2) Harbor Freeway north through 4-level Interchange, to Pasadena Freeway and exit at either Adobe St. or Solano Ave., then follow signs to stadium. 3) Harbor Freeway through 4-level Interchange, to Hollywood Freeway, exit at Glendale Blvd. and follow signs to stadium.

(Note: Route No. 1 is recommended, especially to later traffic. Adobe St. and Solano off-ramps on Pasadena Freeway are narrow and may be congested for later traffic. For Orange County motorists, route No. 1 also is suggested from Santa Ana Freeway).

MONDAY EVENTS—Grand opening ceremonies begin at 10 a.m. in front of Los Angeles City Hall. Motorcade of players and officials to Stadium begin at 11:10 a.m. Arrival at Stadium is scheduled at noon. Dodger workout at stadium begins at 1 p.m., following brief remarks by baseball and city officials.

TICKETS: Only persons with tickets will be admitted to stadium for grand opening ceremonies. Tickets are priced at $5, include a box lunch, parking fee and souvenir).

TUESDAY NATIONAL LEAGUE OPENER—Dodgers open season against champion Cincinnati Reds. Game time, 1 p.m. All tickets have been sold. Probable pitchers: Johnny Podres (18-5) for Dodgers and Jim O'Toole (19-9) for Reds.

REST OF WEEK—Dodgers play night games against Cincinnati Wednesday and Thursday. Night games against Milwaukee Friday and Saturday and Sunday day game. Complete Dodger home stand. Tickets for these games still are available.

TICKETS—Box seats are priced at $3.50, reserved seats $2.50, general admission $1.50 and children (general admission) 75 cents. General admission tickets are sold on day of game only. Tickets may be purchased at stadium ticket office, at downtown L.A. office in Statler Hilton Hotel, at all Mutual Ticket Agencies and at Watkins' Mart of City, Lakewood. Tickets by mail can be obtained by sending checks or money orders to: Ticket manager, L.A. Dodgers, P.O. Box 100, Los Angeles, 11.

TIME OF GAMES—Day games (except Tuesday's opener) begin at 2 p.m. Night games begin at 8. Twi-night doubleheaders begin at 4.

PARKING—Terraced lots can accommodate 16,000 cars. Parking fee is $1. Parking areas are multi-colored, corresponding with seat and ticket colors.

See Yanks in AL Romp, Angels 6th

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

SAN ANTONIO—As usual, in 1962 you do not ask who will win the American League pennant, but how many games the New York Yankees will repeat.

As sure as death and taxes New York will win its ninth championship in the last 11 years, and the margin should be greater than the eight-game spread which separated the Bombers and Detroit Tigers last year.

The Tigers will finish second again, but behind the Bengals anything could happen.

It is this writer's opinion that the international crisis which called many young ballplayers to active military duty will have a direct bearing on the first division.

LAST SEASON Baltimore finished third, Chicago fourth and Cleveland fifth. We are predicting that the White Sox will repeat their finish with Baltimore and Cleveland changing seats.

The Orioles lost Steve Barber, an 18-game winner, Ron Hansen, an all-star shortstop, and Barry Shetrone, a reserve outfielder, to the military and did nothing to replace them.

The Indians lost Jim (Mudcat) Grant, a 15-game winner, Wynn Hawkins, a 7-game winner, and Walter Bond, a reserve outfielder, to the military—however, through two shrewd trades Cleveland not only replaced the departed, but bettered itself (more on this later).

BECAUSE optimism does the spirit good, we are predicting the Angels will head the second division. Behind the Seraphs will come Boston, Minnesota, Kansas City and Washington.

Here is a capsule look at each team with last year's record in parenthesis:

AL RUNDOWN

New York (109-53)—Early last year Angel pitcher Eli Grba named Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle "thunder and lightning." M & M stormed through the league for 115 home runs and 270 RBI. Maris, of course, should not hit 61 homers again, but there is no reason to believe his or Mantle's RBI total will be any less. Then there's Elston Howard, Bill Skowron, Yogi Berra, John Blanchard and a cast of thousands.

Tony Kubek is in the service, but you should have such problems. Ralph Houk has more than adequate replacements.

Yankee pitching was supposed to lack depth last year but after Ford won his 25 and Arroyo his 15, Ralph Terry won 16, Bill Stafford 14, Jim Coates 11 and Roland Sheldon 11. Now Bud Daley will be on hand for the full year and Bob Turley is once again sound.

DETROIT (101-61)—Perhaps only the Dodgers can match Detroit's big three of Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Don Mossi. But the Tigers' bullpen was weak last year and unless Jerry Casale shows he's a new man and Long Beach's Gordon Seyfried proves he's ready, things will be the same.

Detroit's hitting is outstanding. Its fielding the same, its outfield superb, its infield young and talented. Its bench questionable, and that's why its questionable. The Tigers will be a challenge after August, after the summer heat has taken its toll.

Cleveland (78-83)—The Indians have merely replaced Grant and Hawkins with two of the best pitchers in the American League—Pedro Ramos and Dick Donovan. They should easily match the 22 wins posted by the departed duo.

In acquiring Ramos and Donovan Cleveland parted with two of the league's defensive greats—Jimmy Piersall and Vic Power. But in doing so the Indians rid themselves of a multitude of mental worries on the field, off the field and in the clubhouse. Under Mel McGaha Cleveland will be a much happier team.

Chicago (86-76)—The White Sox won a pennant in 1959 playing for the one-run inning in 1960 and all they gave up that record-breaking year was power. Al Lopez has now decreed that the Sox will again be a scratching, hit-and-run team.

Chicago is counting heavily on rookies Joe Horlen, a pitcher, and Mike Hershberger, an outfielder. But lack of power, a weak bench, and another year on the aging legs of Early Wynn, Nellie Fox, and Sherm Lollar and Al Smith will prevent Chicago from climbing any higher.

Baltimore (95-67)—Even without Barber, the Orioles present a strong pitching staff. At first, however, they don't score so much. But lack of power, although new manager Billy Hitchcock may be frightened once or twice.

Hansen may be available on weekends, but Diamond Jim Gentile remains the long-distance gem. Jackie Brandt seems a lighthitting outfield.

Angels (79-83)—The office tells me I have already written too much about the Angels. You will need only think of it as impossible for the club to finish this high then just compare the Seraphs' opening day lineup with the clubs ranked below. Don't be surprised if you give the Angels a considerable edge.

• • •

Boston (76-84)—The Red Sox are in desperate need of a power hitter. They have attempted to make several trades this spring but all have fallen through.

Boston will count heavily on sophomores Carl Yastrzemski, Chuck Schilling and Don Schwall. Schwall was rookie of the year, but the young right-hander had a miserable spring.

The Hose should break even at Fenway Park, but have a tough time in the big parks on the road.

Minnesota (79-80)—With the acquisition of Power, the Twins will move Harmon Killebrew back to third base and make the Washington's much happier men.

But the Twins lost a lot of pitcher on Ramos and it's doubtful publicized rookie Georges Maranda will pick up the entire slack. A weak bench and a gaping defensive hole in left where Jimmy Lemon stands will prevent Minnesota from making much noise.

Kansas City (61-100)—Hank Bauer, a real pro, deserves better fate. There are some good youngsters on this club and a dandy double play combo in Dick Howser and Jerry Lumpe. Pitching, however, is thinner than a Lill St. Cyr gown. So is the bench.

• • •

Washington (61-100)—The incomparable Piersall should prove the most popular player in the Washington since Jacqueline. But not even Piersall's wonderous talents will be enough to lift the Senators out of the cellar.

A weak bench and lack of pitching depth will start some gray hairs growing on Mickey Vernon's head. He has deserved better fate.

DODGERS, N.Y. CALCULATED CHAMPIONS

By United Press International

Universal Data Processing Corp.'s electronic computer has picked the New York Yankees and Dodgers to meet in the World Series this fall, the firm announced Saturday.

Fed statistics of every team in the major leagues for the past 11 years, the computer came up with the Yankees as American League champions — not a particularly difficult choice —and the Dodgers as National League champs.

The machine tabbed the Chicago White Sox to finish second in the American, followed by the Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians to round out the first division. Washington was figured to end the year in 10th place.

NL Has Sleepers, But Dodgers Pick

By GEORGE LEDERER

"Cincinnati will provide a few headaches for other clubs, but manager Fred Hutchinson will wind up taking most of the aspirin."

The foregoing passage appeared on these pages and under this by-line one year ago. That it appeared 14 paragraphs deep and referred to a sixth-place prediction does not discourage me from trying again.

Actually, it was an astute analysis. The Reds did provide a few headaches, for the Dodgers specifically. I also recall Hutch gulping a few aspirin tablets — the morning after the final World Series game.

THE PROGNOSIS for 1962 also may appear in the 14th paragraph, depending, of course, on the whim of the Sunday editor and his fiendish friends in the composing room. They have been known to whack opening paragraphs, not to mention the 14th.

Based on events of the past three seasons, the Pirates and Cubs may rate serious consideration. After all, the Dodgers rose from seventh to the top in 1959, the Pirates from fourth to first in 1960 and the Reds from sixth to first last year.

But that's part of the trouble in this world. People are forever taking things too seriously.

THE CUBS are, at best, the National League's sleeper team. As such, tab them for an upper berth—in the second division.

Pittsburgh is in the same position, but could be crowded out if the Cubs bring their coaching staff. It may be best to assign the Bucs to a tower.

A more legitimate dark-horse team is St. Louis. From the moment Solly Hemus was relieved in July, owner Augie Busch was, too. With Johnny Keane in command, the Cardinals played at a .588 clip the rest of the season, the best second-half record in the league. Cincinnati's winning percentage was .604.

So much for the darkhorses.

AS FOR the three most logical contenders, toss the Dodgers, Giants and Reds into a hat. Shake well, reach in and your chances of picking the winner are excellent, provided that your team was in the hat to begin with.

It will be that kind of a race.

Ingredients of a National League pennant winner are: 1) an injury-free season, 2) peak years from key personnel and 3) a lot of luck. The Dodgers of 1959, the Pirates of 1960 and the Reds of last year had all three.

Cincinnati already has lost Gene Freese because of a fractured ankle. Even with Freese, odds against the Reds would be high. Only four clubs have won consecutive pennants in the last 20 years.

So much for statistics.

Congratulations or condolences again are in order for Walter Alston because I am picking the Dodgers to win the pennant. Some reasons can be found in the fine print below, which should give Alston a head start in the headache department.

• • •

FOLLOWING is our sizeup of key personnel, clubs listed in order of preference and last year's player records in parenthesis:

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

NL RUNDOWN

1. DODGERS
Manager—Walter Alston, starting ninth season (senior manager, uninterrupted service, in majors); previous record: 2,011-1,412 (won two world series); succeeded Charlie Dressen after 1953 season.
Pitching—Johnny Podres (18-5), Sandy Koufax (18-13), Don Drysdale (13-10), Stan Williams (15-12) as starters; Larry Sherry (4-4), Ron Perranoski (7-5), Ed Roebuck (3-0) in relief; Joe Moeller (20-9, class C, A and AAA totals), Pete Richert (3-10, Spokane) and Phil Ortega (8-12, Spokane) in spot starts and long relief.
Catching — John Roseboro (.251) and Norm Sherry (.256).
Infield—1b, Ron Fairly (.272); 2b, Jim Gilliam (.244); 3b, Daryl Spencer (.248); ss, Maury Wills (.293). Utility — Larry Burright (.291, Atlanta), Andy Carey (.256, A's-Chisox).
Outfield—lf, Wally Moon (.328) and Tommy Davis (.278); cf, Willie Davis (.254); rf, Duke Snider (.276) and Frank Howard (.296). Utility—Lee Walls (.283, Phils).
Strength—Pitching staff that should finally reach its peak; added experience of youngsters Fairly, Howard, W. Davis and T. Davis; league's most versatile personnel; best speed in league; advantage of new park, physically and mentally.
Weaknesses—Lack of consistent power hitting; defensive shortcomings when best hitters are in lineup; vulnerable to left-handed pitching.
1961 finish—Second, 4 games behind Reds.

2. GIANTS
Manager—Alvin Dark, starting second season; last year's finish, 3rd; succeeded Tom Sheehan at end of 1960 season.
Pitching—Juan Marichal (13-10), Mike McCormick (13-16), Jack Sanford (13-9), Billy O'Dell (7-5) and Gaylord Perry (1-0, Tacoma) as starters. Stu Miller (14-5), Bob Bolin (2-2) and Don Larsen (8-7, A's-Chisox) in relief, Billy Pierce (10-9, Chisox) and Jim Duffalo (5-1) in spot starts and long relief.
Catching—Ed Bailey (.245), Joe Pignatano (.244, A's) and Tom Haller (.205, Tacoma).
Infield—1b, Orlando Cepeda (.311); 2b, Chuck Hiller (.324, Tacoma); 3b, Jim Davenport (.278); ss, Jose Pagan (.253). Utility—Ernie Bowman (.289, Tacoma); cf, Duffield—lf, Harvey Kuen (.265); cf, Willie Mays (.308); rf, Felipe Alou (.289). Utility—Matty Alou (.310) and Willie McCovey (.271).
Strength—Top run-producing team in league, 80 homers a virtual guarantee from Mays and Cepeda; strong defense; good speed.
Weaknesses—Davenport's health; question of fourth starter and second line pitching.
1961 finish—Third, 8 games behind.

3. REDS
Manager — Fred Hutchinson, starting third full season; previous record, 4-1; succeeded Mayo Smith in mid-season, 1959.
Pitching—Joey Jay (21-10), Jim O'Toole (19-9), Bob Purkey (16-12) and Sammy Ellis (7-3, Columbus). Jim Brosnan (10-4), Bill Henry (2-1) and Johnny Klippstein (2-2, Senators) in relief. Dave Sisler (2-8, Senators), Dave Hillman (3-2, Red Sox) and Moe Drabowsky (9-6, Louisville) in spot starts and long relief. Catching—John Edwards (.194) and Darrell Johnson (.270).
Infield—1b, Gordy Coleman (.287); 2b, Don Blasingame (.223); 3b, Eddie Kasko (.271); ss, Chico Cardenas (.308). Utility—Cliff Cook (.211, Indianapolis) and Cookie Rojas (.265, Jersey City).
Outfield—rf, Wally Post (.294); cf, Vada Pinson (.342); rf, Frank Robinson (.323). Utility—Marty Keough (.249, Senators) and Leo Posada (.215).
Strength—Long ball hitting of Robinson, Pinson, Coleman and Post; top pitching from three starters and Brosnan in short relief.
Weaknesses—Loss of Gene Freese (.277, 26 homers) for indefinite period; lack of some bench strength in expansion draft; question of second line pitching and Edwards' ability to hold regular catching job.
1961 finish—First, 4 games ahead of Dodgers.

4. CARDINALS
Manager—Johnny Keane, starting first full season; succeeded Solly Hemus in midseason, 1961.
Pitching—Larry Jackson (14-11), Ernie Broglio (9-12), Bob Gibson (13-12), Ray Sadecki (14-10) and Ray Washburn (16-9, Charleston). Lindy McDaniel (10-6), Bob Duliba (7-7, Charleston) and Ed Bauta (7-0) in relief. Curt Simmons (9-10), Johnny Kucks (10-14, Rochester) and John Anderson (14-9, Rochester) in spot starts and long relief.
Catching—Gene Oliver (.302, Portland) and Carl Sawatski (.299).
Infield—1b, Bill White (.286); 2b, Julian Javier (.279); 3b, Ken Boyer (.329); ss, Julio Gotay (.207, Charleston). Utility—Alex Grammas (.212).
Outfield—lf, Minnie Minoso (.289, Chisox); cf, Curt Flood (.222); rf, Stan Musial (.282). Utility—Carl Warwick (.229) and Charlie James (.255).
Strength—Pitchers led NL in earned run average (3.24) and could improve; Washburn rated in Joe Moeller class as rookie; consistent hitting from Boyer, White, Musial and Minoso; second in team batting last year.
Weakness—Aging Musial and Minoso will make Flood a busy center fielder; Gotay's fielding questionable at short; Grammas only experienced infield reserve.
1961 finish—Fifth, 13 games behind.

5. BRAVES
Manager—Birdie Tebbetts, starting first full season; succeeded Charlie Dressen late in 1961 season.
Pitching—Warren Spahn (21-13), Lew Burdette (18-11), Bob Buhl (9-10), Don Nottebart (4-7) and Bob Hendley (5-7). Don McMahon (6-4), Ron Piche (1-0, Vancouver) and Carl Willey (6-12) in relief; Cecil Butler (6-11, Louisville), Tony Cloninger (7-2) and Bob Shaw (12-14, A's-Chisox) in spot starts and long relief.
Catching—Joe Torre (.278) and Del Crandall (on disabled list last year). Infield—1b, Joe Adcock (.285); 2b, Frank Bolling (.262); 3b, Eddie Mathews (.306); ss, Roy McMillan (.220). Utility—Denis Menke (.293, Vancouver) and Amado Samuel (.250, Louisville).
Outfield—lf, Howie Bedell (.277, Louisville) and Len Gabrielson (.278, Louisville); cf, Hank Aaron, (.327); rf, Lee Maye (.271) and Mack Jones (.326, Louisville).
Strength—1-2-3 punch of Mathews, Aaron and Adcock; Spahn and Burdette keep winning while young pitchers approach regular status.
Weakness—Must depend on rookie outfielders as either side of Aaron; Maye prefers right field to center; relief pitching, especially a late man, needed.
1961 finish—Fourth, 10 games behind.

6. CUBS
Manager—None; El Tappe heads 10-man coaching staff for second season; previous finish, 7th.
Pitching—Dick Ellsworth (18-11), Don Cardwell (15-14), Glenn Hobbie (7-13) and Jack Curtis (10-13). Don Elston (6-7), Barney Schultz (7-6) and Bob Locke (4-4, Indians) in relief. Bob Anderson (7-10) and Jim Brewer (1-7) in spot starts and relief.
Catching—Moe Thacker (.247, Houston); Cuno Barragan (.314) and Sammy Taylor (.238).
Infield—1b, Ernie Banks (.271); 2b, Ken Hubbs (.258, Wenatchee); 3b, Ron Santo (.284); ss, Andre Rodgers (.266). Utility—Joe Amalfitano (.260, San Antonio).
Outfield—lf, Billy Williams (.278); cf, Lou Brock (.267, St. Cloud); rf, George Altman (.303). Utility—Bob Will (.257).
Strength—Good front line pitching; outstanding youngsters in Santo and Williams; Banks recovered from injuries.
Weakness—Second line pitching; can expect little hitting from catchers; must depend on rookies Hubbs and Brock to make big jump to majors.
1961 finish—Seventh, 25 games behind.

7. PIRATES
Manager — Danny Murtaugh, starting fifth full season; previous record, 244-214; succeeded Bobby Bragan in mid-season, 1957.
Pitching—Bob Friend (14-19), Joe Gibbon (13-10), Tom Sturdivant (5-2), Wilmer Mizell (7-10) and Vern Law (3-4, on disabled list from July on). Roy Face (10-3), Harvey Haddix (9-4) and Fred Green (2-1). Al McBean (3-2) and Diomedes Olivo (11-7, Columbus) in spot starts and long relief.
Catching—Smoky Burgess (.303) and Don Leppert (.267).
Infield—1b, Dick Stuart (.301); 2b, Bill Mazeroski (.265); 3b, Don Hoak (.298); ss, Dick Groat (.275). Utility—Dick Schofield (.192), Johnny Logan (.197) and Cecil Vest (.202, Senators).
Outfield—lf, Bob Skinner (.268); cf, Bill Virdon (.240); rf, Roberto Clemente (.311). Utility—Rex Johnston (.293, Asheville) and Wilver Stargell (.249, Asheville).
Strength—Clemente NL batting champion with league's best outfield arm; Gibbons developing into one of NL's best lefthanders; veterans at every position.
Weakness—Law's arm still big question mark; club beginning to show signs of age. Lineup hurt by power.
1961 finish—Sixth, 19 games behind.

8. METS
Manager—Casey Stengel, returned to NL first time since 1943; winner of 10 pennants, seven world Series with Yankees.
Pitching—Roger Craig (14, Dodgers),

Tork Soars 15-6; Dazzling Dashes in L.B. State Meet

By JOHN DIXON

Perfect weather and a highly-competitive field added up to a host of high-velocity marks Saturday in an all-star all-comers track and field carnival at Long Beach State College.

Full teams from the L.A. Track Club, Pasadena Olympians, Southern California Striders, Long Beach State and Camp Pendleton Marines ran and jumped in June form. Their form was so good that six field records were broken.

The biggest performance Saturday came from the smallest man.

Lt. Dave Tork of the Marines set a field pole vault record of 15 feet, 6 inches. More important, he showed the packed gallery who the next world record holder will be.

* * * *

TORK, a 6-foot, 150-pound, 27-year-old from West Virginia, passed each height until the cross bar reached 14 feet. Without a hint of a miss he conquered 14-0, 14-6, 15-1 and 15-6.

The bar was raised to 16-1, a quarter-inch above John Uelses' new record. Tork was over with inches to spare, but a trailing arm cast the bar into the sawdust.

Tork's best vault came at 15-6. "He cleared it by at least 10 inches," Joe Korzen, head judge of the event, declared. The other vaulters agreed.

"I'm just a little disappointed because I anticipated 16 feet," Tork said. "I would have made it if the runway had been asphalt. Dirt is bumpy and slow (asphalt will be installed this summer).

"I wanted to run harder because I'm holding the pole higher than anyone else ever has. You've got to have a high grip to go high. My timing was a little off at 16-1 because I'm not accustomed to the high hold yet.

* * * *

"WHEN Uelses went over 16¾ he held at 13-6. I held at 14-8 to clear 15-6 and at 15 feet to try 16. But I'm not thinking about 16 feet," explained Tork with smiling surety. "I'm anticipating 17 feet — at any time!"

Best race of the day was the 100, in which Strider Doug Smith held off the last-second surge of Long Beach State's Jim Richardson. Both were timed in 9.5. Strider Ralph Turner edged 49er Gary Gaudet by the same inch-or-two margin for third, both in 9.6.

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S Darryl Taylor won a mile thriller from Marine Dave Kemp in record time. Taylor took the lead rounding the final bend and gritted to the tape an eyelash in front. His time of 4:16.7 broke his own school record by 2½ seconds. Taylor's lap clockings awere 63.0, 2:11.0 and 3:18.0.

Best time was the 20.3 by Turner and Smith in the 220, just three clicks off the world record, but a seven mile per hour wind gust would have nullified it anyway. Turner, who also ran a 20.3 sprint medley relay leg, was judged the 220 winner.

Other State records set were Richardson's 9.5 100, John Kosarich's 15:22.9 three-mile and the 3:27.9 sprint medley.

100—Smith (Strid) 9.5, Richardson (L B) 9.5, Turner (Strid) 9.6, Gaudet (L B) 9.6.

Four-mile relay—Cerritos (Watson 4:30.0, Pitman 4:28.0, Crowley 4:12.5, Gurule 1:51.1 broke the mark of 1:51.4 by Trojan Murray Cockburn in 1956.

USC had a wide edge in the field events.

Jan Sikorsky won the javelin with a throw of 250-5½, best in the nation this season.

Trojan Dallas Long won the shotput competition with a toss of 63-4, his best of the year. He surpassed 60 feet on each of his six throws.

Dave Servis of Occidental cleared 15 feet for the first time in the pole vault, winning at 15-1½.

100—Haas (Occ) 9.5, Munn (USC) 9.5, Correse (USC) 9.6 (new meet record; old record 9.6 by Wykoff, USC, 1932 and Munn, 1961).
220—Haas (Occ) 21.0, Munn (USC) 21.0, Tansey (USC) 22.1.
440—Cawley (USC) 48.1, Hogan (USC) 48.5, Farmer (Occ) 49.5.
880—Whitney (Occ) 1:53.1, Lile (USC) 1:53.4, Warren Parlow (USC) 1:57.6 (new meet record; old record 1:54.4 by Cockburn, USC, 1956).
Mile—Neal (Occ) 4:11.1, Marin (USC) 4:13.7, Neighbor (Occ) 4:17.0.
Two-mile—Marin (USC) 9:39.9, Jones (Occ) 9:36.9, Neighbor (Occ) 9:50.6.

Low hurdles—Pierce (USC) 24.4, Polhamus (USC) 24.6, Jekel (Occ) 24.8.
Shotput—Long (USC) 63-4, McGrath (Occ) 57-3½, Wade (USC) 52-6¼.
Javelin—Sikorsky (USC) 250-5½, Tomlinson (USC) 237-2½, Bronsema (Occ) 183-3 (new meet record, old record 244 by Sbordone, USC, 1960).
Broad jump—Bronsema (Occ) 22[illegible] tie between Dobrath (Occ) and Paulsen (Occ) 21-10½.
High jump—Grundy (USC) 6-1½, tie between Fleckenstein (USC) and Dobrath (Occ) 6-0.
Pole vault—Servis (Occ) 15-1½, tie between Hein (USC) and Flanagan (USC) 14-7.
Discus—McGrath (Occ) 172-0, Wade (USC) 165-11½, Long (USC) 153-7½.
Mile relay—USC (Talbot, Doll, Hogan, Cawley) 3:13.3, Occ 3:15.3.
Final score—USC 78, Occidental 53.
Freshman score—Occidental 78, USC 47.

THEY'RE RIGHT IN STRIDE
Doug Smith of Striders (left) and Jim Richardson of Long Beach State were caught in same rhythm but it's clear Smith nipped the 49er ace at the tape to win 100-yard dash in 9.5 Saturday. Richardson also was timed in 9.5 for a school record. LBSC coach Jack Rose (arrow) is shown with stopwatch.

Haas Hero but Trojan Spikers Win--As Usual

Steve Haas of Occidental was the star of the meet but USC won the meet, 78-53, Saturday at Eagle Rock. It was the 103rd successive dual meet without a defeat for the Trojan tracksters.

Haas defeated Trojan captain Bruce Munn by 12 inches in a 9.5 100 and by eight inches in a 21.0 220 around a curve. Haas capped his day of speedy runs by anchoring Oxy's mile relay team with a 46.7 440.

Haas' 100 clocking broke the meet record of 9.6 established by Frank Wykoff of USC in 1932.

Occidental, dominating the flat races, also got a record 880 from Ron Whitney. His readily called the losing crew his No. 1 boat and lauded Long Beach.

Lemon said LBSC's coach Bill Lockyer had done a fine job and termed the winning time of 9:56.8 for the two-mile race as "excellent."

Long Beach handed Cal its first dual meet defeat since 1960, when the Bears lost to the University of Washington here.

Cal's varsity time was 10:10.

The 49ers' varsity crew was headed by Phil Bryson, bow, No. 2 Don Truitt, No. 3 Chris Smith, No. 4 Austin Pruitt, No. 5 Tom McKibben, No. 6 Dick Neel, No. 7 Bill Totten, Ed Graham, stroke, and Riley Neel, coxswain.

Lockyer said his crew got away just as planned and grabbed an early lead with a stroke of 38 per minute. Long Beach led by a half boat length after the first quarter mile. The 49ers stretched their lead to a full boat length at the halfway mark at a 36 stroke opposed to Cal's 33.

At the three-quarter mark LBSC opened the gap even more with a 33 stroke. When the 49ers streaked under the finish line their stroke was steady 34 to Cal's 31 per minute.

In other events, Cal won both the junior varsity and freshmen races, both by four lengths. Cal's JV was timed in 6:31, Long Beach 6:50. The Bears' frosh was clocked in 6:31, LBSC 6:49.2.

The final race saw Lake Merritt's four defeat Long Beach Rowing Assn.'s crew by a boat length in the time of 4:44 (over a short course). Long Beach's time was 4:49.

3rd Mark Smashed by Saari

BARTLESVILLE, Okla (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Roy Saari of El Segundo smashed a third straight swimming barrier—in the 440-yard freestyle—and Chet Jastremski set new American marks in the breaststroke and 200-yard individual medley Saturday at the AAU swimming and diving meet.

Saari edged defending champion Murray Rose and 15-year-old Don Schollander in stroking the distance in 4:14.6, beating Rose's American record of 4:17.9 and his meet record of 4:18.2. Rose was awarded second place although both he and Schollander were timed in 4:15.0. Saari was voted outstanding swimmer because of his record sweep.

* * * *

JASTREMSKI swam the 100-yard breaststroke in 59.1 to break the record of 59.6 which he set last year and tied in the preliminaries. He came back an hour later to win the 200-yard individual medley in 1:59.4, breaking the 2.01.1 mark set last year by Ted Stickles.

In the 100-yard freestyle, defending champion and American record holder Steve Clark of Santa Clara, Calif., finished second to NCAA champion Steve Jackman of Minneapolis whose time was 48.3.

Bob Bennett, a USC freshman, captured the 100-yard backstroke on a judge's decision over Jed Graef of Princeton. Both men were clocked in 54.1.

Tarpons Go in AAU Swim Meet Today

Members of the Lakewood YMCA Tarpons girls swim team will compete today in the AAU meet at Cerritos College after defeating the San Pedro "Y" girls, 149-63, Saturday.

HEFTY EX-YALE STAR AIDS CAMBRIDGE WIN

LONDON (UPI)—Cambridge University's eight-oared shell, weighted down in the choppy water by a pair of hefty North American oarsmen, breezed to a five-length victory over Oxford Saturday in the 108th renewal of their classic.

Harold Royce Budd, a 6-foot-3, 211-pound former Yale rower from Convent Station, N.J., preserved America's "charm" in this famed English regatta. Seven Yanks have participated in this race since World War II and all were on winning crews.

Budd, who pulled the No. 6 oar, was the heaviest sweep-swinger ever to row in this classic. He and John Lecky, a 6-foot-4, 201-pound Canadian from Vancouver, B.C., formed what Cambridge rowing fans admiringly called the "engine room" of the light blue crew. Lecky rowed at No. 5 oar.

SPORTS BEAT

Paul Pettit, a $100,000 bonus pitcher with Pittsburgh a little over 10 years ago, apparently reached the end of the baseball road Saturday when he was released by Hawaii of the PCL.

The Islanders dropped Pettit, who turned to playing first base and outfield after his arm went dead, after a game in Anaheim which it won over Dallas-Ft. Worth, 13-11.

Strangely, Pettit, who has traveled and played for teams all over the country, was released in a city just a few short miles from his home town of Lomita where he was signed for what at the time was the largest bonus ever given.

GLENN JONES CHEVROLET
Says
"Meet One of Our Chevrolet Service Technicians"
CHUCK FORST

Chuck has been a resident of Lakewood since March, 1953, and like lots of people in the Long Beach area, he is a native of Iowa. Chuck was raised in Indianola, Iowa, where he worked for the Chevrolet Dealer for five years. He has been a service technician at Glenn Jones Chevrolet since 1953 and like the rest of our technicians takes the annual Chevrolet Mechanical Examination to test his product knowledge.

Chuck is always anxious to improve his skill. This is proven by the fact that he voluntarily attends every course offered by the General Motors Training Center where he has received instruction in transmissions, engines and general maintenance on Chevrolets, Corvairs and trucks.

Chuck's wife, Nita, joins him several nights a week in square dancing activities. As a matter of fact, he is the Junior Past President of the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs. In this capacity, he supervised the activities of clubs having about six thousand members in South Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange County. Next year, this association is the Host for the State Convention of Square Dance Clubs to be held in Long Beach. Chuck's job at this convention is General Chairman of the Grand Parade, an undertaking of no small stature, for this is the first parade in eleven years since it was founded.

As you can see, Chuck Forst is quite a guy! He tackles every job he does with the same quiet, confident attitude that a job can and should be done right—the first time. Chuck is confident of his ability and proud of his craft and I am proud of the fact that—"He's on my team!"

IF YOU ARE SHOPPING FOR A NEW OR USED CAR AND HAVE NOT YET VISITED GLENN JONES CHEVROLET . . . PLEASE DO SO, YOU'LL FIND A RELAXED, BUSINESS-LIKE ATMOSPHERE THAT WE FEEL YOU'LL APPRECIATE. Dodgers, Yankees to Win Pennants

Baseball men agree that the best team in the National League last year was the Dodgers, who finished second . . . four games behind the champion Cincinnati Reds.

And they blew the flag in the one way in which the baseball people said was impossible . . . by falling into a disastrous 10-game losing streak in August.

They say no other team in the league was better equipped to ward off a prolonged losing streak. Yet, it happened.

There are still some trouble spots that could hurt the Dodgers. They still lack consistent hitting. And in order to get more punch in the lineup, they must sacrifice defense.

In the end, the Dodgers will have to win the pennant on speed, defense and pitching.

DAVE LEWIS

And they can do it with those skills despite the lack of hitting. For instance, Walt Alston says that by moving out of the Coliseum into the spacious new park in Chavez Ravine, the Dodgers "can now start playing baseball again."

He points out that the new park is shaped much like County Stadium in Milwaukee "where we have always played good ball. We've won 65 and lost 44 games for a percentage of .560 in the last nine years there and that's a tremendous percentage against a club as strong as the Braves in their own park.

"Chavez Ravine," Alston explains, "should open up our offense. Our team has been built on speed. We don't have too many long-ball hitters. But now our men will be able to take the extra base, something we couldn't do in the Coliseum. This hurt us more than the other teams because speed is our strong suit whereas a team with power could just take dead aim at the screen in left field."

YOU CAN PRESENT A GOOD pennant argument for five other teams. It would be no great surprise if Milwaukee, San Francisco, St. Louis, Pittsburgh or Cincinnati beat out the Dodgers. All have the potential if everything goes right.

But which one should be singled out to give the Dodgers a run for it? Our pick, Milwaukee.

We feel the Braves have the best potential of accomplishing the "break-through."

Milwaukee has defense and power, leading the league in fielding and in home runs last year. The Braves have the best infield in the senior circuit and the best catching.

Top needs are (1) a set outfield; (2) better overall pitching, especially in relief, and (3) more consistent hitting after Mathews, Aaron and Adcock.

Howie Bedell and Mack Jones not only could solve the long-standing outfield problem, but could supply the extra sock. The pitching is bolstered by Bob Shaw, and the young hurlers may develop enough to supply the vital late-inning pitching.

THE GIANTS STILL HAVE defensive problems; the pitching is a bit questionable, and Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda again will have to carry the club. If they don't hit, the Giants don't win.

The Cardinals have fair pitching and good power, but spotty defense could again prove the downfall of the club. They are geared for a fast getaway, which should help. They play the tailend clubs in 15 of their first 19 contests.

The Pirates could again be strong contenders if the leaders in their '60 pennant drive had big years again. But Vern Law is a question mark . . . as is the rest of the pitching staff. Bucs led the league in hitting last year, but their arms suddenly turned to "glass."

Cincinnati was picked for sixth last season and won the pennant. This time they are again being picked for fifth or sixth by most observers. They still pack a wallop at the plate, but their finish will depend on their pitching. And most everyone expects it to flatten out.

ANY TALK OF BEATING THE Yankees in the American League appears to be nothing more than wishful thinking.

How close it will be depends greatly on what happens before July 1. If the Yankees are leading or are close to first place on that date, they'll win in a breeze . . . perhaps by the largest margin in history.

Detroit is tabbed for second again because of the Tigers' impressive front-line pitching. However, we don't look for the Tigers to do quite as well as they did a year ago.

Baltimore has good front-line pitching and good defense and are picked ahead of the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland should make a much better run of it this time and the Indians could be the season's biggest surprise!

big help if we could use him there on a spot basis."

"I played it a couple times when I was with Washington," said Yost. "I've got a lot of things to learn about the position but I don't mind giving it a try."

Yost gave it a try Saturday night and played flawlessly as the Angels rallied in the ninth for a 2-1 victory over the Houston Colts, their third straight and the third straight time this spring they have rolled a trio of consecutive wins.

Angel Angles: Yost has played every position in his major league career except pitcher, catcher and center. Marlan Coughtry opened at shortstop and has now played every infield position for the Angels except first base.

San Pedro's Joe Amalfitano, accidentally hit in the head by a bat swung by Ramon Mellas on Tuesday says he's had no effects . . . "Just made me a little goofier than I was," said the Houston second baseman.

Heading into Saturday night's tilt, the Angels had seven batters above .300. Leis leads the list followed by Tom Burgess .419, Billy Moran .333, Albie Pearson .307, Lee Thomas .303, Leon Wagner .302 and Ed Sadowski .300 . . . Wagner leads in RBIs with 16 and in hits with 23.

Rigney was extremely impressed with George Witt's fine performance at Dallas Friday night . . . "his fast ball and curve were better than they've been all spring," said Rigney, "but we're going to work on his slider. It resembles his curve. If breaks too much, a slider should not have the big break of a curve—it should be a quick, little one. Witt throws so hard he should have a terrific slider."

within one stroke of tying the course record of 64 set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1940.

Player, the first round leader with a 67, duplicated his 71 of Friday. He birdied the first hole, then matched the card until the par five 475-yard 13th when he took his only bogey of the round. He got that stroke back, however, by birdying the par five 520-yard 15th.

Palmer was more than satisfied with his round.

"I played good," he said, "missing only one green—the first one."

Finsterwald, when told he had 12 one-putt greens, smiled wearily and said, "I guess I must have putted pretty well."

That was putting it mildly.

Putter Gone, Griggs Gone in First Round

Defending champion Larry Griggs Jr. of Lakewood was ousted in the first round of the Southern California Public Links Golf Championship at Skylinks Saturday.

Putting with a 2-iron instead of a putter after he broke his blade on the second hole, Griggs was beaten by Dick Campbell of Montebello, 1 up. Griggs rallied after being four down after 7 holes, but never could catch Campbell.

In a major upset, Kemp Richardson of the host club, 16-year-old son of State Amateur champion John Richardson, beat veteran star Steve Shaw of Montebello, 1 up.

Another upset saw Lakewood's Bob Clark go to the sidelines, a 1 up victim of Western's Steve Hallberg.

The second round will be played at Griffith Park today. Saturday's results:

Pipers Even K.C. Series

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Pipers pulled a new offensive duo on Kansas City in the persons of Jimmy Darrow and Bobby Keller who scored 19 points apiece Saturday night to pace the Pipers to a 100-98 victory over the Steers in their American Basketball League final playoff.

The Pipers' victory evened the best-of-five series at two-all.

Wins Nightcap With 5-Run Sixth Inning

Long Beach State College earned a split in its doubleheader with powerful Southern California University Saturday, losing the Blair Field opener, 3-2, and winning the nightcap, 7-3.

In the scheduled seven-inning afternoon opener, USC needed eight innings to whip the 49ers. Larry Sandel's infield hit off Bob Lancaster decided the outcome.

The second game was a different story as State erupted for five runs in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie. The 49ers cashed in on six consecutive hits and faulty SC fielding.

Bob Bernstein, Willie Oyama, John Bogan and winning pitcher Jack Foley, who allowed only three hits and fanned 10 in 6⅓ innings, drove in runs in the big sixth.

LANCASTER relieved Foley in the seventh and shut the door on the Trojans, who suffered only their second loss in 17 games against college competition this year.

Willie Brown, former Poly flash, scored USC's first run and drove in the second marker. He collected two hits in the two games.

How About Some Salt-Water Catfish?

Next Saturday marks the beginning of a good-will exchange of fish between Brazil and California and the net result in years to come may be some bagre marine catfish in our bays and sloughs where now all we catch are skates, rays and sharks.

This particular type of salt-water catfish is a native of Brazilian waters but biologists in California feel that the species will grow well in our own bays and harbors.

William Ripley is flying down to Rio de Janeiro Saturday on a VARIG airliner to take 100,000 California rainbow trout eggs to a hatchery in Brazil. Ripley is assistant chief of the marine resources operations of the Department of Fish and Game.

Later California will send salmon eggs to another hatchery in Brazil and that Latin nation hopes to start both rainbow and salmon fisheries in a couple of years.

In exchange for all that, California gets a start of the famous bagre catfish, which reach a weight of 70 pounds. Wow, if we ever get 'em growing like that, it's going to be hard for Pop to leave Long Beach and give as his reason, "I want to go to the Colorado River and get some catfish." Friend wife can tell him to go to the back bays here and catch some of those big bagres.

SPEAKING OF CATFISH, the Colorado River and salt-water, we are getting so mixed up that we are wondering just what is happening to all kinds of fishes. For instances, three anglers went to the Colorado River below the Palo Verde Diversion Dam and tried for catfish. They caught striped bass instead!

Bob Metcalf got two stripers (11-4 and 7). Harold Smith, Bell Gardens, caught one weighing 8-4, and his brother, Jerry, got one weighing 8-2.

Although biologists haven't determined how those stripers are propagating in the Colorado since they were planted about a year ago, they are optimistic enough to feel that further plantings should be made in that area.

The Colorado River Wildlife Management Committee met at Las Vegas a few days ago and discussed numbers of projects that should help the Colorado. One plan was unanimously approved. It would make stripers available for introduction into Havasu Lake.

There's nothing final about the proposal, all fish and game commissioners of the states involved must approve the idea.

For those readers who are not acquainted with striped bass, they are like steelhead trout—living both in the ocean and in fresh water. However, stripers have been found to live very happily in fresh water without ever going to sea.

ON THE FRESH-WATER FRONT—Irvine Lake's weekly summary showed that Donald Degman, San Bernardino, topped all anglers with an eight-pound bass. Spawning crappie were beginning to hit Vee Bee flies and Go-Getters . . . Crappie and bluegill are giving anglers plenty of excitement at Railroad Canyon Lake near Elsinore . . . John Reginato writes from Redding that F. W. Cadwallader hooked a 14-pound, 1-ounce brown trout on a yellow and black Bomber while plugging for bass near the Pit River Bridge on Shasta Lake.

There was such a terrific rush of anglers to Wohlford Lake last weekend that the resort ran out of licenses. More than 3,000 fishing permits were issued for a three-day period. In addition, hundreds of sightseers were milling around the lakefront. Limits were plentiful, with bass to 4½ pounds, catfish to 6½, bullheads to 2½ and trout to 17½ inches. Wohlford is open seven days a week.

Bill Bucknam writes from Klamath River that steelhead fishing along the Klamath, Scott River and Horse Creek has never been better. Happy Camp, Seiad Valley, Bigfoot Ranch Lodge, and the mouth of Beaver Creek are some of the resorts where fishermen are loading up with steelies mostly in the 4- and 5-pound categories.

THERE'S STILL A CHANCE to shoot flighted mallards at Tommy Williams' Green Head Hunting Club in Santa Ynez. Because heavy rains practically knocked his operation into a mud flat, Tommy applied for and received permission from the federal government to extend Green Head's season through April.

Tommy hopes to clean out all his birds—and they are in perfect condition—by the end of April, at which time he intends to abandon his Santa Ynez lease and establish a new hunting club within an hour's drive of the Los Angeles Basin.

Tommy pioneered the flighted-mallard club in California and, like all beginners, almost lost his shirt in the first year's venture in 1959. He feels now that a club such as his should be closer to the metropolitan areas.

However, if you haven't seen Green Head at Santa Ynez, you have missed a beautiful part of California. It's a good place to go this month. Birds are going at bargain rates to all comers. Just make your reservations through Tommy Williams, Green Head, P.O. Box 80, Santa Ynez, or call Santa Ynez 8-4855. Tommy says that he has hundreds of birds that must be shot.

JET DECK AND CUTE KITTY

J. B. Chambers' Jet Deck, posing with Kitty Eckblad of Garden Grove, was clocked in sizzling 18.2 qualifying drill for the 25-day meeting at Los Alamitos opening Monday.

Los Alamitos Launches 25-Day Meet Monday

A couple of youngsters threaten to steal the opening-day show from the older stars Monday when Los Alamitos Race Course begins its 25-day spring racing season.

The two youngsters are Bunny's Bar Maid, essaying a comeback in the $2,000 Inaugural Stakes for 3-year-olds, and Alamitos Bar, another 3-year-old who will make his first start against the veteran campaigners in the $5,000 Shue Fly Stakes.

And complementing the brilliant opening-day card is the double-barrelled threat to the 350-yard world record of 17.5 seconds held by Vandy's Flash.

Sensational qualifying works and the lightning quick condition of the running strip, called the best ever by most trainers, make Bunny's Bar Maid and Miss Jet Deck solid threats to Vandy's record, set in 1960.

Both Bunny's Bar Maid and Miss Jet Deck qualified in 18 seconds flat for 350 yards, a time which wins most races and a time which matches the drill Vandy's Flash turned in just a week prior to setting the record in the 1960 running of the Shue Fly Stakes.

Alamitos Bar, the Calbred champion, is in tough against such older stars as Miss Jet Deck, Pap, Saul Lasher and quarter horse champion of 1961, No Butt, who enjoyed her greatest campaign last fall and won her only start this year, Cocktail Susie, Fly Straw and Canales Black.

Bunny's Bar Maid drew the outside post position and will have standing in the way of her comeback, Magnolia Bar, Miss Brownie Gal, Rockin' Bar, Connie Reba, Straw Flight and On I Win.

The racing career of Bunny's Bar Maid appeared at an end last fall when a chronic ankle injury wouldn't heal properly at the race track. She had won six in a row, then been third three times and finally dropped to fourth. She was sent back to the Fresno ranch for a rest. Her sizzling 18-second drill indicated that was what she had needed.

The sprinters running on opening day will be taking an early shot at the $350,000 offered in stakes and purses during the meeting, the second richest purse program in the history of the track.

First race each day will be 1:15 p.m., Monday through Saturday, with nine races daily.

The daily double wagering will once again be a feature of the meeting, with daily double wagering closing five minutes before first post.

The 3-year-olds going on opening day will be tuning up for the Derby trials next Saturday, when they try to qualify for the $15,000 added Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Assn Derby held Saturday, April 21.

Cal Pace to Caduceus

Length Winner in Finale

By MAC McGUIRE

Hard-hitting Caduceus, the 11-year-old New Zealand veteran, took advantage of the terrific pace duel between Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream to score a length victory in capturing the ninth edition of the $20,000 Californian Pace at Santa Anita Saturday.

A closing-day crowd of 16,845 spectators watched Jim Dennis, the season's leading driver, settle back into third place throughout most of the race, with Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream staging a vicious battle in exchanging the lead for three-quarters of the race.

• • • •

CADUCEUS' winning time of 1:57 2/5 equalled the race record which was set in 1959 by Widower Creed. Caduceus' effort was even more amazing as the Santa Anita strip hasn't been as fast as previous years. It was the fastest clocking of the meeting.

Caduceus had played second fiddle to Irvin Paul and Stormy Dream in two previous races at the meeting, with Irvin Paul winning the $7,500 Elks Pace on March 17 and Stormy Dream garnering the $7,500 Alpha Delta Pi Pace on March 31. Caduceus was second and third, respectively, in the two races, but Saturday it was a different story.

Irvin Paul, the 3-5 choice, was second and was followed by Mr. Budlong, Right Time, Merrie Adios and Stormy Dream. Although there were six horses in the race, there were two entries to make four betting interests. Thus, only win and place betting was allowed.

Next Champion (?) Clay in L.A. Tuesday

FOR BIG FIGHT AT ARENA

By FRANK HARVEY

Colorful Cassius Clay, who brashly predicts he will be heavyweight champion of the world before he is 21, arrives in Los Angeles from Miami Tuesday to complete drills for his 10-round engagement against George Logan on United World Enterprises' initial card at the Sports Arena April 23.

Clay will be accompanied by trainer Angelo Dundee, and the No. 1 welterweight contender Ralph Dupas, who is slated to meet Frankie Ramirez in a 10-round bout on the same card.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, matchmaker for the new boxing organization, also has lined up an additional two 10-round fights with plenty of box-office appeal.

Bib Eddie Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender, is slated to go against Bert Whitehurst, and Eddie Garcia, classy Denver lightweight, will open the four-ply promotion in a 10-rounder against Tony Perez of Mexico.

Due to the approaching baseball season the Olympic Auditorium has announced that it will drop the regular Friday night programs and will operate on various week-day nights during the summer.

The Grand Avenue arena will be dark this week but has a couple of top attractions signed for future shows . . . Sugar Ramos, the No. 1 featherweight contender, will meet Baby Vasquez of Mexico, Thursday, April 19 . . . the sleek Cuban originally was signed to meet Danny Valdez, but a dispute in weight caused a change in opponents.

Another top bout signed for the Olympic is the Mauro Vasquez Battling Torres 10-round welterweight brawl set for May 3.

JAIPUR SERVES WARNING

Sir Ribot Breezes in Tanforan Derby

Compiled from Wire Services

SAN BRUNO—Favored Sir Ribot handily won the $16,800 California Derby Trial at Tanforan Saturday to enhance his chances for the California and Kentucky Derbies in the coming month.

The tempermental 3-year-old never was worse than fifth in the nine-horse field. He took the lead with a furlong to run and completed the mile and 70-yard race in 1:42 2/5.

Blue Serenade, a longshot, held on for second a length and one quarter behind, and Doc Jocoy was third.

NEW YORK — Jaipur, making his first start of the year, easily went to the front in the stretch at Aqueduct Saturday to win the $56,500 Gotham Stakes and served warning on whoever wins the Kentucky Derby that a sweep of the Triple Crown classics may be tough.

With Willie Shoemaker aboard, Jaipur scored by a length and a half over Sunrise County with Sidluck another two and a half lengths farther back.

LEXINGTON — Crimson Satan, the horse whose health had been in doubt all winter, showed no signs of a drawback when he won the Whitney by five lengths at Keeneland.

HALLANDALE, Fla.—Cactus Tom, regaining the lead he lost early in the race, defeated Aerolint by a length in the $15,000 Ft. Lauderdale Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Arfons Shatters Drag Mark at 187

Art Arfons of Akron, Ohio, electrified a record crowd of 11,921 fans with a ground-shaking run of 187 mph in his jet dragster Saturday night at Lions Drag Strip.

Arfons had fuel injection trouble and only had about 70 per cent power. However, he still broke the strip record.

In the regular drag racing program, Lefty Mudersbach of Pico-Rivera won fuel eliminator, while national champion Jack Chrisman of Compton took gas eliminator honors.

Cantrell Scores Easy CRA Win at Ascot

Billy Cantrell of Anaheim won his first main event of the season at Ascot Park by scoring an easy victory in the 30-lap CRA big car race Saturday night before a crowd of 4,177.

Cantrell took the lead on the fourth lap and was never headed. Mack Terry won the trophy dash.

Without Challenge . . . one of the BIGGEST LAND BARGAINS IN THE NATION!

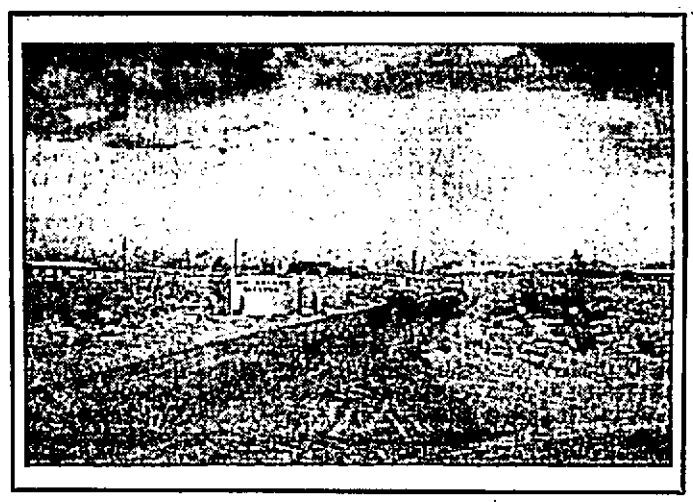

"MOST BEAUTIFUL SPOT IN THE WORLD . . ." The late, beloved war correspondent, Ernie Pyle, stated: "Of all the places in the world that I have visited, Albuquerque and the Rio Grande Valley are the most beautiful spots of them all, and it is here that I will make my home." Mr. Pyle's home is now a famous landmark in New Mexico . . . as thousands of ex-G.I.s and their families still pay silent tribute to this wonderful man.

This is a big advantage . . . since you may plan, in the future, to live on one lot and sell the other . . . or sell both HALF-ACRE lots . . . or plan to live on the entire acre! Whichever method you choose to use on your property . . . you can feel secure that your land is platted and recorded in the county records as TWO HALF-ACRE LOTS!

Outdoor living at its best under the ever-smiling sun of the Land of Enchantment

BOOMING NEW MEXICO . . . THE FASCINATING HEALTHFUL LAND OF ENCHANTMENT

Big things are happening in this sun-drenched state, and you see signs of great progress in all directions! The city of Albuquerque . . . just 32 miles from beautiful Rio Grande Estates . . . is growing at a rate 6 times that of the nation as a whole! Dynamic brain-center of the electronic industry . . . booming trade center for over 600,000 people . . . Albuquerque is surging, increasing both in population and in size. And in this path of growth . . . in the heart of the Rio Grande Valley . . . lies fabulous Rio Grande Estates . . . which has enjoyed greater public response than any other Southwestern subdivision.

Surrounded by beauty . . . in the path of future growth . . . Rio Grande Estates offers an unequalled opportunity!

CLIMATE . . . BIGGEST REASON WHY THE SOUTHWEST IS BOOMING!

250 days a year of bright, healthful sunshine . . . warm, sunny days . . . cool, comfortable nights . . . all these await you at Rio Grande Estates! Nearly 85% of the people living in this southwest area give climate as the deciding factor in their moving here! No harsh, cold winters . . . no endless days of dreary grey skies . . . no miserable dampness underfoot . . . just day after beaming day of warm sunshine in the beautiful Rio Grande Valley! For your retirement home now . . . or as your stake in the golden future of this sunny land . . . Rio Grande Estates offers you this incomparable opportunity . . . a full acre of land . . . two lots, already subdivided for you . . . at the amazingly low price of $395 . . . at terms of $10 down, $10 a month!

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT RIO GRANDE ESTATES

TYPE OF SOIL: Holds moisture very well, and is most suitable for a wide variety of garden crops, good lawn grasses, and most other decorative plantings.

ELEVATION: 4500 feet above sea level; no possibility of flood, bog, swamp, hurricanes, etc.

STREETS: Access ranch roads to all lots completed.

WATER: Abundant underground sources of water available for domestic use.

ELECTRIC POWER: Available to each home built in Rio Grande Estates.

DEED: A Warranty Deed is issued upon completion of payments, and permanently recorded in the County Records in your name — we pay all such costs.

ASSESSMENTS: None.

TOPOGRAPHY: The land slopes gently upward to the East . . . affording a fine view of the City of Belen, and the Rio Grande River and Valley. Your land is easy to build on.

CLIMATE: Average daily maximum: Summer—83.74 degrees. Average daily maximum: Winter—52.46 degrees.

SIZE OF LOTS: 200x217.8 (HALF ACRE 100x217.8).

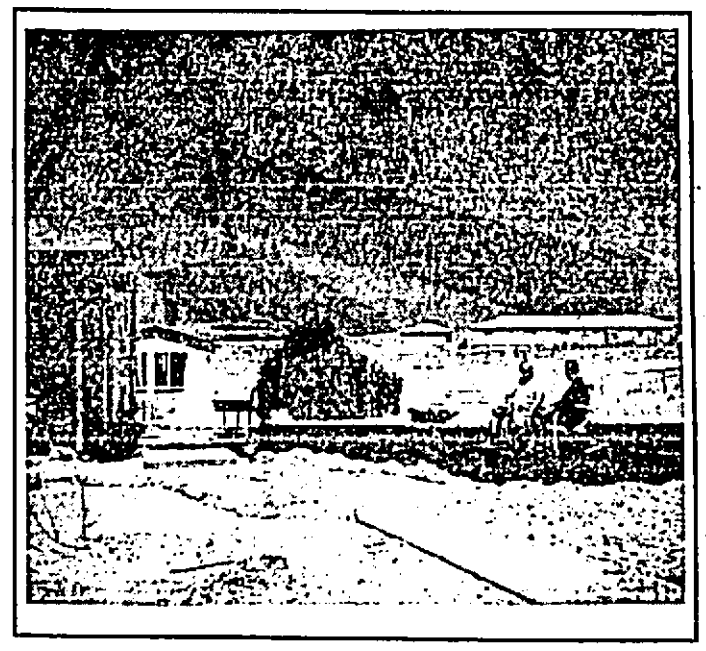

RECREATION: Fishing, boating and hunting, along with skiing, swimming and camping, available within a 1-hour drive from Rio Grande Estates.

TAXES: Current rates are approximately $3 per year.

One of the wealthiest men this country has ever known . . . Andrew Carnegie . . . once said, "Ninety percent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined!"

George Washington wrote to his stepson in 1778, saying: "Lands are of permanent value; there is scarcely a possibility of their falling in price, but almost a moral certainty of their rising exceedingly in value."

Here at Rio Grande Estates . . . just 32 miles from booming, surging, dynamic Albuquerque . . . land prices today are still extremely low. In the years ahead . . . as Albuquerque stretches its metropolitan tentacles down the Rio Grande Valley . . . who knows what this land may be worth? One thing is certain . . . when land values rise . . . only those who own land can reap the benefit!

Raw land only a year ago . . . today a growing community of beautiful homes and contented people

Algerian Secret Army Fills Its Coffers by Holding Up Banks

By PAUL CHWAT

ALGIERS (UPI)—Bank robbery has become big business for the outlawed European Secret Army Organization in Algeria. Secret Army gunmen have grabbed an estimated $8 million since the beginning of the year.

Despite government security measures, the toll of bank robberies, designed to replenish the Secret Army's coffers, continues.

To protect themselves, the banks keep only a minimum of ready cash on hand. But the outlaws know that, too.

• • • •

THE SAME gunmen Monday robbed the same counter at the same bank twice within 10 minutes. The first time their haul was 13,500 new francs ($2,700). When the bandits returned, the cashier's reserves had been replaced, and the second haul netted 22,480 new francs ($4,496).

The robbery set-up usually is more or less the same.

Squads of four to seven men, often wearing hoods or stockings over their faces, march into a bank, produce submachine guns from under their coats and order the cashiers to "hand it over."

The cashiers never refuse. Life is cheap to the killer squads.

Before leaving, the gunmen always give the same parting warning: "Don't hurry about informing the police." A glance at their guns underlines the threat.

• • • •

THE BIGGEST robbery ever staged in this country and the second largest in history was when Secret Army gunmen on March 23, took from the Oran branch of the Bank of Algeria 23.5 million new francs ($3.47 million) in French and Algerian bank notes.

The coup was carried out by a squad of 15 gunmen who entered the bank shortly after it was closed to the public and carried off a truckload of bills.

The majority of the stolen notes were bills issued by the Bank of Algeria.

The finance ministry in Paris hastily announced that the Bank of Algeria notes no longer would be legal tender in France and could not be changed at banks there. But that failed to put an appreciable crimp in the bank robberies.

• • • •

IT HAS been suggested the government might even change the territory's currency. But officials believe this would be difficult at a time when major political changes are in store.

Bank robberies became the chief means used by the Secret Army for fund-gathering after blackmail, threats, use of the protection racket and straight demands for "contributions" failed to get sufficient funds from businessment.

Ruling Favors Policyholders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Holders of fire-insurance policies in California can, without penalty, take advantage of rate reductions which occur in the interim before their policies run out, the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau ruled Saturday.

The bureau, which develops rates for many companies doing business in California, said the new endorsement could be applied on the first anniversary date of the policy after a rate change becomes effective.

Previously, a policyholder had to pay a penalty to have the policy rewritten.

"A MILLION DOLLAR PRODUCER"

JOSEPH A. BARNES

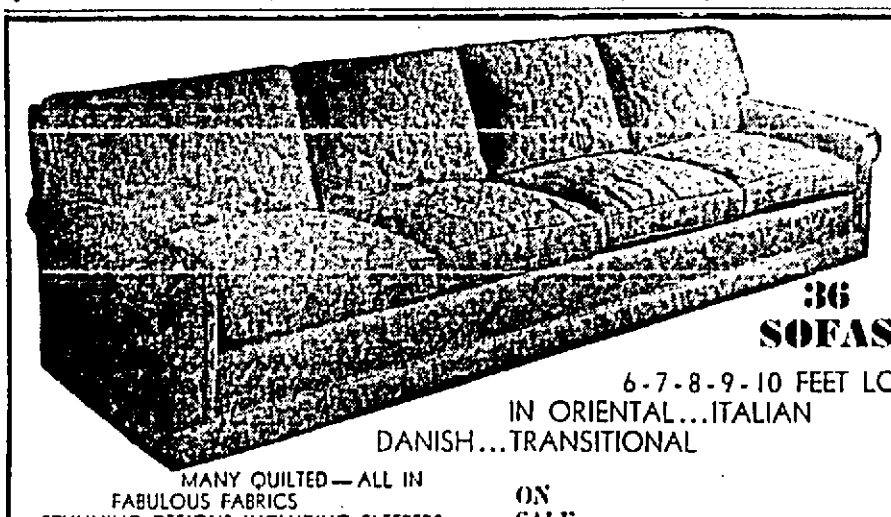

During 1961, Joseph A. Barnes ranked fourth among Western Life's national field force in total volume produced and sixth in the number of cases sold. Last year, he assisted one hundred and eleven California citizens and businesses in the establishment of more than $1,000,000 of new life insurance security.

Since joining Western Life in 1953, Mr. Barnes consistently has been among the Company leaders.

We, his business associates, have long recognized the professional nature of the services he has rendered and it is gratifying to note the great acceptance of his abilities and skills by his clients whom he serves so well.

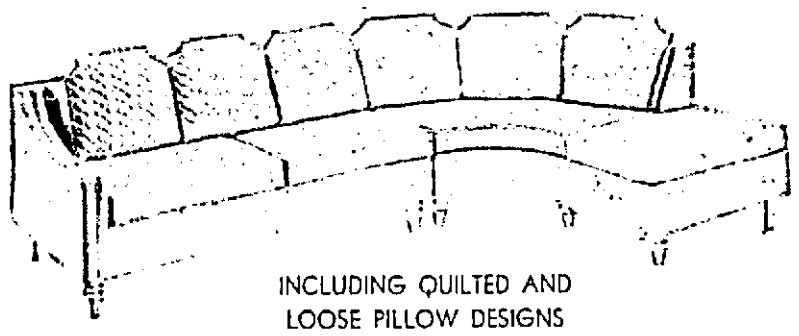

We, therefore, take pride in his achievements and in calling them to the attention of his community.

• DECIDE WHAT YOU WANT TO ADVERTISE
• FOLLOW THE RULES . . . AND WRITE YOUR AD ON THE ORDER APPEARING BELOW!

This is your big chance to have a spring cleanup just like Mom and Dad. You can with an Independent, Press-Telegram Classified Ad . . . and it won't cost you a single penny. Decide what you want to advertise and start preparing your ad in your own words. Bring or mail your ad to this newspaper. Please use the special order blank appearing below. Watch for your "very own" advertisement which will be seen in over 167,000 homes. Read the other KIDS' ADS . . . there may be something advertised you'd like.

REMEMBER WRITE YOUR NAME — ADDRESS OR TELEPHONE NUMBER IN YOUR AD!

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES

1. School children from 6 to 16 years of age may advertise in the "Kids' Classified Ad" column free of charge.
2. Bring or mail your ad to the Classified Ad Counter in The Independent, Press-Telegram Building. Please DO NOT phone your ad, as phone orders can not be accepted.
3. Classified Ads may offer to buy, sell or exchange children's merchandise only, such as dolls, doll carriages, bicycles, children's books, clothing, electric trains, coaster wagons, marbles, athletic equipment—in fact, any article of value that you may think some other boy or girl will want.
4. These ads must not be over 18 words.
5. All ads will be run for three days. Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, April 15, 18, 20 only.
6. The name, address or phone number and age of each boy or girl advertiser must appear in the Classified Ad.
7. Classified Ads must be written plainly on the free ad coupon appearing below.
8. Have your parents sign your free ad coupon or have them accompany you or send a note with you sanctioning your Classified Ad if you bring it to the office.
9. This offer will be effective from dates listed above. No ads accepted after April 12.
10. The Independent, Press-Telegram reserves the right to limit or refuse Classified Ads that do not conform with the above rules.

Big Luxury Apartment Building Started at 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

By KEN CHILCOTE
I. P-T Business Editor

Construction has been started on a 15-story, $2,500,000 luxury apartment building at 600 E. Ocean Blvd., near the foot of Atlantic Ave.

Henry Sassoon, former Canadian builder and developer, is the owner of the high-rise structure which will be known as "600 Ocean," the same as its address.

The ocean-front rental apartments will be luxurious in design and size with many unique features usually found only in the most costly custom homes.

Workmen have erected a fence barricade on the site and have already started on the development. There will be three floors underground on the Ocean Boulevard frontage but open to the beach side for garages.

Sassoon said the ground floor will be occupied by a high-class restaurant, a coffee shop, cocktail bar and a shop.

• • • •

THE NEXT 10 FLOORS each will have eight units, four one-bedroom and four two-bedroom apartments. There will be two huge penthouse apartments on the top floor.

The one-bedroom units will contain 1,250 square foot of living space including two baths. The two-bedroom units will have 1,550 square feet and two baths. The penthouses will have 2,700 square feet.

Not included in the space for each will be a balcony 20 feet by 11 feet for each apartment. These will be recessed eight feet into the building with a three-foot ledge extending outward.

• • • •

ALL-ELECTRIC, each apartment will carry the Gold Medallion for excellence in construction. There will be electrical baseboard heating in all rooms. Each will have a built-in electric stove and oven and big refrigerator. Each apartment will have its own electrically heated hot water tank and each will have facilities for washer-dryers.

Sassoon came to Southern California a few months ago and selected a site on Sixth Place and built a seven-story luxury apartment.

"With the wonderful weather and climate Long Beach offers and the fine ocean-front sites available, I decided to make this my home and do some more developing," he declared.

$2,500,000 STRUCTURE STARTED
Construction has started at 600 E. Ocean Blvd. on this high-rise luxury rental apartment building. Henry Sassoon, who came here from Canada, is building the apartments at a cost of $2,500,000.

Pancake House to Open Here

A long-term lease has been signed by The International House of Pancakes Inc., for a site at 1101 East Pacific Coast Hwy. (the corner of Lemon Ave.) in Long Beach for the construction of an International House of Pancakes restaurant, Al Lapin, Jr., company president, announced.

Owners of the property are Willard G. DeGroot and William Cline, both of Long Beach. Agents in the transaction were Coldwell, Banker and Co.

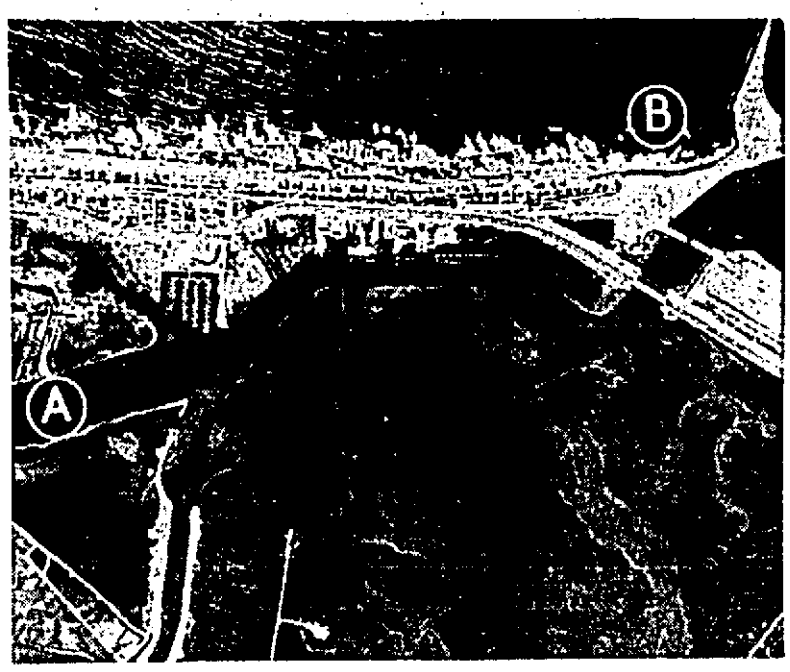

• • • •

LAPIN SAID construction of the high-pitched, blue-roofed restaurant will get underway at once, with completion scheduled for early July. Actual operation of the restaurant will be by a franchised operation. Construction will be carried out by Panco Corp., an IHP subsidiary.

The new Long Beach pancake house will be the chain's 30th unit. The first was in Toluca Lake, Burbank, opened in July 1958. The company is now publicly owned, following a successful stock underwriting in November.

WOULD PROTECT SURFSIDE HOMES

Huntington Harbour Proposes Trading Sand for Channel Use

HAS SAND, NEEDS CHANNEL
Huntington Harbour, the big development where islands are being dredged for luxurious homes (foreground), will dredge 150,000 cubic yards of sand and earth from point A and rebuild the beach at Surfside, point B, if the Navy will grant a permit for a small boat channel to the development. The boats would enter the Seal Beach Ammunition and Net Depot property at the right in this aerial photo.

The new Huntington Harbour project will give Surfside Colony—Sunset Beach 150,000 cubic yards of sand for filling its beach—if the Navy will allow a small boat channel into Anaheim Bay.

President Lewis W. Douglas Jr. of Huntington Harbour Corp., developing an 800-acre series of islands for luxury homes and a small boat haven in Sunset sloughs, said the fill material will be delivered to the Surfside-Sunset strand by his company at once.

• • • •

HE SAID the material can halt erosion of the beach-front which has been battered by waves for months. Erosion is undermining some of the beach-front houses, Douglas said.

For months, Douglas has sought a permit from the U.S. Navy to use the Seal Beach Naval Ammunition and Net Depot's Anaheim Bay for the small boat entrance into his channel.

The Board of Superivors of Orange County did not accept the Douglas offer, referring it to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

E. H. Booth Retires From Title Trust

Eldridge H. Booth, Jr., 3834 Pacific Ave., senior vice president and manager of the trust division of Title Insurance and Trust Co., has retired after 34 years of service.

ELDRIDGE A. BOOTH JR.
Ends 34 Years of Service

Booth went to Los Angeles in November of 1922 and served several insurance and financial firms prior to joining Title Insurance and Trust.

Since 1928 he had served as assistant trust officer, trust officer, as vice president and assistant manager of the trust department and in his capacity of trust department manager and senior vice president.

Booth is a member of the California Bankers Association and has served as chairman of the organization's trust division and executive council. He is also a member of the American Bankers Association trust executive committee.

He is a director of the Azusa Foothill Citrus Co., Dominquez Water Corp. and the Dominquez Estate Co. He is also president of the Dominquez Estate Co. and secretary-treasurer of Las Tunas Water Co.

Bank Building Open in Cerritos Square

The new United California Bank Building in North Long Beach's Cerritos Square office building development is now open. This is the fifth and largest building to be erected in this unusual office building complex by the C. J. Bonner Co., owners and developers of Cerritos Square which is located on Long Beach Blvd. at San Antonio Ave. The ground floor of 9,500 square feet will be occupied by the Cerritos Square branch of the United California Bank.

• • • •

GROSS BUILDING area of the three-story structure is 30,000 square feet. The upper levels are serviced by Hi-speed hydraulic elevators and fine acoustics have been achieved through the use of light-weight aggregate in the structure's concrete floor slabs.

Coldwell, Banker & Co., leasing agents for the new building said the building is 75 per cent leased, confirming the current market demand which has made the Cerritos square project successful.

Wall panels incorporating the use of a new process of mosaic stone work form the exterior facade of the building. High intensity lighting and refrigerated, multi-zone air-conditioning are additional design features specified by project architects Jones & Poper, A.I.A.

United California Bank is in temporary quarters but will move to the new building shortly.

Luxury Apartments, The Elms, for Rent

Providing adults with the convenience and privacy of a home but without the responsibilities of owning property, The Elms luxury rental apartment units are now available for reservations.

Located at Elm Ave. and 36th St. in a fine Bixby Knolls area, only 23 units have been constructed in the unique four building design. Generous space is provided for each apartment with private patios and porches. Even the one-bedroom units have from 200 to 460 feet of private outdoor living.

There is individual parking for each apartment in a subterranean garage.

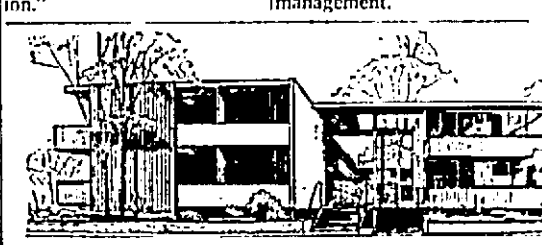

• • • •

ALL-ELECTRIC "Gold Medallion" design assures complete comfort with ceiling heat controlled by a thermostat in each room. There is a Hotpoint electric dishwasher, disposal, range and wall oven and large refrigerator.

Apartment colors have been decorator selected to harmonize with the all-wool carpet and drapes. Outdoor lighting and landscaping adds to the beauty of the structures.

Included in the units are such things as bath fans, heat lamps, kitchen fans, telephone and TV outlets, controlled private garden lights, modern laundry room, laundry lockers, large closets, locked storage rooms and there is a heated pool with shower-toilet facilities near the pool.

Rentals range from $135 to $225 monthly. John Wolf, Don Hazzard and Bill Welter are the developers, builders and owners.

LUXURY APARTMENTS RENTING
Providing indoor living space from 780 to 1,200 square feet, units in "The Elms" at 36th St. and Elm Avenue, are now available for rent. There are private patios, big swim pool and other luxury features provided.

Budget Terms for Large Beach Home

CARPETING INCLUDED
Wall-to-wall carpet is one of the quality features offered at Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes by builders, S. V. Hunsaker & Sons.

For home buyers looking for a home large enough for a growing family, with payments small enough to fit their budget, Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are the ones to see, says S. V. Hunsaker, builder and developer of homes in Southern California since 1932.

Immediate occupancy is available in Unit 1, with no down payment. Unit 2 may be purchased with a low down payment of $95 and easy financing terms are available at both units.

Offering the buyer unusually convenient floor plans and distinctive exterior elevations, these homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage.

• • • •

POPULAR FEATURES in these homes are wall-to-wall carpet, floor-to-ceiling wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing and plenty of built-ins. The compact modern kitchens feature built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, disposal, vinyl tile, Formica counter tops, and natural finish cabinets.

Huntington Beach Sunshine homes are located in the finest section of Orange County close to beaches, recreational areas, schools, churches, and shopping centers. Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at both units.

Unit 1, located adjacent to a park site, may be seen on Heil Ave. just off Golden West St.

Unit 2 furnished model homes may be inspected on Golden West and Smeltzer in Huntington Beach.

Richardson Back From Meeting

Statistics indicate that member savings and loan associations of the Federal Home Loan Bank System now hold savings desposits of $69 billion, reported Nelson Richardson, on his return from a San Francisco meeting of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Richardson is president of Charter Savings and Loan of Bellflower.

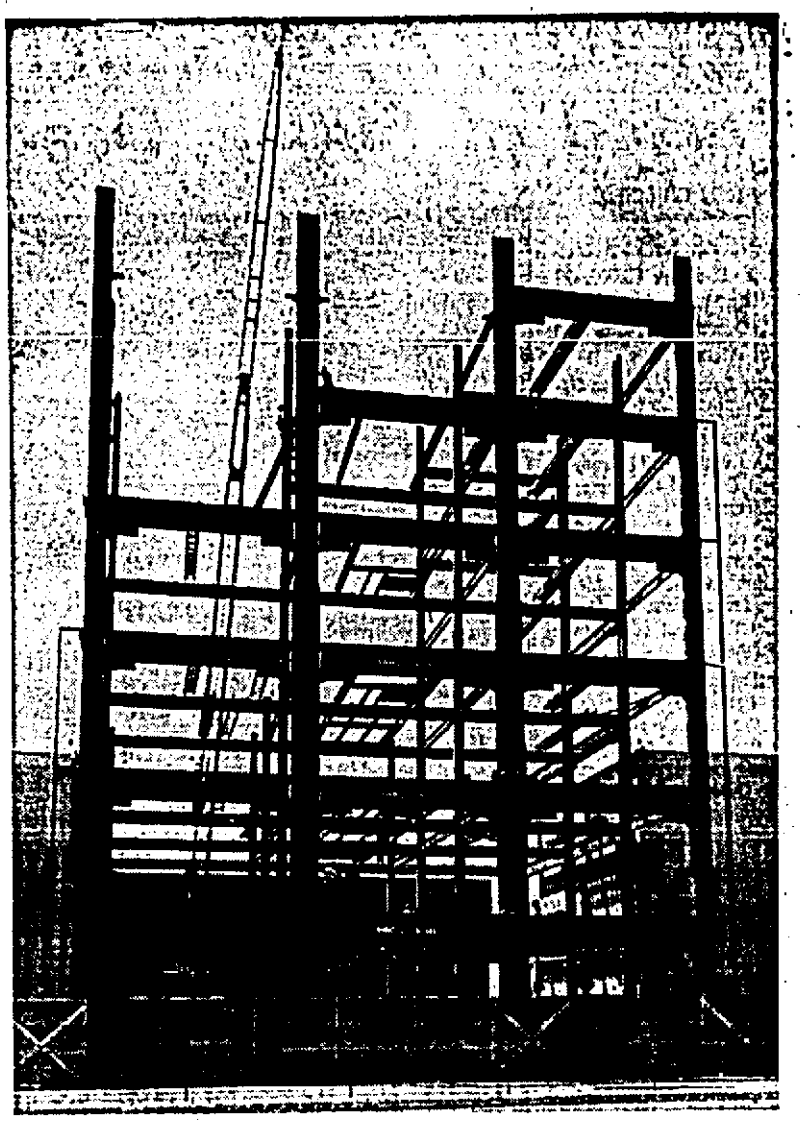

"The deposits showed a substantial increase over a year ago," he added. It was further shown that savings and loan associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage financing."

Design Originality Featured in All of Sol Vista New Homes

PROVIDES GRACIOUS LIVING

This large living room symbolizes the designing in Sol Vista Homes where gracious living is the theme. Prices on the big homes start at $18,300.

Sol Vista, popular community development in the Huntington Beach Santa Ana area of mushrooming Orange County, has many unique features.

Of prime importance, in addition to the originality and quality of the homes itself, is Sol Vista's location. It is only a few minutes drive from the ocean with its beaches, parks and fishing facilities. Sol Vista is in the vicinity of several golf courses. "It is, consequently, very conducive to true indoor-outdoor California living" states Irving Solomon, executive vice president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., the builder.

There are 23 exteriors with five floor plans from which the buyer can choose. These homes have three or four bedrooms with two baths. Price is from $18,300 with low FHA down payment.

* * * *

A MASSIVE brick or stone fireplace—of floor-to-ceiling design—is standard with every model. Kitchens have all-electric Frigidaire built-ins, natural grained ash hardwood cabinets and are color-coordinated. A Frigidaire dishwasher is also included.

Sol Vista homes have hardwood floors throughout and have forced-air heat. Other important but less visible features include rock wool insulation, accoustical ceilings, and American Standard plumbing fixtures.

Sol Vista is near established schools and churches, close to thoroughfares and existing and proposed freeways. It is only a few minutes from shopping areas.

Model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and until 6 p.m. on Saturdays. C. LaFaye Co., Inc. are sales agents.

From Long Beach go out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) or Carson St. to Hwy. 39 and turn right to models. Model homes are 3 miles south of Garden Grove Blvd.

New Sunshine Home Unit Opening Today

S. V. Hunsaker, president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers, announced the grand opening this weekend of Lakewood East Sunshine homes located on Del Amo Blvd. just west of Pioneer Blvd. close to the metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to Southland's major resort and recreational spots.

Offering the home buyer the most popular of architectural planning, built-ins, and modern materials designed for lifetime satisfaction, these homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, family room, large two-car garage and may be purchased with a down payment of $195.

* * * *

THE HOMES offer the home buyer many quality features such as wall-to-wall carpet, silent forced-air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, and ample closet space. The ultra-modern kitchens are equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, disposal, Formica counter tops, plastic invyl tile, and natural finish cabinets.

Home buyers who are seeking high quality homes centrally located may inspect furnished model homes daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Norwalk College Park Offers Fine Homes

Announcement that a limited number of quality-built residences have just been made available at Norwalk College Park is expected to draw an immediate response from value-conscious home shoppers, officials of this community in Norwalk, report.

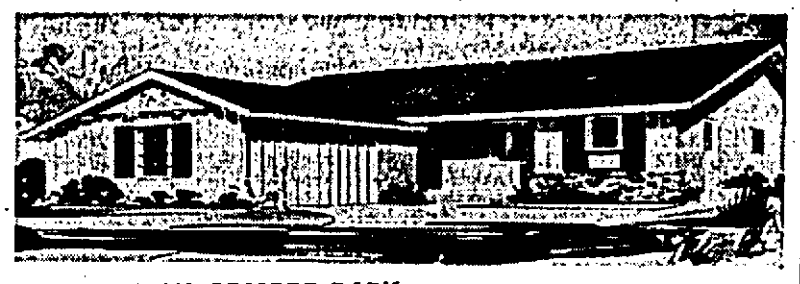

Situated in close-in Norwalk, adjacent to Los Cerritos Junior College, Norwalk College Park's present selection is distinctively diverse in exterior design, and the large-family plans have three and four bedrooms and two attractive baths. All plans have a service porch, and a two-car garage, and in most, there is a separate dining area.

* * * *

"THREE-WAY" financing, officials explained, includes VA insured loans at 5¼ per cent interest with terms of nothing down except costs and impounds, excellent conventional loans and FHA financing. Full prices are from just $17,950.

One of the most popular features is the kitchen with its built-in gas wall oven and tabletop range, range hood with light and exhaust fan to remove cooking aromas and steam, sink-installed disposer and double compartment sink, natural ash cabinets and superamic (ceramic) tile countertops. Convenient separate service porches are designed to keep "wash day" out of the kitchen.

From Long Beach, Norwalk College Park is reached by driving north on Lakewood Boulevard to Alondra Boulevard, then right to the model homes at Maidstone Avenue.

Firm Moves to Fullerton

Movement of American Electronics, Inc., Instrument Division from Culver City to the company's new facilities in Fullerton is being completed in early April, according to Robert C. Loomis, president.

The move to the headquarters plant will provide the Instrument Division with a completely integrated and fully air-conditioned manufacturing facility with an output capacity of approximately 50 per cent more than at their original Culver City plant.

Electro-Mechanical and Precision Power Divisions of the firm moved to the Fullerton faculty when it was completed a year ago. Adjoining the 100,000 square foot plant is American Laboratories, a complete environmental test facility, in a separate building.

"We compared them all... THEN CHOSE A TROPHY HOME!" ...say Mr. & Mrs. JAMES CARR 869 Darciel Avenue

Read Why Mr. & Mrs. Carr Decided on a Trophy Home:

"After considering and deciding against over fifty different types of subdivision houses, one Sunday we visited Trophy Homes. That evening, for the first time in weeks, we knew we had solved our home-buying problem.

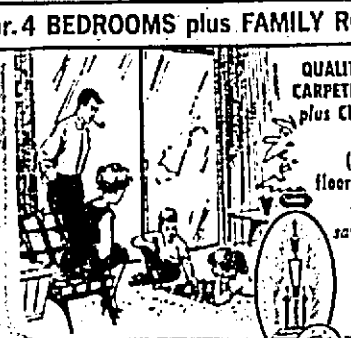

There were many reasons why we selected our Trophy Home. First, we felt the construction quality was far superior to anything we had seen in our price range. Moreover, it was a complete home—ready to move into. Wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, patio and hundreds of dollars worth of other "extras" and "built-ins" were included in the purchase price, so we didn't have to spend any extra money for these things we knew we'd need. The living area and storage space were large enough for our whole family—much more than offered by most subdivisions. And, the overall price and monthly payments were very reasonable.

After having "lived" in our new Trophy Home for a while now, we feel—now more than ever—that it is the best home value in all of Southern California."

$3000 IN "EXTRAS" DECIDED HIM

"We were absolutely amazed that our home could offer so many 'extras' and 'built-ins' as we put in our new Trophy Home. I estimated the cost of them one day before we decided—wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, landscaping, oven and range, just to name a few—and stopped counting at $3000. That's when we made our decision!"

"TOP CONSTRUCTION"...SAYS ENGINEER

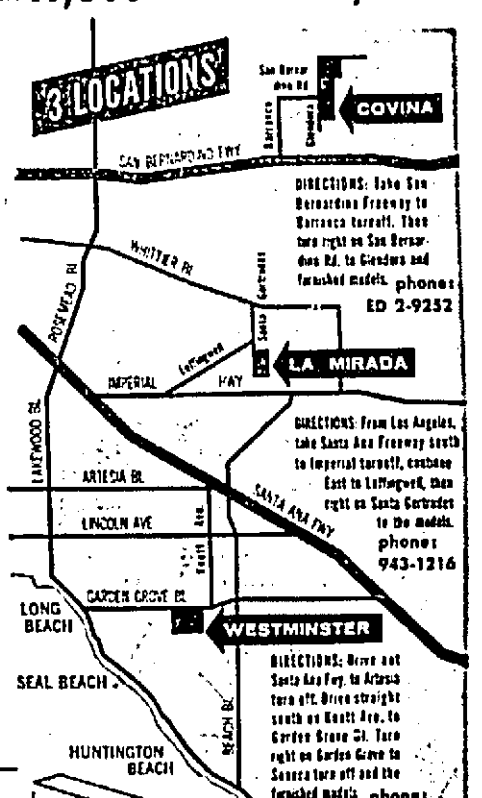

"We bought our Trophy Home because we liked the quality of the construction. We looked for almost a year before we bought—being an engineer, I'm pretty particular about such things. Since I don't have time to do much work around the house, my wife really appreciates all the conveniences that were built into our Trophy Home before we moved in."

HOUSEWIVES LOVE NEW KITCHEN

"The kitchen in our Trophy Home is just wonderful to work in. The built-ins are real work savers. The cupboards are big and spacious. And the snack bar saves me many steps at breakfast and lunch time. But, best of all, our kitchen is really light, airy and cheerful...it almost makes housework a joy."

"HIGH AND DRY AFTER RECENT DOWNPOUR" ...U.S.A.F. MAJOR

"During the recent rainstorm, we found the streets and driveways in the Trophy Homes subdivision were so well engineered and constructed that we had no overflow, surface water or seepage of any type. The rain began when I was on duty and I was relieved to find that I could drive all the way home from the base on streets that were high and dry."

Cabana Club in Pacific Sands Will Be Just for Residents

Announcement of the summer opening of the Pacific Sands Cabana Club, with swimming pool, tennis, playground, and clubhouse, has stimulated the largest crowds of home buyers ever to visit Pacific Sands, according to Jim Deane of the Deane Brothers, co-developers of the private beach community with M. J. Brock and Sons, Inc.

Buyers at Pacific Sands, one minute from Huntington Beach State Park, benefit by a full range of organized community activities, Paul Rowland, sales manager for Walker & Lee, sales agency, said that among the varied activities are landscaping and fashion classes. Residents may join the fishing or bicycling club. For young baseball fans, a complete Little League will offer healthful recreation close to home. Teen-agers can enjoy a constant round of activities in their own club.

• • • •

NEIGHBORHOOD functions are constantly being planned. Pat Yeiser, who acts as community co-ordinator for the many activities said that a special hit was scored by the recent "food and fashion" party where homeowners were treated to new ideas in menu planning and fashionable attire.

Included in the club will be a community-size pool, a cabana clubhouse for community meetings, tennis courts, shuffleboard facilities, and a children's playground. The recreational area is for the use of Pacific Sands homeowners and their guests.

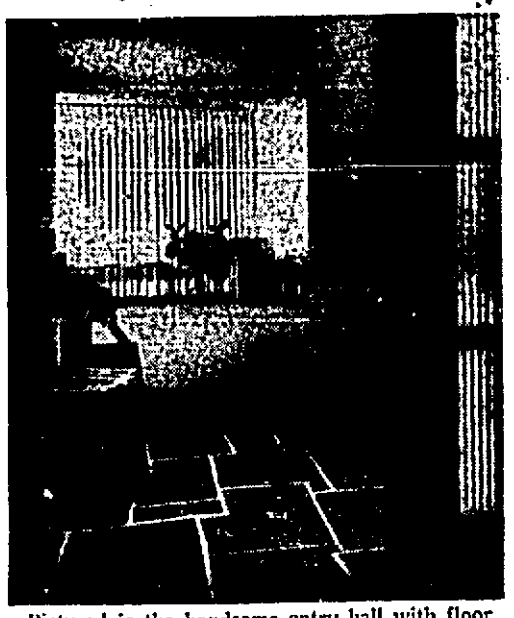

• • • •

CUSTOM-DESIGNED for beach-close living, Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor showers. Some models include a special garage boat door to permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance work. The homes are offered in one and two-story models, and with two, three or four bedrooms, family room, and two baths.

The homes are priced well below the market, the sales manager said, ranging from $13,500 to $19,050. Terms include $390 total move-in costs.

The Pacific Sands development is located on Hwy. 39 (Beach Blvd.), one block from Coast Hwy. (101).

'Sea View' Huntington Hills Homes Luxuriously Appointed

Pictured is the handsome entry hall with floor of slate in one of the models that depict the quality-built residences at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach.

Urban conveniences combine with the charm of a five-minute location from the beach at "Sea View" Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. pointed out.

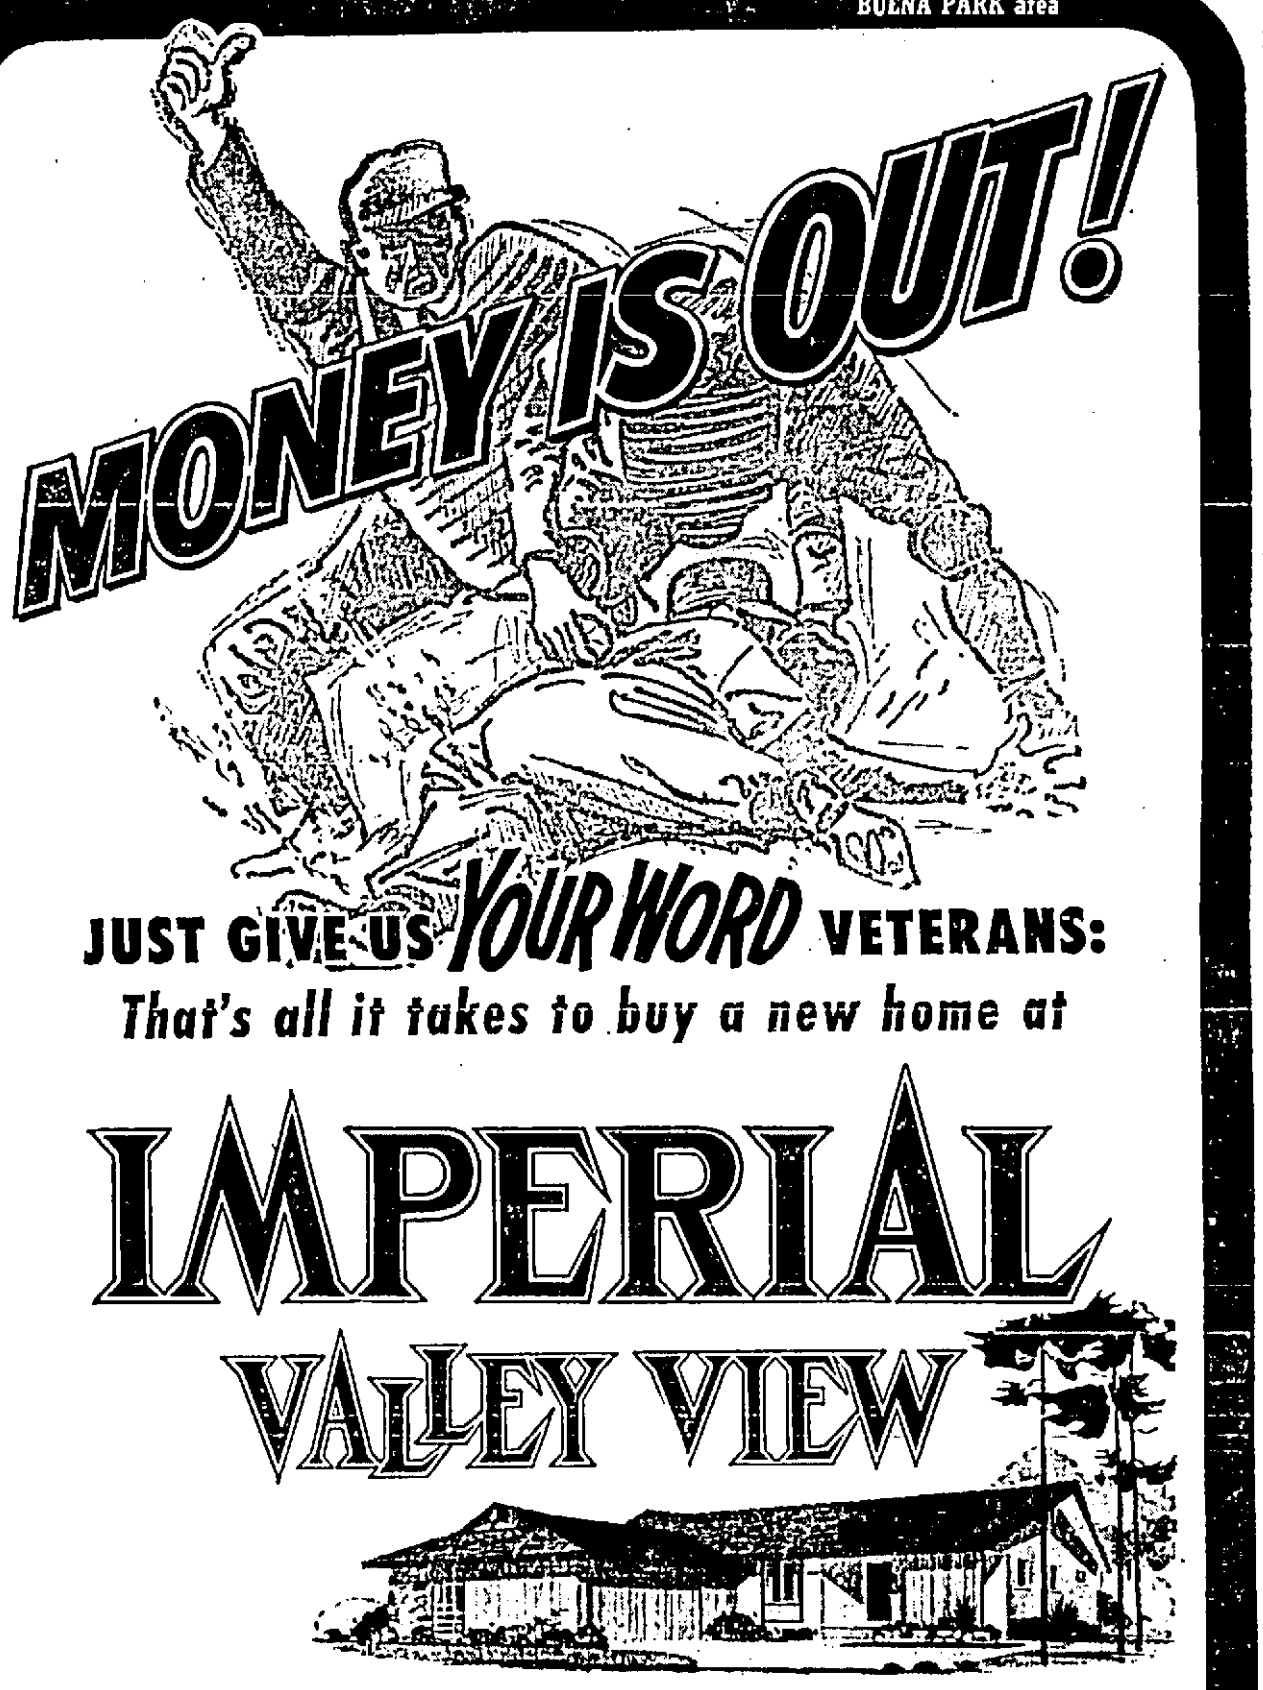

Schools are excellent, McCaffrey said, and the system is still expanding. Shopping too, is excellent with modern shopping centers at strategic points. There are churches of many denominations and the recreational facilities offer endless amusement for the whole family.

Luxuriously appointed and quality built, Huntington Hills homes are available on favorable financing for both veterans and non-veterans.

Solid Construction in Bolsa Park Home

BIG LIVING ROOM

Luxury in a Balsa Park Home is shown here. The large living room has floor-to-ceiling fireplace and a wall of glass.

Ceilings and walls of lath and plaster, plus an extensive use of gleaming ceramic tile throughout, are among featured highlights at the Bolsa Park development in Huntington Beach, said sales director Ernie Merrill. "Bolsa Park is the only new subdivision in its area which makes both of these features available to buyers," he added.

The Bolsa Park homes include a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar, a full ceramic tile bath with shower over tub, and a separate ceramic tile shower with special decorator tiles.

AVAILABLE are extra-large "boat lots" with room for boat storage plus swimming pool.

"Though prices from $19,250 still prevail in the present unit, rising costs are expected to force higher prices in future units," Merrill stated. "Bolsa Park homes may now be purchased with VA no-down-payment terms, 35-year FHA financing with 5¼% interest, and 6% conventional financing."

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh St., east to Bolsa Chica, right tow miles.

Wilmington Homes Offer Many Extras

Offering three-bedroom and a family room, two-bath homes in the heart of the harbor area, Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington is attracting many buyers.

Included in the cost, which starts from $18,900, the homes provide wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and many built-ins including a range and oven. The buyer has a choice of Hotpoint electric or O'Keefe & Merritt gas appliances in the kitchen.

FROM Long Beach visitors to Sun Ray Estates in Wilmington may drive west on Pacific Coast Highway to Avalon. Turn right to "Q" St. Then right to models.

Among other features available are oak parquet floors in family room, natural wood cabinets, hood with fan and light over the built-in range; vinyl tile in kitchen, baths and on service porch, American Standard plumbing fixtures, forced-air gas heating, ceiling insulation, sliding aluminum windows, and sliding glass doors.

The homes are equipped with gutters and downspouts and the front yards are landscaped.

Veterans need only $195 to move in.

—A tie clasp that holds a spare house key.

—An electric frying pan with an electric coil lid to convert it to a broiler.

—A rod 'n' radio; a fishing pole with a radio built into the handle.

—A table lamp with built-in motion picture and slide projector equipment.

* * * *

—A LOUNGE chair with built-in stereophonic record player.

—An executive brief case which expands, when needed, into an overnight case for business trips.

—Luggage that converts into furniture by means of disappearing interlocking pins, to save packing and unpacking.

—A midget, three-wheeled automobile which can be stored on a boat and gives a yachtsman mobility on land.

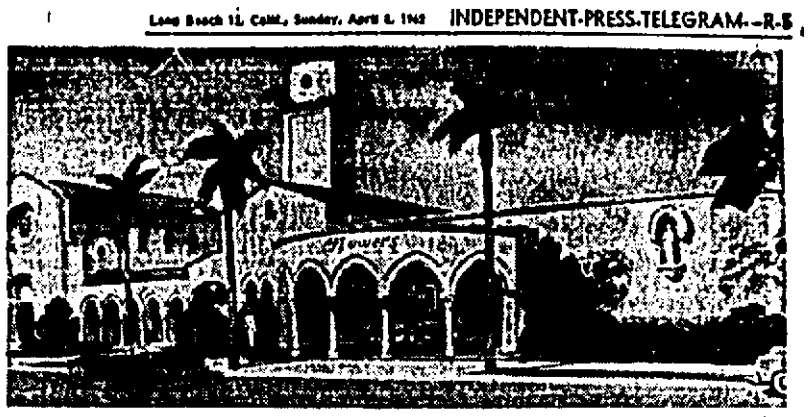

—A three-way policeman's billy which has a hook at one end, delivers an electric shock and can be used as a flashlight.

—For a scotch and soda man, a versatile refrigerator which makes both ice cubes and carbonated water. (You supply the scotch.)

These products were among those entered in a versatility in design and use contest sponsored by Hess Brothers, Allentown, Pa.

New, Low Terms Now Offered on Imperial Valley View Home

IMPERIAL VALLEY VIEW HOMES

Peak sales at Imperial Valley View are credited to the combination of handsome, attractively appointed homes that are quality built, to their prime location in the Buena Park area, the one modest full price and to the fact that they are offered on the lowest available veteran and non-veteran terms, officials said.

Imperial valley View's combination of attractively appointed, quality-built residences in a prime Buena Park area, each with a full price of just $17,150 and available on the lowest veteran and non-veteran financing available, has sent sales soaring, Koblentz & DeLancy, sales agents, report.

The sales agents explained that the new financing offers lower veteran qualification requirements that enable those who meet them to move in with no down payments of any kind, just the regular monthly payments. For non-veterans, there are convenient 35-year FHA loans.

FURNISHED MODELS highlight Imperial Valley View's homes which are presented in a selection of 21 diverse elevations. Plans are designed with three spacious bedrooms, a family room and well appointed baths with pullman lavatories and sunken Roman-style tubs. Plans also offer choice of front or rear living rooms and of attached or detached two-car garages.

Home shoppers, Koblentz pointed out, needn't take Imperial Valley View homes construction features just by being told that it is of high quality. "Showcase Room," an exhibit room, displays cutaways, of plumbing fixtures, heating units, kitchen appliances, and cross-sections of actual construction detail that are of the utmost importance to the prospective buyer.

From Long Beach, the model homes, open daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., are reached by driving east on Carson to Valley View Ave., then right to Orange Ave., and the homes.

Low Price for Top Home

A recent survey taken by sales agents McFarland & Mattocks revealed that the superior construction, extra features and below market price are major factors in the mass movement to Parliament Homes. It has been noted that this residential development in Westminster has enjoyed an unprecedented sales success.

The ideal location in the heart of Orange County provides all the established city conveniences: schools, churches, shopping, employment centers, recreational facilities and major thoroughfares leading to all the Southland.

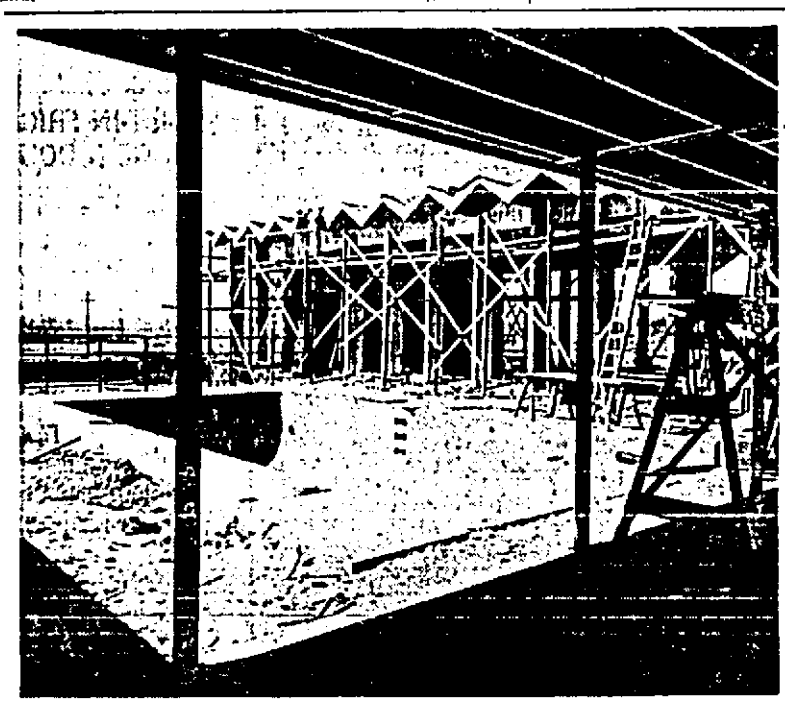

Families may choose from five floor plans with three bedrooms and den or four bedrooms, two baths, family room and a deluxe all-electric built-in kitchen with range and oven, dishwasher and disposal with a choice of 12 highly diversified exterior stylings.

• • • •

ADDED features include a floor-to-ceiling fireplace, pullman lavatories and ceramic tile in baths, all-aluminum sliding windows and sliding glass door to the patio, ample closet and storage space and a forced-air heating unit with summer ventilation fan. The floors are of select hardwood laid over wood subflooring. The attached double garage provides the complete laundry facilities and features direct entry to the kitchen.

Full price for the custom quality homes is $18,450 and officials report veterans may move in with no down payment other than a $90 closing cost. FHA financing, Cal-Vet or conventional financing is available with only $925 down including all costs.

To visit the furnished models, drive south on Brookhurst St. from Westminster Blvd., turn west on Hazard to the tract.

380 New Lakewood Homes Ready Soon

POINTS TO DEVELOPMENT
Builder-developer Ray Cherry (right) points to possible park and recreation area in his Lakewood Manor to Lakewood City Administrator Marshall Julian (center) and his assistant, Donald Singer.

Lakewood Manor, a 380-home residential community, is under construction in Lakewood by Hadley-Cherry, Inc. Reservations are being taken by Walker & Lee, sales agents, and three furnished and decorated model homes will be open for inspection early in May. Lakewood Manor is located just north of Candlewood on Palo Verde.

L. C. Major and Associates, the nation's largest designer of homes, designed and color coordinated the homes which will sell from $18,750 to $19,250 with monthly payments from $97.

There will be three and four bedroom homes some with family rooms.

• • • •

UNDERGROUND wiring for street lights will be a feature A special park and playground area is proposed within the community for the use of its residents. Every effort is being made to preserve the natural beauty of the area.

Ray K. Cherry, president of Hadley-Cherry, is past president of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties and a member of the board of the National Association of Home Builders. Says Cherry, "We are building Lakewood Manor homes for families who want a good comfortable home in a convenient location which is near churches, shopping, schools and transportation and which preserves a quiet residential asmosphere while being within easy travel distance from industry and commerce."

IN BUSINESS CIRCLES

SIGNAL OIL & GAS CO., will construct a steel drilling platform to be erected one and a half miles offshore from Huntington Beach and this should enable recovery of additional crude oil from existing leases, Samuel B. Mosher, chairman of the board, announced at the annual meeting.

Record high levels in sales were established for Signal in 1961. Net earnings, however, were less than anticipated because of the severity of the long gasoline price war that prevailed in California and other parts of the country throughout much of the year, stockholders were told. "The significant improvement in product prices during the fourth quarter of 1961, if continued, should make for a more satisfactory profit picture for the year 1962," Mosher stated.

As a highlight of the meeting stockholders were informed of the recent Federal Land Sales which were conducted in New Orleans, Louisiana, wherein Signal, as operator for itself and three other companies, was the successful bidder on 11 blocks of offshore Louisiana oil leases.

These offshore lease bids were based upon extensive geophysical work which has been conducted over a period of time. All of these properties are considered to have excellent prospects for oil, gas, and gas distillate.

A NEW CEMENT for manufacturing concrete blocks has been developed by California Portland Cement Co., announced by Ed. R. House, vice president, marketing.

Marketed under the name of Colton Block Cement, the new product has been successfully used in the manufacture of concrete blocks with truer color tones, sharper edges and corners, and more uniform surfaces.

The cement was effectively used in the masonry work at the new Dodger Stadium.

Oregon Farm Land Selling

On 72,000 acres of Oregon heartland, at Christmas Valley, M. Penn Phillips is creating "a self-sufficient community of model farms."

Located on the leeward eastern watershed of the Cascades, the new development was "90 per cent sold out within 12 weeks," explained Carlo Giuntini, president of the developing firm.

An all-electric (one-bedroom, expandable to 3-bedroom) ranch home on 20 acres sells for $5890, on terms of $56 a month. Farm and ranch acreage without buildings is available in parcels of 20 and 40 acres at $95 an acre.

Map and picture story describing opportunities are available free by writing: M. Penn Phillips Co., 742 N. Loren, Azusa, Calif.

Subsidy of Low-Rent Housing Has Cost U.S. Over $1 Billion

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's program of subsidizing low-rent housing for low-income families has boomed above the one billion dollar mark.

Since the program began in 1937 the government has spent roughly $1 billion to pay the interest and principal on loans on low-rent projects.

Last month the 500,000th dwelling unit to be built under the federal-local program was opened in New York City. Nearly all the units have been apartments and flats. A few are houses.

OVER THE YEARS about seven million people have lived in low-rent dwellings. These now house about two million persons. More than half are children. About 124,000 tenants are 62 years old and older.

These figures were compiled by the Public Housing Administration (PHA), the agency which approves and signs the subsidy contracts with local housing authorities, keeps an eye on the way projects are managed, and pays out the money.

The program has come in for its share of criticism. Critics object that it replaces old slums with new ones. This is said with particular reference to "high rise" buildings—10 and 20-story brick-and-mortar cliffs to be seen chiefly in New York and Chicago.

To this, the program's supporters reply that most public housing is not "high rise" and that it includes private houses and garden-type apartments. Moreover, they say, nobody ever claimed that providing the poorest element of society with better shelter would automatically wipe out juvenile delinquency, wife-beating and bathtub booze.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM is soundly supported by the Kennedy administration (former President Dwight D. Eisenhower limited activity in the field). PHA will spend about $166 million in subsidy payments in fiscal 1962 and $185 million in 1963. With about three-fourths of the 1962 money already disbursed, the cumlative total since 1937 has crossed the $1 billion mark. It was $830 million last June 30, the end of fiscal 1961.

The 500,000 dwelling units have cost an average of $8,000 each. This includes planning, land purchase, site improvement and construction. With costs much higher than they were even 10 years ago, present costs are far above $8,000. In some cases they approach $20,000 a unit.

Of families admitted to low-rent housing last year, half had a family income of $2,333 or less. Among elderly persons—including single-person families—the median income was $1,433.

About half of all new tenants last year paid rents of $40 a month or more. For elderly persons, the median rent was $32 a month.

Oldest Seminary Sets Celebration

PRINCETON, N. J. (UPI)—Princeton Theological Seminary, oldest and largest Presbyterian seminary in the United States, formally begins celebration of its 150th anniversary on April 23.

The observance will last until the June, 1963, commencement. It will feature lectures, convocations, scholarly conferences, musical and dramatic programs and the publication of books and monographs.

Kitchen-Family Room Popular Plan in Golden West Estates

A large kitchen-family room with modern range top separator and handy breakfast bar is a highlight of the three-bedroom "100-Plan" at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction.

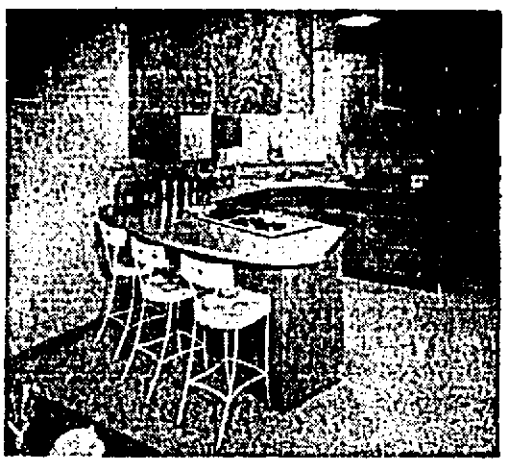

The functional "U"-shaped kitchen area includes natural ash cabinets, Wilson-Art sink tops with coved splashes, and a corner sink with view window commanding the front entranceway to the home. A convenient door in the family room leads directly to garage. The kitchen, like all other areas in the home, is directly accessible from the large entry and center hall.

* * * *

GOLDEN WEST homes in the new 7th Unit are available in 22 distinctive exterior stylings. Immediate occupancy is available on most, or buyers may reserve their favorite plan and lot until the close of the school term.

Offered with three or four bedrooms, two baths, family room, and an oversized two-car garage, the homes may be purchased with FHA, conventional, or VA no-down-payment terms. The 35-year, 5¼% FHA terms offer down payments from $800, while conventional down payments range from $695. Buyers may build up to their down payment gradually under a special layaway plan. Pricing is from $17,800.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached via Seventh St. east to Golden West St., then right.

KITCHEN IS U-SHAPED

The large kitchen-family room in the new Golden West Estates is proving very popular with buyers. The kitchen is U-shaped with a dining bar room divider.

"I BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT I LIVE IN A MEDALLION HOME"

"I've built more than 12,000 homes—all kinds—since I started in the construction business," says Mr. Holstein, "and I hold some very definite opinions about what makes a home a solid value.

"That's why I built my own to Medallion Home standards. For clean, up-to-date livability, you just can't match a Medallion Home."

In the light of Mr. Holstein's testimony, it's easy to understand the growing preference of new-home buyers for Medallion Homes. Take your cue from the experts. Choose a Medallion Home.

Only one new home in four earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:

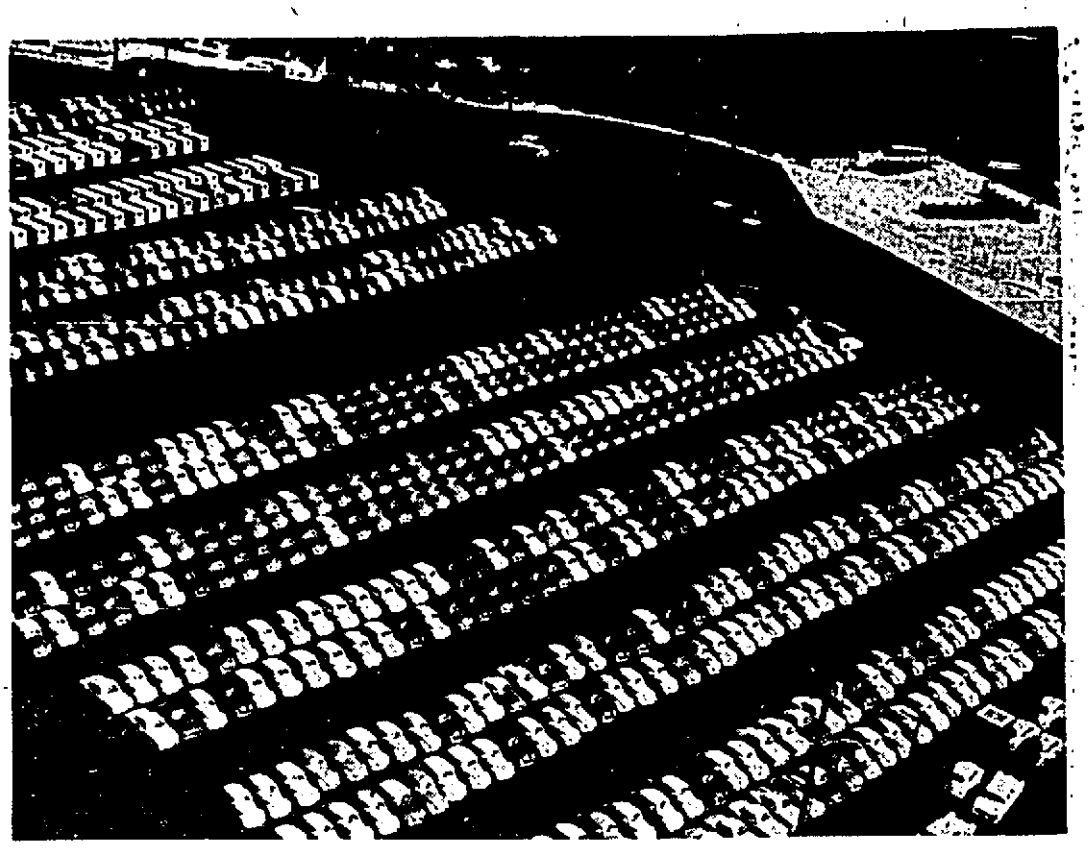

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.
2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.
3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

LAW IN NEWS

Landlords May Face Headaches

Many people depend for their income upon the rental from real property.

Good management rests on many separate things: Not the least of these is the selection of good tenants, thus to avoid legal headaches which an undesirable tenant may cause.

Suppose a tenant fails to pay his rent, or creates a nuisance by being noisy: Even though your written lease or rental agreement says you can end the tenancy, re-enter the premises and evict the tenants, the law will not permit you to. The law frowns on self help even though the tenant's possession is unlawful.

AS A RESULT, legal assistance is often needed. For the tenants must be served with a notice that the tenancy is ended — and this notice must be carefully worded. If he does not move out of his own accord one must file a lawsuit (called an unlawful detainer action) and obtain a court judgment. Then if the tenant does not move out voluntarily, the sheriff must move him out. All of these steps cost money.

A well drawn lease or rental agreement will do much to solve the landlord's problems and spell out the tenant's obligations. Things that a good lease can say:

1. In case of a lawsuit which party shall pay the legal expenses. Sometimes laeses say the tenant; and sometimes, the winning party.

* * * *

2. WHAT SHALL be done if the tenant abandons the premises leaving behind his personal belongings. Unless the lease allows the owner to place the property in storage at the tenant's expense, a wrong guess by the landlord may make him liable in damages to the tenant.

3. If there is a security or cleaning deposit, what conditions give the tenant the right to its return.

4. How much notice the tenant must give to end his tenancy. If the tenancy is one from month to month, he must, if there is nothing in the lease on this point, give at least 30 days' notice. Without this notice he would owe the landlord another month's rent, even though he moved out. Of course, if the lease is for a fixed period of time—for example six months—unless the lease says so, it cannot be ended before the time is up.

Record Crowds View New Dutch Haven Unit

WELL LIKED BY VIEWERS
Unit 20 of Dutch Haven Homes in Huntington Beach has been thronged by viewers who found the big homes appealing. Here is a view in one of the new models, showing the beautiful panel wall separating the living room from the dining area.

Overflow crowds thronged to the preview opening of Dutch Haven's 20th unit in the Southern California area, on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica at Huntington Beach.

According to an official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, crowds have been so large that many visitors were unable to inspect the community in complete detail. A number of immediate reservations were made last weekend and many viewers are returning to finalize negotiations.

"American Home Series" residences are being shown exclusively at Dutch Haven unit 20. Buyers have a choice of award-winning floor plans, all of which feature unusually efficient room arrangements, spacious closet and storage areas and an oversized garage with additional storage space.

There are 16 exterior elevations available.

• • • •

THE LOCATION is exerting a strong influence on sales. Climate is ideal, beaches are but a few minutes away and there are excellent facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking.

The homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at 5¼% interest rate are also available. Monthly payments begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

Custom features include complete frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and countertop gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

Fred Friedman, 37, of 720 Terraine Ave., has been promoted to Southern California and Arizona film buyer for Fox West Coast Theaters, it is announced by Dan Poller of National General Corp., parent company in Beverly Hills.

Friedman has served as a theater manager in Long Beach, San Pedro and Seal Beach. He moved to the Los Angeles home offices in 1950.

Friedman attended Woodrow Wilson High School and Long Beach City College. A World War II veteran, he is a member of the Palos Verdes Masonic Lodge, Long Beach Scottish Rites, El Bekel Shrine and Pacific Club.

Nearing Sell Out in Country Square

IN COUNTRY SQUARE
A select few residences are still available at Country Square in Cypress on Orange Avenue just west of Knott Avenue. The homes are fully priced from just $14,990.

While emphasizing that there are a select few residences at Country Square in urban-surburban Cypress just minutes from Long Beach, W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. said that the near sell-out in a matter of weeks, is credited to the quality construction and fine home appointments so unusual in homes in their modest price bracket.

Full prices, McCaffrey explained, are from just $14,990, and the favorable conventional 25-year loans have down payments as low as $620.

SITUATED ON Orangewood Ave., just west of Knott Ave. in Cypress, the community offers home shoppers, who act promptly, a selection of distinctively diverse exterior elevations and plans with three and four bedrooms and two baths.

Open daily, Country Square is reached from the Long Beach area, by driving east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave., then left (north on Knott Ave. to Orangewood and then left to the homes.

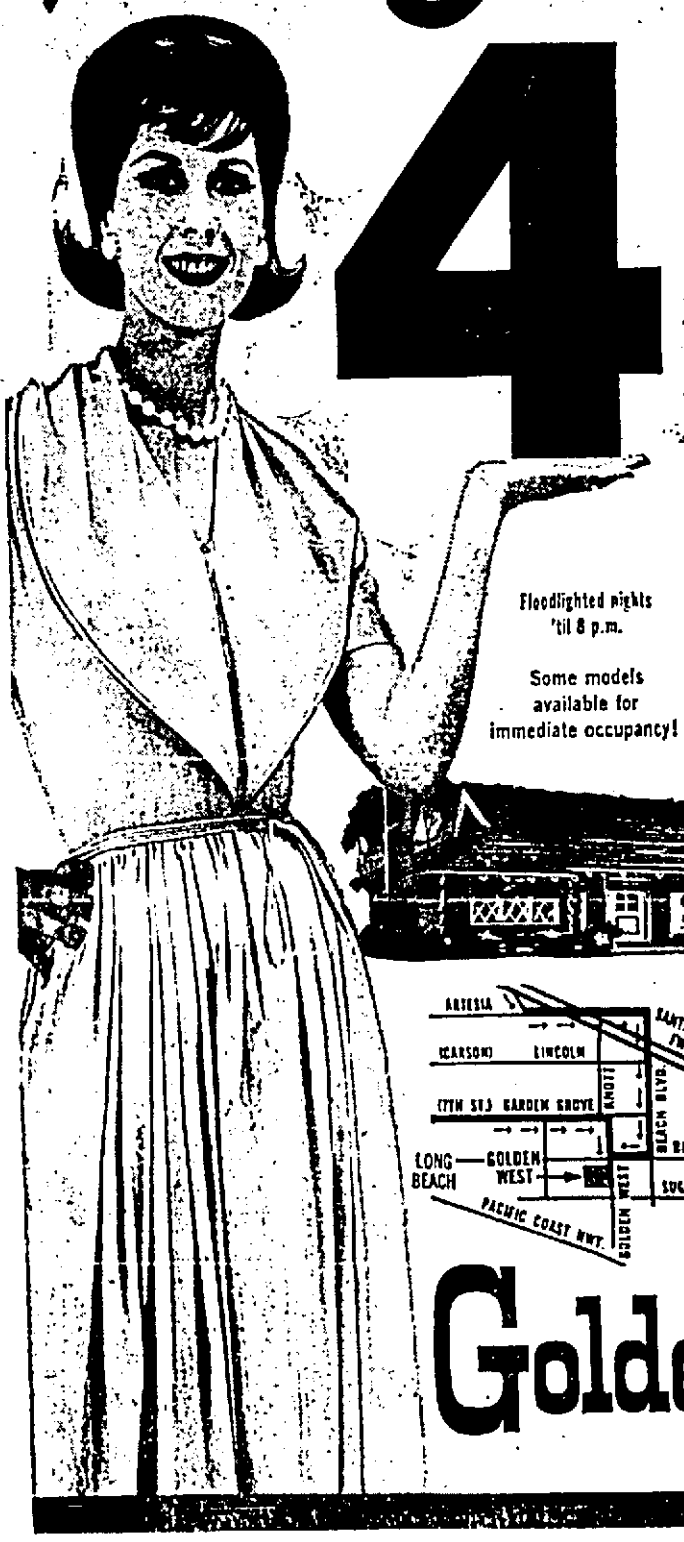

Oregon School Needing Cowboy

TOLEDO, Ore. (AP) — The school board of the coastal town of Toledo is looking for a cowboy.

School Supt. Marion Huff told the board that a roving white-faced cow has made nightly visits to the school grounds for the past three years and has done more than $500 damage to the athletic field and to shrubs and lawns.

Huff said he had chased the cow away a number of times. But it always comes back.

Spacious Homes Appeal in Garden Park Estates

Garden Park Estates, popular walled "city within a city" at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway, has recently introduced an exciting new series of one- and two-story residences that feature among the many other fine home appointments, handsome kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range, officials noted.

Architect-designed, the spacious new Garden Park Estates homes afford choice of three, four or five bedrooms, charmingly defined dining areas and family rooms, beautifully appointed baths and big two-car garages with extra storage space and clean, long-lasting cement driveways.

* * * *

PARTIAL ROSTER of the many luxury and convenience features lists fireplaces, sliding glass doors, forced-air heating, baths with pullman lavatories, stall showers and colored plumbing fixtures, and color-coordinated kitchens with built-in gas wall oven and range in decorator colors with color-matched rangehood with light and fan, semi-automatic dishwasher, waste disposer, furniture-finish hardwood cabinets and superamic (ceramic) tile countertops.

Moderate full prices are from $17,800, officials said. Veterans may purchase on terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $98.50 including principal and interest, and there is also Cal-Vet, conventional and FHA financing.

THE COMMUNITY is within easy walking distance of eight schools from elementary through high school, Long Beach State College is about five minutes drive, shopping is excellent and there are many churches in the area.

Furnished models depict the handsome, quality constructed homes. From Long Beach, drive east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College straight to Knott Ave. and the homes.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 8, 1962 SECTION W

. . . . . dancers go dynamic, explore new dimension

By BETTY WENTWORTH

How can we measure space? It extends into infinity, but it has directions and levels. With no more than this small germ of an idea a choreographer and a composer decided to concoct a dance drama.

Collins, who plays first trumpet with Les Brown's orchestra, composed the music while Ruiz and the dancers developed the idea. There must be solid rapport for creative minds to work well together. Ruiz, teacher, dancer and director, presented the idea of "This Is Space" to his corps of young dancers from the Dance Drama Center Workshop and let them devise their own movements. They wear simple black leotards and tights for uniformity of effect and to prevent the distraction of elaborate costumes.

The finished product is one of three dances to be presented at Long Beach State College Thursday at 8:15 p. m. sponsored by the college's Dance Workshop and Friends of Long Beach Museum of Art. It is open to the public without charge.

The program is all modern dance, but just what is THAT? It's more creative than classical ballet, for one thing. Ballet is danced in a tradition involving stylized movements, with a tendency toward rigidness and sometimes even frigidness, although it undeniably has great beauty. Creative dancing is constantly exploring and experimenting. These young dancers are enthusiastic, earnest and energetic.

The dancers are asked to relate their movements to their own experience. They then expand from natural action to larger movements in order to more dramatically express their emotions. Modern dance is not a literal presentation. It goes around or behind a fact, embellishing it.

• • • •

WITH THAT for a starter let's examine how a dance drama develops. On the program for "This Is Space" it says "choreography by the individual." And it's exactly that.

After Ruiz explains his idea he tosses it to the dancers. They decide, in this case, to define space geometrically at first by measuring it. They form beautiful patterns of squares and triangles. They are surrounding space, as it were. Then someone interpolates the idea of giving space direction by pacing it off, or giving it levels.

Meanwhile, Composer Collins and Janet Runolfsson, pianist, fit music to action and Narrator Margaret Mangano works on a script to unravel the action for the viewer. There are singers, too, Barbara Dunbar and Betty Tesman, who accompany the dancing with songs sung first traditionally and then with exaggeration to fit the developing dance patterns. Watching from the sidelines is Roellen Estes who will handle stage lighting.

• • • •

NOT JUST JACKIE---

THREE Mrs. Kennedy's to Watch!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When the President's youngest brother announced the other day he planned to enter his first political race, women around the country began to wonder: What is Mrs. Ted Kennedy like and how does she measure up as Kennedy campaigner?)

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

A year ago Joan Kennedy candidly admitted it was hard to keep up with her in-laws.

"I'm learning a lot about politics," she said then, by way of example. "They've lived it all their lives."

How much politicking skill Joan has absorbed from the kinetic Kennedys is about to be put to the test.

When her husband Edward, known as Ted, takes to the hustings in search of the Democratic nomination for senator from Massachusetts, she expects to be by his side—smiling, shaking hands, but silent. He'll do all the talking, she says.

Observers point out that Joan, with her blue-eyed, blonde good looks and gracious manner, is somewhere between ebullient Ethel, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's wife, and the basically shy First Lady.

• • • •

BUT MRS. John F. Kennedy, reserved by nature though she may be, has always risen to the occasion.

Pregnant during her husband's campaign for the presidency, she couldn't work actively. Nonetheless, the few appearances she did make, at volunteeer headquarters and such, left staffs starry-eyed for days.

After she became First Lady she won over people on trips abroad. With her husband in Europe a spring ago the crowds applauded "la belle Jacqui."

No slacker in the foreign friendship department is Ethel Kennedy. Last summer she accompanied her husband to West Africa and enchanted the Ivory Coast with her homey interest in how they lived. Perhaps her most endearing quote: "I'm jealous," of a village official who has 10 children. Ethel has only seven.

On the recent four-week world tour she kept pace with her energetic spouse, was fussed over from everybody from Japanese geisha girls to the Dutch queen.

In the last presidential campaign Ethel Kennedy was unofficially elected "Miss Perpetual Motion of 1960" by admiring, perspiring photographers trying to keep up with her efforts in behalf of her brother-in-law.

• • • •

IT WAS at Ethel's side—and with the Kennedy sisters—that Joan got her kindergarten training in Kennedy campaigning.

As a relatively new member of the clan—she and Ted were married in November, 1958—she traveled California with sister-in-law Patricia (Mrs. Peter Lawford) and Pennsylvania with Ethel.

She recalls their campaign meetings:

"They were neighborhood things, you know; coffee in the morning, or tea in the afternoon, with 25 to 50 ladies, sometimes 100. We'd stand around and chat, and I guess shake hands with every lady there—not in a reception line, moving around.

"Then, one of us—not me—would get up and talk about what kind of a person Jack, the President, is and ask if there were any questions.

"Eunice (Mrs. Sargent Shriver) is the one who would talk on the issues. The others just talked about his qualifications and about what kind of a man he is."

• • • •

SHE PLANS to be as affable, and noncommittal, in Ted's campaign.

"I look forward to being very busy with Ted; traveling around with him. I love living in Massachusetts, everyone has been very friendly and wonderful, and I look forward to meeting even more wonderful people, and being with Ted all the time during this next seven months."

Being with Ted probably means the most to Joan. Since he became a $1-a-year assistant Suffolk County district attorney more than a year ago, Joan hasn't seen too much of him. He spent his day at the courthouse and most evenings making speeches. Joan would go with him whenever she could but there was always the problem of sitters for little Kara now 2½ and Edward Jr., born last September.

WHEN JOAN accompanies Ted, household help stays with the children. However, she says, no part of Massachusetts is more than 2½ hours by automobile from Boston, except the offshore islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

Their vine-covered brick house at the foot of Beacon Hill—"one of these tall, skinny things" Joan describes it—is their first real home.

They met in 1957. Ted was in Harvard Law School and pretty Joan Bennett of Bronxville, N. Y., was at Manhattanville. She was graduated in June, 1958, and they were married in November. Until they were settled in the Charles River Square house in Boston late in 1960 they were at Charlottesville, Va., while Ted finished law school.

• • • •

SHE ADMITS she's not much of a cook—"I get kidded a lot." But Joan likes cultural things, such as playing the piano and attending concerts.

Is she fitted temperamentally for the role of a political campaigner's wife?

She says she loved every minute of her 1960 campaigning, and expects to enjoy it even more alongside her husband.

The campaign hasn't really started, but she's already gone with him to a number of political affairs in the last few months where she simply met people and talked with them a bit.

If their reaction is any indication, one of Ted's greatest assets will be Joan.

Vienna Coup Is Best Play

The earlier articles this week have been on bidding only. Here is a hand to test your ability at dummy play.

Needless to say, you will take the ace of hearts for trick one and then draw a few rounds of trumps. You will count 12 top tricks and see that a successful club finesse will give you your contract, but you must have a better play. There must be almost all sorts of squeeze possibilities.

You can assume that West holds the queen of hearts. No one in his right mind and West (in this column anyway) is always in his right mind, would lead an unsupported king against a grand slam when he knows the other side holds all the aces.

* * * *

THE BEST line of play is a Vienna coup. You cash dummy's ace of clubs, ruff a heart just to see if the queen will drop and then cash all your trumps. The first three discards from dummy will be the queen, jack and ten of clubs. On the last trump lead West will have to hang on to the queen of hearts and will be forced to discard a diamond if he started with four of them so you throw away dummy's last heart. Now if East holds the king of clubs and four diamonds he will be squeezed out of his diamond stopper.

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

ONE REASON why husbands of Rick Rackers have turned into such good cooks is that necessity is the mother of invention.

At annual meeting and 20th birthday celebration Tuesday at the League House it was revealed that RR's 37 members gave 4,300 volunteer hours to the good cause during the last 12 months. That does not add up to homecooked meals, steaming hot, on time every night, you know.

"Dinner Ready"

Individual hours honors went to Susie Lewis with 196 and Jackie Welty with 187.

Still on the hours kick: members of the telephone committee made 1,100 calls —and were only allowed 10 hours credit. Ha!

Having reached the ripe old age of retirement from RR, Betty Anne Kirkpatrick, Joan Hoskins, Jackie Campbell and Ethel Severson were given their walking papers which will lead them straight along the path to actlvity in Assistance League.

Several of the gals did an exceptionally clever act, a la "The Mikado," in full costume and make-up. Jackie Welty, Susie Lewis and Neena McHenry all have dark enough hair to manage to get by without benefit of rinse. But Joan Hoskins, Harriett Williams, Audrey Green and Georgiana Hamilton were brunettes for the day, and probably several more to come, with realistic dyed-to-order noggins.

THEY'LL be staging a welcome scene at Magnolia Theater as a special production in April to welcome Pat (Mrs. Gerald) Brown home from New York. Pat forsook her job as managing director of the little theater here to serve as field director of the theater communications division of the Ford Foundation.

THERE'S more to education than a book mark. Jannie and Dr. Jim Hester, our illustrious ex-citizen who is now president of New York University, are definitely on the glamor social trail. They have been invited to attend a dinner at the White House Wednesday, a state function being given in honor of the Shah of Iran and his queen.

Last week they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III.

But wotinheck have they got to look forward to the week after next?

THAT FAMOUS (or is infamous the word I'm groping for?) golf tournament, the Loyal Pulley Invitational, is in the wrap-up stages today at Gilman Hot Springs. Annually, a gang of attorneys and wives travel to the spa for a long weekend of stick swinging.

The crowd named it after Loyal in retaliation for a time when he didn't show up for it when he was supposed to.

Most or all of his fellow law firm members, so numerous that it is referred to as the "We, the People" (behind their backs, of course) plus about 60 others joined the tourney namesake for the date.

Included in the fun and sun flecked weekend (since Thursday) are Patti and Bob Bergmann, Betty and Jack Spence, Marge and Ed Demler, June and Clark Heggeness, Glenda and Earl Barnes, Billye and Fred Lightner, Lorraine and James Ackerman and that sterling chairman of the affair and his wife, Sterling and Legia Clayton.

BILLED as the quietest meeting of the year is Minerva Club's Wednesday gathering at the chapter house, 1830 E. Ocean. But I have me doubts. Even in action on a silent auction silence is seldom sanctioned by gregarious gals.

Maxine Van Leuven, chairman, explains that everyone brings a white elephant type something for sale. Each item has a long slip of paper attached. 'Silently" members and guests circle the tables, write their name and amount they're willing to pay. Trick is, if you notice somebody coveting something you covet you can sneak a peek and change your bid. If you're in time. It's all done on a time limit basis—and you never know when the gong will bong ending the whole thing.

ONLY policy insurance woman Antoinette Oster is interested in right now is one that will pay off in a good time. She's decided to go AWOL (in this case meaning away with official leniency) from her office for a flying vacation jaunt to Japan, and such other spots in the Orient as Taiwan, Hongkong, Bangkok and Thailand. She'll return early May, loaded to the gunwales, no doubt, with tourist loot.

NO WONDER the parents of teen-agers wake up screaming. It's worry over the high cost of sending them off to college. But what else can they do to get rid of that music? It's like being caught in a vice.

"Parents vs. Music"

You can hear the recorded ruckus but can you tell one from the other without looking at the label, Gable?

I called two record shops — Bob Morey downtown and Carl Schramm in Belmont Shore to find out the names of the current best sellers. Bob said outselling all others are "Johnny Angel," "Mashed Potato Time," "Slow Twistin'," "Good Luck Charm" and "Lover Please," in that order.

Carl's top two are the same but the balance are "She Cried," "Old Rivers," "Love Letters" and still going strong, "Midnight in Moscow."

The popularity is a direct result of these whatevers constantly being hammered over second rate radio stations.

As a speaker for the National Association of Broadcasters said, in essence, earlier this week, "We're killin' ourselves."

HERE'S AN intriguing coincidence concerning good friends Jennifer Adams and Lynn (McCullough) Uzielli de Mari. While Jennifer was stepping off a plane in Florence, Italy, Lynn was arriving in Long Beach from her current home — Florence.

Lynn and baby daughter, Lisa, are here for a visit with her parents while Jennifer is in Italy for six months on Stanford University's foreign study program.

Mrs. Donald E. Holmes

Mrs. Bradley A. Teeter

Brides Say 'I Do' at Ceremonies Here

Wearing a traditional gown of organza and Chantilly lace, Beverly Ann Whitford became the bride of Donald Eugene Holmes in a recent ceremony at Grace Methodist Church.

She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Whitford, Lakewood; he is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Holmes, Huntington Beach.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Mrs. Claudia J. Gonzales, matron of honor; also the bridegroom's sisters and sister-in-law, Deborah and Ruth A. Holmes, and Mrs. David B. Whitford Jr., bridesmaids.

Completing the wedding party were Carl D. Nauman, best man; William E. Gonzales, bridegroom's brother-in-law, and his brother, David B. Whitford Jr., ushers.

The new Mrs. Holmes was graduated from Wilson High School and attended Brigham Young University, where she was a member of Theta Alpha Phi honorary fraternity. Her bridegroom attended Compton Junior College.

Teeter-King

Judith Lynn King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie N. King, 3868 Gaviota Ave., became the bride of Bradley A. Teeter, son of Mrs. Leo Wermerskirchen, 3621 Gaviota Ave., and Malton Teeter, 5110 Myrtle Ave., during a recent ceremony at California Heights Methodist Church.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace. She was attended by her sister, Sharon King, as maid of honor and Anne Tucey, matron of honor. Gladys Ashmore, Kathy Mobley and Kathy Pross were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom chose Jerry Ashmore as best man. Completing the wedding party were Willie Houck, ring bearer; Jack Tucey, Mark Monfort, Wayne Glenn and Dave Foster, ushers.

Mrs. Frederick Engels II

Engels and Elmquist in Ceremony

Numerous friends from Long Beach journeyed to Newport Beach recently to join the 400 guests at the wedding of Sally Louise Elmquist and Frederick Letteau Engels II in St. James Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul William Elmquist of Lido Isle, who were summer residents of Long Beach for many years. Elmquist is a prominent local business executive. Mr. and Mrs. John Engels of Sarasota, Fla., are parents of the bridegroom and attended the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in ivory peau de soie, its bouffant skirt extending into a chapel train, and with Alencon lace bordering the bodice. A drop pearl crown held her veil, and she carried gardenias centered with a green orchid.

• • • •

IN HER entourage, wearing jade green taffeta gowns, were Suzy Callender, Terri Marshall, Mary Jo Reilly and Pam Peterson.

The new Mrs. Engels was educated at Orme Ranch School, Arizona, and Greenbrier College, West Virginia. Her husband was graduated from Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va., and is serving in the U.S. Army, stationed in Stanton.

Dancers Explore in Space

realistically and then abstracts it, the dancers take natural gestures and extend or distort them for fuller self-expression and greater audience impact.

There is no star or premiere ballerina. Each contributes to the whole effect from his special field of knowledge, and all work together in great harmony. One is an engineering student—he was helpful in planning concise geometrical designs. The composer and pianist help the dancers understand intricate tempos and beats. Ruiz supervises the whole and smooths rough edges. He's dynamic and imaginative and they're devoted to him, it's obvious. There's a busy stage crew too.

THE GROUP'S second work has the addition of a story with lines spoken and plot developed. Ruiz feels this is the whole of theater. It's from a Tennessee Williams one-act play. Ruiz does the choreography himself for this, and Ruth Gartler and Richard Hunter are added to the cast. In their third number, "Jazz Chairs," ice-cream parlor chairs are used, not as props, but as extensions of the dancers' movements, and novel and intricate designs are formed.

None of the group is paid. Their reward is in being part of a creative effort in the modern dance idiom. In short, they love their work, and you will too if you go to their exciting performance Thursday night. It's on for one evening only, so don't miss it!

Broncheon to Benefit Foundation

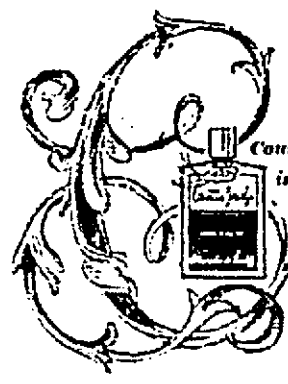

Native Daughters of the Golden West will have its fifth annual Southern Counties Children's Foundation benefit broncheon today in International Room, Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Theme of the event will be "Springtime Carousel." The benefit will open with a social hour at 10 a.m. followed by broncheon at 10:45 a.m. with George Liberace providing musical entertainment.

• • • •

CHILDREN'S Foundation serves youngsters from infancy to 16 years regardless of race, color or creed. Braces, wheelchairs, artificial limbs, speech correction lessons, psychiatric care and corrective shoes are a few of the items and services provided.

Mrs. Donald Frey, chairman of Children's Foundation of Long Beach 154, will attend along with Mrs. Donald Frey, president, Mrs. Maxine Gatlin and other members and guests of the Long Beach parlor.

Aura of Elegance to Surround League Tea

A flower cart filled with bright spring blossoms pushed by an attendant in colorful artist's smock and beret will set a gay French sidewalk cafe theme for the tea given by the Assistance League of Long Beach on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, 4147 Country Club Dr.

The party is planned as a gracious courtesy welcoming the sixteen new provisionals pictured, each of whom has an outstanding record of community service, as well as Mmes. David Eagleson and Dean Lucas, incoming Rick Rackers, and promises to be one of the most elegant events of the spring season.

• • • •

TO FURTHER carry out the Parisian motif, striped awnings will shade white tables covered with pink and white cloths centered with perky little paper poodles. Models of the Arc de Triomphe and the Eiffel Tower will contribute to the illusion as will strolling musicians.

Life members of the Assistance League are in charge of the gala event, with Mrs. Douglas H. Graham, charter member, as chairman. She will be assisted by Mmes. Carl B. Shank, Lester Callahan, Harry Witz, Warren Ten Eyck, Joseph Fellows and Melvin Campbell, founder of the local league.

• • • •

GREETING guests will be Mmes. Campbell, Sidney Exley, league president; Donald Murphy, president-elect; Robert Langslet, Rick Racker chairman, and Charles Smith, Las Hermanas chairman.

Provisional training will begin in May with the CVO orientation program.

Staff Photos by Joe Risinger

A WARM WELCOME at the home of Mrs. Francis J. Heusel on Wednesday will be accorded neophytes of the Assistance League before they plunge into their training program in May. Shown admiring handsome Oriental objets d'art at League House are (from left) Mmes. Monroe S. Yunker, James J. Nagle, W. M. Woodard and W. C. Strawinski.

Off to Capital for GOP

Long Beach women will play an important part in the tenth annual Republican Women's Conference in Washington, D. C., Friday through April 12.

Mrs. J. Lloyd O'Donnell is in charge of arranging air transportation for the Southern California delegation. She is vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and has attended all conferences held to date.

Mrs. Logan H. Goodknight, president of the Southern Area of the California Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, will be hostess at the registration get-together Friday evening in Statler Hilton Hotel.

Mrs. John Bowler, president of Los Angeles County Federation, will head the hostesses at the breakfast for the California delegation April 16.

• • • •

EACH YEAR GOP leaders from throughout the country travel to Washington at their own expense to learn the newest campaign technique presented at the conferences.

For the California delegation, highlights of the conference will be the meeting with Republican congressmen from California in the Capitol Building Saturday morning and a reception in their honor given that afternoon by Senator and Mrs. Thomas Kuchel.

El Tanya to Install

El Tanya Court 61, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, will install Mrs. Max G. Miller as high priestess Monday at 8 p.m. at Palos Verdes Masonic Temple, 5155 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Others taking office will be Doris Dearden, Evelyn Hinkley, Vivian Grosser, Ruby McLaren, Wilma Martz, Georgina White, Mary Dickinson, Ione Leach and Clair Noel.

Frances Oakes is retiring high priestess.

Entertainment will be furnished by the court's choir, oriental band and dancers and the patrol. Past high priestesses will preside at the silver tea following the ceremony.

Mrs. Max Miller

Pair Set May Rite

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Havekorst, Long Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Mary, to Raymond E. Allard, son of Mrs. Louise Allard, San Diego.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Wilson High School and UC, Santa Barbara, where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

Her fiance was graduated from Loyola University, Los Angeles, where he was a member of Alpha Sigma Nu and Jesuit Honor Society.

The wedding will take place May 5.

Auxiliary Plans Annual Luncheon

Woman's Auxiliary, Long Beach Pharmaceutical Association, will have its annual Past Presidents' Luncheon Tuesday noon in the home of Mrs. George Marx.

Brookshires Tell Troth

Sally Laverne Brookshire's engagement to Lee Lundberg Rivard has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brookshire Sr. of Long Beach.

The bride-elect was graduated from Millikan High School and attended Long Beach City College as did her fiance. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland H. Rivard of this city.

The wedding will take place June 16.

Days of the 49ers

FASHIONS, DIPLOMACY, MUSIC ALL IN OFFING

Variety is the theme on the Long Beach State College activities front these days.

Spring and summer styles will be in the spotlight when Omega Alpha Delta, women in extended day, stages "Promenade of Fashion" at 2 p.m. Saturday in Soroptimist House. Vice President Nell Polson is in charge of arrangements, and members of LBSC's Gamma chapter will model. Proceeds will go to OAD's scholarship fund.

And the accent is on international diplomacy Thursday when chairman Steve Held leads an 11-student delegation to a three-day Model United Nations convention at San Diego. His group is one from 97 universities and colleges in the Pacific and Mountain areas. LBSC will represent Argentina, and recent developments in that nation haven't made our group's task any easier. On the non-political front, Long Beach State and San Diego University's College for Women will host a reception for consular representatives of the Organization of American States.

And some music: today at 4 p.m. is the annual spring concert of the Long Beach State Concert Band. So that more may hear, the event is in Long Beach CC's auditorium. And on Wednesday night, the Acappella Choir sings at 8 in the First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue. Both are free.

Saturday, another Long Beach Film Society program in the Little Theater. "Blue Angel," the movie which introduced Marlene Dietrich to the world, has three showings: 5, 7:30, and 9:15 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the box office.

• • • •

PLUS SOME news from sororities:

Valerie Kester won the best scholarship improvement award at last Saturday's Delta Zeta State Day fete . . . at the same time, the alumnae service award went to Mrs. Esther Hatch . . . DZ's "Man of the Year" will be named at Saturday's Rose Formal. He will be one of five: Leonard Alfieri, Richard Bailey, Ralph Grosso, Jerry Galbreath, and Tim Leslie.

Delta Gamma recently initiated eight fall semester pledges; Lynn Cleveland was named outstanding pledge, and she also had the highest GPA . . . the pledge class gave the DG House a projector, screen, and camera . . . a former LBSC Delta Gamma, Ethel Walker, now at SC is Sigma Phi Epsilon's "Queen of Hearts" . . . Last Monday Acacia fraternity presented the sorority with films of last year's homecoming where four of the gals were royalty.

And for a college so close to the ocean, a little bit about sailing: LBSC's Sailing Club is looking for new members. This lively campus group has a program which spells f-u-n if you are not afraid to go near the water. Inquire in the activities office or contact Tom Bardeen, 11141 Martha Ann Drive, Rossmoor. Incidentally, the club could use a Lehman-10 to help get its teams in shape for collegiate sailing races coming up. Any suggestions?

THE Look of Spring

Eye Zing for Easter Bonnets

. . . it's the hat's frosting

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Hats and eyes will co-star in this spring's fashion extravaganza. And in technicolor, yet.

That's the consensus of top-flight milliners, who agree to a woman—and a man—that unless your orbs are ornamented, neither you nor your Easter bonnet will rate second glances.

"Eye makeup is a must under your new spring chapeau," says haute hatter Mr. John, whose fashion authority is unquestioned by a roster of beauties ranging from Arlene to ZsaZsa.

"Simple lines and vibrant colors characterize hats for spring," says he. "But a woman must make herself a good subject for hat flattery.

"Eye makeup brings a face to life, gives it sparkle and vitality."

EMME, whose know-how with hats has won her umpteen fashion awards and a loyal following of the country's smartest women, is equally emphatic.

"Match your eye makeup to your hat for Easter," says she. "Today eye makeup comes in so many smart shades, you can use it as a real fashion accessory—as well as a beauty necessity."

And here's Sally Victor's hatitude: "Beautiful eye makeup complements a becoming hat because it adds that essential of allure so important to an attractive, well-groomed woman."

And who are we to argue with the experts?

BIG, BOLD 'N' BEAUTIFUL . . . this white ribbed silk beret (above), by Emme, will rate second glances every time . . . especially if milady brings out beauty of eyes with sapphire blue eye shadow, royal blue eye-liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and royal blue mascara, tipped with black.

FLOWERS THAT BLOOM in spring are no match for profusion of blossoms on Emme's Easter confection (right). For eye-appeal: amethyst-violet pressed powder eye shadow, violet liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and mascara.

DELIGHTFUL PIXIE HAT of violet starflowers and pale green leaves (left), by Robin, is romanced with violet tones in eye makeup. Says designer: "The more beautiful hat, the more necessary for your face to live up to it."

SALLY VICTOR whips up smartest Breton of year (above), using ombre crepe in shades of turquoise and blue. With it, the perfect eye makeup: turquoise pressed powder eye shadow, turquoise liner, velvet black eyebrow pencil and mascara.

League to Honor City Officials Wednesday

Long Beach city officials will be honored at a 10 to 11 a.m. coffee hour Wednesday by League of Women Voters.

The get-acquainted event will take place in Recreation Park Clubhouse, 4900 E. 7th St. A business meeting will follow.

The coffee will be open to the public. No reservation will be necessary.

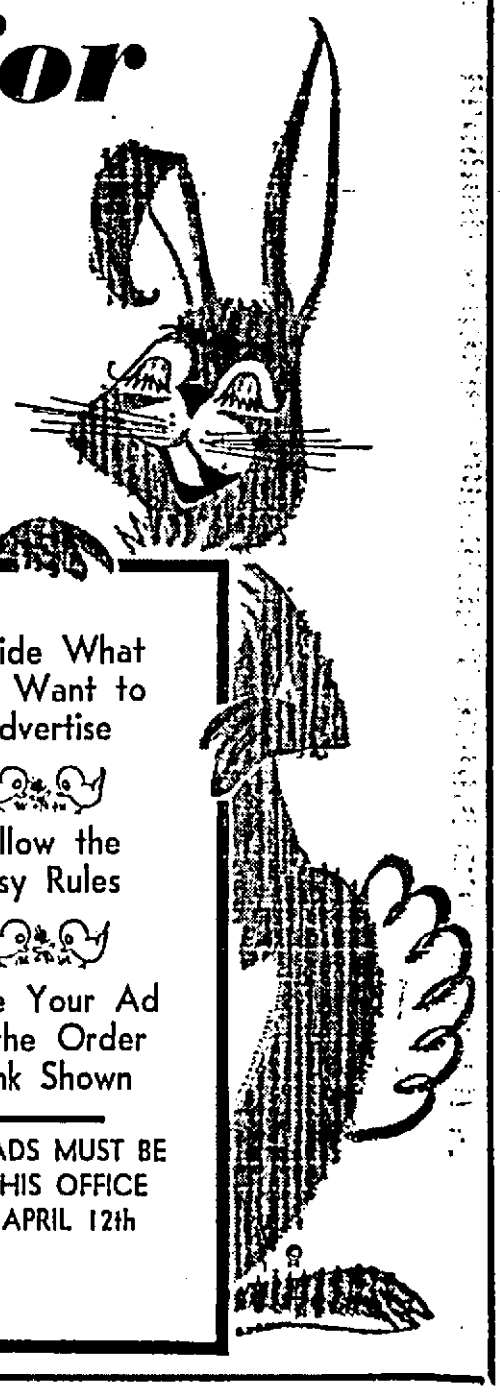

THROUGHOUT the past year the League has supported action for a new city charter, services to disturbed and delinquent juveniles and children in need of temporary shelter care or foster homes. It also has backed County assessment and collection of Long Beach city taxes.

At the present time there are seven local units of the league in Long Beach. Information about the group may be obtained by calling the office located at 724 Atlantic Ave.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

'More Blessed to Give . . .'

DEAR ABBY: I am 50 years old and unmarried. I don't care if you call me an "Unclaimed Treasure" or an Old Maid. My complaint is that I have bought countless gifts for bridal showers and baby showers with no hope of getting anything back. Why doesn't the government declare OLD MAID'S DAY so girls like me can get even?—GIFT GIVER.

ABBY

DEAR GIVER: A beautiful idea. Write to your congressman!

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a family of 5 girls and 3 boys (all married with nice homes) who stick one brother with their 80-year-old father? He has made his home with us for 12 years. I am the "good" daughter-in-law. ("Sap" would be more like it.) He used to work part time, but now he is unable to work and is under my feet all day and all night. We asked if some of the others would take him for a few weeks and they flatly refused. I never have a free moment. He is in the living room 14 hours a day. He takes several naps every day but always on the living room sofa. I am ready for a nervous breakdown. Can you blame me?—HAD MY FILL.

DEAR HAD: (And you were.) Since the father is your husband's, the problem should be handled by him. Your husband should gather his brothers and sisters together and ANNOUNCE that they are just as responsible for the care of their father as he is. There are enough of them to pitch in and give him all the comforts of a nice rest home, if they refuse to take him into their homes.

DEAR ABBY: If you are at a restaurant and someone stops by your table to say hello, but stands there and talks while your food is on the table, are you supposed to (1) go right on eating? (2) stop and let your food get cold?—VICTIM.

DEAR VICTIM: If the person says more than hello and it looks like a long siege, invite him to sit down and say, "My food was just served and I would like to eat it while it's hot—I hope you don't mind." If this doesn't make him disappear, nothing will.

Fabric Facts

by BETTY BLAKE
Foasberg's Fabric Care Counselor

Shirt Wear: Shirt tails last indefinitely, but collars and cuffs wear out. This proves it isn't laundering, but actual wear. Abrasion from wrist watches, running a finger around the collar as a nervous habit, long neck hair, and whiskers all can play their part. Also extra-heavy starching can cause fibers to become brittle and break.

Buying Tips . . . When buying corduroy, rub the material briskly with a white handkerchief. If color comes off, it will be much worse when the material is wet, and the corduroy will fade.

STAIN-PROOF?

Our new water-repellent makes garments almost stain-proof. A good investment on better dresses.

Major & Minor Notes

KLETZKI TRUE MAESTRO ON OR OFF PODIUM

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

Meeting and talking to Paul Kletzki, the internationally famous conductor, is just as exciting as listening to him conduct an orchestra. The other day I had a wonderful two-hour visit with this charming man.

Somehow I expected a man born in Poland to be dark-complected, but from Mr. Kletzki's heavy red eyebrows I knew he had been a redhead, although he is quite bald now. His twinkling blue eyes and very fair skin make him a blond indeed. In one of my reviews I called Kletzki an "aristocrat of the baton." I also found him an aristocrat in bearing, in culture and in manner, and it seemed good to have my hand kissed in the old European manner in departing.

* * * *

AS A CHILD, Kletzki played the violin, and when his home city was occupied by the Germans, the Polish musician formed an orchestra by way of distraction and comfort at the age of 14. At 19 he went to Warsaw to study conducting.

1921 found him a student at the Hochschuler (high school of music) in Berlin. There the great conductor, Furtwangler, discovered him and took him under his wing. With such a mentor, how was it possible for this gifted lad to become anything but a great conductor in his own right.

From 1923 to 1934 he conducted under Furtwangler the concerts of the Berlin Philharmonische Orchestra. As Bruno Walter loved Gustav Mahler, so Paul Kletzki loved Furtwangler and one sees in his conducting the poetic instincts of that man, whom I had the privilege of hearing many times when I lived in Berlin.

* * * *

"WHEN THE trouble came in Germany in 1934," reminisced Kletzki, "I left the country. My wife was from Switzerland so we went to Montreaux where we still live." He conducted the La Scala Orchestra in Milan for four years, and was being sought as guest conductor all over Europe and Scandinavia.

"I have conducted in every country of the world except Japan, China and South Africa," he said. In 1958 he came to America and conducted the Cincinnati, Baltimore and Philadelphia orchestras. After one of these concerts in New York an imposing group of men and women visited him. "We want you as regular conductor of our Dallas Symphony Orchestra in Texas," they said. In 1959 he consented and held the post until ill health forced him to resign.

* * * *

"AFTER TWO years and a half in shaping that orchestra," he told me, "I wanted the best available conductor to follow me. But who?" One day as he was in flight on a tour with the orchestra one of his men picked up a newspaper which read "Solti resigns from the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra." "I rushed to the first telephone after landing," he recalled, "and got Dallas. 'Solti is available,' I screamed. 'Grab this man quickly.' And they did."

Mrs. Kletzki does not travel the tiring guest appearance route with her husband but remains quietly in Switzerland. They have been married 32 years but have no children. "A conductor's wife," he told in confidence, "should have a badge of merit pinned over her heart for the first three years of married life, and then two badges of merit for the remaining years." "Are conductors so difficult to live with?" I asked. "They are always tired," he laughingly retorted.

* * * *

THERE ARE trials and heartbreaks in the life of a conductor. The contralto who sang in his recent performance of Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" had sung it only once before. "When I heard that," he said "I nearly fainted!" The tenor, Richard Lewis, on the other hand, had sung it with him many times in Europe. In London recently when he conducted the work with the BBC the day after Bruno Walter died, Kletzki dedicated the performance to his beloved friend, Dr. Walter, and after the last note died away the whole audience stood in mute tribute.

I think Paul Kletzki was thinking of Bruno Walter when he conducted Mahler's work the other night with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra because the performance was so moving that a long silence ensued after the music had ended; the audience spellbound both by the beautiful music and by the superb conducting of a great maestro, Paul Kletzki.

Troupe to Perform at Center

Appearing in concert at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. will be an Israeli troupe, Geula Gill and the Oranim Zabar.

Featured artist, Miss Gill, has an unusually beautiful voice which covers three octaves, and she sings in 16 languages. She started her career as a soldier in the Israeli army. While performing in distant border posts she met the other two members of the group.

Michael Kagan is a virtuoso on the oriental drum and Dov Seltzer plays the

accordian as well as having composed and made arrangements for a majority of their songs.

Following army service they toured all Israel and began a world tour. They have made nine record albums during their U. S. tour, all being best-sellers in the field of folk music.

* * * *

THE NAME Oranim Zabar has a poetic meaning. Oranim are the pine trees tat symbolize the old stubborn mountain tree standing against the winds and power of nature. Zabar or sabra is fruit of the cactus that symbolizes the new offspring from the dry and arid desert plant. Together they represent the fusion between old and new.

Tickets are on sale at Brower's, 316 Locust Ave., and at the Jewish Community Center. Series and patrons tickets are honored.

The group will also appear next Saturday at 8:15 p.m. at the Los Angeles Wilshire - Ebell Theater.

Set Auditions for Juilliard

The Juilliard School of Music of New York is sponsoring auditions in five southwest and midwest cities this spring. In Los Angeles they are scheduled for Monday, April 10, in Assistance League Clubhouse, 1367 St. Andrews Pl., Hollywood.

There are scholarship openings on the following instruments: Viola, oboe, bassoon, horns, trumpet, trombone and tuba. The traveling jury of Juilliard staff members, will hear instrumentalists in these categories only.

* * * *

APPLICATIONS should be accompanied by a letter of recommendation from the student's private teacher or the musical director of his or her school.

Applicants in other mediums—piano, voice and other string instruments, are encouraged to apply for the New York auditions on June 4 to 6 and Sept. 18 to 25. Correspondence in regard to these should be directed to the Admissions Office, Juilliard School of Music, 120 Claremont Ave., New York 27.

Symphony Soloist Is Noted Harpist

Stanley Chaloupka, first harpist of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be the soloist with Long Beach Symphony next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at Long Beach City College Auditorium. Under the baton of Lauris Jones the orchestra will present a new work by Chaloupka, his "Vignettes" in which he will be soloist as he will in "Aria" by the famed harp virtuoso, Grandjany.

* * * *

CHALOUPKA is one of the most distinguished musicians to have been born and educated in California where he began his harp studies under Kajetan Attl, first harpist of the San Francisco Symphony Orchesta. At 16 he appeared as soloist with this symphony and at 21 he was engaged to play first harp with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. During this time he played under scores of distinguished conductors. He has also made many recordings and appeared on radio and TV programs.

Also on the program will be "The Seven Seals" by the Norwegian composer, Knut Nystedt who will be artist in residence at State College in May. Orchestration for this work was obtained through the cooperation of the Norwegian Embassy in Washington, D.C. Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture will complete the program.

* * * *

THERE WILL BE a free preview of the concert Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the Pacific Coast Club sponsored by the Long Beach Symphony Guild and the Junior League of Long Beach on Thursday. Dr. Leon Dallin, composer and musicologist from Long Beach State College, will discuss the program.

The public is especially urged to attend the preview since the new and exciting music to be performed will be even more enjoyable for those who take the opportunity for a preliminary hearing of its themes and motivations. No reservations are necessary for the preview unless luncheon is desired. Luncheon reservations may be made with the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5336 Appian Way. Seats may be reserved by calling Mrs. Richard Matlock, 1560 Ramillo Ave., or the Symphony Association.

Show 'Blue Angel' at State College

"The Blue Angel," film which in 1930 introduced Marlene Dietrich to the world, will be shown Saturday in the Little Theater at Long Beach State College at 5, 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the box office. The companion piece is "Panta Rhei" (All Things Flow"), a study of movement in nature.

Ataide Shows at Veltman's

Editor's Note: In the absence of Elise Emery, art's page editor, this column is being written by Betty Wentworth.

A reception today from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Veltman Gallery, 5604 E. Second St., will open a new exhibit of works by Joe Ataide which will run to April 28. This is the first of a series of one-man shows that will run to July with three weeks for each artist.

Ataide, of Portuguese descent and a former boxer for the Navy, is a painter with both vitality and a fresh viewpoint toward color and form. Soundly trained academically, he has degrees from the U. of California and the U. of Washington, plus studying at the California College of Arts and Crafts. He has also taught art in public schools.

The artist has done everything from murals for the Navy Postgraduate School to yacht portraits. He has had shows in New York, Philadelphia, the U. of Hawaii, and the Albany Art Museum.

He has been strongly influenced in style by George Bellows and Glackens as well as Orozco and Kuniyoshi. Works in the show include figures and still lifes. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; closed on Sunday.

"MOMENT OF DOUBT," painting of boxer by Joe Ataide, is one of works in his exhibit opening tonight at Veltman Gallery. Artist has been a Navy boxer.

LECTURE SERIES program at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., will take place Tuesday, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., with the "master work of the month" being reviewed.

"Cariani," by Giovanni Busi is master work for April and is lent from the collection of Lorser Feitelson. Mrs. James L. Frame will speak about the artist, his life and contribution to the art of his times. John Weeks, museum educational curator, will relate the work to art trends. The program is open to all without charge.

Artists whose works were in the recent annual Southern California exhibition are asked to pick up their works today from 2 to 4 p.m.

• • • •

A RECEPTION will take place Friday for exhibitors and the public at the Tenth Annual Art Exhibit for professional and amateur artists at South Gate Auditorium, 4900 Southern Ave., according to Rozell Farnsworth, president of the South Gate Art Association. The show includes paintings, mosaics and sculpture.

Cash and merchandise awards are given to the ten best in show as well as ribbons to the honorable mentions and 25 gold seal awards. Jurors will be Edward Reep and Leonard Cutrow of Chouinard Art Institute, and exhibit chairman is Mrs. Lee Lambeth. For further information call the South Gate Art Gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. any day except Monday.

• • • •

ARTISTS of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5140 Atherton, are members and friends of the church. Exhibit includes oil, water colors, collage, mosaic, ceramics and sculpture and will continue until May 3. The gallery is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

• • • •

CURRENTLY Gitana (Virginia Mullen) has two shows hanging for the month of April. At Di Piazza's Restaurant, 4713 E. Second St., the exhibit consists of 21 works, 12 of them abstracts done in sculptured style with plaster and sand, a technique she learned in Paris two years ago.

Second exhibit is at General Surgical Supply Co., 1776 Obispo Ave., and includes portrait sketches of women done in Spain, France and Italy.

• • • •

LATEST paintings by Harry Lachman, noted post impressionist artist who says he paints pictures, not problems, are now on display at Dalzell Hatfield Galleries in the Ambassador Hotel, 3400 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Lachman's canvasses, painted recently in France, are being shown daily except Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through April 25. Included are scenes done in Italy and California. The exhibit is being sponsored by Rene Millet, consul general of France and Mlle. Yvonne Petrement, consul of France.

The French government has purchased several of his works for the national museum of France, and these will eventually become part of the permanent collection of the Louvre. Lachman, a Southern Californian, has been called the "most French of American painters."

• • • •

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made by the Long Beach Art Association that pictures for their annual spring juried exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art will be received at the museum next Friday from noon to 4 p.m. and 8 to 9:30 p.m., and next Sunday 1:30 to 4 p.m. There will be prizes of $100 for first place and $50 for second. Three entries are permitted, not to exceed four by five feet in size. The show will hang in May.

• • • •

PALOS VERDES Community Arts Association is giving a reception tea today from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Library Gallery, 2400 Via Campesina to open its new show. It consists of works from the private collection of primitive and Oriental art of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sheets of Claremont. Gallery hours are 2 to 5 p.m. daily.

High Quality, Creative Exhibits at Museum

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Our suspicions that technical knowledge and polished craftsmanship do not necessarily inhibit creation of exciting art forms are confirmed by the four new exhibits at the Long Beach Museum of Art.

The oil paintings of Lorser Feitelson represent three periods in the artist's development: cubism of the 20s, sur-realism of the 40s, and abstract classicism of the decade. Whether one is sympatico with the hard edged "Magical Space Forms" of the latter, there is no quarrel with the fact that Feitelson reached these after complete mastery of the figurative as in the "Bathers" series of 1942.

FEITELSON uses color and applies paint as reflexively as one uses knife and fork, or laces shoes. "Magical Space Forms 1955" is a series of highly-colored vertical areas which alternate in surface texture, some palette-knife smooth, others revealing canvas. A large work, the whole is greater than the sum of the dynamic parts.

Ward Youry's potting is in no way tentative, whether in the forming of strong classic shapes, imaginative textures or exquisite glazes. His inventiveness is freed by his obvious knowledge of just what can be done with the medium.

The works are placed throughout the Museum with a concentrated display in the upper gallery. Of all, we were most captivated by No. 33, a large shallow bowl, dull brown on the outside, oyster grey inside painted with sure strokes of purple, hints of pale green, and tobacco brown calligraphy.

THE WELL-DRAPED Scalamandre fabrics are not only scholarly documentation, but mouth-watering beauties.

The fourth exhibit is a photograph and scale-model exhibit of the architectural works of Marquis & Stroller in the Bay Area. These vary from the elegant I Strada Restaurant to a small octagonal mountain retreat, each meeting the challenges of use and environment with soaring creativity.

The shows are well exhibited, tied together by a mutual respect for high quality, and considerate of the human desire for order.

Japanese Film at Art Museum

"The Impostor," a full length Japanese film, will be shown at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., on Friday at 3 and 8 p.m.

This ninth in the museum's film series is escape fiction and historical intrigue laid in 17th century Tokyo, with rival claimants for the royal heritage clashing and scheming. There's a samurai hero, traditional swordplay and Kabuki theater scenes.

The program is open to all without charge. Doors open for the evening showing at 7:30 p.m.

Cellist on Program at Music Arts

A musical evening is scheduled for members and guests of Musical Arts Club on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Hazel Pattee, 936 Santiago Ave. Gayle Smith, cellist, will present the program.

Miss Smith is studying with Piatigorsky at USC and studied with Casals in Puerto Rico and in his master class at Berkeley.

• • • •

AMONG MANY honors won by the 18-year-old Glendale artist is the Gov. Brown "best in state" trophy for young string players, a $1,000 prize from Young Musician's Foundation presented by the late Dr. Bruno Walter, and Coleman Chamber auditions top award. She has appeared with numerous orchestras.

She will be accompanied by Michael Zearott who was pianist for the Heifetz master classes at UCLA and accompanies the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Izora Brandt will introduce the artists, and Clayton Barrie will preside at the meeting. A reception will follow.

College Choir to Give Concert

Long Beach State College's A Cappella choir will present both old and new works Wednesday in a concert at the First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue, at 8:15 p.m. The concert is free to the public.

Frank Pooler will direct the choir and soloists will be Janette Brock and Allen Spencer. The program will include works by Norwegian composer Knut Nystedt who is considered one of the most influential of present day Scandinavian composers and who will spend 10 days as visiting artist in residence at LBSC starting April 28.

On Stage---

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 2521 E. Anaheim St., "The Man Called Peter," 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, 7:45 p.m. Thursday, 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

OFF-BROADWAY THEATER, 721 Lime Ave., "Mr. Roberts," 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Color Films at Libraries

Two full-color travel film programs will be offered at branch libraries this week, according to Miss Nina Boyle, film librarian. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Three unusually beautiful films of Japan will be screened on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Bret Harte Branch Library, 1595 W. Willow St. Mrs. Chizuru Boyea of the catalog and art department of the Main Library will introduce the trio. They include "Gardens of Japan," which describes the meaning and symbolism of various arrangements, "Conspiracy in Kyoto," a delightful short work based on 12th century Japanese narrative scrolls, and "So Small My Island."

• • • •

ON THURSDAY, Brewitt Branch Library, 4036 E. Anaheim St., will offer films on Italy and Austria. "Italy: Land of Enchanted Fountains" is being repeated by request. Fountains of Rome, Capri and Florence are among those shown. "Four Seasons of Austria" takes the viewer on a breath taking automobile tour of Austria showing festivals, horseracing and the famed Vienna Boys Choir.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of April 9-13:

MONDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, whole kernel corn, raisin coleslaw, coconut bar cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, chopped spinach, apple raisin pie square, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Engineer Builds Cake Upside Down

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

He prefers guns to pots 'n pans. In fact, he was supposed to be caught cooking today, but he got carried-away showing guns to photog, Joe Risinger, so Joe just "shot" him in action.

When not gunning, today's Chef of the Week, Robert (Bob) Hoffmaster, is chief harbor engineer, Port of Long Beach.

Hoffmaster was born on a farm in York County, Neb., but by the time he had reached the age of six, his Dad decided he was tired of farming, so the family moved to California, not stopping until they reached Long Beach. Bob, without interruption, mastered Lincoln and Whittier grammar schools, Hamilton Junior and Poly High Schools, Junior College and UC at Berkeley. He also has done graduate work at UCLA, USC, and the California Institute of Technology. While still a "Cal" man at heart, it was at USC that he earned his degree in civil engineering.

• • • •

GRADUATING just in time to put his "degree" to use following the earthquake in 1933, he joined the Long Beach Board of Education in the rebuilding of its schools.

Twenty-four years ago he joined the civil engineering division of the Port of Long Beach, first as chairman on a survey crew, then draftsman, and then senior harbor engineer. A hitch as structural engineer preceded his six years as assistant chief engineer. Four years ago he became the "chief."

He has seen the Harbor Department grow from 15 people and 8 engineers, to 400 people and 100 engineers. In those days the Harbor boasted three inner berths, and Pier A was just in the planning stage.

• • • •

HOFFMASTER enhanced his engineering "know-how" in the Army with a corps of engineers, European theatre. Drafted as a private, he emerged four years later with the rank of major.

Robert N. Hoffmaster

Locally, Hoffmaster is a Downtown Kiwanian. Professionally, he is a Fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers; a member of the local, State and National Society of Professional Engineers, and of the Society of American Military Engineers. He belongs to the Propeller Club and to the American Association of Port Authorities. He serves on Committee IV, Construction and Maintenance.

Now, about his "gunsmithing"! He assembles the guns, but makes the stocks from scratch. In fact, he has assembled so many, another room soon will be a must at his home. He golfs a bit and is a regular Dead-Eye Dick when it comes to reading detective stories.

His wife, Gayl, doesn't get much assistance from him when it comes to cooking. But he does love to eat—even to the extent that he's "supposed" to be on one of those modern flings—a diet. His recipe today is for Chocolate Upside Down Cake. See what we mean!

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Part I
1 cup flour
¾ cup sugar
2 tblsp. cocoa
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt

Sift together. Add ½ cup milk. Stir and add:
2 tblsp. Wesson oil
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup nut meats

Mix well. Pour into greased and floured pan.

Part II
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tblsp. cocoa
½ cup brown sugar

Mix thoroughly and sprinkle over batter. Pour 1 cup cold water over top. Bake 30-35 min. at 350 deg. F.

Leave in pan until ready to serve. Top with whipped cream. Makes 6 large portions.

Variety Revue Slated

Bebe Carpenter Studio of Theatrical Arts, Los Angeles, will present a variety revue, "Footlight Fantasies," at the Community Program, Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Monday.

The program will open with community singing at 7:30 p.m. with Carl Robertson directing and Regenia Beam accompanying. Old time and square dancing to the music of the Tyo Orchestra, Joe Marshall, caller, will follow.

The stage show will be emceed by Barbara Gill, television and recording artist. The Swingsters, popular USO song and dance team, will perform. Members are Melinda Forbes, Roseann Galieota, Jerilyn Jorgenson, Louann Martello, Diane Morey, Diane Rameriz, Kathleen Turrish and Donna Wright.

• • • •

ALSO appearing will be Denny and Linda Robinson, a guitar duo and the Footlighters, a little theater group known as the "Glamour Grandmas."

Footlighters are Thelma Brancati, Byrnadine Buehring, Fran Costinett, Mary Wolthekker, Barbara Gill and Bebe Carpenter.

The entire program is being produced and directed by Misses Carpenter and Gill.

The weekly Community Programs are sponsored by the Recreation Department.

Voice of the Vikings

GARNER TALENT FOR SPRING SING FRIDAY

Members of 13 social clubs at the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division will display their vocal talents in the annual Spring Sing this Friday, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the campus auditorium.

Alan Ross, who has played several leads in LAD drama productions, will be the master of ceremonies. Taking part in the program, though not as contestants, will be the College Choir and the Concert Band.

Friday night's program will open with the presentation of the 1961 sweepstakes trophy to Tilsmen, last year's grand prize winners. Other trophy awards go to the winning groups in men's and women's divisions. Tickets will be on sale all week, and a capacity crowd is expected.

• • • •

LAD journalists emerged as first place winners in two separate contests recently. Photographer Jon Wetterholm took first in photography (junior college division) at the annual University of Southern California Newspaper Day. Feature editor Phil Yaffe was awarded first place for feature writing in a statewide contest conducted by the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges. One of Yaffe's stories dealt with his experience as a "professor" at Long Beach's "University by the Sea."

Only two corrections on last week's Student Forum item in "The Voice of the Vikings." The program, "Castro's Threat to the Americas" is really this Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the auditorium. The speaker, Dr. Paul E. Hadley, is associate professor of international relations at USC.

—PAT ESTELLE

Members of Associated Junior Retailers will attend an all-day session of the Distributive Education Clubs of America Wednesday in Santa Monica. The conference is co-sponsored by the General Telephone Co., Security First National Bank, the Sears Foundation and Hamilton Stores.

Business and Technology Division delegates will be Lynda Ernst, Fradena Culuris, Marilyn Lynn, Nancy Williams, F. B. Lewandowski and Mrs. Eva Lampson, faculty sponsor.

BTD faculty members will present a scholarship benefit melodrama titled "Egad, What a Cad!" at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium. Tickets will be available from Faculty Association members during the week. All proceeds go toward student scholarships.

EVENING students will attend an International Night assembly at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the campus gymnasium. Featured speakers will be three foreign-born students who have just attained their American citizenship

Theta Alums Slate Banquet

Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae Chapter, Long Beach, will have a benefit dessert bridge Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in Ebell Club.

Mrs. Clifton Lowen, 6330 Barbanell St., is in charge of reservations.

Mrs. Harry Landis, chairman of event, will be assisted by Mmes. Clifton Lowen, William Zantiny, Robert N. Hall, Ruben Dawe and Charles London.

Money will be given the Children's Psychiatric Clinic here, the Institute of Logopedics and national Theta philanthropies.

He Needs a Budget --Or a New Closet

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My boy of 17 works after school and on Saturdays at a little less than a dollar an hour. The pay is small but all those hours add up and make a sizable spending allowance, believe me.

He buys his own clothes and his wardrobe is beginning to overflow a bulging closet. Oh, I don't think he's vain beyond normal, but I do worry that he doesn't offer to pay a thing for his food or for college funds we are trying to gather.

I work, too, wait tables at slightly more than he makes. My hours are very long and my washing and ironing and cooking fill every conceivable minute I'm home.

My question, Molly: Should a boy of this age help pay his way? — MRS. LARSON

DEAR MRS. LARSON:

When a boy works for his money it is his. But so young a boy ought to be trained to budget that money proportionately. And you're the one to train him.

Work out a financial sheet of some kind that will explain to him his expenses. Now that he is working he owes it to himself to carry a part of these expenses himself. As simply as that show him what portion of costs he can handle, including a small savings for college.

He is probably not so much vain as untrained. Good luck!—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What eats gals who sit and stare in bars? Anybody who thinks a bartender leads a tender life is a walnut.

This dame, all of 40, lives in a hotel nearby and every afternoon, so help me, Molly, she comes in and sits and stares. Just stares. Doesn't talk or even blink.

I ask what's eating her and she stares. The only time she breaks into anything human is when she says, "Another beer."

When she goes glassy-eyed and I think I can't stand another minute of that stare, home she goes.

I'm getting so I dream of her—just her eyes looking at nothing—and it's giving me a good case of jitters. I've gone to drinking myself. And now I'm breaking glasses. Help please before I crack, too.—TENDER

DEAR TENDER:

Have you a wife or a girl friend who could outstare her? Set them down about the time you expect old Glass Eye, one each side of her, and see who can hold out longer!

It's a pity someone can't bring a glint back to her eyes, though.—M.M.

Organizational Meet Scheduled

Mrs. Israel Usdan, New York, national organization chairman of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, will conduct a one-day organization institute for leaders of Los Angeles chapter and its 30 affiliated neighborhood groups next Wednesday. Event will take place from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in board room, Jewish Community Building, 590 N. Vermont, Los Angeles.

How weekend gardeners beat the bugs and win the blooms

When new leaves unfold, tender growth is most susceptible to aphids, other insects that suck life from the plant. Powdery mildew and black spot begin. Just mix Isotox and Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide in the Ortho Spray-Ette and you can spray danger away.

When buds appear, aphids build up again, mites menace, many hard-to-control diseases incubate. Don't wait: give a quick spray with the Ortho combination that controls many garden insects and diseases: Isotox Garden Spray and Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide.

When flowers are in bloom and the weather turns warm, plant diseases can ruin a whole spring's work. Protect blooms now with a thorough spraying. Easiest is the combination spray that does two jobs at once: Isotox and the new Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide.

Key to easy weekend gardening: the Ortho Spray-Ette attached to your garden hose. Water pressure does the work. Takes only minutes to spray your entire garden. (It's so simple, you may want to spray more often, especially if there's an unexpected attack of bugs or blight.)

One combination spray controls both garden insects and disease!

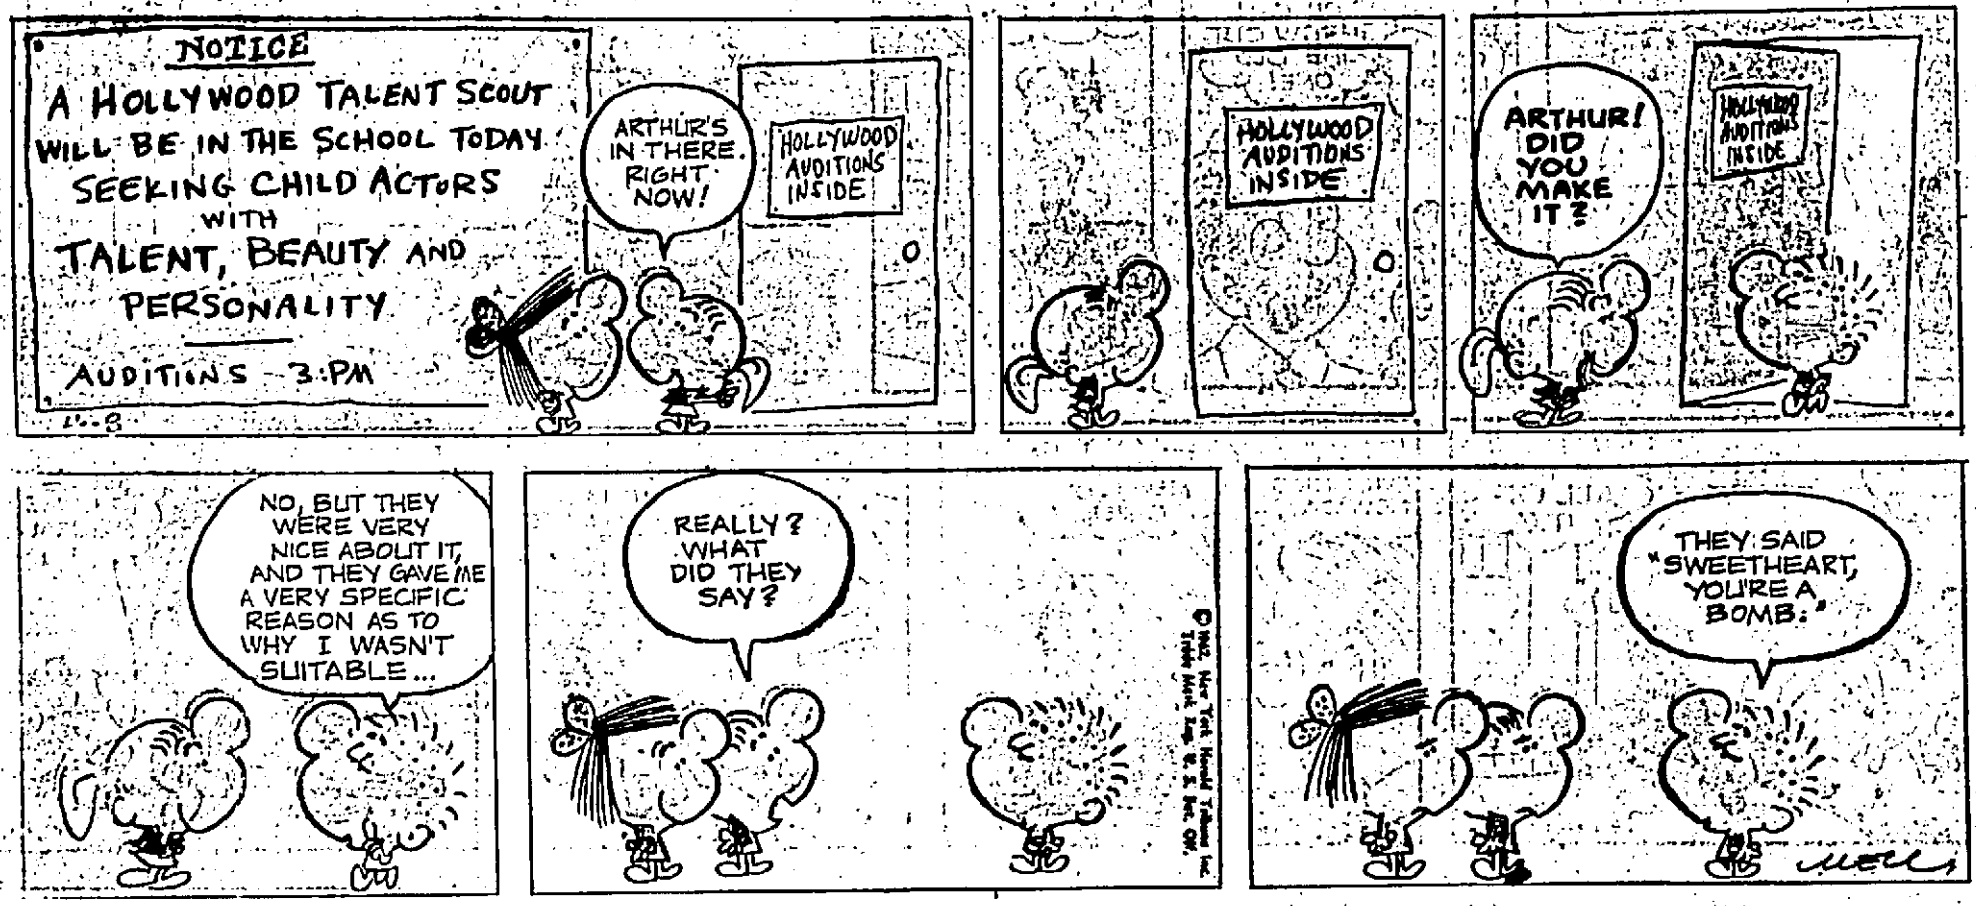

Unbeatable combination! Isotox Garden Spray controls over 250 different insects including aphids, red spider mites, Japanese beetles, thrips. Isotox combines four different insecticides—Malathion, Dot, Lindane and Tedion. The new super fungicide, Ortho Phaltan Rose & Garden Fungicide, controls black spot, mildew and rust on roses, leaf spot on chrysanthemums and diseases on other ornamentals. Using both, weekend gardeners can beat the bugs and win the beautiful blooms!

Cover Girl

To Natalie Wood, stardom came early. The brown-eyed, chestnut-tressed actress is one of Hollywood's youngest stars, and also one of its most seasoned veterans. Her youth, beauty and ability have now carried her to new heights in Warner Bros. "Splendor in the Grass," and to nomination as Best Actress for an Oscar. Many who are wise in the way of Hollywood think she will make it; others equally wise think her competition is too tough. That the field is rugged can easily be seen in the lineup (see Page 7). Natalie is not new to Academy Award competition; her memorable effort as the high school girl friend of the late James Dean in Warner Bros. "Rebel Without a Cause" won her a nomination in 1955. Whether she wins or loses in the current Oscar Derby, her youth assures her many fans that she'll be around for many more top efforts.

This Week

The Communists celebrate May Day with parades of might. Democratic America will mark May 1 with a meaningful "Law Day, U. S. A.," a day of celebration by Americans in appreciation of their liberties and to reaffirm their loyalties to their country. Next week, Southland will tell you how that unusual day will be marked in Long Beach.

Get Into the Swing of Spring

Linda Williams, NBC-TV actress, and Lois Ellingson, enjoy an old-time glider swing that's easily made at home.

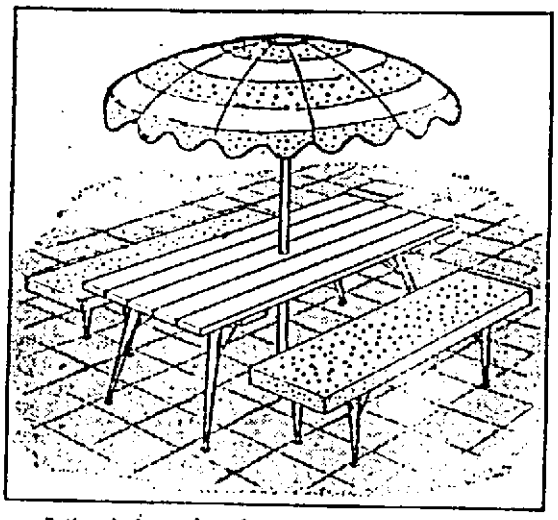

THIS IS the time of year when people all over America start their annual back-to-nature movement via their own back yard. Porches, patios and lawns, no matter how small, will once more become part of the home. These are the places that will again become centers of activity during the spring and summer months that lie ahead. And of course, the activities that we enjoy this summer will depend largely upon the type of outdoor furnishings which we possess.

An old-fashioned glider swing is something every member of the family will enjoy. The one pictured here with NBC's television actress Linda Williams and Lois Ellingson seats four adults or a half dozen kids. It has a gentle relaxing to-and-fro motion that mildly stimulates the muscles as well as good conversation.

Any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses an easy-to-follow pattern. There's no trick to building it. The parts may be cut out indoors and taken outside for quick and easy assembly. The pattern lists the needed materials and gives easy to understand directions and illustrations.

TO OBTAIN the easy-to-follow glider swing pattern number 276 send $1 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Department, P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Patio picnics and cook-outs get a bright lift from this easily-made bench table set with modern look.

By Ursula M. S. Dadras

HAVE YOU ever wondered why most outdoor "picnic" tables are heavy, rustic-looking affairs with bulky crossed legs?

Maybe Americans associate eating outside with a return to the frontier and like to feel that they're "roughing it" just like their forefathers. Or perhaps, and this is more likely, most picnic tables are built that way today out of pure habit.

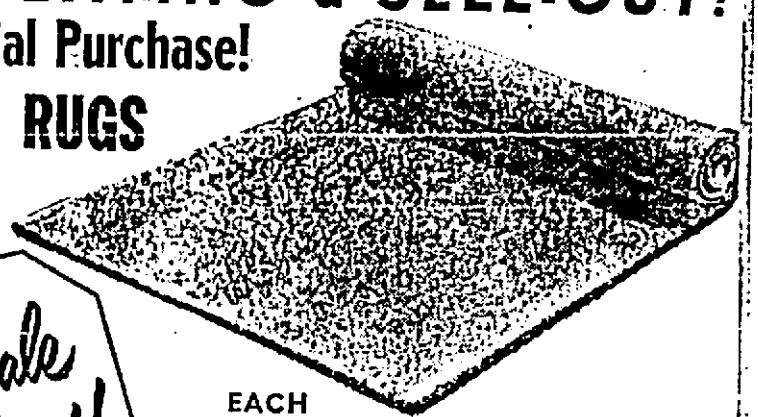

In any case, the log cabin look is not essential to a modern outdoor table. The design shown in the illustration brings a contemporary air to outdoor dining, without sacrificing ability to withstand heavy handling or the effects of the weather.

Another departure from convention in this design is the cushioned benches. No matter how much a person admires getting back to nature, there is a limit to the time most people can sit on a bare wooden board without discomfort.

Principal construction material is 5/4 redwood or pine, which has an actual thickness of about 1¼ inches. The table surface is 29 inches wide by 60 inches long. Legs are bought ready-made, and screw into metal brackets mounted on crosspieces under the table.

TO OBTAIN, send 50 cents with name and address for Terrace Table Plan S-52 to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Foreign students often miss much-desired chance to be invited into U. S. homes. Lily Salehi from Iran is representative of such students at LBSC.

Entertaining foreign students is rewarding . . . and fun!

A Stranger Wants to Meet You

By Robert Hazelleaf

ONLY A SIMPLE telephone call separates your family from an experience that beats armchair traveling by books and magazines a dozen ways. Right now, there are 120 students from foreign lands in Long Beach State and City Colleges, most of them bursting for a chance to know an American family.

More important, each will leave for his homeland with a better impression of the United States, the people of Long Beach, especially.

That telephone call to Chamber of Commerce Secretary Merle Stang can bring you a guest from one of the better-known countries of Europe, from the politically turbulent Middle East, even from lands in the Orient that conjure visions of exotic cities and strange customs.

The plans can be for a quiet evening of conversation, a dinner, even a weekend trip with the family.

As a result of interest by dedicated citizens, the Chamber of Commerce has offered to act as a clearing agency not only for individual requests for international students, but as coordinator for clubs, churches and other groups who work to improve our relations abroad, whether for organization guest appearances, industrial tours or civic functions.

ALL IT TOOK for the idea to bear fruit was a gentle nudge from Charles Sleeper, who, with his wife Shirley, has been deeply involved in friendship with other countries since an American Field Service exchange high school student lived with the Sleepers in 1957.

A couple of months ago, Sleeper mentioned his idea of more contact between foreign students and Americans to Dr. Paul Opstead, international student counselor at Long Beach State. Dr. Opstead's answer was quick and enthusiastic: "Come out to the school. We've got things to talk about!"

And talk they did. A call to the Chamber of Commerce had equally fast results. "That suits our International City thee to a T," an official said, "besides being a good idea in itself. We'll work on it."

Municipal Judge Martin De Vries, member of the Chamber's Education Committee, leaped at the idea, too. The judge and his wife have sponsored foreign college students for several years and are ardent supporters of any plan that will help our relations abroad. They know how much it means for a young man or woman to have sympathetic American listeners in making one of the most difficult adjustments they will ever experience.

"IT SEEMED as though I had a magic wand," Sleeper says. "All I had to do was mention the idea and the chamber went to work. Now, with the help of Judge De Vries working as co-chairman, Dr. Opstead, Glenn Irvin and Jim Gordon of the Chamber of Commerce, we've really got some results."

Dr. Opstead sees the problem of American contacts first hand. "Although there are 80 international students at State, there is a total of 250 in the harbor area. Most of the two-year college students are already sponsored and living with American families, which is a big help.

"But at State, many of the students live in rooming houses or apartments. They get little contact with Americans at the home level. They tend to keep to themselves, not because they want to, but simply because it works out that way."

The students, ranging in age from late teens to early thirties, are enrolled in courses from undergraduate to advanced degrees. Nearly all of them are conversant with English, though the language problem is present for some.

All of them are here because they want to learn. They want to work for their homelands as businessmen, teachers or in government service. They want to bring to their countries the advancement that they so urgently need but that requires so much effort by so many millions of people.

"FORTUNATELY," says Dr. Opstead, "we are getting started when we have relatively few international students on our campuses. In a few years we will have many more. Setting up a program now will prepare us for the future."

The lack of contact is much more than a local problem. It has been pointed out by foreign students who have returned home disgruntled with the lack of association with Americans. There are presently some 70,000 students in this country from abroad. A recent national magazine article reports, "more than half of them are discontented."

This can be an impression with expensive overtones for Americans. There is a growing cohesiveness among nations in the Common Market agreement, in alliances both East and West. The young men and women now studying with us are doing so, in most instances, because they are expected to become leaders within a few years. It would be unfortunate if we can do little but foster a stand-offish attitude.

Mrs. W. Wallace Maner, hostess for the International Center, University of Iowa, has written a sprightly pamphlet that serves as a guide to the American family acting as international host.

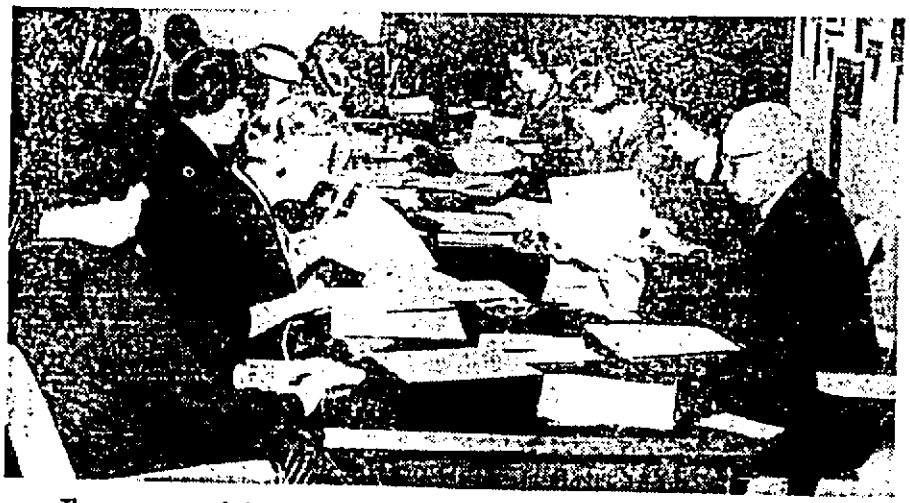

"HAVING a foreign student or visitor for dinner or for the weekend is not a complicated, difficult or heroic task," Mrs. Maner writes. "You needn't approach such hospitality as though United States foreign policy depends upon the success of your affair!"

When the invitation is issued, don't rush to the encyclopedia or library to learn all you can about a strange country, Mrs. Maner warns. Your guest can take care of that, except for the basic facts—his name and homeland.

To most Americans, the national People-to-People and Sister City movements are faceless and remote. The foreign guest can dispel that illusion.

"The only qualification a family needs," says Mrs. Maner, "is to be well-adjusted. Rich or poor, house or small apartment, 12 children or none, it makes no difference. Welcome an opportunity to learn more things about new people in the comfort of

Will 1962 Be the Dodgers' Golden Year?

New park, rising stars spark team confidence

By George Lederer

LAKE MEAD water was cool and calm as a baseball manager in February. By sheer coincidence it was February and Walter Alston, manager of the Dodgers, was relaxing on the top deck of a sleek cabin cruiser, casting for fish and fishing for his future cast.

It was a doubleheader as frustrating as any in Alston's eight years in the National League. His line and lineup remained total blanks.

By mid-afternoon, Alston was willing to try his platoon system on the bass in Lake Mead. He cast first from the right side of the boat, then from the left. He tossed sinkers and hooks as Ed Roebuck never did and still could not get a strike.

He had time not only to ponder the future, but to delve into the immediate past. In the absence of bass he began to reel off statistics.

"IF WE WERE to score 100 more runs than our pitchers allow, do you suppose we'd win the pennant this year?" he asked. He didn't wait for an answer. "I'd be willing to take my chances," he said.

It was an introduction to an amazing set of figures that Alston memorized during a long winter of meditation at his farm in Darrtown, Ohio.

"Do you realize," Alston continued, "that Cincinnati won the pennant by scoring only 57 runs more than they allowed? That the difference on our club was 38? That the Giants led the league in runs, scored 118 more than they allowed and still finished third?"

Further research proves conclusively the National League's topsy-turvy 1961 race.

Pittsburgh led the league in hitting and finished sixth in the standings. St. Louis pitchers led in earned run average, yet the Cardinals finished fifth. Milwaukee was the top defensive team and wound up fourth.

THE DODGERS ranked no higher than fifth in any of these departments, but trailed the champion Reds by only four games. The Dodgers were fifth in batting and fielding, sixth in pitching and total bases.

What else is there but strategy? Very little, the Dodger front office admitted in rehiring Alston for what it hopes will be a golden new era in Dodger Stadium, the $18 million Taj Mahal of baseball.

Financially, the Dodgers are assured of success. Already they have sold 1.3 million seats or more than the club drew in its final season in Brooklyn. At no time will Walter O'Malley unlock his doors for fewer than 15,000 spectators.

O'Malley promises that such faith shall not go unrewarded. "Our team enjoys the greatest fan support in baseball history. We will spare no expense in developing a winner. We will go all out for a pennant and I expect nothing less."

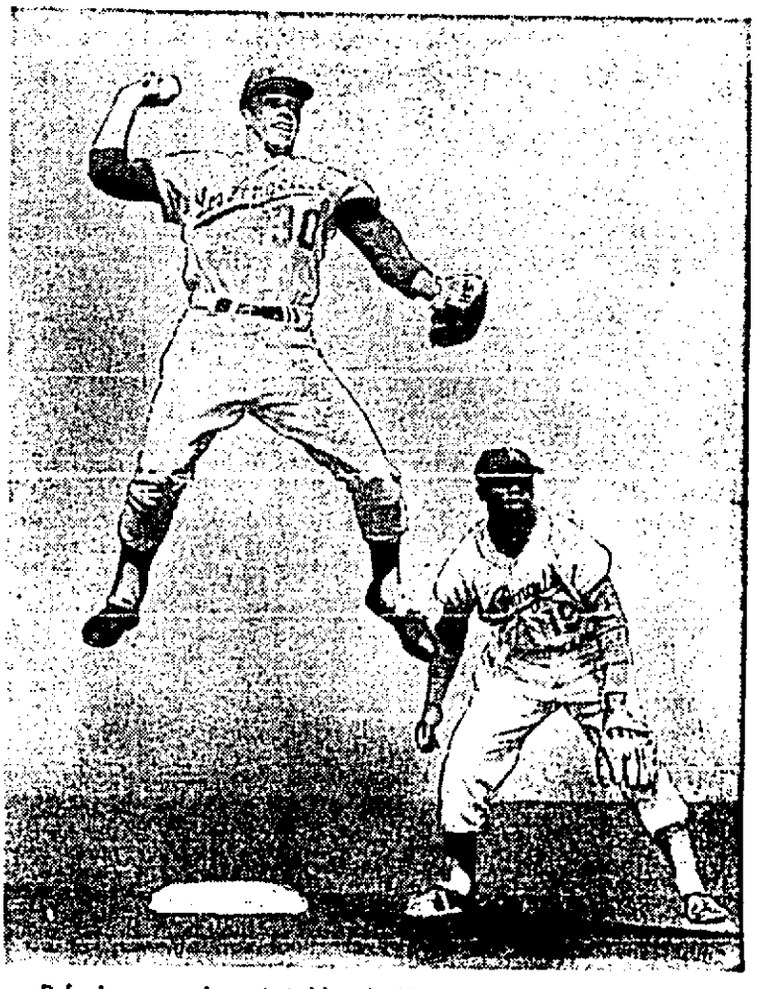

The order frightens neither general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, who claims "we have the talent to win the pennant," nor Alston, who says "there's no doubt that we'll improve in the new park."

ALSTON'S PROBLEM can be compared to the lady who lived in a shoe: He has so many players, he doesn't quite know what to do.

He has talented veterans in Duke Snider, Wally Moon, Jim Gilliam, Maury Wills and Johnny Podres; rising stars in Willie Davis, Tommy Davis, Ron Fairly and Frank Howard; and promising rookies in Joe Moeller and Larry Burright.

Alston is blessed with the hardest throwing set of pitchers in baseball, including the league's strikeout king, Sandy Koufax, and Don Drysdale, the most feared and also the most frustrated sidearmer of the decade.

Defensive power, demonstrated here by Maury Wills (1) and Jim Gilliam, is a Dodger characteristic; should be a big factor in team's pennant chances.

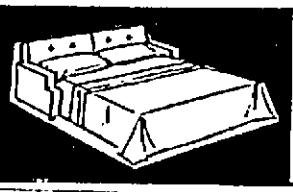

Duke Snider, Dodger captain, is driving hard to be in top shape for '62.

Starting pitcher in season's opener in new Dodger Stadium will be either Johnny Podres (right) or Sandy Koufax, both lefthanders, shown offering services to Manager Walt Alston for choice assignment.

Sugar Shell Eggs for Easter

By Darlene Mitchell McClain

FEW OF US as youngsters could claim a globe-trotting senator for a great-grandfather and fewer still were sent gifts from around the world as he traveled.

Mrs. Maurice Patchett, 421 Maine Ave., had this interesting experience as a child in Taunton, Mass. Out of all the foreign baubles, she remembers best the enchanting German Easter eggs sent to her by Jeremiah Dennett, senator from Massachusetts.

The eggs were hollow and had magical Easter lands inside, and Mrs. Patchett tried many times to describe them to her own children.

Commercial eggs could be found, but the hastily assembled paper figures bore little relation to the rich delicacies of the German confections.

THEN ONE DAY she found in a magazine a casually-mentioned recipe for making the foamy sugar shell, and immediately set about re-creating the eggs of her childhood memories. She could fill the center with icing fantasies, because she had been studying cake decorating and could squeeze a mean rosebud.

So Mrs. Patchett began experimenting with the too-brief recipe and soon discovered quite a few ways not to make sugar shells. But she finally succeeded, and is willing to share her findings with others. Here is the recipe with which she began:

"Mix one egg white with 4-5 cups of sugar."

Mrs. Patchett has amended it further to read: "Knead the sugar and egg white about 10 minutes, until it feels uniformly like wet sand. If you prefer pastel shells, add food coloring. Then fill a plastic egg mold, bought at a dime store, with the mixture and unmold on a sheet of waxed paper. Make as many as you can.

"CUT OFF the large end to form the peephole. Let them dry about two hours, if intended for an adult, or three hours for a child. The extra drying makes the shell thicker, less fragile. Then turn over and very carefully scoop out the still-damp center with a teaspoon. This can be used again to make more eggs, or, if desired, different shapes: bells, baskets, or even bunnies."

Ordinary icing won't work for the decorations. A butter mix will soften the sugar shell, and an egg-white frosting will soon begin flaking. A commercial mixture, called Deco Icing, is ideal for use on these eggs. It is edible, if children' 'decide ' to 'devour ' their goody, or it will hold up for years, if an adult wants to save it.

Cover one-half shell with a blue-frosted sky, and then you can turn loose your imagination.

"You don't have to be adept at cake decorating to make these eggs," Mrs. Patchett points out. "I often let my grandchildren make their own. They work for hours, and come up with some fascinating ideas. Besides, small figures can be purchased and used, if you're bashful about making your own flowers."

Recalling the beauty of the German Easter eggs she received when she was a child, Mrs. Maurice Patchett has found a method of reproducing them in the oldtime way.

Nature's Seaplanes

By Thora C. Froyen

LIKE migrating whales and the swallows that return to Capistrano each spring, the flying fishes also return from their winter sojourn in the warmer equatorial seas to spend the summers cavorting around in the Southern California waters.

These dragon-fly fishes come soaring up from the inky depths like flashing silver blades to the great delight of surprised passengers on ships plying from Long Beach to Santa Catalina Island. The largest and best variety, the "Cypsilurus Californicus," summers in Southern California waters.

They are not all equally good for human consumption, but the California variety is considered by some to be a succulent delicacy. However, local markets contend that there is no customer demand for them and those caught are used mainly as bait for larger fish. They can be caught with butterfly nets, with a spear or with gill nets such as commercial fishermen use.

They skim over the water up to 200 yards and reach heights up to 50 feet, depending on the wind. Then they gradually lose speed and touch their tails down in the sea to give themselves another boost and off they go again.

THE SHAPE of the flying fish is adapted perfectly for the life it leads. Its long sleek body, from 12 to 18 inches in length, is fitted for smooth progress through the water as well as through the air with the least friction. Its air bladder is greatly enlarged and filled with a gaseous substance (mostly nitrogen), diminishing the relative weight of the body, which usually runs from one to three pounds.

The clear, quiet waters around Catalina Island offer an ideal feeding and breeding place for flying fish. They swim close to shore after dark and feed and spawn in the kelp beds. Their silver, white and gray coloring blends perfectly with the sun-dappled sea, giving them a protective camouflage. They are naturally carnivorous and like to feed on crustaceans such as shrimps, prawns, young crabs and tiny fishes.

Trained naturalists have found that flying fishes while in the air, hold their supporting planes, the greatly expanded pectoral fins, as rigidly as though they were made of steel. In this respect the principle of fish flight is clearly very close to that of sail planes.

Nature has been kind to these unusual fish by endowing them with the ability to escape from their larger fish enemies by ejecting themselves into the air at will; thus they are masters of both the sea and the air, a combination of submarine and seaplane.

Nature has given the flying fish an extra means of escape from enemies, the ability to leap from the sea and fly through the air for distances up to 200 yards at a time.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES: Southland takes it readers into a different attractive Long Beach area home each week.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the origin of DUNBAR.—Mrs. L.D., Long Beach.

L.D.: DUNBAR is from a Scotch name in Elginshire. "Dun-barr," the source words, meant "Fortress at the summit of the hill." The Dunbars are descendants of Duncan who died in battle in A.D. 965. In 1368 this clan acquired the Scotch baronial estates of Mochrum and Glenkens. Their coat-of-arms has a rampant silver lion on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on CALLAHAN and the shield—Mrs. R. B., Long Beach.

R. B.: CALLAHAN is traced to the Irish clan O'Ceallachain. This family were descendants of Ceallacan, a 10th century king of Munster. His name is deciphered as "Controversy and war." The Callahans were originally rulers of southern County Cork. Their coat-of-arms has a wolf issuing from a grove of trees. This emblem is on a silver shield. The Callahan motto "Fides et audax" means "Faithful and bold."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like ancestry on ABBOT.—N. P., Westminster; S. A., Long Beach.

N. P., S. A.: ABBOTT is an English name from an ancestor who was nicknamed "The Abbott." He reminded his compatriot villagers of a dignified abbott, one of the devoted leaders of a monastery. Adam Abbott was a Huntingdonshire resident in the late 1200s. The Abbott coat-of-arms from Essex has three golden pears and three blue crosses on a chevron across the center of a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze WEBER.—B W., Long Beach.

B. W.: WEBER is German and was applied to a tradesman for his proficient work. This name identified a weaver of cloth, who wove woolen yardage on a loom in the Middle Ages. The Weber coat-of-arms from Prussia has two black bands across the center of a silver shield, placed below an iron cross on a silver stripe. The most famous ancestor was the celebrated musical composer Baron Karl Maria Von Weber (1786-1826).

DEAR MISS RULE: Do you have information on SHEEHAN.—P.S., Long Beach.

P.S.: SHEEHAN, an Irish family, is traced back to the 11th century. The old Gaelic name O'Shiegane, is interpreted as "Sons of the little, peaceful one." The clan founder was an unusual person among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE CASTRO?—Mrs. C.L., Long Beach.

C.L.: DE CASTRO, a Spanish name, was taken by this family from a place termed a "Castrum" by the Roman rulers of Spain 1700 years ago, Castrum meant "Army camp." This word was altered by the Spanish to De Castro (From the camp). The De Castro coat-of-arms from Aragon has six golden coins arranged in pairs down the center of a scarlet shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the origin of PARIS, PARISH and PARRISH. — Mrs. D. P., Downey, Mrs. L. L., Slaton, Tex.; Mrs. L.M., Long Beach.

D.P., L.L., L.M.: PARIS, PARISH and PARRISH are early English surnames descended from an ancestor from the city of Paris, France. A primary forebear was Robert de Paris in 1273. The Parrish shield is red, emblazoned with three unicorn heads.

Calypso Goes to College

Lylburn Layer, foreground, leads USC's calypso band, steel drum musicians copied from the Caribbean idea.

By Bob Loeffelbein

YOU DON'T have to tour to Trinidad for a true calypso beat any more. Right here in our own back yard, on the campus at the University of Southern California, we have the first and the only Calypso Steel Drum Band in the U.S.

The idea for this novel undertaking came from Lylburn Layer, who learned his art on the singing drums as arranger and lead player in the U.S. Navy Steel Band in Puerto Rico in 1957.

When he returned to college he brought his "manicured" drum back with him. Friends in the band department at USC played it, started tinkering, making their own drums.

Taking various sizes of steel drums, they heated and chiseled sections of different sizes into the drum heads corresponding to the various musical tones.

NOW THERE are eight pieces in the combo, including Layer, Charles Boito, Richard Bower, John Brown, David Christensen, Stuart Fox, Jerry Kirkbride, and Darrell Mettler. They play at all sorts of functions ranging from basketball games to the recent USC dental department dinner.

The original drum play, according to Layer, was nothing more than natives beating on empty steel drums, discarded by the Navy, at war dances.

Gradually the system of combining various sizes of drums in chorus, and giving each a pitch and tone, brought about real band music. After World War II these new sounds swept the shores of the Caribbean. And that was when the Navy band at San Juan under Layer, who had graduated from the Naval School of Music, got its start.

LEADER LAYER has done most of the arranging for the band, in true calypso styling. "Mary Ann," "Jamaica Farewell" and "Liza" are some of the standards in the group's repertoire . . . but their piece de resistance is the USC fight song, "Fight On for Old SC," played calypso style.

Even though the group wishes to show calypso music as international in flavor, they still want listeners to know they are SC Trojans first and last. Even their costumes of three-quarter length white beach pants with sandals and multihued tee shirts are topped with straw hats cresting in the famous "brush" of the Trojan warrior helmet.

Custom-built to fit a hilltop, the new home of Eileen and Earl Nickerson capitalizes on a sweeping view of Long Beach and the sea. Inset, exterior view of the home.

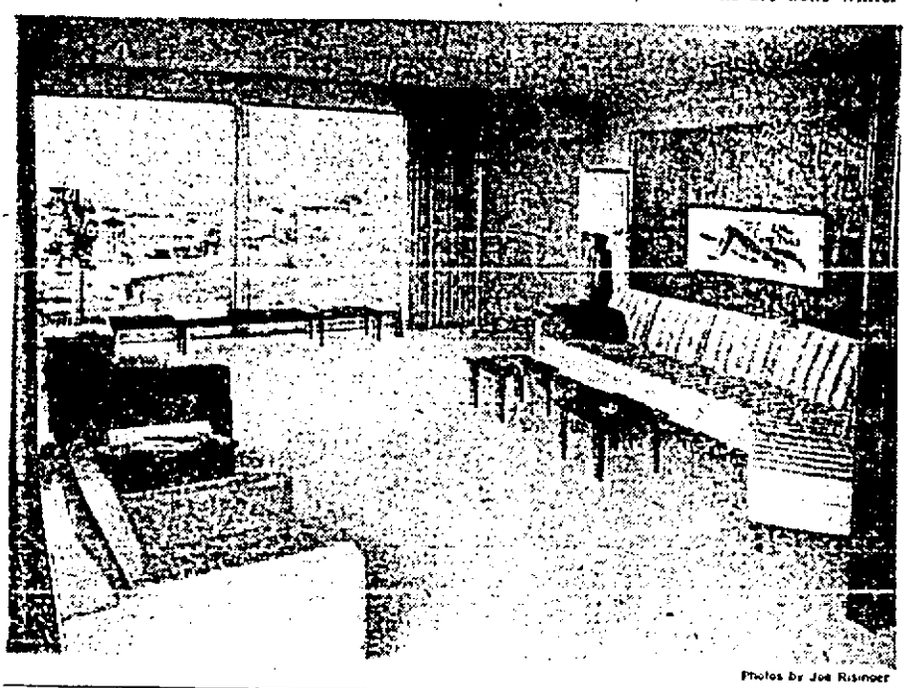

Straight, simple lines of furniture add spaciousness to living room, below. Telescopic bench beside window provides an extra seating facility without blocking the view.

Custom-Built to Fit a Hilltop

By Stella George

EILEEN AND Earl Nickerson live luxuriously, casually, and comfortably in a hilltop home of their own design, located at 2550 E. 21st St., Signal Hill. Not only did they draw up the plans for the house themselves, but Mrs. Nickerson did her own decorating with the skill and good taste of a professional in the field.

The lot commands a view of the city and the sea. All facing walls are glass. The interior has a tremendous feeling of wide open space induced by the open floor plan of the home, plus the fact that the rooms, including the baths, are carpeted in a near-white champagne color. Floor-to-ceiling drapes are of the same color, and walls are bone white.

Compact, the kitchen is nonetheless decorative and in keeping with the living room. Note ornamental lighting.

The front door is actually at the side of the home, and opens in the living room. The kitchen is set back to take advantage of the view, with an open dining area in front.

A WHITE sit-down bar partly separates the kitchen from the living room, and along the front of the kitchen is another bar where the sink is located. The floor of the kitchen is covered with a top quality white linoleum, curved into the carpeting.

Cabinets in the kitchen look like polished walnut but are really a formica-type finish that resists wear and tear. The color matches wood in the furniture. Shell-like white stools with brightly colored cushions are used for the sit-down bar.

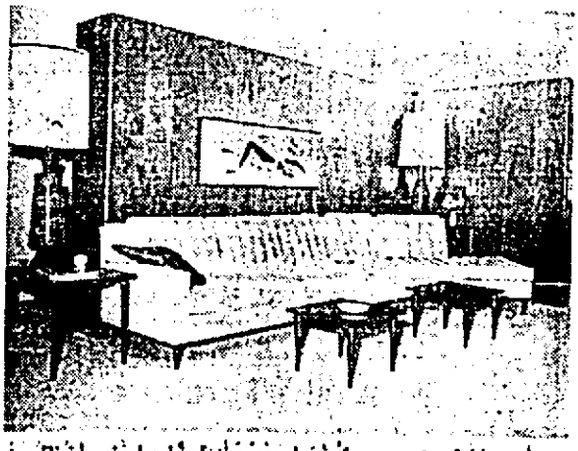

A high, L-shaped partition in back of the living room couch continues around the side of the couch to form a hall in the rear where the bedrooms are located. It is finished to resemble kola teak, and is a decorator's item in itself.

THE COUCH is of beige and toast coloring with twin coffee tables in front and twin blue chairs opposite. Telescopic slat benches are in front of two of the long windows, providing seating space without obstructing the view. Blue and orange accents are here and there.

The master bedroom not only has ample closets, but built-in chests of drawers that leave the room itself free and spacious. Glass that covers the wall on one side of the room doubles the size and provides a living picture by day and night. The second bedroom, used as a den, features a gay color accent in the form of a violet occasional chair placed near the study area.

There are many hidden features or characteristics that make this dwelling outstanding. For example, the Nickersons wanted their home to be what they termed a real American home in every sense. Consequently, every item in the home, large and small, was made in the United States. They have no imports from any other country. Considering the number of everyday things in common use which come from abroad — carpeting, bric-a-brac, lamps, and accessories, to name but a few — the job of making sure that everything was made in this country was no small undertaking.

The view from this home is so conducive to evening relaxation that the Nickersons do not own a television set. The scene of the city in the distance with background music in the house is a kind of three-dimensional TV in itself.

Divider in back of the couch performs a twofold service, with cupboards and closets on the bedroom side.

HEAD GAME

Tailor Your Speech

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

SOONER OR LATER, every student has to make a classroom speech, and the chances are good that the speech-making chore will fall to him time and again in his business and social life after he leaves school.

Most high schools and colleges have speech departments and work in great detail with the subject of public speaking. We couldn't hope in this short space to offer any new techniques.

However, experts in this field tell us that while many students and adult speakers have been well-schooled in speech techniques, a limited number know a very important secret which can make all the difference between an effective and a poor speech.

That fact is:

At least ONE-HALF the time you use preparing for a speech should be spent thinking about your audience.

It is not enough to know what you want to say.

It is not enough to have your material well organized.

It is not enough to have an attention-getting introduction and a thought-provoking conclusion.

It is not enough to have some excellent examples of your general principles to make your subject clearer.

It is not enough to have some carefully-selected visual aids.

Many a speaker makes all these preparations and then, when he gets up to talk, discovers that the audience feels distant and unresponsive.

He failed to study his audience and determine how to get his point across to THEM.

THE EFFECTIVE public speaker considers these things about his audience: their age, their sex, their individual and group interests, their environment, their religion, their politics, their economic position.

Such words as capitalism, free enterprise, and right-to-work produce sharply different emotional responses in industrial leaders than in union leaders.

An experienced writer studies his audience. That is, he studies the subscribers to the publication for which he wishes to write. He knows what they like to read. He satisfies them. Readers buy the publication to read him.

And so it is with the successful speaker. He shapes his speech for his specific audience. And audiences "buy" him.

Jupe Pluvius Is a Fickle Gent

By John F. Fairchild

Drawing by Dick Wahlmeyer

Because of Jupiter Pluvius' fickleness, a Southland weatherman almost needs witchcraft for forecasting.

WHEREVER Southlanders meet, the weather is a standard topic of conversation and rain usually is the foremost thought. Fog and smog are probably next.

When it does rain in Southern California—and it does, as we recently rediscovered—contrasting viewpoints prevail. For instance, most eastern or midwestern visitors ask, "Where is this highly touted sunshine we came here to enjoy?" The native often says, in effect, "Isn't this rain wonderful? Worth millions to the country, besides cleaning the air of smog and fog."

However, Jupiter Pluvius is as fickle in doling out his wares to the Southland as the visitor and native are opposed in their remarks.

For many years my work has associated me with storm drain problems of the City of Long Beach and the harbor area. I have recently dug into official Long Beach rainfall records, as well as those of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Los Angeles, thereby uncovering some interesting facts.

In some cases, storm drain facilities are inadequate to cope with heavy and prolonged amounts of JP'c generosity. Millions have been spent on drains, and to good avail, but considering the Southland's growing pains, with more paving being constructed annually; run-off increases along with costs, posing a major problem.

Usually bonds must be voted to build effective drainage systems. Seldom are such elections held during Jupiter's generous moods—and when it isn't raining voters don't see the need for the drains.

CONSEQENTLY, the voter or native doesn't always see eye-to-eye with the trained drainage engineer, until he may try to drive home some evening after a good rain only to find his street blocked with "detour" signs.

Based on records of the Los Angeles office of the U. S. Weather Bureau for 84 years from 1877 to 1961, the average season total was 15.01 inches. If it were possible to depend upon this amount annually, and this quota only, simplicity would replace complexity. However, this is not the case.

For example, during the season of 1883-84, a total of 38.18 inches of rain was recorded. While in 1960-61, only 4.85 inches fell. These represent the highest and lowest seasonal figures of record and bears out the old axiom: "Rain breeds rain and drought breeds drought."

Here lies the drainage engineer's dilemma. He must design, according to the highest run-off occurring in the shortest period of time in the history of the area for which he is designing.

The season of 1915-16 is known among the weather fraternity as the Hatfield season. The City of San Diego had contracted with a so-called rain-maker, named Hatfield, to relieve a drought which gravely threatened its water supply.

Hatfield secluded himself atop a remote peak in the San Diego mountains and proceeded to brew up a batch of chemicals, which did—or did not—cause the heaviest rainfall in any one month in Southern California history. A whopping 13.30 inches of precipitation occurred in the month of January alone.

NEEDLESS TO say, dams, highways and railroad bridges went with the surging run-off. San Diego contemplated suing Hatfield, but this action was not carried out.

Up to and including the Hatfield season, January had been the average wettest month since the turn of the century. With a grand total over February of more than 16 inches.

The Southland rainy season is, supposedly, from September 15 to May 15 but, in 1906-07, Jupiter was in a moist mood, and let rain fall each month from July to June, with the exception of October, which is ordinarily a damp month. This, while holding the season total down to 19.30 inches.

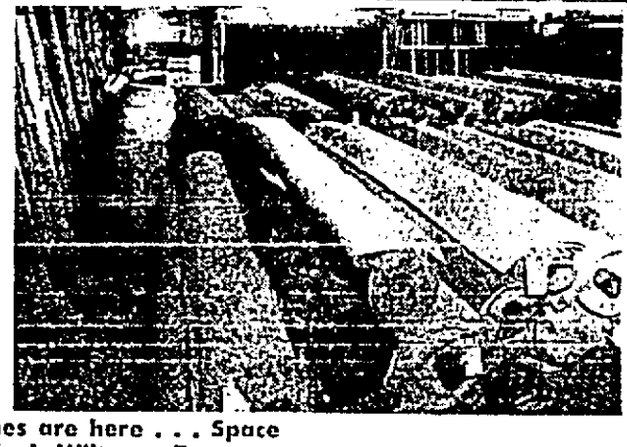

With Southern California weather so tricky, small wonder it is jokingly said in weather circles: "All our best forecasters are locked in safe places, cutting out paper dolls."

They Call Her 'Iron Liebchen'

SO ALL RIGHT, in the nickname-dropping town of Hollywood Dietrich is "Legs," Eckberg "the Big Swede," and "Mmmm!" is the word for Marilyn, but—"the Iron Liebchen?"

That's what the film center has dubbed little, blonde import Cordula Trantow, who at 18 already holds West Germany's equivalent of our Academy Award and has just been nominated for a Golden Globe by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association for her performance in her first American movie.

And this time you have to ask why.

"Liebchen — that means sweetheart. Doesn't she look

Award winner in Europe, Cordula Trantow, 18, from Germany, has come to Hollywood, acquired odd nickname.

it?" answers Stuart Heisler, the man who directed her opposite Richard Basehart in "Hitler."

"Quit stalling, Heisler."

"Oh, you want to know about the 'iron.' Well, that's what's inside the velvet glove. Did you know that when she arrived in this country she was carrying a pistol?"

"What! That little doll?"

HEISLER crossed his heart. "She had an impression America was full of gangsters or something. She was scared. But she came. She came armed with a dainty nickel-plated gas-firing pistol warranted to blind at six paces. It was the first time she'd ever traveled without her parents. And what do you think happened?

"One night she returned to her apartment building to find the place full of police. There'd been a prowler or something. She was too frightened to sleep in her own apartment. She went to Maria

Black or white . . . always light . . . going formal has been graduated to the fun class. Whether the occasion calls for jet black or white Formalwear, the American male demands comfort. The lighter way of going formal has brought greater pleasure to dressing up. Today's formal fabrics stay crisp and fresh throughout the longest dinner or formal occasion. Black or white, take your pick. Next to the young lady—jet black tuxedo in natural shoulder shawl collar by Palm Beach; right—white Wash 'n' Wear dinner jacket in a blend of Dacron Polyester and Orlon Acrylic, also by Palm Beach.

The Men Like Blends

Like the rest of the world, men's wear seems to be split into two camps of taste—but unlike the rest of the world, ever the twain shall meet!

One line of interest and excitement is, of course, sportswear, which during the past generation has brought new color, new life, new vibrancy, new interest to all kinds of men's apparel. In sportswear, a man now has an opportunity to express his personality with discrimination and good taste.

The fact is that in the past 25 years, in the span of a generation, men's clothing and sportswear has taken on a whole new look. Witness bold and subtle plaids in suits, bright plaids of the India Madras type, in sport jackets. Witness, if you will, equally bright plaids in slacks and walking shorts. Witness the development of bright prints and bold stripes in sport shirts. Witness the growth of design and color in knit shirts.

Conventional clothing, too — the white collar man's work suit—has shown remarkable progress toward spring and summer comfort and better fit, even in so short a period as the past decade. And although dark suitings have tended to dominate men's tastes, these dark dark tones have been relieved by handsome neckwear and gaily colored foulard kerchiefs that peep out of breast pockets with a flaunt at convention.

The blend revolution was touched off by wash and wear, which continues to get bigger and bigger, because the polyester fibers blended with rayon, or cotton, or acrylic to produce cords, poplins, and fancy mixtures provide a new kind of wearing performance (wrinkle resistance, crease retention) never before offered to men.

Of course, not everybody wants a wash and wear suit, so many turn to the polyester and worsted blends, which are a very important factor in lightweight performance clothing for spring and summer. Mohair and worsteds will also be strong, because they express the desire for sheen and lustre which is an important fashion attraction today.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Is there an international code for marking civilian airplanes of all countries? C.J.

A. Yes. The aircraft of all nations can be identified by official registration markings. These usually consist of one or two letters to denote the nationality, followed by other letters, or figures to make a total of five. Thus N is used for the United States, D for Germany, G for the United Kingdom, F for France, PH for The Netherlands, and so forth.

Q. Who originated the International Red Cross flag? I.T.

A. This flag, a red cross on a white background, is the national flag of Switzerland (white cross on a red background) with the colors transposed. It was adopted in recognition of Switzerland's initiative in calling the Geneva Conference in 1863, at which the agreement was signed concerning the international protection of sick and wounded, with their nurses and doctors.

Q. How tall was Gen. Phil Sheridan of Civil War fame? D.N.

A. Gen. Philip Henry Sheridan, called "Little Phil" by his men, was only five feet, five inches tall. Like many small men he was tremendously aggressive and possessed enormous energy. These qualities helped make Sheridan one of the great combat commanders of the Civil War.

Q. From what poem are the lines beginning: "I will go back to Innisfree"? C.B.

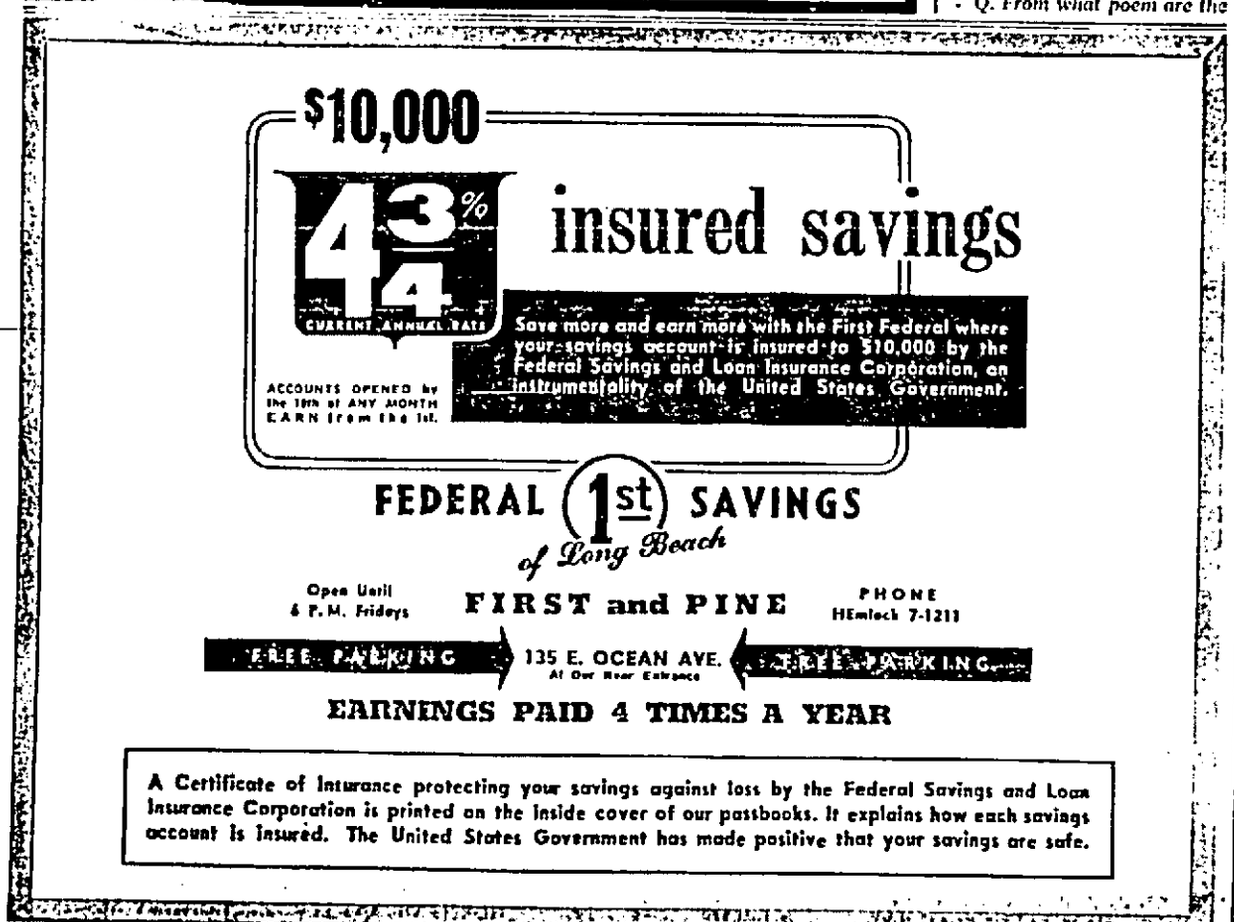

A. You refer to Stanza 1 of "The Lake Isle of Innisfree" by William Butler Yeats: "I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree,/ And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattles made:/ Nine beanrows will I have there, a hive for the honeybee,/ And live alone in the bee-loud glade."

Q. Please describe the mythical monster called the griffin. H. Y.

A. The griffin, in ancient and medieval mythology, had the body of a lion and the head and wings of an eagle. The hind legs were always those of a lion, but the fore extremities were sometimes represented as eagle's claws. The griffin was much used in ancient sculpture, especially that of the Assyrians and Persians, and has been traced to the Hittites. In heraldry it is symbolic of wisdom and vigilance. From the griffin was derived another fabulous creature, the winged hippogriff—half horse and half griffin.

New Technique Dulls Pain

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press Telegram Medical Science Writer

A TECHNIQUE called mental concentration can enable obstetric patients to cope better with the pain of childbirth.

The method is described by Dr. A. A. Earn of the University of Manitoba in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The technique, Dr. Earn says, raises the pain threshold to reduce suffering. It has proved out in trials in Leicester General Hospital in England.

Here's how it works:

The patient, lying supine, fixes her eyes on a spot on the ceiling—a spot so far behind her head that the eye muscles fatigue rapidly.

She does this for one to two minutes. Ocular fatigue becomes so marked that the eyes soon close involuntarily in order to obtain relief.

General muscular relaxation follows.

Meanwhile, the patient is reassured through suggestion.

The concentration technique should be practiced before the day of delivery, Dr. Earn says.

It is integrated into an education program that advises the patient of the elemental anatomy and physiology of childbirth. The patient is told what she can expect during labor.

Pain-killing drugs are available if the patient requests them.

IF YOU'RE traveling east, and encounter a late winter storm, here's how to skid-proof your shoes against icy pavements:

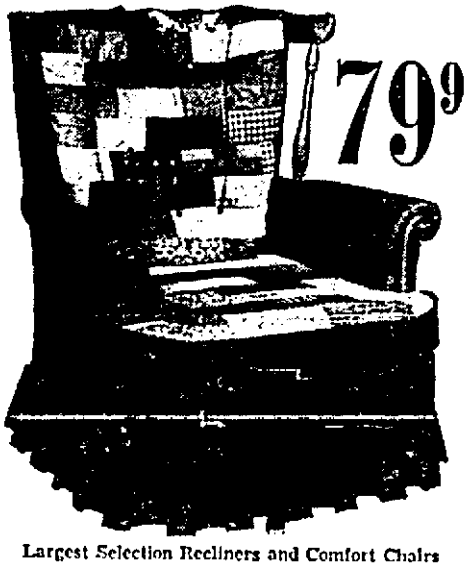

Stick a strip of one-inch adhesive tape lengthwise on each sole, another strip crosswise. Repeat on each heel.

The advice is in RN, a journal for nurses.

Blessing of the Animals

By Aubrey B. Haines

WITH GARLANDS of flowers around the necks of the larger animals and gay ribbons festooning the bird cages and decorating the smaller animals, the Blessing of the Animals begins in Los Angeles' Olvera Street on the Saturday before Easter. Before noon crowds will have gathered along the colorful thoroughfare, anticipating the procession and ceremony. Mexican children and adults, themselves gaily dressed in native colors, stroll along the street with pets on leashes or in their arms. Parrots and parakeets arrive in highly decorated cages. Rabbits, lambs, goats, dogs, cats, monkeys and chickens are all gaily festooned with ribbons or dressed in colorful little jackets.

The custom of blessing the animals goes back to the days of the patron saint of animals, San Antonio de Abad, who died in A.D. 356. This ancient custom — observed annually in parts of England, Switzerland, Austria, Spain, Mexico and in Rome—is in grateful recognition of the great service rendered to humans by the animals.

With their pet lamb adorned with ribbons, two Mexican boys bring the animal to Olvera Street for blessing.

IN THE EARLY days of spring when Nature softly calls new life into existence, the humble people of many lands gather together their work animals and pets and take them to the priest to be blessed for fertility and health. For years Mexican Catholics of Los Angeles have observed this ancient tradition.

The parade, formed at 1:30 p.m., will slowly make its way to the Old Plaza, where the priest and his altar boys stand on a raised platform. The right arm of the priest will hold the golden receptacle of holy water high so that the crystal drops of blessing fall on each passing animal.

A SATIN BLACK Holstein cow leads the parade each year, wearing a blanket of white gardenias and a crown of orchids on her horns.

Appropriately the animals are blessed in the Old Plaza, for in the early days when Los Angeles was a tiny pueblo, the citizens had to journey 9 miles to San Gabriel Mission for mass. As there were no funds with which to build a church, the priest appealed to the ranchers, who donated 500 head of cattle which they drove to the Plaza and auctioned off at $5 a head. The cornerstone of the Old Plaza Church was laid in 1814.

Cattle again played an heroic role in history when hides and tallow were used as barter to purchase all household goods, clothing and everyday living necessities. The early prosperity of California came not with the discovery of gold but in the trade value of hides. Hence with historical significance and gratitude the animals of Los Angeles are invited to come to Olvera Street each Easter season and receive blessing.

Pearl S. Buck's Bridge to Reality

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

FOR the first time since she wrote "My Several Worlds," Pearl S. Buck returns to personal experiences in "A BRIDGE FOR PASSING" (Day, $4.50).

In moving language, stark in the portrayal of her blinding grief, poetical as grief gives way to courage and trust in tomorrow, the author describes her reactions to news of the death of her husband, and the way she built a bridge again to reality.

It is a tender story, as only Pearl Buck could write it, and familiar to all women who must walk alone without the man who is life itself to them.

Pearl Buck had flown to Japan, as technical adviser in the filming of her "The Big Wave," originally written for children, when her daughter telephoned that her husband of a wondrously happy quarter of a century had died in his sleep. Mrs. Buck came home for the simple service in the library of their Pennsylvania farm home, then returned to Japan, loneliness and the task of finishing the film. In work she found surcease, and in solitude a measure of acceptance and peace.

THE WORLD in December, 1950 waited with dread and fearful hearts word of the First Marine Division trapped and surrounded by hundreds of thousands of Chinese troops in the frozen wastes of North Korea.

Were they annihilated? Could they retreat? Would they surrender?

"Surrounded?" exclaimed Col. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, commander of the First Regiment.

"Those poor bastards. They've got us right where we want them. Now we can shoot in every direction."

Barrel-chested, banty-legged Lewis Puller of Saluda, Va., grandson of a Confederate cavalry hero and cousin of the celebrated "Blood and Guts" Patton of World War II, is the most famed Marine of all times.

During his 40 years of service (27 at foreign posts) he rose from private to general and fought in 100 combats in the Caribbean, South America, China, the Pacific and Korea.

He won five Navy Crosses and more decorations than any other leatherneck in history. He was wounded several times.

The remarkable story of this remarkable fighting man is told for the first time in "MARINE—The Life of Chesty Puller" by Burke Davis (Little, Brown, $5.95).

THE CIVIL WAR is being waged with renewed vigor in American literary and history circles.

Three recent releases are representative of this situation. They are "LEE'S MAVERICK GENERAL," by Hal Bridges (McGraw-Hill, $7.50) and two Virginia Historical Society works, "A VIRGINIA YANKEE IN THE CIVIL WAR", $7, edited by C. D. Eby Jr., and "FOUR YEARS IN THE CONFEDERATE ARTILLERY," $4, edited by W. H. Runge.

ADVENTURESOME Ann Davison is to sailing what Jacqueline Cochran is to flying. A boatman's boatwoman, she is the only woman ever to sail the Atlantic single-handed.

In "THE WAKE OF THE GEMINI" (Little, Brown, $4.95) she describes another voyage—6,000 miles through the inland waterways of the United States and Canada. She went alone, in a 17-foot outboard cruiser. Her twin 35-horsepower motors she named Castor and Pollux, and the boat she called Gemini.

FOR SOME, the era of Prohibition will bring stirrings of nostalgia; for others a feeling of shame for a mighty people at their lowest moral point. Andrew Sinclair's "PROHIBITION: THE ERA OF EXCESS", (Little, Brown 7.95) is a veritable encyclopedia of the 1920s, for it leaves no stone unturned in a highly sucessful effort to find out what made this nation tick in one of its gaudiest periods.

VIAN SMITH, British author, has written a new novel, "PRIDE OF THE MOOR," about a boy and a horse in England's wild Dartmoor country (Doubleday, $4.50). Smith is well known in England and Canada for his novels, newspaper stories and articles.

your own home."

Mrs. Addie M. Carl of Columbia, home of the University of Missouri, has been active in the student guest idea. Her suggestion: "When you entertain a guest, don't let him dangle. He'll wonder what he did wrong, if you never call him again. He doesn't expect an invitation every time he talks to you, he just wants to be remembered, to have someone he can call a friend."

IN TELLING about activities at Columbia, Mrs. Carl says, ". . . the things we have done are very simple, but the students have been appreciative. . . . It has enriched our family with the knowledge of cultures not our own, stimulated us to read and find out more about the countries these fine people come from, and brought us into contact with some bright young people whom we sincerely like."

At a recent meeting of foreign students in a Long Beach home, a young Indian flashed a white-toothed smile at his hosts as he thanked them.

A graduate student in his mid-twenties, the youth was strikingly handsome, intelligent and spoke flawless English. But there was a hint of wistfulness in his voice as he said, "Thank you for an enjoyable evening. I've been going to school here for two years. This the first time I have been invited to an American home."

That telephone call will let you travel half a world when the doorbell rings or you pick up your foreign guest. You, too, can help make a friendlier neighborhood out of our shrinking world—and when your new friend leaves the country, there will be warm spots in two widely separated hearts.

Will This Be the Dodgers' Golden Year?

The cast is nearly the same that suffered from a 10-game losing streak in August of last year and was frustrated by the Coliseum for four years. The biggest difference is the new stage.

In symmetrical Dodger Stadium (330-foot foul lines, 410 in center) Alston will be able to utilize Dodger speed and defense and all but ignore the absence of a power hitter in the class of a Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson or Ken Boyer.

"FIRST OF ALL," says Alston, "the new park will help our pitchers, who had to have some sort of a mental block from that Coliseum screen. They had to pitch there 77 times. The visitors saw it only 11 times a year.

"Our hitters who were unable to take advantage of the screen should prosper, too. You'll be seeing a different outfield alignment. They won't be able to bunch up in center field. They'll have to protect the lines against extra-base hits.

"That's where we should benefit from the speed of Wills, and Willie and Tommy Davis. We'll bunt, we'll steal and we'll hit-and-run."

Statistics of 1961 bear out Alston's optimism. The Davis boys, Fairly, Wills and Daryl Spencer fared far better on foreign soil than in the Coliseum. The figures:

	On Road	At Colisum
T. Davis	.309	.247
W. Davis ...	.298	.203
Fairly	.331	.315
Spencer	.293	.196
Wills	.304	.259

Podres and Koufax, both 18-game winners and the club's top pitchers, also showed a dislike for the Coliseum.

WHILE ALSTON gave some indication in spring training that he may not platoon as much as in the past, he does have the depth to make frequent changes.

"It won't be so much a matter of lefthanders vs. right and vice-versa. I'll play the boys who have the hot bat," he says.

This decision could not be made in spring training, where averages are misleading. The most frequently employed combination consisted of John Roseboro, c; Fairly, 1b; Gilliam, 2b; Wills, ss; Spencer, 3b; and an outfield of Moon, W. Davis and Howard.

The problem will be to find room for Snider and Tommy Davis and how long to keep Howard in the starting lineup if he fails to hit.

"So nothing did happen."

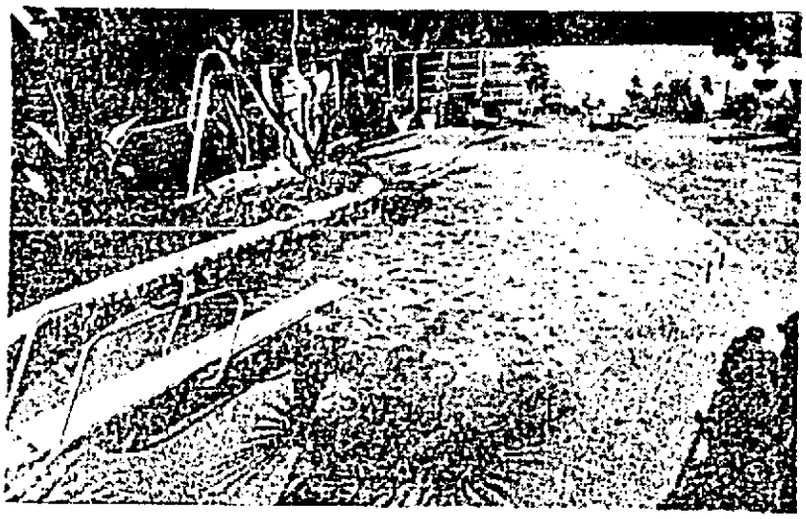

"No, but I'd hate to have been the prowler if it had."

CAST in the Allied Artists film as Geli Raubal, pursued by a smitten Hitler and later found with a bullet in her heart, the "Iron Liebchen" is a dimpled ash-blonde standing 5 feet, 3 inches and weighing just 107 pounds, who began her career at four, playing a pigeon in a stage production of Paul Claudel's "The Book of Christopher Columbus."

Savory Pineapple Shrimp Volcanoes are good luncheon feature for bridge or club event.

Salads

Volcanoes Spout Good Eating

By Mildred K. Flanary

Newspaper, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

FOR A REAL luncheon special, you'll find that canned pineapple tidbits blend wonderfully with shrimp for a tempting and unusual flavor. The pineapple is combined with cooked rice, butter and grated cheese, then the mixture is molded to resemble tall volcanoes. A rich golden curried shrimp sauce is cascaded over the pineapple and rice, adding savory goodness. It's good with buttered broccoli or peas and hot blueberry muffins for bridge or women's club luncheons.

Pineapple Shrimp Volcanoes

- ¼ cup chopped green onion
- ¼ cup chopped celery
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 (9-ounce) can pineapple tidbits
- ⅔ cup undiluted evaporated milk
- ½ cup water
- 3 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 cup cooked deveined shrimp

Pineapple Rice Volcanoes.

Cook onion, celery and curry powder in butter until vegetables are soft but not browned. Blend in flour and salt. Slowly stir in syrup drained from pineapple, evaporated milk and water. (Reserve tidbits from rice volcanoes.) Cook and stir until sauce is thickened and smooth. Blend in lemon juice and shrimp. Heat a few minutes longer. Serve over Pineapple Rice Volcanoes. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

PINEAPPLE RICE VOLCANOES: Combine 3 cups hot cooked rice, ½ cup grated cheddar cheese, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine and drained pineapple tidbits. Pack into oiled small molds or pile in mounds to resemble volcanoes. Unmold on hot plates and spoon shrimp sauce over top.

$5 for Your Recipe

BRACIOLA, which translates into "Beef Rolls," wins the $5 Recipe Contest prize this week for Mrs. Florence Shanaberger, 6609 Fairman St., Lakewood. Mrs. Shanaberger's recipe:

Braciola (Beef Rolls)

- 2 lbs. round steak ½ inch thick, cubed
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1 tblsp. Parmesan cheese, grated
- 2 slices salt pork, cut fine (optional)
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- ½ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. black pepper
- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2½ cups tomatoes, sieved
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 bay leaf
- ¼ tsp. pepper

Lay out steak and wipe with clean damp cloth. Cover steak with mixture of garlic, cheese, green pepper, salt pork, salt and pepper. Roll up steak to enclose mixture and tie securely. Cut into 4 or 5 portions. Heat olive oil in large skillet and cook onion for a few minutes. Add steak rolls and brown on all sides. Combine tomatoes, salt, pepper and bay leaf and slowly add to browned steak. Cover and simmer 1½ hours or until steak is tender. Remove string and bay leaf. Slice and serve. Makes 6 portions.

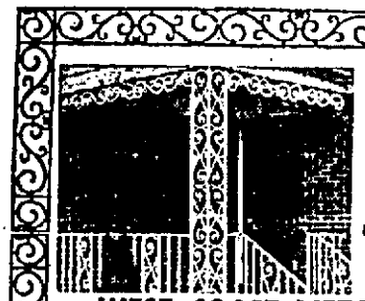

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12.

Taste Treats

The man who grows herbs within easy reach of his kitchen is one who enjoys the better things of life. Like the home vegetable garden, he knows the culinary pleasures which are unattainable to the cook who buys only from the neighborhood grocer.

The space required for growing herbs is so small that no garden should be without its share of these wonderful kitchen accessories. Herbs grow beautifully in pots or plant boxes.

For the budding herbal enthusiast, the California Association of Nurserymen suggests six or eight standbys as a start: Parsley, which many consider more a vegetable than herb, chives, thyme, rosemary, basil, sage, marjoram and mint are readily available and always in demand by cooks. As interest expands, try savory, tarragon, caraway, dill and many others, though some of them may be grown only from seed rather than nursery-started plants.

CAMERA ANGLES

New Items Make Photo News

By Irving Desfor

HERE'S A summary of outstanding features of some of the new cameras and accessories seen at the recent photo industry trade show, which soon will reach local camera shops:

FASTEST LENS. Available till now only for scientific and experimental work, a 35mm camera with an f/0.95 lens is being marketed for U. S. camera fans. The phenomenal speed of this seven-element 50mm lens produces special effects when shot wide open since the plane of sharp focus is centered on a single detail such as an eye or a hand. The Bell & Howell/Canon 7 camera has an extra-sensitive exposure meter system and accepts both bayonet and thread-mount accessory lenses.

Magician's art is caught, using stage light, Royal-X pan film and exposure of 1/50th at f5.6. With a new Canon f0.95 lens wide open exposure would be 1/3000th.

LONG RUN 8MM. An 8mm reflex movie camera with the large film capacity and advanced features of a professional 16mm camera . . . that's the Bolex H-8 Rex. It takes 100-foot rolls of 8mm film giving a finished footage of 200 feet. The turret camera accepts three Switar lenses (wide-agle, normal and telephoto) which are equipped with a pre-set diaphragm arrangement not found on any other 8mm camera. It permits focusing with the lens wide open, then stopping down to a pre-set stop without removing the eye from the reflex viewfinder. Extremely accurate close-up focusing is also possible without extension tubes or supplementary lenses.

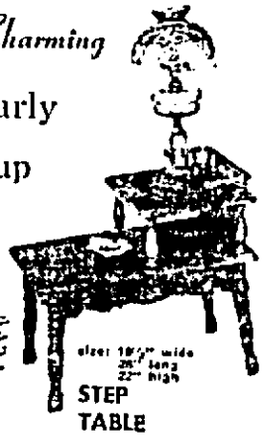

STILL CAMERA ZOOM. The Nikkorex is the first 35 mm single lens reflex camera with a built in f/3.5 zoom lens. The zoom ranges from 43mm to 86mm and the viewfinder image changes with the focal length.

WAY OUT LENSES. Nikon's Fisheye lens is an f/8 super-wide-angle 8mm lens with a 180 degree view. It has six built-in filters on an internally rotating turret and is supplied with a centering finder. The Nikkor Perspective Control lens is unique. It gives a 35mm camera lens control over verticals and horizontals equivalent to the cameraback movements of a view camera in architectural photography.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"You mentioned that you had taken an apartment in London for a few months. Can you tell us how to arrange something like that? How much does it cost?"

I got my furnished house for three months through Al Wagstaff, a travel agent. Write him at 177 Sloane St., S. W. 1, London. He has a special service geared to Americans on short-time rentals. He'll send you a list, description and cost.

English furnished houses are not like ours—they often don't include linen, silver and blankets. But the ones handled by Wagstaff do. And when you move in, your basic food supplies are there ahead of you.

Cost is anywhere from $36 to $100 a week, depending on size and location. But it's a lot more comfortable and cheaper than hotels.

"We've heard about renting villas in Spain, on the coast."

You could write Wagstaff (above) on this one, too. On long term rentals you do wonderfully in the south of Spain or the Costa Brava—a friend of mine with three children was doing this on $3,000 a year.

In the big summer season on short rentals, the prices on these places go up. It's still pretty expensive though. And you get a lot of maid service for few dollars.

. . ."a place to buy a Swiss watch at reasonable prices in the Caribbean. We are on a cruise."

The free ports are the places. Jamaica, I think, has the best selection. You get it without duty. It will be about half what you pay in the States. You buy it ashore and it is delivered on your ship or plane when you leave.

"How many cigarettes can you take to Europe?"

THE rule varies. Most countries go for two cartons. They are pretty relaxed about this if you don't pile them all in a bundle. Distribute them through the baggage and tell the Customs man: "I brought enough to last me for my PERSONAL use."

Good place to buy them at $1.50 a carton is the duty-free shop at Idlewild. Second rotunda deck in the international arrivals building.

There is one drawback: They deliver them in a bundle on board the plane.

Friend of mine arrived in England the other day with six cartons and British Customs charged duty on ALL of them.

Worthwhile bringing SOME in though. American cigarettes in England are 70 cents a package, 60 cents for English brands.

". . . some good country hotels in England for a driving trip."

This is just what you want: Write Trust Houses, 81 Piccadilly W. 1, London, for a list of their places.

They have 200 old English inn type places all over the British isles.

I've found them colorful, inexpensive ($4 to $10 double with breakfast).

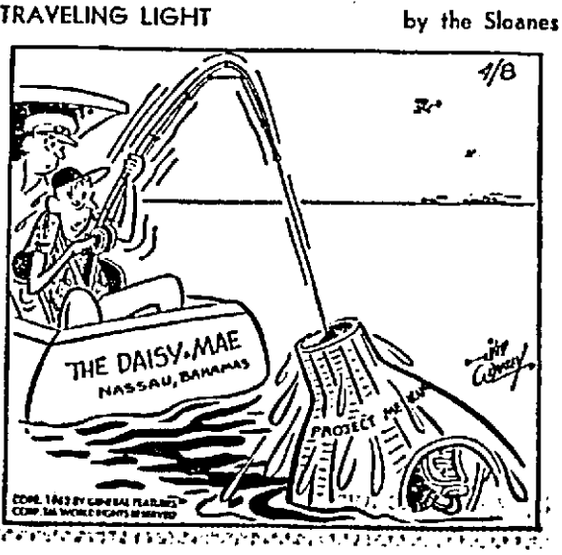

And 50 per cent of their business is with British commercial travelers who should know the best ones. Most of them are full of history. Admiral Nelson used to stay at two of them I used on the Portsmouth road.

"How would you tip on a first-class trans-Atlantic ship (Italian) on an eight-day crossing? There are two of us."

On an Italian ship, I'd tip the room steward $10; the table steward $10; the deck steward $3; the wine steward $5 (if you have wine with every meal); the bar steward $3 and the bellboys about 25 cents for each service.

TRAVELING LIGHT by the Sloanes

Introduction to the True Art of Travel

Henry James died 40 years ago but his large dimensions and searching vision, his subtlety and curiosity in his writings give them a quality that will live for generations. For these reasons, and because James found travel one of the primary conditions for existence, his "The Art of Travel" (Doubleday, Garden City, N. Y., $1.45 paperback) at once becomes an exciting experience for those who like to go places — whether in plane, train, bus, ship or armchair.

In this one, James takes you from Avignon to Washington in his roamings over Europe and eastern United States, treating you with his acuteness of observation, integrity of interest and brilliance of detail and expression. In addition, there is a rather lengthy introduction by Morton Dauwen Zabel which alone is easily worth the price of the book to students of travel literature.

Lurline Stars Again

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

"DIAMOND HEAD" is the title of a new movie being made in Hawaii, and one of the stars—of all things!—is Matson's elegant cruise ship, the Lurline.

The famed California-Hawaii liner plays its exotic role in the early part of the picture in which is shown a typical "Boat Day" arrival in Honolulu.

A Columbia picture, "Diamond Head" is based on the novel by Peter Gilman, former Honolulu newspaperman.

Others in the cast besides the Lurline are the star, Charlton Heston, and Yvette Mimieux, George Chakiris, France Nuyen and James Darren.

This is not the first time the Lurline has appeared in a film. She first starred in Cinerama's "South Seas Adventure," which you may have seen at Warner Bros. Hollywood Theater a year or two ago.

TWO HUNDRED Californians will debark from the Cunard liner, Caronia, when the luxury cruise liner arrives at Long Beach next Saturday on the final phase of a 90-day cruise to ports and islands of the South Pacific and Far East.

The Caronia has twice crossed the Pacific during her 32,880-mile cruise which began Jan. 26 at New York. From here, she will proceed to Acapulco, thence to the Canal Zone, and finish the cruise in New York on April 26.

GOLDEN WEST Rail Tours, a Southland group that just loves to gad on trains, plans two junkets which the public is invited to join.

The first is a three-day, weekend, all-expense springtime fun and scenic adventure to Carlsbad Caverns National Park, April 14-16. The second will be a 13-day tour of eight western states, British Columbia, two national parks and the Century 21 Exposition in Seattle, June 29-July 12.

The group can be contacted at P.O. Box 201, Los Angeles 28; or, you can contact your travel agent for details.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

THROW "Jamaica" at a North American in a word association test and chances are he'll throw "calypso" back at you (either that or Harry Belafonte, which he thinks is the same thing).

Actually, calypso as we know it originates not from Jamaica but from Trinidad, the bouncy little keystone of the British West Indies that is culturally, politically and economically the most vigorous of the British islands. It is also the most ignored by tourists because of its remoteness and shortage of good hotels.

Like all Negro folk music, calypso's origins are buried deep in the jungles of Africa. It first emerged in the Western Hemisphere as a kind of commentary on world affairs on the part of the slave, in language the master could not understand — a subtle, contrived set of allegories that effectively slipped the needle into the bossman without having him know exactly what it was all about.

IT FOLLOWED naturally that calypso developed into a highly inventive and effective form of topical music. Its subtleties became so developed that to this day even the dirtiest songs can be couched in double-meaning terms that never really spill over into vulgarity on the surface.

Many Americans have the idea that calypso is devised for tourists on the spot. But this is generally a showy night club trick which rarely can be done well. Most of the lyrics are right out of stock. True calypso is thought out and composed with an artistry — sometimes deceptively childlike — worthy of Lerner and Lowe. It can also be devastating.

In the adaptations of Jamaica, where tourism dictates much of the island's economy and culture, not to mention its politics, the racy pace of the music was slowed down in keeping with Jamaica's easier approach. The informal meter and outrageous rhymes, both of which would shock Ogden Nash, were smoothed out. Finally Harry Belafonte and others got hold of calypso, turned it into a juke box fad, and inevitably it watered down and died out.

TODAY, the absurdly costumed bands which haunt hotel patios day and night can usually come up with some of the hilarious classics of calypso, such as "False Children," "Saxophone," "The Bedbug Song," "The Big Bamboo' and other esoteric interpretations of varying shadings. Mostly, however, they stick to "Yellow Bird," "Mary Ann" and other bland Tin Pan Alley-oops.

jet fleet will consume nearly five times the turbine fuel required today.

In flying TWA's 50,000 miles of worldwide routes last year, the SuperJets used more than 324 million gallons of fuel. The company forecasts eight years hence big birds will need about 1½ billion gallons.

This astronomical figure represents enough fuel to send a SuperJet to the moon and back 715 times. In more down-to-earth terms, that's 56,444 times around the world.

On the average cross-country run, the jets consume about four gallons of fuel a mile, flying 10 miles a minute.

He's Tiny, but Fun!

By Eleanor Price

SPECULATION surrounds the origin of the Chihuahua, some asserting he was once a wild dog and others like to say he was a cross between a dog and the prairie dog, which is a rodent. A very popular theory is that he evolved from the Techichi, a dog of the cultured Aztec and Toltec Indians of southern Mexico who believed he guided souls of the deceased on their journey to paradise. Also, since the first Chihuahuas to arrive in the United States in 1850 came from the northern Mexican state of Chihuahua, some fanciers believe this to be the cradle of the breed.

Research into the matter indicates, however, that the dog may not be of Mexican origin and, of course, not a wild dog nor a rodent. It is quite likely that the Chihuahua originated from dogs brought to Mexico from Asia. At the time of arrival he may have had both long and short hair, but there is always the possibility the longcoats appeared from interbreeeding with the Mexican Techichi.

THE AZTECS worshipped the dog, but their glorification of him went too far when they destroyed him in their sacrificial burial ceremonies. There were and still are several colors of Chihuahuas, the Aztecs seeming to have preferred the blue for their soulguides. This could very well account for the rarity of blues today with the resultant demand for them.

When the Mexicans found that Americans sought the little breed, they put a handsome price on the dogs. Some brought their weight in gold. However, Americans wanted only the smaller dogs, so, in spite of their desire to obtain as much wealth as possible, the Mexicans did strive to keep the dogs small. It is said they half starved them to do so and fed them quantities of gin. In any event, many arrivals north of the border had impaired bone development.

Ch. Coquela Mia (above), owned by Nina Tallboys, is a fine exampl'e of Chihuahuas, the world's tiniest dogs.

AMERICAN breeders have, of course, improved the breed until it is a fine sturdy toy even though it is the world's smallest dog. American stock is much sought after and can be found on every continent except Asia and Australia.

The Chihuahua requires only the exercise he gets running around inside the home. In fact, an apartment house suits him fine. He does enjoy obedience work, and quite a few have obedience titles tacked onto their names. Naturally he works better on close-cropped grass and level ground or in an indoor obedience ring.

The little dog thrives on companionship, is eager to please, and is always ready for play. He is courageous, graceful, saucy. He makes a perfect pet for those who want a dog that does not tire them. All he asks in return is some attention and a little protection from severe cold.

Its Purpose Is to Bloom

Morea Iridioides has a rugged name but also is a rugged plant, supplying blooms for periods of many months.

By Joe Littlefield

IT'S HUMAN nature to overlook or ignore plants that bloom their hearts out for long periods of time. Instead, we gardeners eat our hearts out trying to make some particular plant grow well and bloom for us. Perhaps its because of challenge that we persist in growing certain plants till we've mastered their culture technique and . . . voila, the plants flower!

If you are considering such a challenge and have the time, that's fine. But if you're like many of us with limited time for gardening, stick to plants that blossom for long periods of time, with minimum care involved.

One such of many plants is Morea Iridioides, an iris-like plant with narrower leaves than bearded iris. Once this plant begins to bloom in the spring, it continues to flower off and on until late November. The white flowers marked yellow and blue, last about a day, the stiff flower stalks continue to develop many flowers over a long period of time.

IT IS unfortunate that gardeners don't realize the landscaping value use of this plant. Such a lack is one of the main reasons why it is fast disappearing from the nursery trade.

Morea may be used in tropical effect landscaping, as an informal hedge along a walk or driveway, a narrow space between walk and wall, tucked here and there in the sunny perennial flower bed, or as an anchor plant in an annual flower bed. It grows in full sun or half sun and half shade. Hardy, too, enduring cold to about 15 degrees above zero. Clumps should be dug up about every four years or so, separated, and young plants reset.

By Dorothy Jonson

If you have an area in your yard that is being overrun with weeds, you might like to get rid of them the easy way, with a weed killer.

Fortunately, there are weed killers on the market now to meet every requirement, some that are selective and some non-selective; some that sterilize the soil and some that do not; some that are contact weed killers and some that act through the roots. Your choice of a weed killer depends entirely on what you want to accomplish.

If you want to kill the top growth but not sterilize the soil, you should use the contact type of weed killer; if you want to sterilize the soil for a longer period of time, another type is needed, of course. But whether you use the newest weed killer or a hoe, the time to start working on weeds is when the tender green sprouts first appear. In a short time they become tough and hardy and more difficult to destroy.

Perfumes of the Desert Are Fragrant Art

Photos by the Author

In the quest for desert scents, the fragrance of the saguaro cactus bloom has eluded perfume-makers.

By Jack B. Kemmerer

ONE WHO can extract exotic new perfume from plant life in the middle of a barren desert and then watch smilingly as the world beats a path to his door to barter for the product must be considered a successful practitioner of the "Better Mouse Trap" theory.

Howard Foncanon of Albuquerque, N. M., is that man and his "Perfumes of the Desert" have become known throughout the world. The perfumes are made by Foncanon and sold in the Perfume of the Desert Shop on the Plaza in Old Albuquerque. In addition to his own shop and 150 retail outlets located over the world, Foncanon does a very large mail order repeat business from tourists who have visited his unique shop.

"We do everything ourselves," says Foncanon. "We" means the family — father, mother, daughter and son-in-law, William Mollenkopf. Originating and developing this unique and completely New Mexico industry, they produce thousands of drams of rare desert scents in a closely guarded laboratory in Albuquerque.

"THE PERFUME business is highly secretive," Foncanon explains. "I never write down a formula. That way it can't be stolen." The formulas are also memorized by Bill, the son-in-law. Bill's small son will also memorize the formulas when he is old enough to enter the business and in this manner the family's most valuable asset is safe from theft.

Many tourists have doubted that these scents could be captured but the exotic and mysterious scents that make up the fragrance of the desert greet them as they enter the plaza shop. The sweet, clean fragrance of the cactus flower; the fresh but different scent of yucca; pungent purple sage with its hint of hot days and cool nights; exciting desert jasmine suggesting the hot sands and wild mesa are but a few of the many desert scents that the Foncanon family have been successful in blending into fine perfumes.

The process by which the desert's aroma could be captured for milady's use had its serious beginning in 1921 when Foncanon was in the insurance business in Cleveland, Ohio. He bet a professional perfumer that he could start from scratch and turn out a completely new fragrance in five years.

"I LOST the bet," he said. "It took me six years." But he did learn that perfume was his major interest and he deserted insurance to devote his entire time to it.

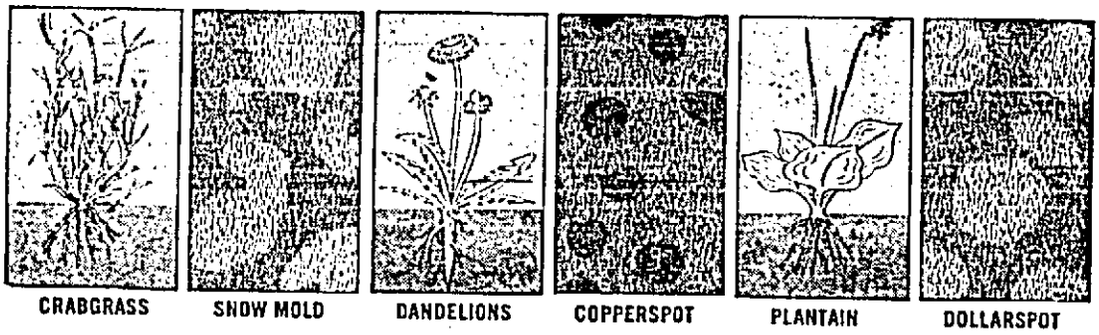

So Foncanon — aided and abetted by his wife, Emma — began the long tedious job of learning the exacting art of the perfume chemist. It wasn't easy, for perfumery is an art and a science with textbooks that are, unfortunately, completely inadequate. The perfumer must be as flexible as an artist and as exact as a scientist, yet there are no teachers or schools to which he can turn for help.

Foncanon learned the only way possible — by trial and error—blending literally thousands of perfumes. He bought the rare expensive floral oils that go into the making of any perfume and in his home laboratory contracted, refined and blended scores of oils into a desired scent. One moment he would look like a modern technician, measuring with the greatest of accuracy at a sensitive scale. A few minutes later he would pick up a small, odorless perfume blotter, carefully put a drop of his blend on the blotter, and smell; first from one nostril, then the other, over and over again. Nevertheless, he was working, perhaps doing nothing for several days but smell the blotter. But always he was seeking something new, a blend that he could say was a "finished" perfume. Most of his efforts ended in complete failure and thousands of dollars worth of worthless blends went down the kitchen sink.

FONCANON refused to give up, and, by 1938, he had mastered the art that predates ancient Egypt. "Most people think making a perfume merely consists of pressing the oil out of flowers and diluting it," Emma Foncanon said. "Actually, nothing could be further from the truth. First a basic scent is chosen; its petals are pressed in specially prepared oil and left there for weeks. The perfume oil is then extracted, refined and mixed with from 20 to 75 or even more other floral oils from all parts of the world."

According to Mollenkopf, the exact delicate training of a prima donna is nothing compared to the development of a new perfume. It is a tedious process requiring extreme patience and skill. Often several years are spent in developing a new scent and then it must withstand an additional one year test

Northrup King "Garden Hose Killers" let you spray all these pests away

CRABGRASS SNOW MOLD DANDELIONS COPPERSPOT PLANTAIN DOLLARSPOT

Now you can destroy crabgrass, cure lawn diseases, knock out broad-leaved weeds as easily as you water your lawn! With Northrup King's powerful Liquid Weed Killers: you don't even need to mix and measure; all you need is an inexpensive nozzle-type garden hose sprayer (such as a Fertl-Rain Sprayer). Or you can use a tank-type pressure sprayer.

These fast-acting liquid killers (the same method used by professional lawn-care men) are not only easier to apply than dry preparations . . . they also work despite unexpected showers.

Northrup King Liquid Crabgrass Killer blasts crabgrass (tiny shoots or adult plants) and also prevents lawn diseases—Copperspot, Dollarspot, Brown Patch, Snow Mold.

A single application of NK Liquid Lawn Weed Killer will usually destroy dandelions and plantain. A second application may be necessary to eliminate chickweed and knotweed.

Howard Foncanon, Albuquerque perfume specialist, makes many field trips to seek new scents to add to growing collection. Here he examines flower of a cactus.

for odor retention. If it clicks —a new perfume is born!

"I eat, sleep and dream perfume," Foncanon admits. At present he is working on about 15 new perfumes, each in a different time stage of development. "What to do with each blend never leaves my mind, awake or asleep," Foncanon says. "I often wake up in the night and make a note to try a drop of Mousse De Chene Absolute in blend No. 4 or leave out that drop of Petitgrain Sur Fleurs in blend No. 14."

In addition to perfumes Foncanon and Mollenkopf have succeeded in capturing the tangy odor of the twisted mountain pine—the pinon—for an after-shave lotion for men. In recent months they have also developed complete new lines of pinon, mesquite and purple sage incense.

In line with keeping everything within the family, Foncanon and his son-in-law also design and manufacture all of the containers in which their perfumes are sold. The bottles, made in intriguing shapes, are of plexiglass and lucite with some designs having miniature desert flowers drilled into the container itself.

Garden Club

Colored slides taken in Hawaii will be shown by Mrs. E. L. (Jo) Ibbotson, former district director of the garden clubs of Los Angeles Bay Area, at a meeting of the Long Beach Garden Club, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. The public is invited.

Overplanting Tip

When spring-flowering bulbs like hyacinths and tulips finish blooming, their leaves gradually turn yellow, then brown and finally die.

To camouflage the bulb leaves, overplant seeds of quick-growing, quick-flowering annuals that will be starting to bloom by the time the bulbs have finished flowering and will continue to blossom while the leaves gradually disintegrate.

Annuals that lend themselves to overplanting, by simply scattering the seeds over the area in which the bulbs are planted, are poppies, cornflowers, white sweet alyssum or its deep pink counterpart, variety Rosie O'Day or calliopsis.

The alyssums and calliopsis will continue to flower all summer; the poppies and cornflowers may be pulled out when they cease to bloom.

New Rose Guide Ready

Each year there are increasing numbers of rose varieties introduced to the American buyer. To aid the rose gardeners in selecting the best, the "1962 Guide for Buying Roses" is now available.

The Guide rates more than 450 old and new roses including hybrid teas, floribundas, climbers, grandifloras and miniatures. The individual ratings are an average of observations and reports from more than 5,000 American Rose Society gardeners. A scale of 1 to 10 is used. The perfect, but not obtainable, rose is 10. Roses rated 7.0 to 9.5 are generally best and this year no hybrid tea under 7.0 rating is listed. Other classifications drop lower since few of them are rated as high as the hybrid teas—with the exception, perhaps, of the grandifloras. The first Guide was published in 1950.

For a free copy, write to The American Rose Society, 4018 Roselea Place, Columbus 14, Ohio. Another publication, "A Guide for Beginners on Growing Roses," also is available.

JACK AND ROSE
Happy Anniversary

THERE'S a special reason for the twinkle these days in the eyes of Jack Bass and his wife Rose.

They're looking forward to celebrating a double anniversary. This Wednesday they will observe their 13th wedding anniversary and the 7th anniversary of their ownership of the smart, modern Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Belmont Shore.

And because they want their patrons and friends to share in their happiness, Jack and Rose will include an extra treat with their dinners Wednesday. Guests will receive a gift of a bottle (half of a fifth) of Paul Maisson's Emerald Dry Chablis, a new and delicious wine.

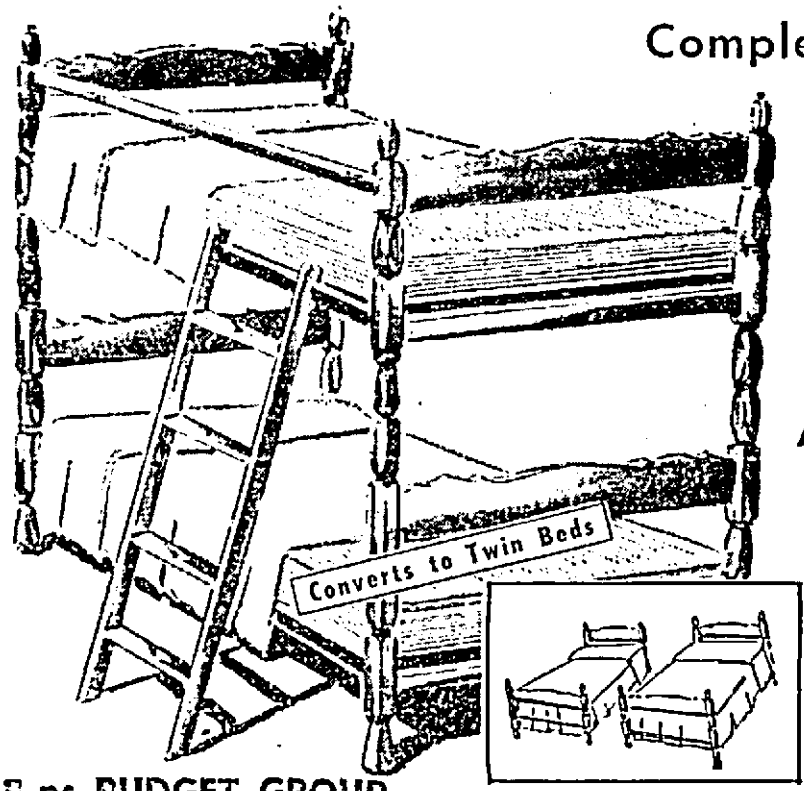

Even without the wine a dinner at the Corsican Room is something to remember. Jack does a good share of his own cooking and his charcoal-broiled steaks and prime rib are absolute marvels, including the finest beef money can buy prepared with the loving care of a man who enjoys his work. His prime rib au jus ($3.75 for a one-pound cut) is so tender and flavorful it brings tears of joy to the most hard-hearted of men. His steaks (priced from $4) receive the highest praise from visitors who come from throughout the Los Angeles area and points as far away as San Francisco, Chicago and New York. The dinners include a bowl of superb soup, mixed green salad served on a large dinner plate, baked potato, beverage and dessert. Also featured are pan-fried chicken and sea food items, including gourmet-style filet of sole ($2.75) steamed in a white wine and mushroom sauce.

Closed Mondays, the Corsican Room serves dinners daily and Sunday from 4 p.m. on. Viennese pianist-composer Franz Steininger is featured at the Steinway.

CLETE ROBERTS (LEFT) INTERVIEWS UNIDENTIFIED PRISONER FOR 'CRIME AND PUNISHMENT' SERIES

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Crime and Punishment' Brings Prisoners' Stories

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THE SALLOW FACED man said:

"The next 30 minutes are going to be painful for me and they may be very painful for you, too.

"I want to tell you what it's like to murder a man—to be in here for life."

The sallow-faced man was one of 42 prisoners interviewed by Clete Roberts for his "Crime and Punishment" program on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m., channel 5.

The sallow-faced man, sentenced to jail for car theft, had murdered a cellmate. He had a record of trouble with the law dating back to childhood.

"The reason why I stole my first car was that I was drunk," he said. "I had a drinking problem. I drank and drank and drank.

"Reality has awfully rough edges. I tried to take off those rough edges.

"But it didn't work very well. I was in pain both ways—when I was drinking and when I wasn't drinking.

"All I want to do is get out of prison and just get drunk."

THE SALLOW-FACED man was at the Vacaville Medical Facility where psychiatrists were attempting to help him. They were capable psychiatrists but the man seemingly was incapable of working with them to help himself.

Richard A. McGee, director of the Department of Corrections, said at the conclusion of the program that the man was seeking "a magic pill and blames us for not having it."

Interviewer Roberts, after the program was filmed, informed prison officials he thought the man was "excited and upset."

Officials checked the man and came away with the impression that he was "elated."

That night the sallow-faced man broke into the prison hospital and drank a large amount of methyl alcohol. It killed him.

Ironically, he had several times before attempted suicide. At the age of 27 he found death in satisfying his craving to "just get drunk."

EACH OF THE 42 prisoners whom Roberts interviewed volunteered and there were many more volunteers than there was time available.

None of the volunteers received as much as a cigarette for his or her interview.

Why did they do it?

Roberts said they did it because, although the words they used in expressing their feelings varied, they all felt:

"Somewhere there is someone in a situation similar to the one I faced when I made my mistake.

"Maybe he or she will hear me and will be spared all this."

Roberts stresses that the "relatively few days" he spent interviewing the prisoners doesn't make him an expert in criminology. But he did come away from the task with certain strong impressions.

THOSE IMPRESSIONS:

"With the exception of two prisoners, all those I interviewed came from a broken home or lacked parental supervision or lacked religious training or had an utter lack of self-discipline or drank too much.

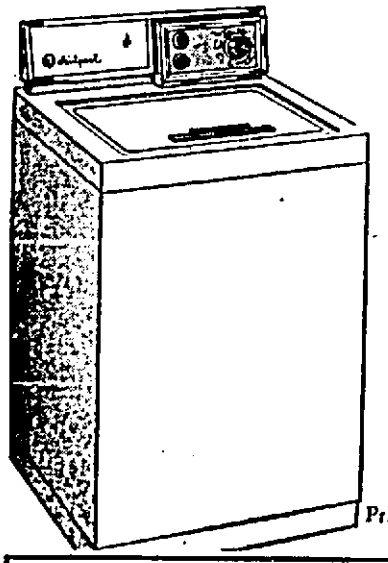

"Considering its tremendous overload, the Department of Corrections is doing a phenomenally

Widow of Ernie Kovacs Stars in TV Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Six years ago blonde and pretty Edie Adams, working on NBC's day-time "Ernie Kovacs Show," began attracting viewers' delighted attention.

First, of course, there was Edie's fine voice and excellent way with a song. But she was also emerging as a hilarious comedienne, specializing in wicked imitations of the likes of Marilyn Monroe, Marlene Dietrich and Grace Kelly.

But when interviewed, Edie promptly tossed all the credits to her then-bridegroom, Kovacs.

"He's my first and only critic," she told a reporter. "Without him and his help I wouldn't be half so funny . . ."

On Monday night, without the help and guidance of Ernie, Edie Adams returns to show business. Her ABC special (channel 7 at 7 p.m.) will consist of a lot of music and there will be comedy, too, including some Adams' imitations.

ERNIE KOVACS died in an automobile crash on Jan. 13, leaving a shattered family and a complicated estate. Two months later his widow reported at an ABC studio in Hollywood to tape a comedy sequence with Dick Shawn for Monday's show, and then flew to New York to make the rest of the program.

"It was hard and I had to push myself," Edie said during a rehearsal break. "But I have learned that work is the only answer. It is easy to let grief and a loss engulf you, but you have to get it or it gets you.

"I have done a lot of thinking, and I know that in a circumstance like mine, getting back to work—immersing yourself in work so deeply you can't spare time for anything else—is the best way.

"You must start where you are—you can't look back. And all this takes a special kind of effort."

AFTER TAPING her ABC show, Edie flew to Florida to do some work for a sponsor—the cigar company that sponsored Ernie's programs and which has signed Edie for a new two-year contract to do commercials. She has also been signed to appear in a Bing Crosby TV special and has a motion picture commitment.

Most important, she is up for the starring role in a Broadway show scheduled for next season—such an important and promising musical that she doesn't even want to talk about it lest the part slip away.

"We'll keep right on living in California," she said. "The children like it out there and they wouldn't want to leave the house."

"The House," is a mansion of from 25 to 30 rooms and has been valued as high as $600,000. It not only has the usual Hollywood embellishment of swimming pool, but a turntable for automobiles, so they will be facing out when the driver wants to leave.

★ ★ ★

"IT IS A BIG HOUSE," Miss Adams said. "But we've simplified things—closed up a portion of it—and we all want to stay."

The family consists of Ernie's two daughters by a previous marriage, Betty and Kippei, in their teens, and Mia, Edie's and Ernie's child, now almost 3.

"We're surrounded by our troops—I have my mother, and there's a couple who take care of us and a nurse," continued Edie. "I've talked it over with the older children. I've told them how the only way to handle this is to work. Betty, the oldest, understands this so well that she's now on the school honor role for the first time."

She smiled, a bit shakily, and started back to the piano in the rehearsal hall, looking over her music as she went.

"It's hectic," she concluded, "But that's the way I like it—the busier the better."

EDIE ADAMS IMITATES MARILYN MONROE

DANCER Cyd Charisse guests 8 p.m. today (Sunday) on the "Ed Sullivan Show," channel 2. Other featured artists include bandleader Lionel Hampton, opera singer Franco Corelli, the Kim Sisters, songstress Anita Bryant, comedians Jack Carter and Professor Backwards, choreographer Roland Petit.

TV COWBOYS 'SCARED'

Japanese Crowds Joyfully Mob 'Rawhiders'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Found: Something to scare television's horse opera heroes. It's Japanese crowds.

Clint Eastwood and Eric Fleming, a couple of 6-foot-4 giants have faced just about every kind of hazard in four years of starring in CBSs' "Rawhide." But they hadn't seen anything until they went to Japan recently for a good-will trip at the behest of their Japanese sponsor (a whisky maker!)

"I thought I didn't scare easily," said Clint. "I've appeared at rodeos and on the Dick Clark television show where you get crowds that are pretty wild. But nothing like Japan.

"When you've got 12 girls hanging onto you, and not one of them willing to let go, then you've got a problem."

• • • •

"I GUESS our biggest scare was in the railroad station at Osaka," added Eric. "There were 5,000 people. We had bigger crowds elsewhere, but never so many packed into one enclosed area. For a while I wondered if we would get out alive."

Their arrival at the Tokyo airport brought 8,000 fans—the Japanese are wild over westerns, and have been exposed to "Rawhide" for two years.

"There was a bit of a delay because the police wanted our sponsor to put up a bond for extra police protection charges," said Eric. "At first they didn't even want us to enter the country."

• • • •

THEY MANAGED to hurdle the red tape, though they had to leave their shooting irons in customs. The new, pacifist Japan doesn't approve of anyone, even play-cowboys, toting six-shooters.

The Rawhiders' reception everywhere was clamorous. They received many gifts—everything from dolls to samuri swords and a motor scooter. They were interviewed and photographed endlessly.

"I was surprised at how intelligent the questions were," said Clint. "There were none of the silly questions we get here, like: 'Do you use real bullets?' They wanted to know about our writers and directors; they mentioned names that we had almost forgotten about."

Clint and Eric said they were charmed by Japanese people and customs and would like to return to enjoy the country without the crowds. That doesn't appear likely, what with their television fame and their height.

"I never felt self-conscious about being tall—until I went to Japan," Clint confessed.

• • • •

"RAWHIDE" is also playing in England, Sweden, West Germany, Lebanon, Australia and South America, and the boys would like to visit those countries as well.

"I don't know how much good we can do," said Eric, "but I think such trips can help win some friends for our country. At least maybe we can counteract some of the American tourists you wish would stay home."

They encountered one of the ugly Americans in a Tokyo night club—drunk, loud and insulting. After listening to his noise, Eric called over from his table, "Yankee, go home!"

CLINT Eastwood (left) and Eric Fleming, "Rawhide" stars, found the eastern trail more rugged than the one to the West they TV follow.

Pan and Fan Mail

Why has Hugh Reilly's role been written out of the "Lassie" series for a couple of months, except for the three-parter?

There's been no explanation in the scripts.

Jane Steagall, Garden Grove

CBS officials say there's been no deliberate attempt to write out or write off Reilly, who plays the role of Paul. They say he's just in scripts calling for a father. Father is called for in tonight's script.

• • • •

I've bet my wife $7.50 that Madge Blake, who is the mother on the Joey Bishop series, and Frances Bavier, who is Aunty Bee on the Andy Griffith show, are one and the same woman.

They are both the same woman, aren't they?

Jack Miller, Long Beach

Your addition is wrong, Jack. One and one still make two and, in this case, $7.50 for your wife. They are not the same woman. And you should know better than to argue about a woman with another woman.

• • • •

I have always accepted the TV supplement in your Sunday paper as authentic and factual.

I am referring particularly to a recent article that appeared about Judy Garland's show. As I recall, the article stated that the show had been taped the previous month before a live audience.

I understand now from a Sunday TV supplement in another newspaper that Judy's show took four days to tape and it wasn't before a live audience.

Mrs. Margaret Pappas, Long Beach

Our article stated it took three days to tape. CBS verifies that was correct. Our article said the taping was done before live audiences. CBS verifies. The taping was done a month before the show aired, another fact which CBS verifies. And thank you, Mrs. Pappas, for asking.

• • • •

Could you please tell me why "Adventures in Paradise" went off the air? Didn't it have good ratings?

C. A. Mason, Long Beach

Ratings were just average. Gardner McKay, the show's star, made it clear he wasn't interested in another season's work. ABC found a lot of sponsorship interest when it announced it would put on a Sunday movie to replace "Adventures."

FLIGHT OF JOHN GLENN —Hour-long film prepared by General Dynamics for the NASA is seen at 5:30 p.m. on channel 2. Footage, never before made public, includes films taken inside the Friendship 7 capsule showing Glenn's reaction to the flight, plus activity inside Mercury control at Cape Canaveral and the threat of a loss of the heat shield. Sound includes Glenn's heartbeat and radio conversations with ground teams. Portions are narrated by Glenn, others by Walter Cronkite.

HERE'S EDIE — Dick Shawn and Andre Previn join singer-dancer-mimic-actress Edie Adams in a special half-hour at 7 p.m. on channel 7. Excerpts from her nightclub act include impressions of Helen Kane, Jeanette MacDonald, Shirley Temple, Ruby Keeler and Marilyn Monroe. Her late husband's (Ernie Kovacs) cigar sponsor will pick up the tab. Same company, incidentally, will bring back Sid Caesar in nine monthly half-hours (Tues., 10:30 p.m.) next fall.

FRIENDSHIP 7—Color version of the NASA film is shown at 7:30 p.m. on channel 4. Same video, with only audio narration differing.

OSCAR AWARDS — The 34th annual presentations, live, from Santa Monica, are at 7:30 p.m. on channel 7 (and radio station KABC). Bob Hope emcees, with the 18 "presenters" including Fred Astaire, Joan Crawford, Greer Garson, Rock Hudson, Shirley Jones, Burt Lancaster and Debbie Reynolds. Nominated songs will be sung by Ann-Margret, Gogi Grant, Johnny Williams. (Upcoming awards shows are Emmies May 22 and TV Guide June 24, both NBC.)

Educational Series Topped in Ratings by Talking Horse

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Critics agree the best new children's educational show gets the horse laugh every Sunday in television's rating battle with "Mr. Ed," the talking nag.

But Jack Lescoulie, affable straight man in years past to Jackie Gleason and Dave Garroway, fails to see the humor of it all.

"Educational organizations, church groups and the P-TA cry out for better children's programs," Lescoulie said on a visit to Hollywood.

"When TV does provide them with exactly the kind of show they want these same organizations don't bother to tune it in."

Lescoulie said his show, "1, 2, 3—Go!" is an example of public indifference to an educational, violence-free series dedicated to entertaining young people.

"With a national craving for such a series we should have a tremendous rating," he said, "but 'Mr. Ed' tops us every time."

DESPITE THE FACT that Lescoulie's program is free of shootings, stabbings and other violent forms of death, Jack believes violence has its place on television.

"I think Newton Minow and the Federal Communication Commission are wrong about television violence," he said. "Violence is objectionable only when it is contrived. If you take violent action out of TV, the kids will have a trauma when they visit a farm and see a chicken killed for dinner.

"Youngsters have always been exposed to violence and death. Most nursery rhymes are full of hair-raising escapades."

Lescoulie, who co-stars on the Sunday show with 10-year-old Richard Thomas, hasn't found the switch from sophisticated companionship with Gleason and Garroway to young Thomas as difficult as he thought.

"IT'S LIKE RELIVING my youth," he grinned.

"We try to give viewers, both youngsters and adults, a view of the world through a 10-year-old's eyes. So far we've visited Cape Canaveral, the United States Mint, the Boston Celtics basketball team and a real haunted house.

In today's show (6:30 p.m., channel 4) the pair visit Edwards Air Force Base for a look at the X15 manned rocket plane.

"I accompany the boy in his adventures, and each show has a dream sequence in which Richard envisions himself as taking part in the exciting new worlds that open up to him," Lescoulie said.

Lescoulie began his career immediately after leaving high school. He became an announcer at station KGFJ in Los Angeles.

He hopes to continue next season with "1, 2, 3—Go!" in addition to joining the new Jackie Gleason hour scheduled for the fall.

If he manages to do both, Lescoulie will be one of the few television personalities to appear on both CBS and NBC in the same season.

"I'm looking forward to that," he said.

Everybody loves a WARM BATH and a PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE

NOW YOUR WHOLE FAMILY CAN ENJOY BOTH FOR ONLY A FEW CENTS A DAY!

IMAGINE! a Trained Masseur at your beck and call 24 hours a day! That's what you'll have with a

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

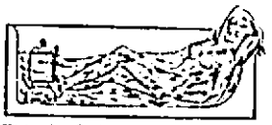

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. The unit starts automatically.

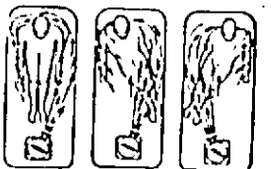

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of your body.

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Many everyday aches and pains may be unnecessary. Hydromassage provides heat and massage at the same time to stimulate local blood circulation. It relaxes and brings temporary relief of minor pains associated with

CLOSE-UP! The traffic dilemma of our modern cities gets a half-hour study at 10:30 p.m. on channel 7, highlighting loss of downtown business, cost of parking lots and tickets, and loss of man hours as motorists sit out a traffic jam. New York's new traffic commissioner, Henry A. Barnes (who helped ease the strain in Baltimore, Denver, Louisville and Flint), explains his methods, including controlling pedestrians with 3-way traffic lights (like Long Beach), and city planner Victor Gruen of L.A. tells why he advocates park-like shopping malls for pedestrians only.

HE'S COMEDIAN

Joey Bishop Changes Role for Fall Series

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Joey Bishop will go back to making people laugh by telling jokes next fall, rather than act in a comedy situation which might fall flat on its face.

On his television show this season, Bishop plays a public relations man. Joey didn't feel at home playing somebody else.

"If I'd known public relations men were so despised, I would never have played one," joked Bishop, casting a glance at his public relations representative.

Bishop admits his show had troubles getting started but says "in the last 10 weeks I was certain it would be renewed."

"This past year we took the show too seriously," he said. "Next year we're going to have fun."

* * * *

JOEY WILL change his television character and play a comic, something he started 23 years ago.

"A comedian is what I've always been," he said. "There's something about being what you really are, it's easier."

Bishop descripes his new video role as "the life of a television comedian, what he does for a living."

Referring to his public relations man role as being "in a suit of armor," Bishop says playing a comic will be "like falling off a log."

"I can dip into 23 years of comedy," he said. "I couldn't do that before."

* * * *

THIS SEASON, Joey had a make-believe family with him on the show. He'll go it alone as the comedian.

"We'll have Milton Berle on our first show," said Joey. "And there are a lot of things we can do. There can be stories which have the comic working with his writers, or preparing for a show."

On his upcoming Wednesday show (channel 4 at 8:30 p.m.) Joey has a reunion with two partners from the old "Bishop Brothers" nightclub act. When Joey, Mel Farber and Morris Spector, the unrelated "Bishop Brothers" reunite, it'll be the first time they've teamed up since 1939.

Adding a touch to the make-believe family reunion, will be Joey's real brother, Morris Gottlieb, who's not even an actor.

"He's in lady's pocketbooks, sells handbags," Joey said. "He'll play a mandolin and do an imitation tap dance with his teeth on the show."

THE BISHOP BROTHERS (from left) Morris Spector, Mel Farber and Joey Bishop, are reunited on "The Joey Bishop Show" at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4. It's the first reunion for the unrelated pair since 1939.

Butler Series

In the wake of NBC-TV's success with "Hazel," a series about a maid, ABC-TV has announced the start next season of a half-hour comedy about a butler, "Our Man Higgins." Stanley Holloway, the English comedian who played Professor Higgins in the American hit, "My Fair Lady," will have the lead.

Fairbanks Claims Public Accepts 'TV Trash'

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—"I don't believe the public is always right—I think it is mistaken in its judgments on occasion."

Saying this, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., added:

"Consider the matter of TV which has added a new dimension to the lives of people. The public accepts the trash just as quickly as the good things. So if TV is not all it should be or could be, the public is at least partially responsible."

DOUG FAIRBANKS JR.

The handsome, urbane actor-businessman munched a hamburger, waited for a glass of buttermilk that never came and spoke of the mission that brought him to Dallas.

He is a participant in more than 20 businesses in the United States and Europe, divides much of his time between New York and London and has little time to think of acting.

"But the people of the 'Route 66' show sent me the script of a show and I found it so clever and amusing that I decided to fly to Dallas from New York and take a part in it. I'm enjoying it.

"It was a bit different when I spent several years in TV. I produced 160 short dramas and found that TV has a voracious appetite and chews up energy and efforts. People burn themselves out."

(The "Route 66" program with Fairbanks airs 8:30 p.m. Friday on channel 2.)

What about TV and the movies?

"TV HAS BEEN a challenge to films and it is probably all to the good. There are fewer pictures, but better. Pictures are terribly expensive to make and the cost of distribution has increased greatly, too. You remember the first 'Mutiny on the Bounty' with Charles Laughton? That cost about a million dollars. The cost of the one they made now is around 19 million.

"You hear a lot about cheaper movie making abroad. Well, it is cheaper to make a movie in Spain, but it is just as expensive to make one in England as in the United States and it's almost as expensive in Italy."

What does Fairbanks think about adult pictures?

"Why not?" he asks. "Why not adult movies the same as adult literature? But the movie industry should impose on itself the basic elements of good taste. I am for self-imposed censorship, guided by good taste.

AT 52, THE FORMER STAR of both swashbuckling adventure and drawing room films is as trim as ever, the result of a life of vigorous exercise and sane eating habits.

Do young men get enough exercise these days?

"Probably not," Fairbanks said mildly. "We have a tendency these days to make life as easy as possible, and there is no counterbalance of trying to make it tougher. We become spectators of sport rather than participants.

Fairbanks, who won the Silver Star for combat in the second World War added:

"It is not generally known, perhaps, but in World War II our troops had a greater incidence of minor diseases than all our allies and enemies put together. The American serviceman had a comparatively weak resistance to disease and I am afraid the trend continues. We have tremendous morale but we need more physical toughness. We are tending to become hothouse flowers."

SPECIAL

AMERICAN LANDSCAPE —Folk music and Americana are depicted in singing, dancing, story-telling, humor, art and poetry during a special color hour in Perry Como's regular slot at 9 p.m. on channel 4. Burgess Meredith is host and narrator, with Phil Harris, Chuck Connors, Barbara Cook, Peter Palmer and MacKinley Kantor—plus the Peter Gennaro dancers, Ray Charles singers and Mitchel Ayres orchestra.

OBJECTIVE: SURVIVAL—Special half-hour report on what can be done to increase chances for surviving a massive nuclear attack is at 9 p.m. on channel 11. Alexander Scourby is host, with Rep. Chet Holifield a guest.

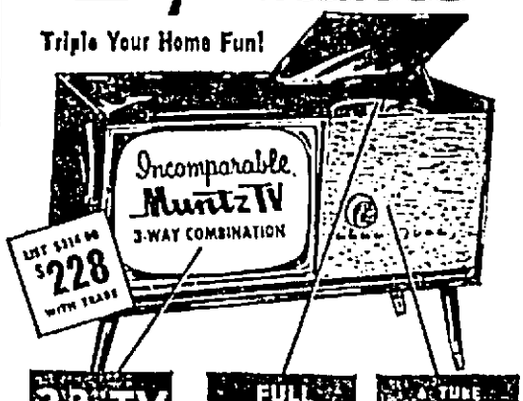

CIRCLE THEATRE—Modern developments in cancer therapy (surgery, radiation, nuclear medicine, chemotherapy and virology) are dramatized through the story of an assistant resident surgeon in a cancer research hospital. Three real-life cancer experts guest at intervals in the dramatic development at 10 p.m. on channel 2.

SONGSTRESS Anita Gordon guests on "The Bob Newhart Show" at 10 p.m. Wednesday, channel 4.

A Star Is a Star Is a Star—Or Is He?

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Purposely or not, television has wrecked the movies' cherished star system, just as it has raised havoc with other filmland sacred cows.

Thanks to TV the word "star" in reference to a performer has become downright ludicrous.

In the salad days of flickers a star meant Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Rudolph Valentino. Even a score of years ago Clark Gable, Bette Davis, Gary Cooper were synonymous with stardom.

Once an actor reached that rarified eminence—and it took years—he resented an untried newcomer being billed on the same screen as a star.

But everybody is a star on television—like an army with no privates, captains or colonels. Just generals.

Take "The Perry Como Show." The TV blurb bills his program something like this:

"THE PERRY COMO SHOW, starring Perry Como. Co-starring Cosmo Carter, Gladys Glutz. Also starring Phoebe Phipps and the Tanglefoot dancers. With special guest star Maurice Mandlebaum."

The situation is even worse on dramatic "specials" where everyone but the assistant makeup man is a star.

Consider the "stars" to be seen weekly in their own series. For instance, John Ashley and Brian Kelly, a couple of clean-cut youngsters who star in "Straightaway." When Gloria Swanson appeared with them a few weeks back, it seemed ridiculous for them to get star billing while Gloria (superstar before they were born) had to settle for the "special guest" category.

Television moguls deny the existence of a starless series.

ONE OF THE TOP five shows, "Bonanza," boasts four regular stars, Lorne Greene, Pernell Roberts, Dan Blocker and Mike Landon—all of whom were unknown two years ago.

In the beginning movies fell for TV's ersatz stars.

They put Liberace, George Gobel and other video regulars on the big screen and watched them lie there like gaffed salmon.

Movie audiences did not desert Marilyn Monroe, Frank Sinatra and Elizabeth Taylor for the new crop of stars. Gradually thick-headed moviemakers got the message: "TV stars ain't movie stars."

Then they decided to steal a page from the upstart medium and bill all picture players as stars.

Thus, movie screens are filled with co-stars, also stars and special guest stars. Those stars accepting bit parts (a forbidden term) or supporting roles (never, never!) are now "cameo stars."

If you've ever been caught in a mob scene by a TV camera don't be ashamed to tell your grandchildren you once were a television star. There are hundreds of characters walking around Hollywood making the same claim—and with less time on the air than you have.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

RAYMOND BURR, in his role as Perry Mason, attempts to prevent Kaye Elhardt from leaving a bungalow where a man has been murdered. The action takes place on "Perry Mason" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, channel 2. Miss Elhardt portrays the role of a mother whose baby is abandoned.

'Crime' Series Successful

good job.

"The Department needs more physical facilities.

"It needs more skilled professional help such as psychiatrists. It does not have enough skilled professional help and its officials admit this."

As for the television program itself, Roberts frankly admits it could be "a lot more successful."

• • • •

A LOT MORE successful, that is, from the number of viewers that watch it. It hasn't set any rating records.

As for its accomplishments among those viewers who do witch it, Roberts is convinced:

"It sure as hell has deglamourized crime.

"It's the greatest argument against taking the law into your own hands that I've ever seen."

If you've seen one of the programs, heard just one of the prisoners bare the misery of his soul, you can't argue with Roberts' convictions.

You can see for yourself, hear for yourself and realize for yourself that he's right.

And if the realization did no more than keep just one man from making the mistake that 42 prisoners did in similar situations, then the program—rating surveys to the contrary—is a success.

SPECIAL

ZANE GREY THEATRE—Return premiere. Ralph Bellamy hosts selected repeats of the 1956-61 series, at 9:30 p.m. on channel 2. Jack Lemmon stars in opener as gunman who meets opposition from an unexpected source when he tries to take over a peaceful town. Nan Leslie and Frank Ferguson are featured.

CBS REPORTS—First in a 2-part study of the American tax system is aired at 10 p.m. on channel 2. Harry Reasoner is host as tonight's half hour interviews IRS commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin, shows returns being audited and previews the new data processing system. Next week's report, too late to be helpful, is subtitled "Loopholes of '62", but there won't be many.

SYLVESTER (left) and Harry Wiere, stars of the "Oh, Those Bells!" Thursday series, woefully remind taxpayers of the April 16 income tax deadline.

PERSONALITY PARADE

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N. Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. How does Robert McNamara, the present Secretary of Defense, rank in Washington?—J. Bray, Marion, Iowa.
A. Ace-high. In one year on the job, he has made more basic improvements in the nation's military organization than any other Defense Secretary of recent years. Currently, he is determined to improve the nation's reserve forces, most probably by streamlining them.

Q. Can you tell me if Gina Lollobrigida and her husband, who were becoming Canadian citizens a year or so ago, are still living in Toronto?—L. T., Detroit, Mich.
A. No, they've pulled out of Canada, have returned to Rome for good.

Q. Is it true that Bing Crosby is producing a series of 15 record albums to be called "Bing's Hollywood Story"?—David Larrimore, Chicago, Ill.
A. Decca is turning out the series. It will contain 189 songs from 40 Crosby motion pictures.

Q. Will the U.S. Navy permit a Negro to command any of its ships?—V. Bostic, Birmingham, Ala.
A. Negroes have commanded patrol type boats. The USS Falgout, a destroyer escort, is currently commanded by Lt. Commander Samuel L. Gravely, 39, a Negro.

Q. Who is the authority for the statement that it cost the late Clark Gable $500,000 to divorce his second wife, Ria Franklin Prentiss Lucas Langham of Houston?—Manny Franklin, Miami Beach, Fla.
A. According to Charles Samuels, author of The King, a biography of Gable, the actor asked Carole Lombard, his third wife, after they were married in Kingman, Ariz., if she had any money in her purse. He had just given the preacher $100, claimed it was all the money he had in the world. "What happened to the rest of your loot?" Lombard asked. "I gave it all to Ria," Gable confessed. "More than a half a million." Carole took her husband in her arms. "You silly son of a ---," she cried ecstatically. "To think you paid half a million bucks for me."

Q. I have been told that Tito of Yugoslavia and Nasser of Egypt are close friends. Is this true?—J. C., Washington, D.C.
A. Tito has made a number of trips to Cairo to see Nasser, and the two men appear to get on well with each other.

Q. Can you tell me how much Chubby Checker will earn from the Twist this year?—Donald Richards, Los Angeles, Calif.
A. Checker, 20—real name Ernest Evans—will earn approximately $200,000 this year, according to his court-appointed guardian.

Q. Who is considered the leading dress-designer in Paris?—Sandra Bryan, New York, N.Y.
A. Cristobal Balenciaga, an unmarried, publicity-shy Spaniard, is generally considered pre-eminent.

Q. What's happened to Brigitte Bardot's husband, Jacques Charrier?—Lois H., Camden, Ark.
A. Jacques Charrier, 26, was recently recalled to complete his army service but is in a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. He was temporarily discharged from the French army in 1959 after three weeks in a psychiatric ward.

Q. Why do we land our astronauts in the ocean, and why do the Russians land theirs on land?—James Nebel, Washington, D.C.
A. We believe it is safer. The Russians apparently eject their astronauts from their space capsules and let them parachute to earth.

Q. I understand that Danny Thomas could have had a long term contract at MGM years ago if he had agreed to a nose-job. Is this true or publicity?—Mrs. J. Sherman, Springfield, Ohio.
A. True. According to Thomas, he refused to let plastic surgeons alter his nose, thereby lost the contract.

Q. Ingemar Johansson's secretary and traveling companion—a beautiful babe named Birgit Lundgren—haven't she and Ingemar been secretly wed since 1954? —B. Olson, Chicago, Ill.
A. No, they've been friendly since 1954, plan to marry later this year.

Q. Ford is turning out a new small car, the Cardinal, to compete with the Volkswagen. Will it be made in America? When will it come out? How much?—T. R., Lansing, Mich.
A. The Cardinal will be manufactured domestically with a German-imported engine. It will be shown this fall, will probably sell for around $1750.

On Parade

How does President Kennedy spend his week-ends? On page 6, PARADE Washington correspondent Fred Blumenthal gives you a rare portrait of the President working and relaxing in the week-end White House at Glen Ora.

In Blumenthal's account, you'll find answers to such questions as:

How does a man whose job never ends recharge his batteries?

What bedtime stories does the President tell Caroline?

What does the President eat for breakfast? What does he like best about his job?

What explains his phenomenal capacity for work?

How quickly can he contact other government leaders in an emergency?

The report also includes rare photos of the President at his Virginia hideaway. Picture above shows PARADE's reporter enjoying a chat with Mr. Kennedy outside the house.

Poets, be patient! Since announcing its poetry contest, PARADE has been swamped with more than 100,000 entries of all kinds. Judges will announce the winner soon.

Soup'n sandwich meals

Bean with Bacon Soup is a soup to satisfy a good healthy appetite. It's a husky purée of tender pea beans, smoky with the flavor of fine lean bacon. Have it with a hamburger or any sandwich for a good hot meal.

Ready in 4 minutes... wholesome, nourishing, good!

These hearty soups taste so good you'll want them again and again. Each one makes any sandwich a good, hot nourishing meal. Put them on your shopping list. Pick them up next time you market. Serve these 3 sturdy soups with your soup 'n sandwich meals. You'll enjoy them all.

Like all Campbell's Soups, they're hot and ready in just 4 minutes. Ready to make a good sandwich taste better still. Ready to make a simple sandwich a better-balanced meal. Ready to make daily pleasure of the rule: Every time you have a sandwich have some good hot Campbell's Soup.

Have you had your Campbell's Soup today?

(M'm! M'm! Good!)

Beef Noodle Soup is a hearty soup, with tender pieces of fine lean beef in it. The noodles are golden—made with enriched wheat flour, country eggs. Makes a cheese sandwich—or any sandwich—a satisfying meal.

Chicken Gumbo Soup is a Deep South favorite, with chicken, okra, tomatoes, and other green and yellow vegetables in its rich chicken broth. Have it with a meat sandwich—or any sandwich—to enjoy a good hot meal.

Among world's best legs are those of West German women. Group above relaxes at Soviet Memorial, W. Berlin.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BONN. West German women have become the world's most leg-conscious. The average woman here uses 17 pairs of hose per year, buys many of them from street slot machines now almost as numerous as cigarette automats.

TOKYO. To keep their population at an even 94,000,000, the Japanese are going all-out on promoting birth-control information. Abortion has also been legalized in Japan. Average cost for same: $4.

ATHENS. The Greek government privately told Archbishop Jakovos, Primate of all Greece, to resign his position a few weeks ago, or the government would legislate him out of office. Reason for the government's strong stand: Shocking allegations concerning the archbishop's private life. Jakovos resigned and has been replaced by Chrysostomos, former Bishop of Cavala.

NEW YORK. To put housewives in the right psychological mood to buy more goods, supermarkets are currently experimenting with "chemically created sales scent." The idea is to entice customers to particular shelves. The scent comes in various odors--chocolate, banana, fresh bread, tobacco--and is blended to relax and lure the customers. "After all," says one scent manufacturer, "women have been using perfume for years to lure men. Now we're using it to lure them to our merchandise."

bringing up baby®
Hints collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

in answer to your questions !!!!!!! ???????.

"Is there really a Mrs. Gerber?" asks many a mother. Well, I'm happy to report that I'm a very much alive, proud mother of five and a grandmother, too. And down to the last one of us we think babies are the very nicest things that can happen to people.

Among the nicest things that can happen to babies are pleasant mealtimes. The needed ingredients? A relaxed and smiling mother... food with a flair for flavor. Excellent example of exceptionally flavorsome dishes: Gerber Strained and Junior High Meat Dinners. These baby-style casseroles are extra savory because they have 3 times as much meat as other baby food dinners. Add to this extra meat the wonderful goodness of garden vegetables and you have as tasty a main course as ever made a baby love a meal.

What about toys? Toys play a big part in the life of babies. Aside from the amusement they provide, toys help develop manual dexterity, co-ordination and imagination. Hence, the choice of toys is worthy of consideration.

- Toys should be chosen according to your baby's age and ability to use his hands. Most toys bear age labels to help you decide. And remember, play value counts more than price.
- Because toys are cuddled, loved and chewed they should be washable, free of sharp edges, too large to swallow. (Gerber has a line of safe, tested toys, like the Circus Seal illustrated. Look for them at your favorite toy counter.)

How do you keep a toddler interested in his food? There are several things you can do to spur an appetite. Choose foods with appealing colors. Rotate colors and kinds of food. Offer plentiful variety. Try to serve a favorite at each meal. All possible with Gerber Junior Foods. Colors are ever so appetizing. Flavors sing! (Because Gerber Junior Foods are seasoned with a just-right touch for toddlers.) Over 40 varieties and each one is specially processed for the utmost protection of nutrients.

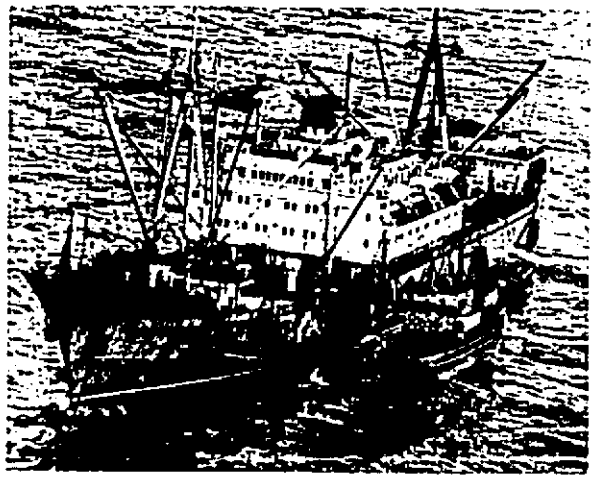

Super supper suggestions: Gerber Junior Creamed Cottage Cheese with Pineapple or Cereal, Egg Yolks and Bacon. Both nourishing and scrumptious.

Basket bulletin. A handle-basket makes an ideal catch-and-carry-all for a toddler's small toys. You can teach him to put his possessions in it and promote good "pick-up" habits. Easy to tote from room to room.

Gerber BABY FOODS
FREMONT, MICHIGAN

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—cereals, strained and junior—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:
"Babies are our business... our only business!"®

Russian vessels fishing off Cape Cod are among thousands of foreign ships and aircraft under NORAD's watchful eye.

COLORADO SPRINGS. Unknown to most of us, the nation girds for action many times a day. North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) keeps uninterrupted watch on 200,000 planes in our airspace plus satellites in space and ships at sea, even follows aircraft high over Siberia. Daily it spots a handful of "suspicious" planes. Fighters then are sent aloft to identify them, usually learn they are craft whose pilots are lost or whose radios have broken down. On a typical day recently, the NORAD duty officer's report looked like this:

Unknown aircraft tracked	18
Identified without tactical action	8
Total number of scrambles	10
Scrambles recalled prior to intercept	2
Actual interceptions	8
Siberian aircraft tracked	4
Satellites in orbit	US 34 USSR 1
Pieces of junk (burned-out rocket stages) in orbit	US 86 USSR 2
Total	US 120 USSR 3

In season, NORAD also has spotted as many as 88 Soviet fishing trawlers around the Aleutians and North Atlantic. It also watches subs, but keeps the totals classified.

LONDON. President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have a private telephone line from the White House to 10 Downing Street. Because there's a five-hour time difference between London and Washington, President Kennedy rarely phones after 7:00 p.m. which is midnight in London. All conversations over the line are "scrambled" so that they cannot be meaningfully tapped by enemy intelligence agents.

PARIS. Last year's output of champagne, a total of 54,000,000 bottles, was the greatest in French history. As always, Great Britain was the largest importer of French champagne, taking 4,000,000 bottles. The U.S. was the second largest importer, taking 2,500,000 bottles.

Presidential retreat at Glen Ora, near Middleburg, Va.

A WORKING WEEK-END WITH THE PRESIDENT

How he relaxes under pressure — A close-up by Fred Blumenthal

MIDDLEBURG, VA.

WHEN PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY steps out of U.S. Army helicopter No. 1 onto the front lawn of his Glen Ora retreat here, he carries under his arm a highly-polished but well-worn black alligator briefcase.

A quick greeting to his family—who arrived earlier—and the President hurries upstairs to shed his business suit and don a favorite brown tweed sport coat and flannel slacks.

It's Saturday afternoon and the Presidential week-end has begun.

The briefcase and the sport coat are the twin symbols of President Kennedy's week-end—whether it is spent here, at Hyannis Port, Mass., or at Palm Beach, Fla. The briefcase contains the problems of the nation, a burden he can never leave behind even for a moment. The sport coat stands for his "change of pace" which he considers vital to his spirit and health.

How does the President stand up to his pressures? How does a man, at front and center of the world stage, with the spotlight full upon him, still preserve a little of his own personal life? How does he relax and keep both his health and a balanced mental outlook?

What does a week-end do for a President?

To learn the answers to these important questions—answers which may have meaning to all Americans—I recently paid a visit to the First Family on a week-end at Glen Ora.

A rambling, two-story, vintage home of stone and pale yellow stucco, set in 400 wooded acres in the rolling Virginia hunt country, Glen Ora is the most secluded of the Presidential week-end retreats. When you come upon it by helicopter, it seems to sprawl, but inside it is surprisingly small, snug and intimate. There are only three family rooms on the first floor—living room, dining room, kitchen—and the living room is not much larger than the average family's. The President leases the estate out of his own pocket.

Glen Ora is the epitome of privacy, where the First Family can be alone with only relatives and close friends. Not a doctor, not an aide, not even his personal secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, accompanies the President here except by specific request. Newsmen cover arrivals and departures from Glen Ora with binoculars from two miles away. Even Secret Service agents—because there are no crowds, no strangers, and few visitors, all well-known in advance—keep at a comfortable distance.

The President has neither study nor office at Glen Ora. With two Princess-type telephones, a portable dictating machine, and the ubiquitous briefcase, he works in the living room and his bedroom. And he works more than half the waking hours during which other week-ending Americans are relaxing.

I sat with the President in his lime-walled living room and discussed his theory of change of pace. "Is this really relaxing?" the conversation began, for the whole atmosphere was one of action. The marble coffee table was piled with papers brought by his military aide, Maj. Gen. C. V. Clifton (see cover). The week-end reading matter lay nearby. The telephone was at his elbow. Moments before, he had called to leave a message for Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The President grinned.

"The day before my inauguration," he said, "President Eisenhower told me, 'You'll find that no easy problems ever come to the President of the United States. If they are easy to solve, somebody else has solved them.' I found that hard to believe, but now I know it is true. If you have a good staff—and I believe I have—I get only the difficult problems. It has taken me a year to understand that fully. To paraphrase the old saying, 'Good news is no news.' So the kind of news a President usually gets is bad.

"But it is important that there is a lot of good news, too, which does not immediately cross the President's desk. One must remember to keep a balance, to maintain a broad perspective and to refuse to be Sunday visitor, Major Gen. C. V. Clifton arrives in Presidential helicopter No. 1 with important documents.

KENNEDY
continued

What duties give the President most pleasure?

overwhelmed by bad news. President Eisenhower was certainly right."

What is the President's key to relaxing?

It's the change of pace which he most enjoys on week-ends. The President can't leave the duties of the White House behind him. But in a different setting, with different activities at hand and with events taken at a different pace, his burdens don't seem as heavy as in Washington.

Many Presidents have found the ceremonial functions of the office irksome. But not Mr. Kennedy.

"There is good reason for state ceremonial," he said emphatically. "On the surface, it may appear as tedious pomp and circumstance but I don't look at it that way. It has a great significance for people both at home and abroad. For example, I believe it is important to greet in person not only heads of state, but other visitors from abroad—a group of teachers, let's say. State dinners can be stiff and formal, or they can be gracious and something not to shy away from but to look forward to by both the host and the guests. Mrs. Kennedy and I believe that light-hearted toasts, good humor and interesting entertainment can make state occasions as enjoyable as any other good party."

Stuffing JFK's briefcase are his personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln and special assistant McGeorge Bundy.

He Liked Pinning Medals

What duties give him the most pleasure?

There are many pleasant aspects of the Presidential role. But one which gave him the biggest lift was pinning medals on the astronauts. This was a heart-warming ceremony for a young President. He commented, "Like every other American I'm filled with admiration for these men. I was very proud to act for all Americans in paying them tribute."

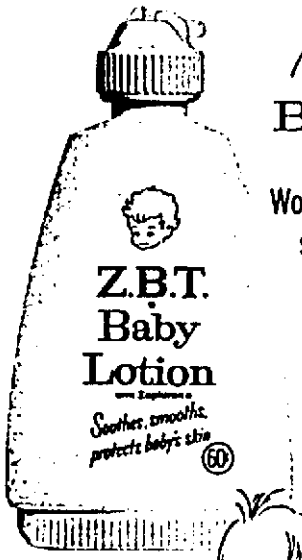

In his change of pace and break of routine at Glen Ora, there is a definite pattern, as there is at the other week-end White Houses. Time is set aside for homework, for church, for games, strolls, sailing or picnicking—even for bedtime stories for Caroline. These are not read but invented by the President as his daughter, in pajamas, sits on his knee.

ARROW

THE MYSTERIOUS BLACK BAG

To stay in the immediate vicinity of the President's person at all times . . .

Five U.S. Army Warrant Officers, members of the White House Army Signal Agency, have a unique assignment. They are entrusted with a large leather pouch, with a double lock. This pouch contains all the super-secret messages and codes to put the nation's key emergency plans into effect. These are the plans which only the President can initiate.

They are not plans for declaring war. They are plans to meet any military challenge to the security of the United States and its allies. The pouch contains the coded key to unleash our retaliatory forces, if we are attacked.

One of these men is constantly in the close vicinity of the President where he works or relaxes, or sleeps at night. When he sails in the family yacht, one of the men is aboard. When he goes in a helicopter, the man rides with the Secret Service. They wear civilian clothes, and are as unobtrusive as possible, but still immediately on hand.

The pouch's contents are probably the free world's most vital documents. Their safety, like that of the President and his family, is entrusted to the Secret Service. And how does the President value that protection? The President told PARADE, in answer to a question, "I have no fears about the safety of myself or my family—or the pouch."

Busy telephone links President with world. He often phones White House staff on Sundays. Aides keep him up on news events.

How does he do it? The President eats well, works hard—and has a secret

A typical bedtime story is woven around Caroline's Welsh terrier Charlie and Caroline's imaginary pet, a big brown bear named Bruin. The President related it to his wide-eyed daughter this way:

"I heard Bruin and Charlie having a chat the other day. Bruin was saying that Charlie must have a soft time living in the White House and Glen Ora, and Charlie was quite angry with Bruin. He said, 'You don't know what you're talking about. I've got a real tough job here. I've acres of ground to patrol. I've got to keep the ducks and the squirrels at the White House in line. I've got to guard Caroline.'"

To Caroline's joy, the President continued the narrative, playing first the part of the dog and then of the bear until it was bedtime.

No matter what the pressure, Caroline and John Jr. never are neglected on a Presidential week-end. Caroline doesn't know exactly what her daddy's job is, but she does know that he is very busy during the week. But on Sunday morning, after an early breakfast, she joins the President in his bedroom. Nibbling a piece of his unbuttered toast, she gives him his first briefing of the day—on her own activities and those of her horse Macaroni, Charlie and Bruin. Both the President and Caroline take this briefing very seriously.

Caroline's Weather Eye

Caroline is something of a weather expert. She likes picnics and boating. If her weather eye tells her boats and picnics are out, then she invariably has some alternate proposal up her sleeve. A typical Caroline suggestion: some of her friends for lunch followed by cartoon movies, with Daddy and Mummy greeting the guests.

Most week-end afternoons at Glen Ora, the President and his wife and daughter go for a short ramble in the woods. They are alone as a family. If work is not too demanding the President, who likes to drive, may go barreling around the estate in a beat-up station wagon. Twice in recent weeks he was stuck in the mud and had to be pulled out by the Secret Service.

For guests at Glen Ora, the rule is every man for himself from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Guests may walk, talk, swim, ride, read, watch TV or take a nap.

For the President, hours from 4 to 7 are a back-to-work period. Between waking at 7 a.m. and church at 11 or noon, he not only will have been immersed in state papers—three-page, single-spaced memos from each cabinet officer, special intelligence reports, and perhaps a letter from a foreign chief of state—but will have digested the meat of at least six newspapers.

He does not stop at the front page. He delves at once into the editorials, chuckles or bristles over the cartoons, keeps abreast of the columnists and sports-writers, and reads the book reviews. He also reads PARADE.

His week-end reading may in addition include texts of speeches by Democrats and Republicans which he wants to read in full, magazine articles which have caught his interest, private letters that have backlogged, and books.

His favorite light reading is the thrillers written by British newsman-author Ian Fleming. The President, who reads all the top-secret real-life dramas of the Central Intelligence Agency, enjoys nothing more than the adventures of Fleming's fictional hero, British agent James Bond. Bond always wins.

The President shaves in his tub "so I don't have to think about it the rest of the day." He makes maximum use of the telephone. There are four lines from the White House to Glen Ora, one always kept free for the President. At a moment's notice he can call any or all the key men involved in national security, including commanders of all U.S. major military commands throughout the world. He has a direct line to several world leaders.

President and Caroline head back to White House. He tells her stories while traveling, later quizzes her for facts.

Early in the day, he makes a quick call to Press Secretary Pierre Salinger; another to personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln. He tries to wrap up his telephoning before church, so that aides and cabinet officers can be at ease with their families. "Everyone needs some freedom on a Sunday afternoon," he says.

He also makes time to watch television. His preference: Sunday afternoon public affairs programs, where he can see how his own team and the Republicans are doing. Recently he made a point of watching his friend conductor Leonard Bernstein presenting a symphony concert in Japan. Both the President and the First Lady love music of all kinds—classical, pop, folk.

Needles for Dinner

At dinner, after he has kissed the children good-night, the President really relaxes. He loves "talking dinners"—where a small, intimate group can sit around the massive dining table and discuss issues of the day and indulge in gentle ribbing. Sister-in-law Ethel Kennedy, wife of the Attorney General, and a frequent Glen Ora guest, is the "needle" expert in the inner circle.

Among the Kennedys it's always open season on family fashions and foibles from haircuts to waistlines. The President is hard to tease about his waistline. He maintains a constant 174 pounds, which he considers his best working weight. He eats heartily. A typical breakfast consists of fruit juice, cereal with cream, scrambled eggs and bacon, a glass of milk and tea or coffee, and dry toast.

He loves soup—all kinds of soup. Whenever he travels, there's an ample supply. Tea, dry toast and soup are his snacks. He is not an icebox raider.

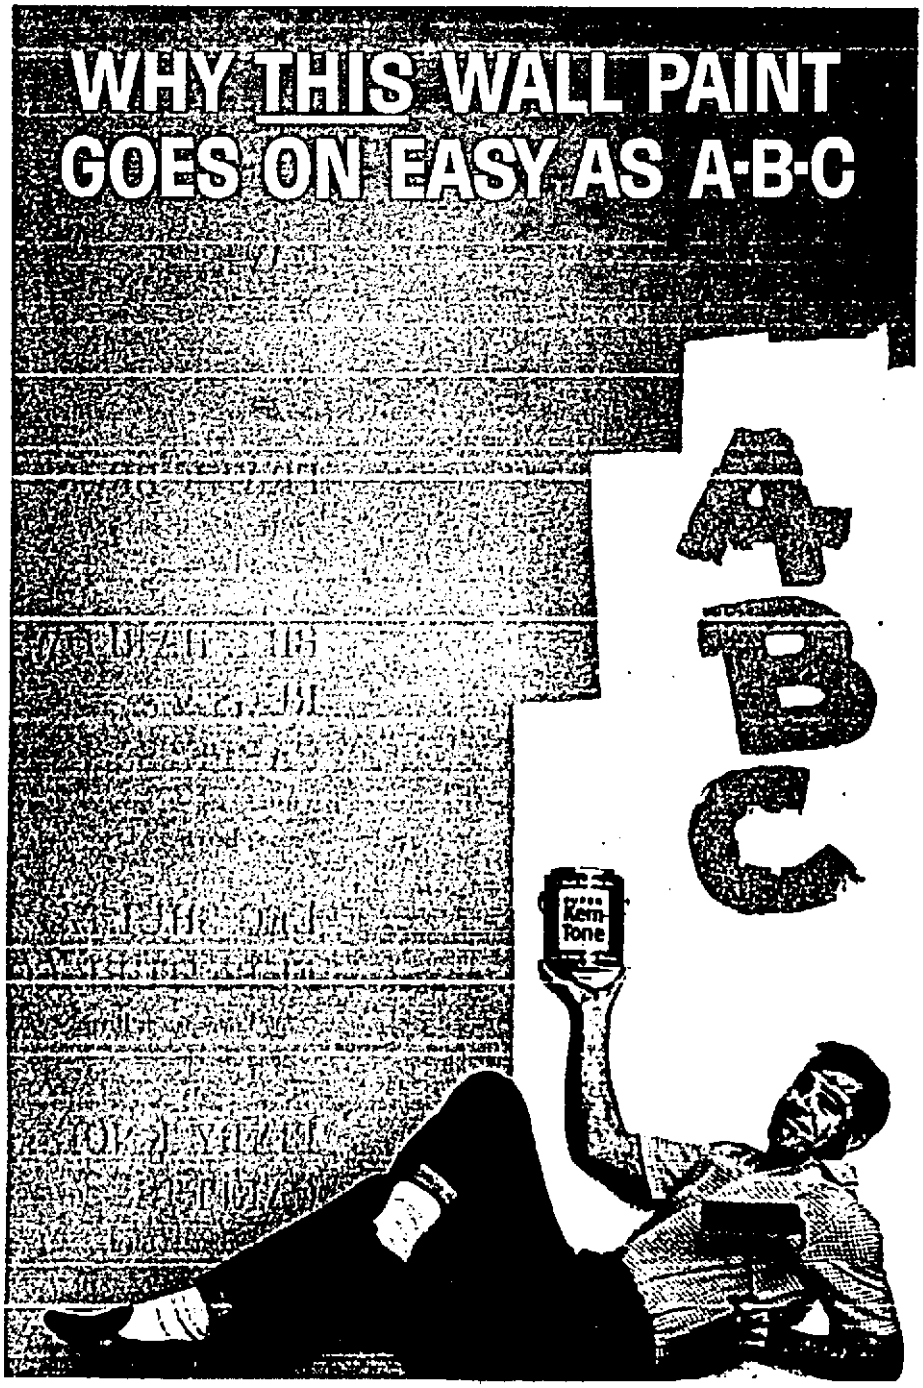

Another source of his phenomenal work capacity is his ability to take a quick half-hour nap to "recharge my batteries." He wakes up alert.

One thing that astonishes everyone close to the President is the amount of reading he can accomplish, not only on White House workdays, but on week-ends and even in a helicopter. He can read—and absorb—more than 1,000 words a minute.

Since this seemed a key to his ability to soak up work, I asked the President how he did it.

"You know," said the President, "no one ever asked me that before. The answer is simple. When I was in Congress, I took a $100 course in speed reading at a school in Baltimore. It's the best money I ever spent." ■

MY FAVORITE JOKES by MARK RUSSELL

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mark Russell, born in Buffalo, N.Y., 30 years ago, started out in show business by playing the piano at Polish weddings, some of which lasted for days. In 1953, after a year at the University of Miami where he majored in citrus fruit, Russell joined the Marines and was sent to Japan. "I was a latter-day Marine," he explains. "Peace broke out right before I went in." Following his military service, Russell decided to become a comic and took his first jobs around Washington, D.C., where he now lives with his wife and two-year-old daughter. He leans to politics in his comedy and usually introduces himself as "the official representative of Democrats for Goldwater." He has appeared in many of the nation's major supper clubs where he gives out with jokes like these:

Some of these new book titles amuse me. There's one called I Prayed Myself Thin . . . I'm going to write a sequel entitled, I Blasphemed Myself Fat. After that I'm going to concentrate on one which I know will outsell every best-seller in the world —Lady Chatterley's Tropic of Cancer.

Last year I played at the Inaugural Ball, you know. Originally there were supposed to be three balls that night; because so many people wanted to entertain, this number mushroomed to seven, eight, nine. By the time they got finished there was a total of 31 Inaugural Balls for President Kennedy. I played at the ball held in the Trailways Bus Terminal . . . But the really big ball, of course, was the one where President and Mrs. Kennedy appeared, the official National Barn Dance . . . The big band struck up "Yankee Doodle." Then Vice President Lyndon Johnson walked in, and the band played "Deep in the Heart of Texas." And when finally Frank Sinatra walked in, they played "Hail to the Chief."

You're heard about all the new and wonderful toys they have for children these days. For example, they have an exact replica of a United States Embassy. You wind it up and it gets stoned.

Sign outside a psychiatrist's office. NO WAITING . . . TWO COUCHES.

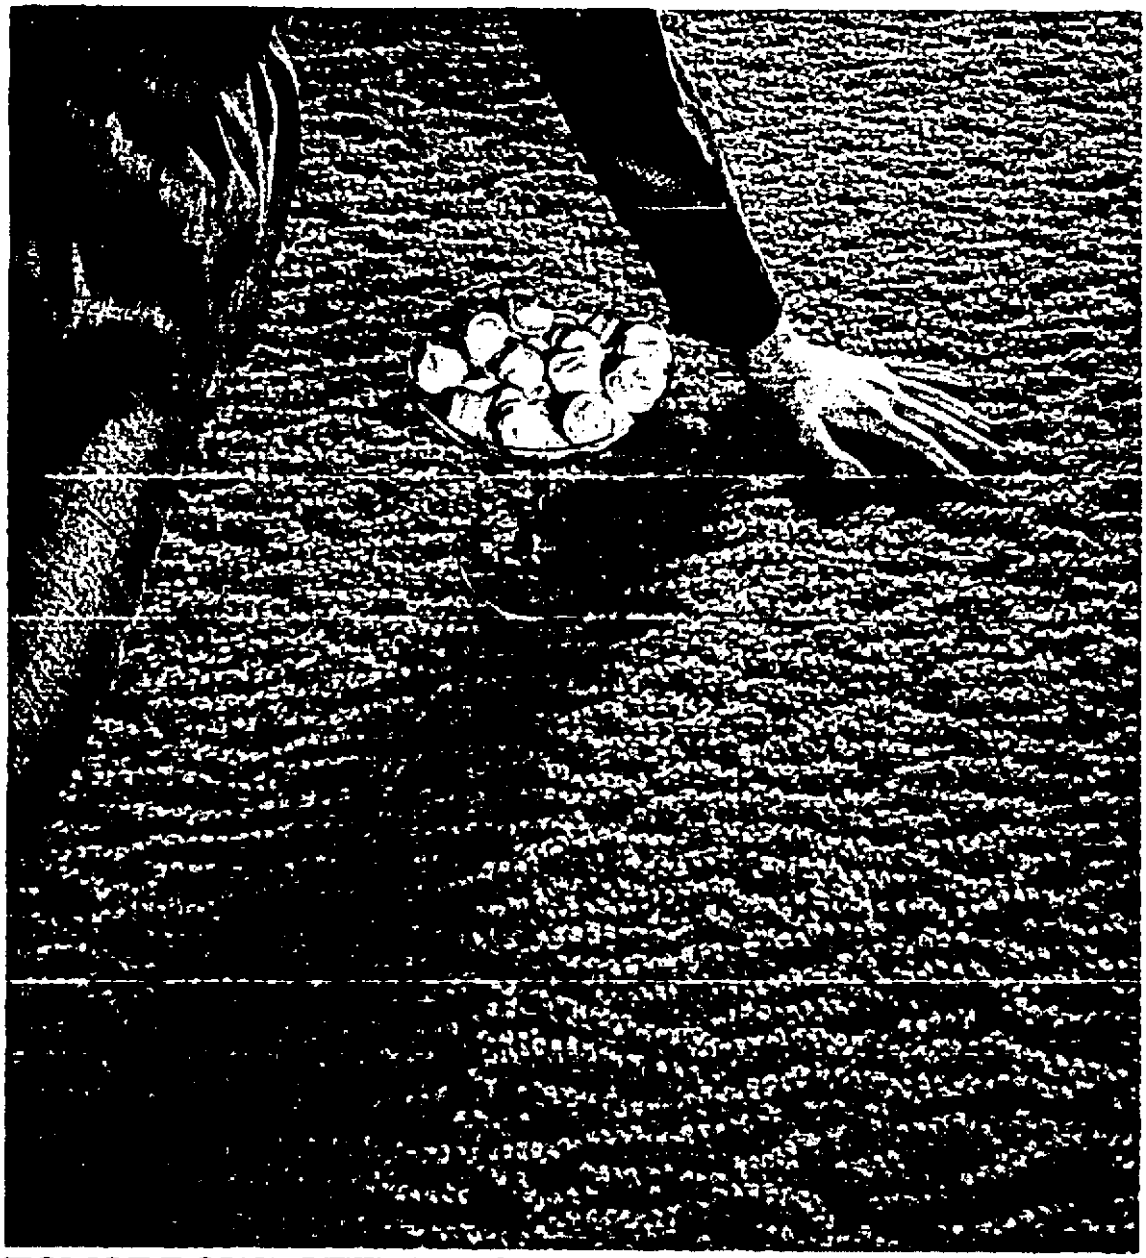

This happened in a church. A young pastor came running out one afternoon, dashed into the rectory. He was flushed with excitement. To the veteran pastor in charge, he said, "You won't believe this. I know you won't believe this, but the Good Lord is sitting in our very church right now."

The old pastor smiled tolerantly. "You've been working too hard," he said. "You need a rest."

The young assistant pressed on. "No, sir, it's true. Come see for yourself." So the two men walked into the church and sure enough, there was the Good Lord sitting in the front pew.

The young fellow turned to the pastor and said, "What'll we do?"

Said the pastor softly, "Look busy, man. Look busy."

Christine is shown in Hollywood with her mother, who supervises her career, chooses her film roles.

First big role for Christine was in Town Without Pity.

Christine Kaufmann

At 17, she's been killed many times

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

IN HER FIRST MAJOR FILM, Town Without Pity, Christine Kaufmann, 17, a beautifully formed young German version of Elizabeth Taylor, was criminally assaulted by four American soldiers.

In her second picture, The Last Days of Pompeii, she died in the volcanic ash of Mt. Vesuvius.

In her third big picture, which she recently finished here with Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner, a story of the Cossacks of the Ukraine, Taras Bulba, adapted from a novel by the Russian writer Gogol, Christine is burned at the stake à la Joan of Arc.

"I guess," she says with an air of resignation, "that people just like to see me suffer. On the screen I cry nicely. Mama says I reach people's hearts easily because I have such an innocent girlish face. When I am ravished by soldiers, or murdered or drowned or burned alive, the audience is also outraged. They feel for me.

"But the truth is I am a happy person. I am all the time laughing. And I only wish someone would give me a part in which I could play myself, a girl in love with life and love."

Christine was offered the title role of the nymphet in Lolita, but her mother, a clever French doctor who no longer practices medicine, turned it down for her.

"Christine," she explains, "is one of those young girls who suddenly blossom out with enormous sex appeal—a combination of girl-woman like Brigitte Bardot or Elizabeth Taylor. With such a girl one must be extremely careful, because she can lose her individuality and become regarded only as a sexy body without a brain.

"That's why my husband—he's a major in the German Air Force—is not so thrilled about Christine's motion picture career. He wants her to develop into a normal woman, marry some hard-working man and settle down. He doesn't want his daughter to become an international sex symbol like Marilyn Monroe or Bardot. That's why I'm so careful about her roles."

Christine Kaufmann—now 5 feet 3, 108 pounds, measurements: 36-23-34—was born in Graz, Austria, on January 11, 1945. As a youngster she was a lovely, blue-eyed, copper-haired child, so photogenic in fact that she was signed for films at the age of 7 by the first producer who saw her in Munich, Germany, where she was raised. Since then she has played in 27 different films, learning four foreign languages in the process: English, Italian, French, and Spanish.

American Test

She entered American motion pictures when Otto Preminger tested her for Exodus. Although she didn't get the part, the test brought her to the attention of director Gottfried Reinhardt. He signed her for Town Without Pity in which she plays the pivotal role of a lovely German girl who is attacked by four American GIs, then faces Kirk Douglas, their defense attorney, in a court martial.

Critics acclaimed her performance so widely that almost overnight she was in demand by Hollywood.

Her mama, who cooks a mean onion soup, says the major problem now is to keep Christine from being spoiled by the Hollywood sharpies.

"To the producers," Frau Kaufmann says, "my Chris is a figure of dollars and cents with a 36-inch bust. To me she is a delightful, sensitive girl entering the world of womanhood and men. It is a time for both of us to be careful—especially here in California." ■

Rare beauty of Christine is apparent in this scene from forthcoming Taras Bulba in which she dies at the stake.

For Easter—choose ham or lamb

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

In this country, ham is the traditional meat for the Easter feast, while in many other parts of the world lamb is favored. So we give you recipes for both. The ham is encased in a cloak of flaky pastry, gaily decorated; the lamb steaks have a flavorful lemon glaze. Take your choice. Save the other recipe to give the family a treat on another special occasion.

PHOTOS BY GINSBERG

HAM IN PASTRY CASE

1 canned boneless ham (5 lbs.)
1 cup halved maraschino cherries, divided
1½ cups maraschino cherry juice
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup dry vermouth or dry white wine
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Mace Pastry
Red and green maraschino cherries for garnish

Draw outline of top surface of ham can on paper, for use in Mace Pastry, given below. Remove ham from can; score top surface. Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Cover entire top with ¾ cup of halved maraschino cherries. Make glaze by combining cherry juice, lemon juice, vermouth and honey; blend in cornstarch. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Reserve 1 cup glaze. Pour some of remaining glaze over ham. Bake ham in moderate oven, 350°, 30 minutes, brushing frequently with remaining glaze. Cool. Fit Mace Pastry over top and sides of cooled ham. Seal; flute edges. Bake in very hot oven, 475°, 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 450°; bake 10 minutes longer, or until pastry is done. Decorate top of pastry with red maraschino cherries cut to resemble flowers and green ones cut to resemble leaves and stems. Heat reserved glaze to serving temperature; stir in remaining ¼ cup halved maraschino cherries. Serve with ham.

Mace Pastry: Sift together 1½ cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mace and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cut in ½ cup shortening to texture of coarse meal. Sprinkle with 3 tablespoons ice water; stir until pastry forms. Shape ⅓ pastry into ball; roll out to ⅛-inch thickness; cut to match the paper pattern (above). Shape remaining ⅔ pastry into ball; roll out to ⅛-inch thickness; cut to fit sides of ham.

LEMON-GLAZED LAMB STEAKS

1 leg of lamb, cut into steaks
¾ cup honey
1 tablespoon Kitchen Bouquet
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon curry powder
Few grains salt
¼ teaspoon mint extract

Tell your meat-dealer how many lamb steaks you will need; he will select the leg of lamb accordingly. You can use the shank meat and bones as the basis for a rich soup or stew for another meal. Blend honey and Kitchen Bouquet. Add brown sugar, lemon juice, mustard, curry and salt. Cook and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves and ingredients are well-blended. Cool slightly; stir in mint extract. Arrange lamb steaks on rack in large open roasting pan; brush generously with glaze. Roast in moderate oven, 350°, 1 hour or to desired degree of doneness, basting several times with glaze. Gravy can be made with pan drippings, if desired. FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

Let's not pamper the disabled, says Illinois' Tim Nugent, who produces

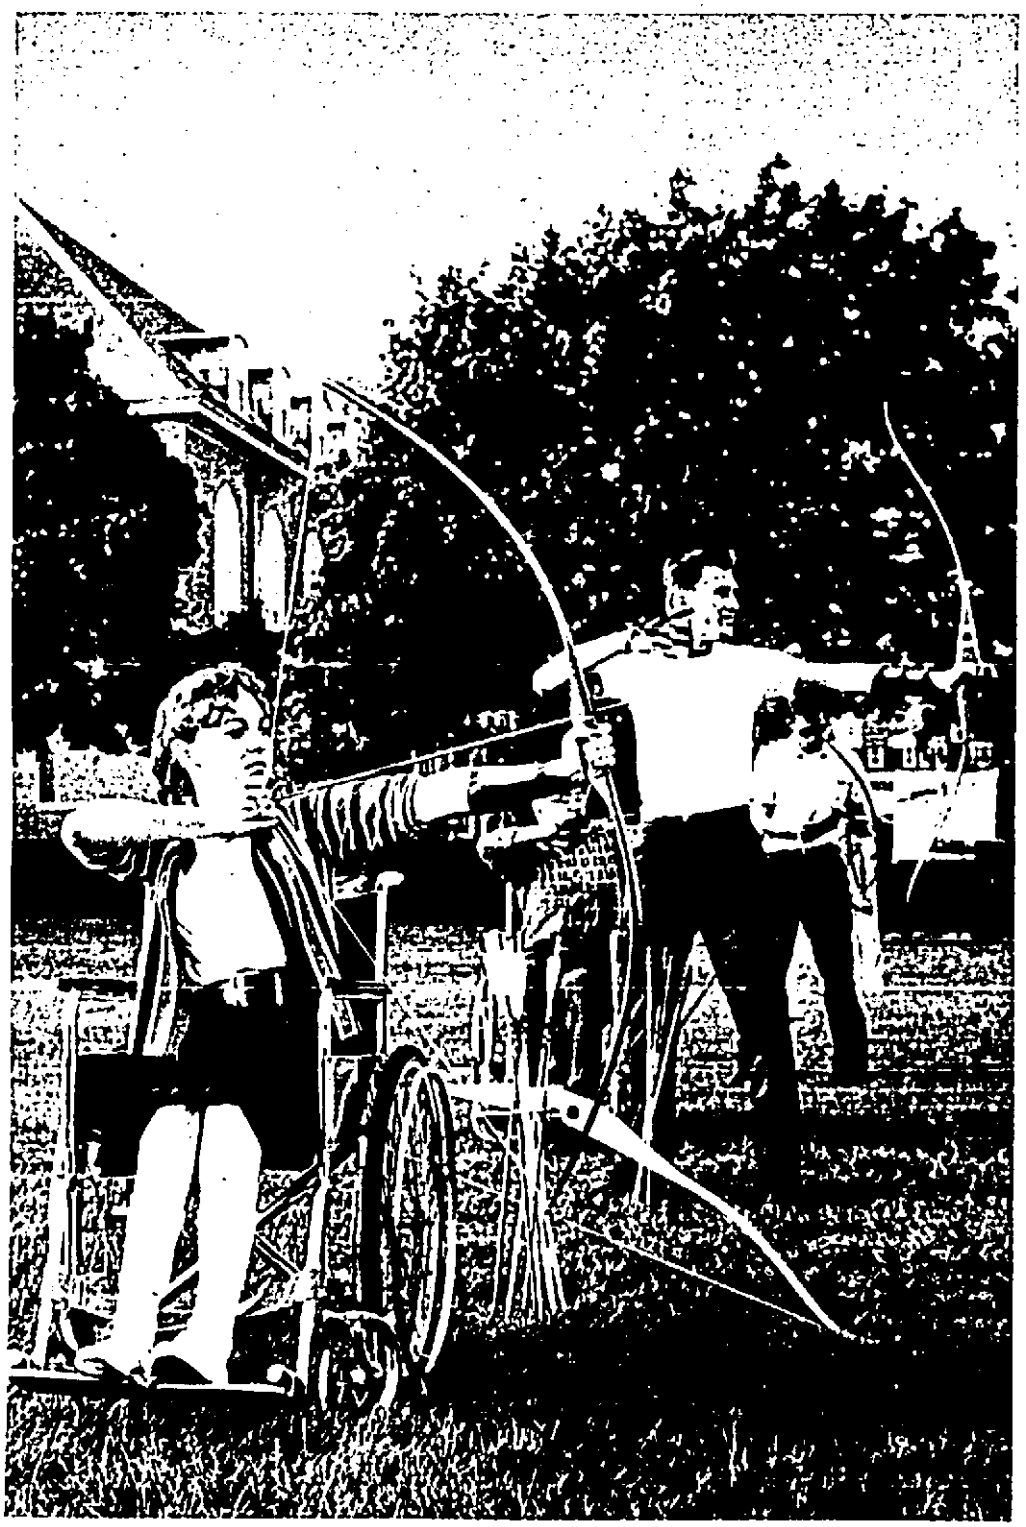

MIRACLES on

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

ONE DAY THIS SEMESTER, a University of Illinois student in a wheelchair was whizzing across the campus when he dropped a book. Leaning over to pick it up, he lost his balance and fell heavily into the grass, scattering books and papers around him.

Yet, despite his disability, no one rushed to his aid. One passerby called out, "Are you hurt?" The disabled student shook his head. A few students threaded their way around his wheelchair. The others only watched as he gathered up his papers, climbed laboriously back into the chair, and set off again.

To some people, the incident might have seemed callous. Yet to a square-jawed, outspoken physical therapist named Timothy Joseph Nugent, it was a moment to be proud of. Nugent is the founder and director of a remarkable institution here called the Student Rehabilitation Center — the nation's first large-scale attempt to help the severely disabled get a higher education. And the Center is built on the revolutionary idea that the way to help the disabled is to treat them just like anybody else.

Disabled but not handicapped, Donna Weisinger, 23, practices archery with others at University of Illinois.

Bigger Doors and Higher Tables

The daily life of Donna Weisinger, depicted in these photos, illustrates how this philosophy is carried out. Despite her wheelchair, Donna can go almost anywhere and do anything that an able-bodied coed can.

On most campuses, she would have to contend with narrow Gothic doorways and steep marble steps. But here classroom buildings and dormitories have been completely streamlined for the benefit of the disabled. Wheelchair students enjoy ramps, ground-level entrances, wider doors, higher tables, reserved elevators, special parking lots, buses with hydraulic lifts and even low-level telephones.

The Center also provides physical therapy, medical care, and guidance. Counselors and therapists aid disabled students with their personal problems, assist with their studies, and even advise on their romances.

Since most other colleges discourage severely disabled students from attending, Illinois has attracted them in great numbers. The current student body includes 188 quadriplegics, paraplegics, paralytic polio victims, cerebral palsy sufferers, multiple amputees, arthritics and blind persons.

Just the Beginning

This is only the beginning of the revolutionary program for the disabled here. More important is the way the Center teaches them a whole new concept of life. At its heart is Nugent's belief that much of what has been done for the disabled in the past was wrong.

"Too many are pampered, coddled and petted," Nugent says. "Those who stay home are waited on and fussed over until they become selfish and soft. Many who enter institutions learn to expect service and solicitude until they get worse instead of better. What they really need is to be challenged. They have to be put into situations where they must call upon their abilities, not hide behind their disabilities."

To carry out this philosophy, Nugent sends his students through a steady procession of obstacles. He begins by insisting that they all become "functional." In a ten-day crash program at the start of the school year, he teaches those who previously have been dependent to dress themselves, get in and out of bed, wash, toilet, and wheel a chair.

How this works was explained by Sharon Hovey, 21, who is paralyzed in the legs, back and trunk, cannot use her fingers. The night she arrived, Nugent assigned her to a dormitory room alone. Unknown to her, she was being supervised 24 hours a day.

"I thought he was the cruelest man I had ever known," Sharon recalls. "Why, anyone could see that I couldn't do things for myself. But he left me there for ten nights in a row. At the end of that time I was furious—but I was functional. Why, I had even taught myself to write—so I could send home letters telling them how mean I was being treated."

Nugent also insists that his students take meaningful subjects. He detests handicraft programs for the disabled—"basket-weaving and watch-making and all that artsy-craftsy stuff." He makes them study hard and shun special favors.

On the other hand, Nugent wants students to be realistic about their limitations. "How the hell are you going to do surveying from a wheelchair?" he asked a boy who wanted to study civil engineering. "Try aeronautical—you can handle that." He also discourages the disabled from social work ("too many tenement stairs to climb") and elementary teaching ("very few schools are equipped for chairs").

Most "rehabs" will take this nailed-fist treatment because they know Nugent is one of them. He was disabled with a severe heart condition until he was 11, when it was corrected surgically. One of his sisters was blind, his father nearly blind and deaf. "My interest," he smiles, "is more than academic."

Since 1948, 216 severely disabled students have been graduated, including 23 who have received master's degrees and eight who have received doctorates. Among them have been a physician, a minister, a number of architects, professors, and scientists.

These successes have stimulated a federal program to set up rehabilitation centers on other campuses on a regional basis. Nugent has been widely acclaimed for his pioneering work, both in the U.S. and abroad.

Meanwhile, admittance to the university here is in great demand. More than 400 disabled persons (most of them financed by state vocational rehabilitation grants) apply annually. Nugent screens the applications carefully, concentrating on the most severe cases and investigating the individuals for the right spirit.

Nugent's Entrance Exam

Recently, an applicant showed up in a wheelchair pushed by a hired attendant. "We don't allow servants," Nugent declared brusquely. "If you want to go to school here, you've got to be on your own. Go push yourself up that ramp over there, and if you make it, you're in."

The boy, who never had propelled his own chair before, went at it bravely while Nugent and the attendant stood by. He sweated and labored and pushed, and Nugent encouraged him but made no move to help. After three hours, the exhausted boy finally hauled the chair to the top. Nugent rushed to his side, a grin across his broad face.

"Admitted," he shouted joyfully, as he waved the attendant away. "You're the kind of fellow we want here. The people who come to Illinois have got to be willing to help themselves."

VEE-FORM
by MODESS

Anatomically Shaped

to echo the lines of your body

Vee-Form by Modess is a totally new concept in napkin shape and comfort. A completely natural concept, thoroughly feminine.
Anatomically shaped to echo the lines of your body... reassuringly wider front with neat, tapered back... narrower for never-before comfort, deeper for confidence... won't fold, shift or twist.
Other thoughtful Vee-Form features: positive shield of protection the length of the napkin; undetectable deodorant; softest cover ever.

by PETER DRYDEN

News for hearing-aid users: Now comes a small electric unit for recharging hearing aid batteries simply and safely at home. The first to be approved by Underwriters' Laboratories, it's cigarette-pack size and plugs directly (without wires) into any 110-115 volt AC wall outlet. Slip batteries into a drawer in the unit and they recharge to full strength overnight. Complete details: FAM Corp., Dept. PP, 522 SW Fourth Ave., Portland, Ore.

Hose guide: To keep a trailing garden hose from damaging your plants and shrubs, there's a stake with a vertical roller on top. Stick it in the ground and it guides and glides the hose as you sprinkle, lets you reach hard-to-water areas without harm to plantings. $1.29. Alkay Prods., Dept. PP, 30 W. Washington, Chicago 2, Ill.

Handy cement: You'll find many uses for a cement-concrete compound that sets and dries in minutes—even underwater. Use it to repair swimming pool without draining or boat hull right in water. You can brush it on for smooth patches in driveways, steps, walls, other cement or masonry surfaces—and to anchor plumbing and electrical fixtures, railings, tiles. 3 lbs: $2. Solidite, Dept. PP, Suite 202, 8248 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md.

Unsinkable and tip-proof: Here's a versatile and unusually safe boat (right), excellent for children. You can row, paddle, sail or power it with an outboard. And the outrigger plastic foam pontoons—plus a very low center of gravity—make it both tip-proof and unsinkable. It assembles in minutes—and dismantles to go in a 5' x 3' x 13" carton you can fit in car and closet. In 8'6" to 9'11" lengths, 50" beam. Finished or kit form. Details: Foam Craft Div., Foam Plastics, Dept. PP, 125 S. Main St., Cambridge Springs, Pa.

Safety bars for station wagons: No worry about a child, pet or package falling out when you open the rear window for ventilation. New solution to the problem: telescoping chrome-plated steel bars you can install so they don't interfere with window operation. An adult can remove them easily but a child can't budge them. 2 for $12.95. Walsh, Dept. PP, Box 7113, North End Sta., Detroit 2, Mich.

Outdoor scrubber: Cleaning your patio, driveway—and garage and basement, too—should be easier with this new scrubber (right). It connects to hose by a swivel-action coupling that avoids kinks. And a dial on the handle turns water on and off and also regulates the amount of suds. $5.95. Orrow Products, Dept. PP, Hazel Street, Glen Cove, N.Y.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

A young lady was boarding an airliner to Las Vegas a few weeks ago. Ahead of her strode comedian Jerry Lewis, who was carrying his clothes in a portable garment bag. Lewis was commuting between Los Angeles and Vegas where he was entertaining nightly at a casino. As Jerry entered the cabin, a pair of his tuxedo trousers slipped from the bag and fell to the floor. The young lady picked them up. "Mr. Lewis," she shouted, "you've just dropped your pants."

Jerry did the fastest double-take of his career.
